EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Colour and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

ENTIRE GERMAN NAVY UNDER THE RED FLAG

(Canadian Press Despatch)

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The movement which resulted in the seizing of virtually the entire German navy and many cities by revolutionary forces, was carried out in a fairly peaceful manner, according to the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Copenhagen. The red flag was hoisted and all large wharves connected with the naval service were taken over by the revolutionists. At Wilhelmshaven naval officers agreed to hand the authority over to the rebels if they would promise to make resistance should the British attack that naval port. The third infantry regiment, according to these advices has taken possession of the aerodrome at Oldenburg in Holstein.

Blackenstein, a commune in Westphilia, twenty-four miles northeast of Dusseldorfi, has joined the revolution.

REVOLUTION SPREADS TO OTHER SEA PORTS

(United Press Service.)

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The newspaper "Politiken" says it has no doubt that a majority of the Reichstag parties will demand unanimously that the Kaiser abdicate, which according to the "Politiken" may be expected to-day or to-morrow.

The revolutionists are reported to have seized Sendenburg, thirteen miles northwest of Flensburg. The railway between the latter city and Kiel is said to have been destroyed.

Wilhelmshaven and Brenorhaven, North Sea ports, are reported to have joined the revolution. The whole German navy is now said to be in the hands of the red flaggers.

The progress of the revolution is declared to be comparatively peaceful. The revolutionists now completely control Flensburg.

CITIES IN EAST PRUSSIA HAVE JOINED REVOLT

(United Press Service.)

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 8. — The German revolution was reported today to have spread into Mechlenburg-Schwerin and East Prussia, thus extending across practically the whole northern portion of the Empire.

Despatches provide the cities of Schwerin, capital of the Grand Duchy of Mechlinburg-Schwerin, and Tilsit, one of the principal cities of East Prussia, have joined the revolt.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 8.—Revolutionists have cut the north German railway line south of Flensburg in Schleswig-Holstein. This breaks the communications from the north with Hamburg.

THIRD SQUADRON REMAINS FAITHFUL

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Nov. 8.—A Berlin wireless despatch received here to-day says the third squadron remains faithful to the government.

The foregoing indicates the claim made by German authorities that part of the German navy had declined to join the revolutionaries.

CHIEF THOMPSON'S PARTY CELEBRATED IN NORTH COUNTRY

From the wilds of Haultain came the message that Chief D. Thompson and his party of hunters had received word of the signing of the armistice and had celebrated the event in an appropriate manner. The party includes a number of Peterboro hunters. They have secured one deer.

The Aeolian-Vocalion

"The Vocalion produces the sort of music we want in our home"

"I was intensely interested by the very first record that was played for us by the Vocalion. The black disc which upon many a machine had sent its typical talking machine tone to my ears—the self-same disc under the sound box of the Vocalion filled the room with the wonderful throbbing tone of a 'cello.

"Ah! here was genuine music. I fairly could see the swing of the bow, the strong, nimble fingers of the cellist leaping upon the strings.

"Before we heard any more we had determined that there was a place in our home for the Vocalion.

"It was not until later that we understood the full significance of the Vocalion expression device—the Graduola. How greatly the actual practice of musicianship adds to the pleasure of listening to music, experience alone can disclose."

"IN OLD KENTUCKY"

Great Race Scene.

That good old friend, "In Old Kentucky," is coming to town and will occupy the stage at The Grand on Wednesday next, Nov. 13.

The production is all new this season, and on a more sumptuous scale than ever before. Many new effects have been conceived by the masters of stagecraft to add to the realism of the thrilling scenes with which this old play abounds.

The Pickaninny Band have a and varied repertoire, not forget the old tunes that delighted fat and his father before him. Kentucky thoroughbreds are ca and the race scene adds a bi realism never equalled by any o play. The story of "In Old Kentuc is—but pshaw, what's the use of ing you the story; you are fami with it, and if not, your educa has been neglected for "In Old K tucky" is more than a play—it is American institution.

Mrs. John Wallis Died on Sunday

Word Was Received in the City Yesterday.

Word was received in the city yesterday that Gertrude Thornton, widow of the late John McCall Wallis, formerly of this city died on Sunday in Chelsea, London. While no particulars of the death were contained in the cable it was known that she had not been well for some time.

She leaves three children, Captain Harold, Staff Captain Hugh Wallis, M. C. and Kathleen all overseas.

Trinity Church Diet Kitchen Will be Closed

The diet kitchen of the Trinity Red Cross Society will be closed after tomorrow. Individual cases of special need may still be reported to the President, Mrs. Walsh, 'phone 1014W., or to Rev. F. E. Malott, 'phone 705, and these will be dealt with by members of the society. The ladies of the Society and the pastor and officials of the church wish to thank all those of other churches, as well as the members of Trinity church, for their contributions of money and delicacies for the sick and also for their time and the loan of their cars for the work of distribution. They acknowledge, also, gratefully, the generous contribution of the Masonic order. No case of need that was reported was overlooked, and because of the splendid response of the members of the Society and of the many who gave valued assistance, the supply was equal to the demand. The ladies will be glad if all who loaned dishes or utensils would call for them on Saturday. The Sunday school hall will be open all day.

Lakefield Held a Celebration

Bonfire and Fireworks Were Features of Evening Performance.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 8.—News of the "Peace" came in at noon yesterday announced by the Grand Trunk Train and immediately after by the ringing of the bell of St. John's Church and in a short time flags were flying all over the village. In the evening the A. Y. P. A. had a bon-fire and Fire works at the St. John's Sunday School. The Girl Guides had a torch light procession and the Boy Scouts and the Wolf Cubs had torch light processions. Dr. Smith's automobile carried a crowd of boys sending off fire works through the streets The National Anthem was sung by the crowd at St. John's Sunday School

CHRISTMAS SHOWER

The A. Y. P. A. Christmas shower was a great success. There were many useful articles and $34.00 in cash was donated. Parcels including a pair of socks from the Soldier's Comfort Club and each member of the A.Y.P.A. received 2 pair of socks and a trench cap Knit by the girls of the Society.

GETTING READY TO CLOSE THE HOSPITAL.

Number of Patients Remain the Same.

The number of patients at the Emergency Hospital still remains eight, four men and four women. It is expected though that during the evening three or four will go out, and things made ready for the closing of the hospital of two weeks.

The peace news of last evening was enthusiastically received by the patients and staff, and from apparently nowhere came flags and pennants, which were immediately hoisted inside and out.

Pte. John Newnham Killed in Action

Was a Member of the 93rd Battalion

Mrs. John Newnham, Selwyn, received official notice yesterday that her son, Pte. Wm. John Newnham, had been killed in action on October 11th.

Pte. Newnham joined the 93rd Battalion at Peterborough and was wounded in August last, subsequently recovering, and was sent again to France on Oct. 1st.

In his last letter to him mother he stated that fighting was right in the open, not trenches, and that it was very bitter. Pte. Newnham was the oldest son and had always resided on the farm, owing to the illness of his father practically taking charge.

It is regrettable that after so short a time in France on the second time, there after being badly wounded before, and on the eve of peace, the young soldier should be reported killed in action.

Grafonolas To-morrow

We never let a Saturday go by (if we can help it) without presenting our patrons with a good special in Grafonola outfits, and with manufacturing difficulties becoming increasingly perplexing we are finding it harder each week. But here we come with another of these splendid offers such as we made three weeks ago—just as good as ever and sure to bring us the usual big rush of buyers. We will take orders to-morrow only for 50 of these outfits, consisting of

Mahogany Grafonola

—or Quarter-cut Oak if You Prefer it—

With Record Cabinet Just as you see illustrated here for only $85

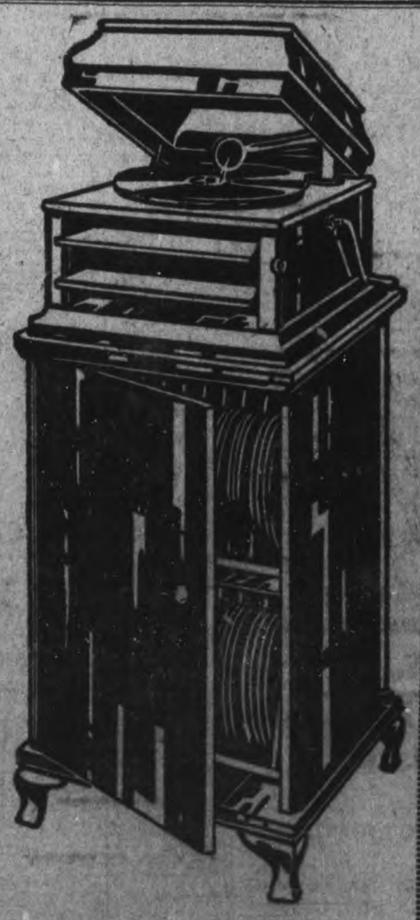
This is a notable combination of high quality and low price. It is an entirely enclosed and cabineted Grafonola, made of selected mahogany or oak, of excellent design. The height of Grafonola with record cabinet is about 43 inches, and 17½ by 17½ inches at base of instrument. It has two-spring drive, non-boaring motor, plays three records with one winding, has speed regulator operated on graduated dial, tone control leaves, new bayonet-joint tone arm, and No. 6 Columbia reproducer, lid is piano hinged. Cabinet has capacity for close to 100 ten and twelve-inch records.



No Money Need Be Paid Down To-morrow on This Outfit if You Purchase Ten Records

All we ask is that you buy 10 Records, costing you only $9.00, and giving you 20 selections. We will send the complete outfit home to you at once, and you can pay us the price of outfit in small weekly sums afterwards.

There is sure to be a rush to own one of these grand home entertainers, and as the quantity is limited, you should get your order in as early as possible.

Military Cross for Peter Campbell

Work of Peterboro Boy is Recognized.

Capt. Peter Campbell, a former Peterborough boy, has been awarded the Military Cross as an acknowledgment of the efficient work he performed for the Intelligence Department during the drive of Aug. 8th, according to word received here to-day.

On August 9th, Capt. Campbell received a wound which confined him to an English hospital for a considerable time and he is still convalescent in England.

He is a son of Mr. Peter Campbell, ex-manager of the Peterborough office of the Bank of Toronto, and at present residing near Bowmanville.

Capt. Campbell was educated at Peterborough Public school and Collegiate Institute, later pursuing his studies at Kingston Military College and Toronto University. He was prominent in athletics during his college days and was for some time quarterback for the Varsity rugby team.

PTE. F. BOLTON WAS KILLED INSTANTLY

Piece of High Velocity Shell Struck Him.

Mrs. W. J. Tedford, Douro Township, has received the following letter containing the particulars of the death of her only brother, Pte. Frank Bolton, who was killed in action on October 1. He was the son of Mr. W. E. Bolton, of Burleigh Falls.

Mr. Bolton's other son is now serving in the American Army.

France, Oct. 11, 1918.

Dear Friend,—It is my unfortunate task to write and inform you of Frank's death on October 1. It was in the midst of our big advance on Cambrai; a high-velocity shell landed near the gun section that he was in and shrapnel killed him instantly. We all miss a noble comrade, and I know his father and sister will miss a devoted son and brother.

I cannot help saying that he and I were always the closest of chums since a year ago last July, when we met in England. It seems hard that the best should fall, but God's will be done.

Your box sent to him was received by his section and divided amongst his comrades, and I write to you today to acknowledge it.

Poor Frank was more than a pal to me. I certainly share your sorrow in his tragic death. I will close, thanking you for your box.

Yours truly,
R. L. FULLERTON.

SENATOR ROBERTSON IS LABOUR MINISTER

Hon. T. W. Crothers Resigns on Account of Ill-health.

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—It was officially announced to-day that Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labour, who is now en route for California, has handed his resignation to Sir Robert Borden and that it has been accepted. Hon. Gideon Robertson, who has represented labour in the Cabinet for some time past, in addition to acting as Chairman of the Canada Registration Board, has been appointed Minister in succession to Mr. Crothers and was sworn in at noon to-day. Mr Crothers resigned on the grounds of ill-health.

Senator Robertson will be the second Minister with a portfolio holding a seat in the Senate, the other being Sir James Lougheed, who reads the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment.

Mr. S. R. Armstrong Completes Quarter Century as City Clerk

Has Given Peterboro Excellent Service During the Years of Its Rapid Progress and Broadest Development—Was Editor of the Review.

HAS MANY DUTIES

Twenty-five years ago, on November 8th, 1893, Mr. S. R. Armstrong was appointed City Clerk of Peterborough, and those citizens who were aware of his anniversary heartily congratulated him to-day upon the completion of a quarter of a century of public service that has been as efficient and successful as it has been unobtrusive. Mr. Armstrong's term spans the industrial development of this city, and the progress that has gained momentum during the past decade has been in a large measure due to his efforts. Councils have come and gone with their succession of capable administrators and cautious business men who would be the first to acknowledge the wise counsel and valuable assistance they received from the City Clerk.

Mr. Armstrong has been an ideal official. He has never obtruded his opinions on the Council nor on any of the civic boards of which he is secretary, and yet all of these bodies have been guided by the advice that was sought from him. Long ago he was recognized as a safe mentor to the fledgling Mayors and Aldermen, who, if they were to speak to-day, looking back upon their experiences, would undoubtedly say with unanimity that they had always found him patient, above all other qualities, courteous, ready and eager to help, and painstaking in any matter he was asked to "dig up" or investigate, either for the Aldermen themselves, in their civic work, or for the Council as a whole.

In later years he carried the additional office of Industrial Commissioner, and while his was the Armstrong method, lacking the breezy, ebullient optimism of the professional "booster," his results are found in some of Peterborough's factories which may be regarded as monuments to his service as Commissioner. It has been said of Mr. Armstrong as a compliment to his work as City Clerk, that he is the power behind the Council throne, and there is considerable truth in the expression. Not that he endeavoured to exert any influence that grows out of his thorough knowledge of municipal law, Council procedure and the minute affairs of Peterborough as they are seen from the City Hall, but simply from the fact that his assistance is needed and sought by, and is given freely, to the Council, and to the other civic officials with whom he is in almost constant touch.

Was a Newspaper Man.

After eleven years' connection with the Peterborough Review, of which he was editor when he resigned to assume the office of City Clerk, Mr. Armstrong entered the city's service with which he had been brought into close touch as reporter. On November 8th, 1893, the late James Kendrey, who was buried yesterday, was Mayor. The Chief Magistrates since then have been as follows: Wm. Yelland 1894-7, A. L. Davis 1898-9, Jas. Kendrey 1900, T. H. G. Denne 1901-2, John Corkery two weeks in 1902, G. M. Roger, 1903-04, Henry Best 1905-06, R. F. McWilliams 1907, Harry Rush 1908-09, W. G. Morrow 1910-11, W. H. Bradburn 1912-13, Wm. Buller 1914-15, J. J. Duffus 1916-17, Geo. H. Duncan 1918.

The List of City Clerks.

S. R. Armstrong is Peterborough's eleventh city clerk. The incumbents have been as follows: W. H. Vizard 1850, George Dunsford 1850, W. H. Wrighton 1851, Thos. White Jr., 1851-54, Robert Reid 1854, Ivan [illegible] 1855-57, James Edwards 1857-77, C. D. Macdonald 1877-88, J. G. Macdonald 1888-91, John H. Cobb 1891-93, S. R. Armstrong 1893—.

During the last twenty-five years there has been no less than ninety-nine aldermen pass through the minutes of the Clerk's records.

When Mr. Armstrong began his duties, the population of this city was 10,650. By 1903 it had made only a slight gain showing 11,548, but today it counts 20,904. Suburbs have grown up on ePterboro's border especially to the south and southwest, making a community of nearly 25,000.

The assessment has grown from $4,216,520 to $18,273,655. A quarter of a century ago there were no concrete sidewalks, no sewers except the Edison dram, and of course no pavements.

The Industrial Growth.

Peterborough's factory increment in that period has been remarkable, and it may be added that the war cut short negotiations with other industries that in ordinary times might have come to Peterborough, at least the most of them. New factories that have become established here are as include the following: Quaker Oats Co., De Laval Co., Bonnerworth Company, Colonial Weaving Co., Campbell Flour Mills, Peterborough Cereal Co., Henry Hope Co., Vermont Marble Company, Brinton Carpet Co., Canadian Chicle Co., Peterough Machine Lubricating Co., Peterborough Milk Products Co., and Renfrew Manufacturing Co.

Mr Armstrong is not only city clerk but also clerk of the Police Court, Secretary-Treasurer of the Utilities Commission, Secretary of the Central Charity Board, Secretary of the Police Commission and Secretary of the Fuel Commission.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Armstrong will be long spared to the city in whose interest he has given the best years of his life, and with them a service that has been marked by diligence, vision, executive ability, and a fundamental intelligence exhibited in a marked degree, in short all the essentials of efficiency.

CURED OF DYSPEPSIA BY USING BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS.

The symptoms of dyspepsia are so numerous and diversified in different individuals that probably no description could exactly represent them as they occur in any given case, but a few of the most prominent are a rising and souring of food, pain, flatulence and distention of the abdomen, a sensation of discomfort after every meal, which is sometimes followed by sickness and vomiting.

To get rid of dyspepsia a careful arrangement of the diet is necessary and due time must be given for the digestion of the meal.

You will find that Burdock Blood Bitters will help with this digestion. It does this by toning up the stomach in such a way that the dyspepsia soon disappears.

Mr. Robt. Baldwin, Winnifred, Alta., writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters for curing dyspepsia, of which I have been a sufferer for years. I have tried a good many doctors and proprietary medicines, so one day I thought I would try something different. I got a bottle of B. B. B. from our local store, as it was about the only remedy he kept, and I can certainly say that I was more than pleased with the results, as I got better right away. I will always recommend it to other sufferers."

SEVERAL ACCIDENTS IN PHILADELPHIA

Canadian Press:

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Celebration of the report that the Germans had signed armistice agreement, caused one death, the shooting of two and more or less serious injury of fourteen other persons, when joyous crowds, believing Germany had surrendered, revelled in the city's streets yesterday.

Steady On-Canada

That day is at hand.

Behind Canada lies fifty months of blood and anguish, fifty months of the fires of trial and of sacrifice--of glorious, triumphant battling against the hosts of evil.

And in the surging joy will come to us the sobering sense of duty yet to be performed.

Canada's part in the finish of the war must be as well done as was her part in fighting and winning it.

Canada's great duty to her living and her dead must be met with the same manliness, seriousness and determination which have won for her the respect and admiration of the world in waging the war.

Canada's Victory Loan 1918 must be over-subscribed—that Canada may discharge, in peace, the great responsibilities which the war thrust upon her willing shoulders.

Canad [illegible]nlet us, with devoutly thankful hearts and proud consciousness of duty well done, proceed with our great task--

OBITUARY

ROLAND FAIRBAIRN

The death occurred at Orono, Ontario of Roland Fairbairn, youngest son of Mr. John Fairbairn of Smith Township. The death was caused by pneumonia.

LEONARD ARMSTRONG

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 8.—The death took place yesterday of Leonard Armstrong, third son of Mrs. Daniel Armstrong, after one week's illness with pneumonia following an attack of Spanish influenza.

The deceased was about 22 years of age. Surviving him are his mother, three brothers, Harry of the Royal Bank of Peterborough, Charles of the 21st Battalion and Rudolph at home and one sister, Mary.

Interment took place at Norwood.

Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

TELLS SAFE AND SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME.

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent. of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.

F. B. ROBBINS APPEALS

Asks Court to Upset Judgment For $10,000 For Breach of Promise.

On the grounds that the Trial Judge's charge to the jury was not warranted, and that there was no evidence on which the jury could reasonably have found as they did, Mr. Frederick B. Robbins has brought appeal before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court at Osgoode Hall, against the verdict last June awarding Miss Laura Lowry $10,000 for alleged breach of promise of marriage.

Miss Lowry was represented by G. D. L. McCarthy, K.C., and T. L. Monahan; Mr. Robbins by I. F. Hellworth, K.C., and W. A. Tilley, K.C.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. George A. Smith, 734 Water street, is recovering from a severe attack of influenza.

Miss M. Kelly, 374 Downie street, received word recently that her brother, Rev. Father Kelly, has crossed from England to France.

Mrs. Osborne and Mrs. Fred Brown, Lakefield, were visitors in the city to-day.

Mrs. K. G. Lech has moved into her new apartments, 375 Stewart street, formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Davis, who have gone to Brockville.

Mrs. Wells, Toronto, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Claude Rogers, Belmont avenue.

Mrs. D. N. Carmichael is visiting in Toronto for a few days.

Mr. C. A. Bender, of Toronto, general manager for Ye Olde Firme of Heintzman & Co., Limited, of Toronto, yesterday paid a business visit to Mr. B. H. Britton, manager of Heintzman Hall, Peterborough.

Mrs. Bolton Cunningham has returned from Orono, where she was called to by the death of her brother, Mr. Roland Fairbairn, who formerly resided in Lakefield.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, 317 Dalhousie street, have received word to-day confirming the death of their son, Flight Lieut. P. L. Brown, who died of injuries received in an aeroplane accident while instructing, on Oct. 16:

A tribute to my dear son, Lieut. P. L. Brown, from his sorrowful mother:
He was so beautiful—my baby son!
His sun-kissed curls clung close around his head,
His deep blue eyes looked trustingly into mine,
I did my best to keep his beauty fair
And fresh and clean and dainty, for I knew
I never could be satisfied with less.
He was so strong and well, my little son!
I gave my days and nights to keep him so—
Called in fresh air and sunlight to my aid,
Good food and play, all healthful things of life.
I wanted physical perfection, for
I never could be satisfied with less.
He was so bright and clever, my big son!
I sent him to the very best of schools
Denying self that he might know no lack
Of opportunity to do his best.
Or feel no door of progress closed to him.
I never could be satisfied with less.
And yet—but now— my well-beloved son,
For your perfection can I pay the price?
Or would I have you play the coward's part
With selfish, shriveled soul too small to dwell
Within so fair a frame? Is that my choice?
I sought the best! Shall I be satisfied with less?
Nay, I would have you honourable, my son—
Just, loyal, brave and truthful, scorning fear
And lies and meanness—ready to defend
Your home, your mother and your country's flag.
He's gone! Dear God, with bleeding heart I know
I still could not be satisfied with less!

AIRPLANES WILL FLY ACROSS THE ATLANTIC SOON

LIEUT.-COLONEL "BILLIE" BISHOP MAKES STATEMENT TO THAT EFFECT.

MONTREAL, Nov. 8.—"I am confident that airplanes will fly safely across the Atlantic soon after the end of the war." Undoubtedly peace will open up boundless possibilities for aircraft," said Lieut.-Col. Bishop, V. C., D.S.O., Canada's most brilliant aviator.

Lieut.-Col. Bishop who arrived in city a few days ago, accompanied by his wife, will leave this morning. He declined to fake any comments on the war and would express no views concerning military flying, but spoke with enthusiasm about the possibilities of aviation after the war.

Cure That Cold Don't Get Grippe

You know how quickly Zutoo tablets cure headache and break up colds—how soon they allay the fever.
Take them at once when you feel the first pain or shiver—the first symptom of a cold.
Taken then, they will prevent the Grippe. Taken after it has developed, there is nothing better for the pain and fever.

Big Guns Silent While Envoys Pass Through Lines

Correspondence by Wireless Between Foch and Huns is Published.

POINTS ABOUT THE ENVOYS

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Marshal Foch has received the following wireless despatches from German Grand Headquarters:

"The German Government would congratulate itself in the interests of humanity if the arrival of the German delegation on the allies' front might bring about a provisional suspension of hostilities."

The German wireless message announced that the German plenipotentiaries would arrive at the French outposts on the Chimay-Guise road on Thursday evening between eight and ten o'clock.

The other documents published follow:

"There was received on the 7th of November at 12:30 a.m. the following from the German high command by order of the German Government to Marshal Foch:

"'The German Government, having been informed through the President of the United States that Marshal Foch had received powers to receive accredited representatives of the German Government and communicate to them conditions of an armistice, the following plenipotentiaries have been named by it:

"'Mathias Erzberger, General H. K. A. Winterfield, Count Alfred Von Oberndorff, General Von Gruenell, and Naval Captain Von Salow.

"'The plenipotentiaries request that they be informed by wireless of the place where they can meet Marshal Foch. They will proceed by automobile with subordinates of the staff to the place thus appointed.

"Orders were given to cease fire on the frone at three o'clock p.m. until further orders.

Road Menders With Them.

"A German wireless despatch received November 7 at 1 p.m. said:

"'German general headquarters to the Allies' General Headquarters:

"'The German commander-in-chief to Marshal Foch:

"'The German plenipotentiaries for an armistice leave Spa to-day. They will leave here at noon and reach at 5 o'clock this afternoon the French outposts by the Chimay, Fourmies, LaCapelle and Guise road. They will be ten persons in all, headed by Secretary of State Erzberger.'"

"The following wireless despatch in German was received at 1:50 p.m.

"'German general headquarters to the allied general headquarters: The supreme German command to Marshal Foch:

"'From the German outposts to French outposts our delegation will be accompanied by a road-mending company to enable automobiles to pass the La Capelle road, which has been destroyed.'"

"The following wireless in German was received at 6 p.m.:

"'The German Supreme Command to Marshal Foch:

"'By reason of delay, the German delegation will not be able to cross the outpost line until between 8 and 10 o'clock to-night at Haudroy, two kilometres northwest (northeast?) of La Capelle.'

Points About Envoys.

General Von Grunell, of the German delegation to Marshal Foch, has been first quartermaster at Prussian general headquarters. He is 64 years of age. In 1900 he was chief of staff in the German expeditionary corps in Asia, and was made a noble a year later. He was German military delegate to the second Hague conference in 1907.

Count Oberndorff comes from Sofia, where he represented Germany until October 10.

General Winterfeld, former military attache at Paris, returned to Germany at the beginning of the war. He was then attached to grand headquarters at Berlin, and later as representative of grand headquarters with the civil administration.

The Paris papers recall that General Winterfeld was badly injured in an automobile accident during the French manoeuvres in 1913. He was treated with the greatest kindness and consideration. M. Poincare and General Joffre visited him, and the best surgeons gave him their attention. He was made an officer of the Legion of Honour on his sick bed, and had only just recovered when war was declared. He was allowed to go to Spain, and then promoted a general organized espionage propaganda service against the allies, particularly against France at San Sebastian.

HUNGARY TO BE NEUTRAL.

D. R. Finley Flew Across the Desert to Jerusalem

Made 130-Mile Trip in British Army Airplane While With Allenby's Forces—He Returns Home Enthusiastic Over the Work of the British in Palestine.

DIRECTED RED CROSS THERE

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Nov. 9.—Among the passengers who arrived here from England on a British liner was Dr. John H. Finley, State Commissioner of Education, who has the rank of Colonel in the American Red Cross and has been with General Allenby and the British forces in their triumphal march through Palestine and Syria. He was in uniform and carried in his hand the khaki-helmet that he wore riding across the desert.

In September Dr. Finley made a flight in a British military airplane across the desert from El Kantara, on the Suez Canal, to Ramleh, south of Jerusalem, a disance of about 130 miles.

He made a record with the natives and also with the British officers by walking from Jaffa to Jericho, sixty-five miles, in eighteen hours, starting at 4 p.m. on a Sunday and reaching Jerusalem at 5 o'clock the next morning, where he had breakfast, and arrived at Jericho at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. He also walked from Dan to Beersheba.

A FINE PORT

In speaking of his experiences, Dr. Finley, said that he left Jerusalem three weeks ago by rail to Port Said, Egypt, where he took a steamship which landed him at Taranto, Italy. This has been made by the British during the war into the finest port in the Mediterranean. Before 1914 it was scarcely used by the Italians, who appeared to prefer Brindisi.

The health of the British troops in Palestine is generally good according to Dr. Finley. There had been an outbreak of cholera at Tiberias, on the Sea of Galilee, and a section of the American Red Cross has been detailed to assist in nursing the sick.

NEED TWO MORE

"We have one unit in Palestine," Dr. Finley said, "and we need two more. The British have done fine work all through the Holy Land and Syria, and the people are happy and earning a good living. There is work for all and no more oppression or grafting. I was with General Allenby on the Fourth of July in Jerusalem, and it was a great day for the natives who had flags waving from the flat roofs of their houses and their windows garlanded with Jericho roses. The Turks did not ill-treat the Jews in Palestine except to take away all their animals and conscript the labor. We sent 5,000 Turkish wounded away to Egypt, where the Government had hospitals to take care of them.

"All the hotels in and around Jerusalem have been taken over by the British officials for hospitals, canteens, stores, etc. They are getting more food into Palestine by rail from Egypt, but it costs more than the people have been accustomed to paying for it. Labor is higher, of course, and the laborer really gets the money he earns instead of merely a promise, as was the custom under the Turkish regime. There is a new world opening for the people of Palestine and it will develop into a fine country.

GOOD WEATHER

"We had lovely, bright weather all Summer, and the rains were just beginning when I left. The troops are mostly Australians and Hindus, and they have become very popular. The trains are running well under military rule, and the British were just starting to operate the railroad from Haifa to Damascus via Mount Carmel, Nazareth, and the Sea of Galilee.

Mayor Solomon Lowenstein, Superintendent of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum in New York, who returned with Dr. Finlay from Palestine, said that he had visited the Jewish colonies in Judea and found the people all well and flourishing. They had suffered a little from lack of labor and animals for plowing, but were quite contented with the prospect before them.

The Egyptian currency, based on the piastre (5 cents), is being used throughout the Holy Land.

DONE GOOD WORK

"You cannot say too much for what the British have done in Palestine for the people in feeding and housing them and caring for the sick," said Major Lowenstein, "besides driving out the oppressors, the Turks. There are about 100,000 Jews in the country, of whom 60,000 live in Jerusalem.

"The Turks did not destroy any of the holy places when they retreated or burn down any of the houses. When the British marched in they found the Holy City practically intact.

"There is a great future for Palestine, if Mr. Balfour carries out what he stated was to be done with the country in his declaration."

Colonel Arthur Woods, former Police Commissioner of New York, now in the United States Aviation Corps, returned from France and said that the condition of the American aviators was like that of the rest of the army in France—"bully."

WHY HUNS AND RUSS PART.

Former Charge Latter With Distributing Seditious Literature.

Copenhagen, Nov. 8.—The diplomatic break between Germany and the Russian Soviet Government which developed Wednesday, was foreshadowed by the Berlin newspapers a few days ago when they charged that the Russian Embassy in Berlin was the central point for the distribution of seditious literature. They pointed out that more than 400 couriers had been employed by M. Joffe, the Russian Ambassador, during the short period he had been in Berlin.

Ambassador Joffe categorically denied the charges, but the "accidental" discovery of the package of handbills, in the luggage of a Bolshevik courier, was held to demonstrate the falsity of M. Joffe's statement and was promptly followed by the breach in diplomatic relations.

FEARS CHAOS IN TURKEY.

Morgenthau Thinks Allies Should Send an Army of Occupation..

Turkey must not be occupied for several years by troops of the allied nations in order to prevent its falling into a state of chaos such as exists in Mexico, Ambassador Henry Morganthau said last night at dinner given in his honor at the St. Regis Hotel by Armenians of New York.

"The greatest cruelty that we could work for the Armenians would be to say 'Take your new-found liberty and do what you will.' As a warm friend of the Armenians, let me remind you that nations are not created in a day, but must be built up gradually. The best thing that could happen to Turkey would be to be under military occupation of some allied countries for some years. If this is not done, we will see existing there such conditions as now prevail in Mexico."

Mr. Morgenthau suggested that Turkey be placed under a protectorate of the Allies, or of America until the country reaches a self-governing status, at which time it would be safe to give the Armenians their independence. He paid a tribute to the democracy of President Wilson and said that America must support him in order that his democracy should not be overcome at the peace table by reactionary powers.

The Public is Warned
Against using Dangerous Hair Preparations

If you value your hair, be careful what you use.

Chemical analysis proves that most liquid preparations for shampooing contain an excess of alkali (a most harmful irritant), which eats its way into the pores of the scalp, rots the roots of the hair, thus causing it to fall out.

The surest, safest and easiest way is to make your own liquid. Buy a carton of Velnor at any drug store. Dissolve one of the small packets into half glass of fresh water and you will have an abundance of pure non-injurious liquid that, aside from cleaning the hair thoroughly, will relieve itching of the scalp, falling hair and dandruff, also improve the natural color of the hair.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Brian Takes Mollie King to Dinner a Second Time.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

The next morning, when Brian reached the office he found a bright little note from Ruth. She had seen the house she was to plan doing over, and it was a lovely old place. She would surely be home in time for dinner the following night.

"I hope you are not too lonely, eating alone," she had written, "I must make it up to you when I get home."

Brian smiled rather shamefacedly, although there were none to see when he read the message; then thought, flushing a little at the hint of disloyalty in his mind, that it was lucky she wasn't coming home that day. He had Mollie King on his hands for dinner.

He met Mollie at the usual time and, once more they dined in the old corner. But that night they were not alone, as they were the night before, and in a way Brian was annoyed.

Several of the old bunch were there—the "Bohemians," as they styled themselves—whom he had known before he had married Ruth, even before he had met her. After he became acquainted with Ruth, these others had seemed somehow common, almost vulgar in their parade of their poverty and unconventionality—all but Mollie; she had always been a little different from the rest.

Brian was, however, cordial in his greetings. He could be nothing else, he thought, as long as he was with Mollie.

"Couldn't keep away, could you, Hackett?" Claude Wetherill, a writer who had not yet arrived, asked, slapping him familiarly on the back. "Hello, Mollie! aren't you afraid of getting your hair pulled? Mrs. Brian may hear of this," and, thinking he had been clever, left them, to tell others that Brian Hackett was back with Mollie King again, that he couldn't keep away from her nor from the village.

"I wish we had gone somewhere else," Brian said when he and Mollie were alone for a moment. One after another had come over to welcome Brian back, to get a cigarette, or something to quench their thirst.

"It is a bore, isn't it?" Mollie replied, "And yet, Brian, they are really glad to see you." You were rather popular in the village, you know."

"Yes, but now it seems someway different—all but you. They seem cheaper—I suppose I should be ashamed to say it, but they do."

"I understand. You have been with a woman to whom nothing in the village would appeal. A woman who is conventional. They are the best kind to marry, Brian. Although a man misses a lot of fun," she added naively.

"I know I have missed you, Mollie. But the rest—" he left the sentence unfinished.

"Come on over to the studio. All of them rushing over to see you, has upset you. Don't let them annoy you. Tell her first, then they will have nothing to gossip about," she said, reading his mind correctly.

"Oh, Ruth is all right. She said she liked you."

"Yes—but Brian, liking me when she meets me with others and liking me when she knows I dine with her husband when she is away, are two different kinds of liking."

Up in the studio they smoked and talked. Brian told of the reason for Ruth's absence, and Mollie agreed with him that it was not his duty to eat alone, even if Mrs. Brian were away on business; especially as he objected to her being in business.

Now, Mollie did not object to a woman doing anything she could do, or thought she could do—if she wanted to. But, like many women, she said nothing of her own feelings, but agreed with the man. Men like women who do not contradict them. And Mollie wanted Brian to like her.

Then, too, why should a conventionally brought up woman like Ruth want to be in business if she loved her husband? Brian had said very emphatically that he could support her, and, judging from his extravagance in ordering the two dinners she had helped dispose of, he had not misstated the case.

"His law business must have improved wonderfully," she said to herself, thinking of the size of the checks he had paid, and also of the difference in his appearance. She remembered that he used to be a bit careless; now he was perfectly groomed. She liked him this way, even better than she did before.

When the clock struck twelve, they neither started as they had the night before, and for another hour they visited. Without meaning to, Brian had conveyed to Mollie the idea that he was rather a neglected sort of person; that he was disappointed in Ruth. He would have been shocked could he have realized the impression she had gained from his chatter. Feeling that he was perhaps unhappy, disillusioned Mollie had been even more sympathetic, more friendly than she would otherwise have been. Their comradeship took a deeper meaning to her. She must try to make up to dear old Brian for what he had lost by marrying someone who didn't understand him.

A dangerous conclusion for any woman to arrive at; and one apt to make trouble.

THE EXAMINER PATTERN SERVICE

LADY'S DRESS.

This attractive dress pattern might be used to make up one of the bordered robes for summer wear, or, if preferred, plain batiste may be combined with batiste embroidery flouncing. The waist is gathered at the shoulders and the pretty collar is round at the back and square at the front. The surplice crossing of the waist and the way in which it joins the belt give just the individual touch desired. Both the long and the short sleeves are finished with unusual flaring cuffs, wider at the lower edge than at the top. The two piece skirt is gathered at the regulation waistline.

The lady's dress pattern No. 8864 is cut in five sizes—36 to 44 inches bust measure. The width at lower edge is two yards. The 36 inch size requires 2 yards 41 inch flouncing, with 2 yards 36 inch material.

What Will Relieve Kidney or Bladder Troubles

This is a question that thousands of people have asked; and a question that has been answered for them by the practical demonstrations of Gin Pills.

Read these testimonials and realize the satisfaction that thousands of people have derived and from the relief they have been given by taking the same, and expressing their gratitude for Gin Pills.

Mrs. B. Walters, of Savona, B.C., writes:—

"I advise people who have not used Gin Pills to try them, as Gin Pills are within the means of rich and poor. I have been troubled for years with weak kidneys, and one box of Gin Pills cured me. I recommend them as an absolute and reliable cure."

Mrs. Butler, of Vancouver, sends this message:—

"I think it my duty to write and tell you that I think Gin Pills a sure cure for kidney trouble. I suffered much with my kidneys until I took Gin Pills; now I would not be without them in my home."

Can you have any doubt that Gin Pills have accomplished such wonderful results? If you have—you need not spend a cent on them until you have tried a sample box free. Just write to us and when you receive the box give Gin Pills a trial—and be convinced by results. Sold by dealers everywhere at 50c a box.

Her Candlestine Courtship.

The servant was discussing her latest love affair with a mistress, who was humane enough to be interested.

"Well," said the mistress, "since you're been going out with him for months, I think it's quite time he took you to see his parents."

"I've been telling him so, ma'am. Only last Sunday I said to him, 'Herbert, I'm not going to be courted in this candlestine way any longer.'"

It was some time, says the Manchester Guardian, before the mistress puzzled brain understood that "candlestine" and "clandestine" were synonymous.

Love of the Forest.

The only way to love the forest is to stay in it until you have learned its pathless travel, growth and inhabitants as you know the fields. You must begin at the gate and find your way slowly, else you will not hear the great secret and see the compelling vision. There are trees you never before have seen, flowers and vines the botanists fail to mention and such music as your ears cannot bear elsewhere.—Gene Stratton Porter.

Know He Was Safe.

"You seem to be going home in a very cheerful manner for a man who has been out all night."

"Yes. You see, my wife is an amateur elocutionist, and she's saving her voice for an entertainment tomorrow night."

A Deduction.

Maude—How old is Grace? May—At least twenty-five. Maude—How do you know? May—I heard her say that no girl ought to marry before she was twenty-six.

He that rises again quickly and continues the race is as if he had never fallen.—Molinoux.

Famous League of Nations.

Enemies of M. Clemenceau are never tired of pointing the finger at him as being, at best, indifferent to the league of nations project. That this is so has been contradicted repeatedly and on good authority, and here is an anecdote which should dispose of the fallacy once and for all. It was related by M. Ferdinand Buisson at a recent meeting of the executive committee of the radical party. M. Leon Bourgeois, said M. Buisson, had been reproaching M. Clemenceau for having spoken in a slighting manner of the league of nations scheme. "Cannot you see what weight your words may have?" he added. "You must not," replied M. Clemenceau, "attach too much importance to a humorous remark made by me to which I did not attach the importance which has been given to it by others. Look at these resolutions taken at a recent allied conference and read the last lines. You see, following the phrase 'to put an end to violence,' written in my own handwriting, are some words added at my request. These words are: 'And to introduce the regime of organized law for the world.' That means the league of nations."

She Liked the Germans.

A disabled French soldier named Lestienne, charged with cutting the throat of his wife, who had been familiar with German officers during the occupation of Douai, has been acquitted by the Seine Assize Court. The evidence shows that the husband, a working painter, had been provoked by his wife, who had changed from the modest working girl he had left behind into an overdressed, arrogant woman, who was continually singing the praises of German officers.

On one occasion at a family dinner she served coffee in cups with a portrait of the Kaiser at the bottom, part of a service given to her by the Germans on leaving Douai. Her husband learned also that during the dinners at Douai his wife had worn a German officer's uniform. Finally Mme. Lestienne left her husband, then living in another town, saying she "intended to live her own life."

They met in the street and, the woman having refused to return to her husband, he cut her throat with a razor. The crowd in the court room cheered when the acquittal was announced.

Australia Is Dry.

In parts of Australia, where the average rainfall is not more than ten inches, a square mile of land will support only eight or nine sheep. In Buenos Ayres the same area, with thirty-four inches of rain, supports 2,560 sheep.

A Monstrosity Among Newspapers.

Those who object to the widespread newspaper may see the apotheosis of their bete noire in the museum at Aix-la-Chapelle, the only existing copy of the Illuminated Quatruple Constellation, published in New York in 1850. Happily this monstrosity did not survive the first issue, for its pages measure eight and one-half feet by six feet, and each contains thirteen columns forty-eight inches long.

By way of comparison it may be mentioned that the smallest newspaper in the world is the Mexican El Telegrama, with pages four inches square.—London Chronicle.

The difference in cost between an ordinary baking powder and the pure, strong, double-acting is trivial. It amounts to only a fraction of a cent on each cake you bake. Against this you risk your high-priced flour, butter, sugar, eggs and milk, and your reputation as a cook.

EGG-O Baking Powder

Spoiled bakings not only cost you money, but they waste food, which is needed to win the war. With the heavy war flours and wheat substitutes in use to-day, the selection of a strong baking powder is absolutely necessary.

The double-acting strength of Egg-O makes the heavy war flours light. Try a can and watch your war-time bakings improve. You can use sweet milk, sour milk, buttermilk or water with Egg-O—a different and better baking powder.

WAR AND THE SUGAR BOWL.

No. 2

Shall we face the sugar shortage in Canada honorably and courageously? Or are we going on quietly hoarding even if only a little in every home? Manufacturers, confectioners, and public eating places are doing their share well. Soldiers and munitions workers want sugar more than the persons doing ordinary work. Let them have it. It must come from the private homes; there only is there hoarding, however slight in every individual case. Don't be mean for the sake of a sweet tooth.

DO YOU USE FACE POWDER?

If You Do Be Careful to Keep It From Getting in Your Eyes.

Face powder has its dangers the same as gunpowder. For several years occasional cases have come under the observation of oculists in which the patients, invariably women, complain of vision being blurred, inability to use the eyes for any length of time and severe itching of the lids. The slightest rubbing of the lids produces a marked redness of the eyes and only aggravates the itching. In severe cases the lids are frequently swollen from constant rubbing. There is a sticky, elastic secretion which, when being removed, pulls out in long strings.

Microscopic examination of the secretion reveals masses of what appear to be crystals. Until recently no satisfactory explanation of the presence of these crystals in the eye has been given. Secretions taken from the eyes of two sisters suffering from this peculiar complaint were submitted to the professor of pathology of one of the university medical schools, who found that the crystals came from face powder. Seven other patients in which the same symptoms and microscopic conditions were found all used face powder.

When the powder is applied to the face with a puff a part of the fine dust is driven upward and lodges on the moist eyeball. The powder in the presence of the tears then becomes mucilaginous in character and is not washed from under the eyelids. The powder produces the irritation, which is aggravated by rubbing. Those who use a chamois skin in applying the powder are less liable to cause the fine dust to arise, which probably accounts for the condition not being found in every woman using face powder. The condition is quickly relieved by flushing the eye with boric acid solution. The irritation rapidly disappears when the eyes are kept washed out with a soothing eye wash.—From Journal of the American Medical Association.

A Bond, a Victory Bond, What is it Anyway?

What is a bond, anyway?

It is simply a certificate issued by some institution which "binds itself" to pay at a given time a specified sum of money with interest. It is said of some men that "their word is as good as their bond"; but bonds, as well as words, may be quite useless. If an institution binds itself to pay, and then cannot pay, the man who invested in its bonds is the loser. So the most important thing about a bond is the financial standing, present and future, of the institution that issues it. The rate of interest is, of course, a consideration, but 10 per cent. interest, which is never paid, is obviously less to be desired than even one per cent. which IS paid.

But what is a Victory Bond?

A Victory Bond is one issued by the Canadian Government, which not only binds itself to repay the principal with interest, but binds itself also to spend the proceeds of the bond in a way that will help win Victory for the Allies. It is trebly a bond, for it is the Dominion's bond, or pledge, to repay; it is the Dominion's bond or pledge to help win the war; and it is, therefore, a bond, or link, between the purchaser and the soldier overseas. It helps buy for them the made-in-Canada munitions upon which their success largely depends.

And it combines the two great features of a good bond, absolute security and a high interest rate. The bond of an insecure concern is only a gamble no matter how high the rate it promises. The bond of a reliable concern with a low rate of interest is safe, but not very profitable. Victory Bonds not only pay 5½ per cent., but they are secured by all the assets of Canada, assets of field and forest and mine which will continue in existence no matter what happens.

VICTIMS OF LA GRIPPE

Left Weak, Disheartened and An Easy Prey to Other Troubles.

A Nova Scotia Man Tells How He Found New Health and Strength.

If you have had an attack of la grippe, or Spanish influenza you are not out of danger until your blood is restored to normal.

Influenza leaves behind it weakened vital powers, thin blood, impaired digestion, and over-sensitive nerves. In this condition the system becomes an easy prey to deadly pneumonia, rheumatism and even consumption. Ask anyone who has had an attack of influenza what their present condition of health is and most of them will answer "Since I had the grippe I have never been really well." This general feeling of weakness will continue until the blood is built up again, and for this purpose nothing can equal a fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. From first to last dose these pills make new, rich, red blood which reaches every organ and nerve in the body, and through this weak, despondent victims of influenza are transformed into cheerful, healthy, happy men and women.

Among the many victims of la grippe who proclaim the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, is Mr. Amos Kaulback, of Petite Riviere, N.S., who says:—"I was taken down with a severe attack of la grippe or influenza. After a time, the early symptoms of the trouble left me, but I did not regain my usual strength, and I had always been a strong man. There were times when I could hardly crawl about and I was so run down I could hardly go about my business. I continued taking medicine, but it did me no good. Then I found the trouble was affecting my digestion and the disagreeable feeling from this added to my general misery. I was finally advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to try them. I had only been taking the pills for a few weeks when I found my strength returning, my appetite improved, and still continuing the use of the pills a few weeks more found me restored to my old-time vigor. I can most strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all who have passed through an attack of influenza, as a safe medicine for renewing their strength."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

UP-TO-DATE ROMANCE.

Wedding By Proxy Follows Wireless Courtship.

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Nov. 8.—After a courtship by wireless, a wedding by proxy, with the bride thousands of miles away, united Miss Emily Orsim, of Cairo, Egypt, and Lieut. Rudolph Winzer, of Chicago, at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station yesterday.

The romance began in Egypt, when Lieut. Winzer was assigned to the U.S.S., North Carolina. Miss Orsim is the daughter of an Italian Marquis, who was married to an English woman. The marriage license was obtained in Waukegan two months ago and a copy mailed to the bride, who obtained a similar document in Egypt and sent a copy to this country.

At the ceremony the bride will be represented by Miss Grace Belle Reams, of Chicago, and the service will be read by Chaplain Charles W. Moore. A blue jacket orchestra will play the Wedding March. At the close of the event, a wireless message will be relayed to Egypt, and Mrs. Winzer will start at once for this country to join her husband.

Facts About Spanish "Flu"

SPANISH influenza has become so prevalent in the United States that some military camps have been closed to visitors in an effort to check its spread. It is also common in Canada, but fortunately in both countries it is not virulent enough to be an immediate cause of death except in very rare instances. It is chiefly to be dreaded because it weakens the resisting power of the body and permits deadlier organisms to overpower the citadel. Pneumonia, for example, often follows influenza, and it is to be guarded against rather on account of what it may lead to than for the disorder or illness its causes in itself. In districts where there is that overcrowding of the population due to poverty, influenza may prove a veritable scourge, but this, too, is partly explained by the ill-nourished condition of those whom it claims as victims.

Influenza is often spoken of as a new malady, as though it were a triumph of the twentieth century like the airplane and the phonograph, but the truth is that it is probably as old as written history, and was accurately described by medical authors some hundreds of years ago. It is contemporaneous with colds, and it is difficult to say when the cold ends and the influenza begins, for, roughly speaking, the one may be considered merely a perverse or serious development of the other. The idea that influenza is modern is due to the fact that it is only noted when it appears in epidemic form, when everybody is more or less suffering, either from the malady itself or from its manifestation in others. Most of us can remember when we first heard of the Russian influenza, and probably have retained the notion that it was a germ no doubt cultivated by the Bolsheviki and exported to these shores from Russia. Similarly the idea that the Spanish influenza is a Spanish production is as wide as it is unwarranted.

We call it Spanish influenza as we called it Russian influenza before and Egyptian influenza at another time for no other reason than that epidemics of violent colds had been reported from Spain, Russia or Egypt before they were noted in this country, but they were developed in Canada by Canadian conditions of weather, just as they were independently developed in Europe and Asia and Africa. The words la grippe are merely the French equivalent for influenza, and our general practice seems to be to call the disorder a cold when it occasions only moderate inconvenience, grippe when it means a week in bed and influenza when the malady is general. The word influenza appears to be of Italian origin, and was no doubt fastened on the disease in the belief that its appearance was influenced by the stars, which would in itself indicate a rather respectable antiquity for it. No doubt certain seasons are more likely to produce a general outbreak of severe colds, grippe or influenza than others, and abrupt variations in temperature, and especially wet weather, are the favored conditions.

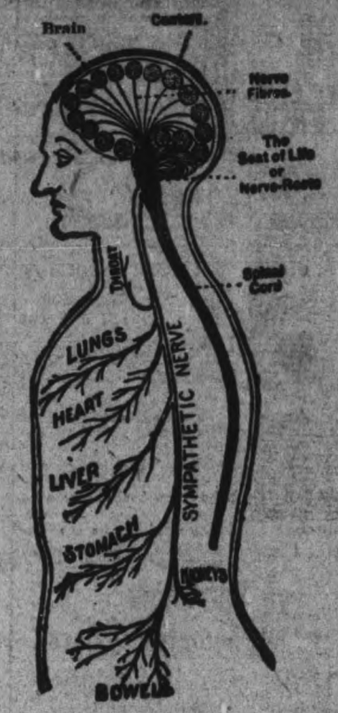
Dr. Alvah Hunt Doty, for sixteen years health officer of the port of New York, and an expert on quarantine sanitation, says, in the New York Tribune, that the means to be taken to avoid Spanish influenza are precisely the means that should be taken to avoid catching cold. Nothing acts more quickly as a contributing cause than cold, wet feet, and a large percentage of those who suffer from colds of any kind give a definite history of undue exposure. It is not to be supposed that the germs of influenza are created by the cold, but merely that the resisting power of the body is lowered by exposure, and the germs which probably inhabit the nasal passages to the number of millions are given a chance to develop. It might be the germ of influenza or the germ of some more serious disease. At any rate, it would have done no harm to its unconscious host had his general condition of health been good. A temporary lowering of the guard, as it were, is the cause of the mischief.

It is true, of course, that many people whose health is not robust would escape influenza and other ills if they were not brought into contact with people suffering from them. The germ of influenza is spread usually by victims coughing or sneezing in a loud and abandoned manner and thus spraying the surrounding atmosphere with minute particles containing germs. It might well be that the cougher or sneezer is unaware of the risk to which he is subjecting those near him, for he might be in sound health himself and yet well qualified to infect others. In fact, if only the sick could infect others there would soon be little sickness in the world. The truth is that the whole are just as likely to be carriers of various diseases as those whose health is undermined by them. They recklessly expose themselves to all sorts of infection, and because they themselves never suffer as a result, come to the conclusion that it is impossible for them to be a source of danger to others. But, from whatever source the infection may come, the best way to avoid it is to keep the general health of the body good and let the benevolent white corpuscles in the blood worry about the rest.

Pity the Farmer!

The distressful condition of the Ontario farmer is indicated in the fact (vouchsafed for by the district paper) that the value of farmers' automobiles parked during a recent garden fetes in the village of Brownsville exceeded a quarter of a million dollars.

Three hundred thousand pounds of sugar were saved in the United States during July, August, September and October.



Study the Internal Nerves

YOU prick your finger and know that it is the nerves which carry the painful sensation to the brain. You move your hand, and realize that the idea of movement started in your mind. But did you ever think that every beat of your heart and every breath of air taken into your lungs is dependent on a constant supply of nerve force?

It is the internal or sympathetic nerves which drive the machinery of the body, and from their derangement or exhausted condition arises weakness of the stomach, feeble action of the heart, or inactivity of liver and bowels.

When nerve force fails every organ of the body becomes more or less deranged. Indigestion, sleeplessness, headaches, irritability and nervousness are some of the first indications. You lose energy and ambition, find your work a drudgery, and grow weak and listless. As time goes on you become more and more helpless, until nervous prostration or collapse brings you to the sick bed, and long months are often necessary for the restoration of the exhausted nervous system.

Even in this extreme condition Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will usually cure if its use is persisted in, but how much wiser it is to heed the warning in the early stages and keep the nerve force at high-water mark.

No restorative has ever proven its worth in so many thousands of cases as has Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. What it has done for others it will do for you under similar conditions. By forming new, rich blood it nourishes the starved and depleted nerves back to health and vigor, and thereby overcomes the cause of weakness and diseases of the nerves.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is in such great demand that you can obtain it wherever medicines are sold—50c a box, 6 for $2.75. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., are on every box of the genuine.

Ontario Fall Wheat Thrifty Appearance

The following is a summary of reports made by agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Fall wheat has done so well during the latter part of October that in most instances it will be ready for winter with a good top and a thrifty appearance generally. From Essex comes the only complaint of insect injury, the Hessian fly having appeared in some places in that country. Potato digging is practically through. Rot has already done much injury in Dundas. The week has been most favourable for sugar beet lifting. Some remarkably good tonnages are reported from Lambton. Turnips have done better than was expected. A farmer in Peterborough reports 45 tons to the acre. Prices for turnips have fallen in Brant; only from 15c to 18c a bushel now being paid as dealers fear a shortage of cars for shipping during the winter. Oxford reports that apples are being marketed freely, the inferior fruit going to the evaporators and cider mills, with but little waste.

Pastures up to very recently have been good, but are now well eaten off. Live stock are being stabled in good general condition. About the usual number of stockers are on hand, but Lanark reports that more young stock than usual will be fed this winter. It is stated from Grey that sales of live stock have been rather unsatisfactory this fall, as (with the exception of pure-bred shorthorns), cattle, sheep and hogs have been selling at low figures compared with sales held last year.

CORDOVA MINES TO BE BUSY PLACE

Cordova Mines, Belmont Township, will be busy place once more in the near future. The Cordova Mines Co. have built a smelting plant for the production of ferro-chromium, an important alloy used in the steel industry. It is expected tha some seventy-five to eighty tons of the metal will be produced each month and as the price of ferro-chromium is $400 per ton, the venture should prove very profitable. It is expected that operations will be in full swing in a few weeks at the company's plant. Prior to 1914 the United States imported chromite ore from far distant Asia Minor.

"BILLY."

His acquaintances called him an "artist,"
"A terror to lick up the booze."
They said that he squandered his money,
And so he had little to lose.
But when the call came he responded,
Though he swore like a trooper, 'tis true;
He dropped his old pals and the bottle,
And started life over anew.

His friends said he went 'cos he had to,
To just get away from the "can."
The best thing they said that could happen;
They forgot he could still be a man.
"Good old Billy," they cried, and "Good luck, boy,"
"Here's hoping you'll get back all right."
So Billy just got into khaki,
And prepared to get into the fight.

The life he found after the "hard stuff"
Was not all a guy could expect;
But it toned up his much abused carcase,
Which was near "on a train" to be wrecked;
But he cut out the booze with an effort,
With regrets he had "pensioned" the pipe
And the next time his chums "spotted" Billy,
He was wearing a smile and a stripe.
Overseas! Some time after the order,
His regiment was soon to embark,
So he slung on his kit and was willing
To gain in his duty his mark.
Though his pals around town scarcely missed him,
Without it was buying the drinks;
So Billy was almost forgotten,
While they "did the shows and the rinks.

Then one day, 'twas somewhere in Flanders,
The Huns launched a mighty attack;
The roar of the guns was terrific,
And the "Canucks" were getting the "whack,"
Then the bugle rang out loud and clear,
The "Charge!" My God- it was a fright-
Steel met steel, but the boys of the Maple
Came out best in that stern, bloody fight.

'Twas dusk when the roll call was sounded,
And among the brave wounded who lay
There was one whose blanched features were noticed,
As his life blood was ebbing away,
But before his brave soul had departed
He raised his head slightly and gasped—
"Tell the boys round the city that Billy Died fighting—and game to the last!"

LEMON JUICE WHITENS SKIN

Girls! Make beauty lotion at home for few cents

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best bleaching and skin whitening lotion, and compexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how tan, redness, sallowness, sunburn and windburn disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

"Can You Show Me Something Good in Suitings?"

Caring For the Piano.

One of those popular fellows who can sit down at a piano and play accompaniments to songs, even when the "music" is not forthcoming, happened to be in a little village recently when a concert was almost stuck through the pianist disappointing at the last minute. Our friend, says the Glasgow News, came to the rescue and got the company out of its difficulty, but inwardly he applied to the instrument adjectives which would shock even George Bernard Shaw. After the performance the caretaker (a "lady") was covering up for the night, and the player mentioned to her that the piano was very much in need of attention, but she scouted the idea. "Why," said she, "I went over it myself this morning and scrubbed every part of it, keys and all."

Saving Gasoline.

If anyone wonders why Canada is having its motorless Sundays simultaneously with the United States, the reason is not far to seek. Ninety per cent. and more of the gasoline used in Canada is said to reach this country from across the border. The United States might, thus, be saving its fuel in order that Canada might squander it. But that fact does not impress one so strongly as the complete unity which binds the sister nations in making common cause against the world's disturbers.

Farmers of Canada Have Much at Stake In the Victory Loan

Money From Loan Needed to Finance Exports of Farm Products to Britain.

The Canadian farmer stands to gain or lose much through the success or failure of the Victory Loan. He is much more dependent on it for the ready sale of his products than has generally been realized. Some there are, even to-day, who fail to grasp the facts of the situation.

It is a mistaken idea that all a farmer has to do these days is to raise grain, cattle, hogs; or produce cheese, butter or eggs and he is sure to find a ready market at high cash prices. A keen demand for these products, of course, exists, and Great Britain will take all of them that Canada has to spare; but the demands of the war have been so heavy that she cannot pay cash for all these things. She must have credit. It is here that the Dominion Government steps in, and provides the cash, obtaining the necessary funds through the Victory Loan.

MR. J. H. GUNDY,
Vice-chairman of the Dominion Victory Loan Committee, and a strong leader in the campaign.

The farmers should be as enthusiastic over the Victory Loan campaign as any other class. If it is not a decided success they stand to lose heavily. But if they subscribe to it liberally and endeavor to get others to do so, its complete success is assured.

PRAIRIE FARMERS' EXAMPLE.

Saskatchewan, which is almost a purely agricultural province, has given a splendid lead to the rest of the Dominion. Owing to the crop failure in several of the districts, the allotment for the Province in the Victory Loan drive was placed at $15,000,000. Recently those in charge of the provincial organization said that they would not think of getting less than $22,000,000.

BONDS OR BONDAGE.

Canadians at Home Must Do Their Utmost

It Is For Them to Demonstrate That the Spirit of the Boys Over There Exists at Home.

Canadians at home must do their utmost in the Victory Loan drive, for the boys in France are looking on. These brave fellows, the pride of the British Army, who have carried all before them during the last three months, must not be disappointed in the folks at home. It must be demonstrated to them that the spirit exhibited in the front line, is to be found also on the home front.

There is no problem confronting Canada to-day, or likely to confront her in the future, which Canadians cannot solve, if they put their minds to it. There is no task for them too difficult. But, while everybody believes this, there is no use talking about it, unless the Victory Loan is put over. It will be, for it must be.

BUY BONDS FOR VICTORY.

DOUBLE UP.

The call is now "Double up." Everybody seems to be doing it. Why shouldn't they? The cause is worth doubling up for. Besides, it would be impossible to get a better investment. It's better than the Americans were offered, for their Fourth Liberty bonds bear only 4¼ per cent., whereas ours carry 5½. So "doubling up" is the correct thing. It is patriotic and also good business. Double up.

THE CRISIS.

Your country needs your financial help to meet its crisis to-day. You may need financial resources to meet a possible crisis in your affairs later on. There is one safe, sane, sure way to meet either kind of crisis. In taking it you discharge your duty to your country and to yourself. Take it to-day. Buy Victory Bonds. Buy all you can.

LEND TO CANADA.

England's union labour members now number 4,000,000.

Output of copper of Anaconda for October amounted to 23,450,000 pounds.

ALL CLASSES HELPED BY LOAN

Salmon Industry—a Pacific Coast Industry—That Receives Direct Financial Aid.

There is no single class in the community that does not receive direct benefit from the huge expenditures for food products and war materials for the British Government. The money circulates in every conceivable channel of trade and there is felt on all sides the thrill of new business and new opportunity. Take the fishing industry of British Columbia, which means salmon. The annual pack of that province is worth over $13,600,000. There is a surplus for export of $9,000,000 worth. We have been financing that export business out of the proceeds of the Victory Loan, because Great Britain is not in a position now to pay cash for her purchases in this country. We want the market and we are willing to extend her the credit. The fishermen get the money as soon as they have earned it and are able to go on developing their industry.

The same impetus has been given to the fishing industry in the Prairie Provinces. The lakes of Northern Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta produce a great quantity of excellent fish and a demand for it in the Old Country has been created through the efforts of an educational propaganda. In frozen salmon there was an export, for the use of our Hospitals Overseas, in 1917 amounting to 830,000 pounds. It is expected that the export for this purpose during the coming winter will be a million pounds. The shipments of sole, plaice, flounders and cod from the Pacific Coast and cod and haddock from the Atlantic Coast were also large. Good prices are paid for these fish on the British market.

It is important to Canadian industry that this great export trade be maintained. The Victory Loan of 1918 will help to maintain it and to increase business. Help the Victory Loan.

TIME IN PALESTINE.

It Is So Erratic That Making a Train Is Quite a Feat.

In Jerusalem town time and train time are different, forty minutes different, and both are variable. Train officials say the train leaves for Jaffa at 6:40 o'clock in the morning, but 6:40 o'clock by train time is 7:20 o'clock by town time. One morning when we were starting for Egypt we ordered our carriage for 7 o'clock. Arriving at the station at 7:15 o'clock, we found the train gone and the station empty. At last was routed out an official.

"Where's the train?" we demanded.

"Gone, messieurs."

"Gone? You've changed the hour of the train, then?"

"Non, non, messieurs. The train leaves at the same hour always, but the time has changed. Yesterday 6:40 o'clock train time was 7:20 o'clock town time. Today 6:40 o'clock train time is 7 o'clock town time. No, no"—and he smiled patronizingly—"the train always leaves at the same hour; our trains never change—it is the time that alters itself, not the train, messieurs!"

We sought the telegraph office.

"To the steamer agent to Jaffa," we dictated. "Missed train. Cancel passage on boat for Egypt. Wire date of next sailing for Port Said." This was turned into Sowery Turkish and sent. A reply came soon.

"Plenty of time. Your boat will wait till tomorrow afternoon, for the water is so rough she cannot land her passengers and cargo today. Plenty of time if you take the train tomorrow."—Atlantic Monthly.

Surprise For Both.

John Burns once paid a visit to a London lunatic asylum. He was taken all over the establishment, and finally arrived at the gardens, where a number of patients were working. Mr. Burns espied among them a man with whom he had some slight acquaintance and was about to speak to him when the lunatic suddenly exclaimed:

"Well, I never! You, too! The very last person I thought to see here."—London Citizen.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once if bilious or constipated.

Look at the tongue, mother. If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's somach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels, without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Huns Suffer Much From Air Bombing

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(By Mail.)—The German high command has found it necessity to issue a special order governing infantry defence against aircraft.

This order suggests that German morale has been so damaged by the constant low-flying tactics of entente airmen that the panic-stricken German infantry have been opening fire indiscriminately against any low-flying airplanes, quite without regard for its nationality or markings. It is found necessary in this order to repeat that the infantry is forbidden to fire "once the iron cross is seen;" and to state that every man who fires on any aircraft will be held personally responsible, and is not justified "because other people are doing so."

Another matter which apparently is worrying the Hun commander, and upon which he has found it necessary to issue another special order, is the failure of German camouflage. The order is also a tribute to the work of the entente air service, for it begins:— "The constant observation of our organization by the enemy's airplanes in trench warfare.... compel us to hide our artillery positions to an increasing degree."

A captured German corps order bears further witness to the efficiency of entente bombing work. The document commences: 'Recently our losses from bombing have been on the increase," and proceeds to lay down elaborate instructions for issuing general warnings over very large areas on the approach of entente airmen. These instructions involve the cessation of all activity in the whole corps sector, not only by troops in line of support, but by those in rest.

Private letters and diaries taken from prisoners tell the same tale. One discovered recently tells of the devastation caused by a night-flying English machine which bombed an ammunition train. Another states that while the writer was in rest at Douai his barracks were bombed every day, and mentions 30 casualties as the result of one such visit.

A letter of later date, written by a soldier in a German labor battalion reads as follows:—

"After travelling for 12 hours and wandering about for 8 days, we are now quartered near Peronne, and I can tell you that things have gone pretty badly with us.

"The English have taken the offensive and no sooner had we detrained than a bomb landed on us landed on us, and we lost 14 men severely wounded and one man killed. That made us want to bolt. You can just fancy that 300 men like that attract attention, and those airmen came so low down as one story, and we wanted to wiggle into the ground, but it did not answer. At night the same sort of thing happened."

Evidence of destruction to German airdromes, which are a favorite object we for entente bombing, is given by prisoners. For instance, Independent statements from several prisoners from different divisions established the fact that 14 German airplanes besides hangars, were destroyed in one recent raid on an airdrome.

GERMANS WORRY OVER FOOD.

Doubt Supply is Sufficient to Last for Another Year.

AMSTERDAM.—Whether the German food supply is sufficient to last for another year of war is being debated in German newspapers with signs of apprehension.

"Calculations warrant the belief that we can hold out, provided the most stringent measures are taken to regulate clandestine traffic in food," says the Cologne Volszeitung. Its estimate is based on figures showing the German food supply collected by Stegerwald, a member of the Prussian Diet.

"Nevertheless," adds the paper, "Stegerwald's figures show that we have a Siegfried position also at home."

The significance of this lies in the fact that the Siegfried position on the Western front went down before Allied attacks. After endeavouring to bolster up the waning confidence of the Germans, the Volkszeitung says:

"Meat distribution must be further curtailed. Cattle have decreased three million head compared with last year, while the number of pigs has been very seriously reduced. Meatless days must be maintained, and consumption of game and poultry reduced under much more severe control. Measures must be devised whereby all classes will be treated alike and clandestine slaughter be ruthlessly suppressed.

"The Ukraine remains a doubtful factor, and from Roumania next year only corn is expected, but both countries are able to export different kinds of foodstuffs."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Melodious Voice

By F. A. MITCHEL

I awoke, or, rather, came to consciousness, with a soreness all over my body and a burning thirst. I was lying on the ground looking up at the stars. For a moment I did not know why I was there. Then suddenly it all came back to me—a long brown line along the edge of a wood, the order to advance, a volley of clicks as the Confederates cocked their muskets, then a cloud of smoke and a storm of bullets. I was one who fell, and for awhile men tramped to and fro over me. After that I knew nothing.

Now it was dark. I managed to change my position by turning on my side. I could see lights moving about. Then I heard the words:

"Bring a stretcher."

They were not spoken in a man's voice, but a woman's. Moreover, the tones were soft and melodious. Was it the contrast with what might be expected on a battlefield that moved me, or was the voice really sweet? I listened and heard it again:

"Poor fellow! Gently, boys. There. Now carry him over there to the surgeon."

Surely it was sympathetic. But it was more—it was a voice that I felt sure I would never forget. If I should hear it among a hundred others I would recognize it.

We were near enough to Richmond for our cannon to be heard there all day. Doubtless this was some woman from there, who had come out to minister to the wounded. She was, however, giving us, her enemies, her attention, for the Confederates had not been in this exact part of the field. She went from me, speaking in that same melodious voice, first encouraging the wounded man being carried on the stretcher. Then I knew by her words that she was kneeling over some other unfortunate.

"Poor boy! You should be with your mother instead of here."

Those were the last words I heard her speak. I had hoped that she would stay by me, but we were lying very thick, and only a few could be favored.

I never forgot the voice I heard on that battlefield. I thought of it all through the period when I was recovering from my wound and wondered if I should ever meet its possessor. I was sent north by sea and after regaining my strength joined my regiment shortly before the battle of Gettysburg. I was with our army before Petersburg and when Richmond was evacuated was one of those who entered the city.

While in the Confederate capital I went to a hospital to see an officer who was ill. I was sitting by his cot in a ward containing perhaps a hundred invalids. Near by was a screen used to protect a man who was dying. I heard a voice say:

"I will give your message if I have to take it myself."

It was the voice I had heard on the battlefield.

I was anxious to get a glimpse of its owner, but at the moment the man I was with was endeavoring to impress upon me something he wished me to do for him. As soon as I could get away from him I went for a look behind the screen. I saw only a corpse.

That was the disappointment of my life. I made inquiries for the woman I wished to see, but could only describe her as a woman with a sweet voice. It was not enough. There were a number of ladies there with sweet voices. Besides, I was a soldier with other things to occupy me than looking for a woman I had never seen. At any rate, I left Richmond without seeing or again hearing her.

The war having closed, my regiment with others was sent north and after the grand review at Washington was mustered out. I had studied a profession before entering the military service and on returning to civil life occupied myself with my profession. I continued to be haunted by that melodious voice. I met women who were attractive to me; but, somehow, if I especially liked one of them she was sure to repel me by a harsh tone in speaking. Several years passed, and though I was domestic in my tastes and would have liked to be married I remained single.

Being called to Washington on business with the government, I was in the treasury department one morning amid a number of women clerks when I asked one of them where I should apply for certain information I wished.

"Go to the third auditor's office on the next floor above."

I had found her.

"Were you not on the field," I asked, "after one of the battles near Richmond in 1862, succoring the wounded?"

"I was."

"And when we northern men occupied Richmond did you not one day, in a hospital take a message for a dying man?"

"I did."

"I lay near where you were on that battlefield and was near you when you received that message."

"Have you ever seen me before?"

"No."

"Then how have you recognized me?"

"By your voice."

Her voice, though sweet, was not noticeably so. It was the surroundings amid which I had heard it and the tenderness called forth by pity.

And this is how I, a northern man, came to marry a southern woman.

A tale of two Trade Marks

For over 59 years Turnbulls have been making good knitted underwear in Canada—and underwear exclusively—They came from the Old Country with the knowledge of how to make good underwear bred in them—They brought out expert workers from the Old Country from time to time as their business grew—thus have always kept their products up to the highest standard, being made with that thoroughness and care for which the Old Country workers are famous.

The reason for this tremendous growth and popularity can be summed up in one word "Quality" first and all the time—

You cannot get away from the fact that Canadians appreciate "Quality" more than anything else—

Turnbull's two brands are

Turnbull's PERFECT FITTING and TURNBULL'S UNSHRINKABLE NATURAL WOOL

UNDERWEAR

This brand is on all Turnbull's ribbed underwear which is extremely popular with ladies and children because of its great elasticity and comfortable fitting. Made in all sizes in separate garments and union suits with special closed crotch.

This brand is on Turnbull's plain knitted underwear, all wool — finest and cleanest obtainable, made in separate garments and union suits with special crotch that stays closed and is always comfortable.

COMFORT SOAP

The Deciding Voice.

In a business men's club in a western town there sprang up two factions one which criticised the steward because he did not provide the members with good meals and one which defended him hotly.

The dispute got fiercer and fiercer. Half the club wanted to fire the steward at once. The other half said he was efficient.

Then without warning the steward himself decided the momentous question.

One day at lunch time a member of the club asked the waiter:

"Where's the steward?"

"He ain't here," replied the waiter. "He said he was going down the street to get something good to eat."—Popular Magazine.

A Progressive Monarch.

Alfred the Great of England has few equals in history, for he was in advance of his times in everything. Born in Wantage, in Berkshire, in 849, he drove the Danes out of the eastern part of England, so after ridding his country of the foreigner he occupied himself in the advancement of learning. After thirty years of wise rule Alfred died in 901 A. D.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION.

More Liable to Generate In Powdered Than In Solid Substances.

The scientific phrase for combustion is oxidation, or the combining of some substance with the oxygen of the air. Some substances have greater affinity for oxygen than others, and whenever the combustion reaches a certain point of rapidity fire results.

Anything that increases the facility of combination with oxygen increases the danger of spontaneous combustion or explosion, and for that reason a substance is more dangerous when pulverized than when solid, because the separated particles of matter are brought more directly in contact with the oxygen of the air. There is no danger of spontaneous combustion or explosion in a mass of unground wheat, but mills have been destroyed by explosions of flour dust.

Fixed oils absorb oxygen and give out carbon and hydrogen, causing a rise of temperature that may reach the burning point, as has often occurred in heaps of rags, tow, sawdust and similar bodies soaked with oil, paint, varnish, turpentine and sometimes grease.

Bituminous coal is liable to spontaneous combustion when moistened with water, and the coal dust in mines is a common cause of explosions. Moisture aids spontaneous combustion in piles of damp hay or freshly mown grass, and barns have been burned from that cause.

The Quick Way to Stop a Cough

This home-made syrup does the work in a hurry. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-oz. bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

WOES OF THE POOR RICH.

How the Wife of One Wealthy Man Got Her Spending Money.

In the American Magazine, in a story by Rebecca Hooper Eastman, is a satire on the poor rich, in which the wife of a wealthy man tells as follows how she gets hold of her spending money:

"Kitty, dear, I can't bear that you should misjudge me, and so I am going to tell you what not a soul in this world knows. I have absolutely no money and no way of getting any. My husband doesn't think it is necessary for me to have money when I can charge things. I owe you a dollar. You think I have forgotten, but I have not. And I am going to pay you—when I can.

"I want to tell you that I have just discovered a way to make money. You see, I have borrowed so many small sums for tips and car fares that I am quite in debt.

"We have one of the finest cooks in New York, as you know, and I order him to make cakes. He thinks they are for a bazaar. In reality I sell these cakes at a certain woman's exchange for $1 a loaf, cash, Kitty. I leave my car at a nearby hotel, walk through the hotel to the exchange on the next street, wear a plain suit and a thick veil, which I put on in the hotel dressing room. Nobody knows."

WHAT CAUSES CRYSTALS?

An Obscure Process That Plays a Large Part In Nature.

In answer to the question, "Will a sudden jar ever cause crystals to appear in a supersaturated solution, or can this be produced only by the introduction of one of the crystals?" Edgar Lucien Larkin in the New York American says:

"Supersaturation and crystal formation are obscure phenomena. Let water dissolve salts until it is supersaturated when perfectly still; then let the containing vessel be suddenly moved, tapped or disturbed; then crystals of the dissolved substances will instantly form. Pure water, distilled, may be put into a closed container and a thermometer placed below the surface.

"Keep the whole very still and the water may be cooled a number of degrees below the freezing—that is, crystallizing—point without crystallizing. Suddenly strike the vessel and the liquid will crystallize. Many solutions of superdensity will thus behave.

"This little understood process underlying the fascinating mathematical science of crystal forming plays a highly important part in nature in the building of solids, of crystalline rocks and general structure of our house—the earth."

End Came Quickly.

The experiences of local jewelers with prospective bridegrooms have been many and varied. Some wish to buy on the installment plan, some wish to take a half dozen sizes to be sure of a fit and some bring "beautiful verses" to see whether they can be engraved in the ring.

One jeweler in recounting his experiences said a young man came into his store and when asked whether he wished anything engraved inside the ring became confused, fumbled a bit in his pockets and finally produced a paper on which was scrawled, "That love that never endeth," which the jeweler said was just the proper sentiment.

A month later the young man returned and told the whole history of his marital life in five words, "Can't you cut that out?" pointing to the engraved sentence.

Glacier National Park.

Glacier National park is in northern Montana and is bounded on the north by the Canadian line, on the east by the Blackfoot Indian reservation and on the south and west by Flathead river. It has an area of about 915,000 acres and derives its name from many glaciers, which are scattered throughout its area. There are about eighty glaciers, between five square miles and a few acres in area. The park is a rugged mountainous region and contains over 250 lakes, which are surrounded by steep and beautifully wooded mountains or precipitous rock walls. The methods of transportation in the park are by automobile, horse stage, launches on the lakes and saddle and pack horses.

Inductive and Deductive.

Deductive reasoning is from theory to facts, while inductive reasoning is from facts to theory. Deduction is sometimes mere dreaming, oftentimes very foolish dreaming, while induction is the sane reaching out from particular facts to general laws.—New York American.

The Best Habit In The World is the habit of health. The way to get it is to train your bowels, through the liver, to act naturally, at a fixed time, every day.

Take one pill regularly (more only if necessary) until you succeed. Then you can stop taking them, without trouble or annoyance.

This has been the good health rule for 50 years.

Will you have the right to cheer and say:—
"I did my best—I saved and denied myself—I lent every cent I could rake and scrape to help my country and our fighting boys—I can claim a full share in the glorious Victory because I did everything I could"

—Or, will you have to slink shamefaced and con science-stricken away from the cheering crowds to your own mean solitude?

If you buy Victory Bonds—the duty of to-day—now—to the limit of your ability with every dollar you can raise—then—and only then—can you say:

"I have done my best"

Huge Orders Placed For Army Materials

U. S. BUYS 4,350,811 TONS COAL; SPENDS $100,000 FOR SARDINES

ENGLAND TO SUPPLY 1,800,000 UNIFORMS—50,000,000 POUNDS OF PRUNES TO BE SENT TO DOUGHBOYS NEXT YEAR—NO LET UP IN WAR.

WASHINGTON,—The War Department is steadily pressing forward its military program for the year 1919, despite the acceptance of aristices by the three great allies of the German Empire. From all that appears on the surface, the war chiefs of the United States are giving no thought to the possibility of a peace with Germany, but are placing greater pressure than ever before upon the war munitions producers of the nation.

It was announced that orders for 4,350,811 tons of coal and coke have been placed by the raw materials division of the office of the director of purchase and supply for the use of army camps, posts, forts, providing grounds and hospitals in this country for the coming year. The tonnage consists of 3,691,650 tons of soft coal, 642,728 tons of anthracite and 16,288 tons of coke.

The army camps in this country now have a coal reserve for the winter approximately 600,000 tons.

Band music, costing $50,000, has been purchased for the use of the American expeditionary forces, requisition having been made by Gen Pershing that the 50 bands abroad might be better trained.

Brig.-Gen. D. E. Wood, acting quartermaster general, stated today that orders have been placed with the British government for the manufacture of uniforms for the troops in France, the orders entailing the delivery of 1,000,000 pairs of trousers and 1,400,000 uniform coats. An order also was placed for a million yards of cloth for officers' uniforms.

About 50,000,000 pounds of prunes have been brought for the overseas forces, which is more than twice the amount used from the 1917 crop. Contracts also are being made for the purchase of canned sardines, the army abroad needing about $100,000 worth.

Holland postmen have requested permission to wear wooden shoes when delivering letters because of the scarcity of leather.

Overseas demand for gasoline and kerosene will have precedence over all domestic requirements by order of the Fuel Administrator.

GRAIN MARKET

The grain markets were in an uncertain mood yesterday, following the denial of the armistice report of Thursday. The sharp decline in the November option on corn was in part recovered in to-day's trading, while the distant options lost part of Thursday's gains. Traders are very uncertain as to whether the inauguration of peace will mean a lower market or not. In the meantime the cash corn situation remains strong. Cash oats slightly firmer.

CATTLE MARKET

Monday's market of this week opened with a good run of cattle offering. Buyers were soon busy, and it was early evident that there was a very active demand for the best butcher cattle.

Prices stiffened and an average advance of 50c. over the previous week for anything of weight and quality was soon recorded. The advance on butcher stock reacted on the best stockers and feeders in the market, many of the latter being picked out for killing, with the result that a proportionate advance on stockers and feeders was made and well maintained for anything good for the rest of the week. The week's offerings have not produced many cattle of the class of heavy finished steers. It is probable that most of these have already been marketed. One or two small bunches of good weighty steers sold around $14. Good butchers' cattle, medium weights, sold firm from $11 to $11.75.

Good quality feeders sold up to $10 and anything of extra choice might fetch $10.25 to $10.50.

An exception to the general advance of the 50 cents for the week on good butcher steers and heifers was in the butcher cows class. For these there has been a slow market, with no advance in prices. Common cows and canners are about 25 cents lower.

Lambs were in an advancing market early in the week, but fell off again at the end, declining about 50 cents in the last two markets. In the sheep class good breeding ewes steady and firm. Killers easier.

Calves firm for choice veals, but slow and easier on common grassers.

Hogs were in a comparatively firm market all week, scoring a general advance of 50 cents for the week-end markets.

Cattle Receipts.

Union Stock Yards—Total receipts this week, 458 cars, with 6,994 cattle, 387 calves, 5,292 hogs, and 7,322 sheep and lambs.

City Cattle Market—37 cars, with 576 cattle, 797 sheep and lambs, 119 hogs, and 34 calves.

The World is Patiently Waiting for Germany to Sign the Armistice

Speculation in All Quarters as to How Soon the Reply Would be Announced—Conditions in Paris.

ERZBERGER'S RECORD

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The nation merely waited to-day for the signing of the armistice with Germany.

Officialdom long since made up its mind that the German answer would be an acceptance. So to-day it only devoted itself to speculations as to how soon the reply would be announced.

Some thought by to-night, others to-morrow, while another group believed Germany would take the limit and that the actual answer would not be revealed before Monday [illegible] the seventy-hour deadline.

[illegible] German events as well as the pressure of the victorious American-Allied armies are making affirmative reply the only one Germany can give to escape complete ruin.

PARIS IS NORMAL IN SPITE OF EVENTS THAT ARE PENDING

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Paris, unexcited, is awaiting under a slow drizzle of rain the termination of the armistice negotiations.

The only sign that these are the biggest moments in history are the unusually crowded boulevards. The people, good natured despite the wet, are thronging about the Kiosks, buying damp newspapers.

There is slightly more laughter in the cafes and the employees are more polite and better humoured. Occasionally small knots of people burst into singing the "Marseillaise."

The wine shops are more popular, there are more rumours flying about, some of the streets are lighter, some blinds are undrawn at nightfall without a policeman objecting, and the tailors are again making business suits.

Otherwise the city is decidedly normal. The prevalent feeling is that "if the Huns won't sign, Foch will lick them anyhow."

ERZBERGER WAS A LEADER IN GERMAN PROPAGANDA WORK

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Mathias Erzberger, of the German armistice delegation now negotiating with Marshal Foch, was a leader in corrupt German propaganda work, Deputy Attorney-General Becker revealed to-day.

In Becker's investigation of Bolo Passa, executed for his defeatist work in France, Erzberger was exposed, Becker declared. The attorney said testimony was taken by him in that probe showed Erzberger to be the head of a propaganda money fund, and that he turned over the huge corruption fund to Abbas Hilmia, then Khedive of Egypt, to be used in stirring up trouble among Allied nations.

FRENCH BELIEVE HUN WILL CAPITULATE BEFORE MONDAY NEXT

(Canadian Press Desptech.)

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Germany will capitulate between now and Monday. French opinion, which is remarkably restrained and conservative, is unanimous in this view. There is no tendency to exaggerate happenings in Germany, but it is felt that the Germans have had enough to make it imperative for the Government to make peace at the earliest possible moment.

PRINCE MAXIMILIAN IS REPORTED TO HAVE RESIGNED

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. — Prince Maximilian of Baden, German Chancellor, is reported to have resigned, but there has been no acceptance of his resignation. Prince Maximilian, it is indicated, to-day will communicate the terms of the armistice to a committee of the Reichstag party leaders.

THE REPLY MAY BE DELIVERED SOME TIME THIS AFTERNOON

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Nov. 9.—It is probable that the German reply to the Allied terms for an armistice will be brought back by the same courier that took them to German headquarters at Spa yesterday. Under the circumstances it is believed a reply cannot be delivered before the middle of the afternoon at the very earliest.

Kiel Canal Is Blocked

Workmen and Soldiers Council Have Blocked Waterway With Warships.

REVOLUTION SPREADS

(Special to Examiner.)

COPENHAGEN, November 9. — The Workmen and Soldiers' Council has blocked the Kiel Canal by throwing a number of warships lengthways across it, according to despatches received here to-day.

The Revolutionists are reported to dominate completely Hamburg, Cuxhaven and Lubeck.

DEMAND ABDICATION.

The Workmen's and Soldiers' Council at Munich has adopted a resolution demanding abdication of the kaiser and the deposition of the Wittelsbach dynasty, according to a despatch received from that city to-day.

Munich is the capital of Bavaria. The Wittelsbachs have been the ruling family of that state for more than eight hundred years.

MEMBERS OF COUNCIL GAVE CASE OF PIPES TO THE CITY CLERK

A Token of Their Appreciation to Mr. Armstrong on the Occasion of the 25th Anniversary of His Appointment.

A happy preliminary to last night's special meeting of the Council was the presentation of a handsome leather case of three briar pipes to City Clerk Armstrong as a memento of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his appointment as City Clerk, and particularly as their personal recognition of his assistance and advice during their various terms of office.

Ald. Jones made the presentation after Ald. Edgar had expressed the Council's appreciation of Mr. Armstrong and his faithful, helpful service.

"I was pleased to read in the papers to-night," Ald. Edgar said, "that this is the twenty-fifth anniversary of Mr. Armstrong as City Clerk of Peterborough. We feel that we should not allow this occasion to pass without expressing our very friendly feelings toward him. He has the goodwill of everybody who has ever come in contact with him, and those who have met him in municipal affairs all speak of Mr. Armstrong in the highest praise. We endorse and bear witness of these expressions. Any time we wanted information or advice from Mr. Armstrong it was given freely and willingly, and his advice has never been in doubt or incorrect. Peterborough holds an enviable position in so far as its City Clerk is concerned. He is known in municipal circles far and wide, and is regarded as one of the best city officials in Ontario. We wish him and his family every happiness and all possible good things, and we hope that he will be with us for the next twenty-five years."

Mr. Armstrong's Reply.

The City Clerk acknowledged the kind words of Ald. Edgar and the Council's act. "I know I do not deserve all that Ald. Edgar has said, but I appreciate the kindness that has actuated their expression. Nothing could make me feel more warmly toward this Council and those that have gone before it, for I always met with the greatest kindness from all of them. I have found in those twenty-five years and in the eleven or twelve years preceding that period, that while the Councils have been criticized, and while mistakes no donbt have been made, the town and city Councils of Peterborough, since 1882, have shown a spirit and a desire to do the best they could for the city and the ratepayers. It has been a pleasure to work for the city and with the Council."

Mayor Duncan stated that the Council's gift seemed too small to present to the City Clerk, but it represented the feelings of the Council. He endorsed all that Ald. Edgar had said, and added that in his ten or twelve years' experience he had never been given any refusal or an uncivil answer from Mr. Armstrong.

"As one of the oldest members, since 1905, I have always found Mr. Armstrong a gentleman, and when we say that we say everything," was Ald. McIntyre's eulogy. "As chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, I frequently consulted him, and he was always right as far as I could see. Anyone who takes his advice in the Council will not go far astray."

AMERICANS ADVANCING

Allies are Pressing Close Upon the Retreating Enemy—French Holding Sedan Region.

OFFICIAL DESPATCHES

(United Press Service.)
(By Webb Miller.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, Nov. 9.—The Americans resumed their advance east of the Meuse to-day both north and south of Damvillers, despite a heavy rain. They are pressing close upon the retreating enemy and are meeting strong machine-gun resistance from the German rear guards.

The Germans are reported to have begun a new retreat northeast of Verdun fleeing toward Briey (the centre of the great French iron basin, 26 miles northeast of Verdun and twelve miles northwest of Metz)

Between Wadelincourt (a mile south of Sedan) and the Woevre Forest. There was great artillery and machine-gun activity throughout the night.

The French are holding the Sedan region now.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Nov. 9. — (Official) — British forces have captured the fortress of Maubeuge. South of Maubeuge the British are pushing eastward and are well beyond the Avesnes-Maubeuge road.

British troops in Flanders have crossed the River Scheldt on a wide front north of Tournai and have established themselves on the east bank.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The French resumed their advance on the whole front this morning, it was announced by the War Office.

"During the night, there was artillery and machine-gun activity at several points on the front," the communique said.

Mr. T. F. Matthews Well Pleased With Result.

Mr. T. F. Matthews sent the following messages to the Matthews-Blackwell plants at Toronto, Hull and Montreal yesterday following the announcement that the local plant had won a 100 per cent. efficiency flag of the Victory Loan Campaign:

To the Plants at Toronto, Hull and Montreal:

At two o'clock yesterday afternoon the Honour Flag donated by the Victory Loan Committee was unfurled over this Plant, in the presence of all the employees, the chairman, and various members of the Victory Loan Committee. I am pleased to be able to say that over 80 per cent. of all employees on the Pay Roll have subscribed for bonds of various amounts, and on personal enquiry I know that those who have not subscribed have most excellent reasons. You can well understand how proud I am of the record of this Plant, having every employee a contributor to the Red Cross Fund in addition to the present effort in regard to Victory Bonds. It is a record not excelled by any Industry in this City; therefore, I hasten to send this report of its splendid achievement.

WAR SUMMARY

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Associated Press this morning says:

Germany's answer to the Allied terms for an armistice is not expected to reach Marshal Foch's headquarters until the middle of this (Saturday) afternoon at the very earliest. In the meantime, the Allied armies are grimly sticking to their task driving the foe from the soil of France. It is probable that the Germans now hold a strip of French soil not over six or seven miles in width from the east of Valenciennes to the south bank of the Moselle River. Further south the line runs along the frontier, but is [illegible] where more than a couple of miles west of Germany's domains. This fact and the obvious ability of the Allied armies to complete their triumph over the enemy, may bring about a quick decision by the military chiefs of Germany. Emperor William is at Spa, is is said, and it is considered possible that the armistice mission now at Marshal Foch's headquarters may receive instructions by wireless.

DECLARED A REPUBLIC.

Bavaria has been declared a republic and the revolution is seemingly rapidly spreading through the great industrial and maritime cities of Prussia, Essen, the site of great Krupp munition works, being the latest place reported to be disaffected. Virtually all the North Sea coast and part of the Baltic is now in the hands of the revolutionists. Not only has the German army been crushed in the maw of war, but the whole structure of the German Empire seems about to be engulfed. Conditions in Austria are apparently in a wildly chaotic condition. Little definite information as to conditions there has been received during the past couple of days.

Special to The Examiner:

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, suffrage worker, believes women should have seats at the peace table. As president of the National American Women Suffrage Association and International Woman Suffrage Alliance, she has sent a communication to all National Women's Organizations urging them to stand together to have women adequately represented on the Peace Commission.

Predicted the End of the War

A Notable Product of the World Conflict.

LONDON, November 9. — A notable product of the war is a prophet whose predictions have come true.

Rev. Walter Wynne, during the last four years, as the result of his studies of Biblical prophesy, not only predicted the exact date of the fall of Jerusalem in 1917, and the reverse of the German arms in July, 1918, but also announced early this year that on or before October 5th, or during the period from Oct. 5th to 15th, the Germans would ask for an armistice. The prediction came true to the day.

Rev. Mr. Wynne has not been throwing his prophecies broadcast. These are the only three prophecies made by him.

PETERBORO AHEAD OF ITS PROGRAMME IN VICTORY LOAN

In the number of applications for the Victory Loan, Peterborough leads the district of Eastern Ontario with 2,474. Leeds and Grenville is the nearest competition, with only 1,936 applications. The contrast indicates the popularity of the Loan here.

Six of the canvassers visited the Wm. Hamilton Co. this morning, where the plan of internal organization for the Loan was not adopted. It is expected that a good response will come from the employees.

Keeping Up With Programme.

The progress of the Loan in this county is slightly ahead of the schedule. The canvassers have secured $839,700, or 52.48 per cent. of the objective of $1,600,000; but the "specials" committee shows a total of $328,500, a considerable surplus beyond its objective of $250,000.

THE SERVICES IN ST. PAUL'S TO-MORROW.

St. Paul's Church will be open for both services to-morrow, as well as for Sunday School. The pastor will have a message of comfort in the morning, in view of the great sorrow through which we have all been passing, because of sickness and death in our midst. Believing that peace is in sight, and that an armistice will be signed before the evening service, his message in the evening will be of a thanksgiving character. The music will also be of a joyful nature.

Graphic Story of the Arrival of German Plenipotentiaries at the French Battlefront

Party Carried White Flags and Was Preceded by a Trumpeter Who Sounded the Recognized Call for Truce—The Envoys Were Blindfolded and Led to French Headquarters—Strategic Request Was Refused by Foch.

(Associated Press.)

PARIS, Nov. 9.— The story of the arrival of the German plenipotentiaries at the French lines is a thrilling one and will read, when told, like an interlude in a "Shakesperian drama."

Darkness had fallen when the German envoys arrived at the French lines. They were conveyed in automobiles, carrying white flags, and were preceded by a trumpeter sounding the recognized call for truce, which echoed along the battlements where fighting was for the moment suspended. The white flag party was halted by a number of French soldiers in charge of an officer on the road just outside the lines.

PARTY WAS BLINDFOLDED AND ESCORTED TO PLACE SELECTED FOR THE NIGHT

Having established their identity and showed their credentials signed by the German Chancellor, the eyes of the German party were then blindfolded. Thus they were led to the place where they spent the night. The corps of German road menders which accompanied the envoys to repair the shell torn roads, did not cross the lines.

Early in the morning the party was astir, and were escorted, still blindfolded, to the French Headquarters and into the presence of the man whose forces had brought them to the humiliating supplication for peace.

The party was composed of two Generals and Admiral of the fleet and two civilians. These were: General Winterfeld, General Von Gruennel, Admiral Von Salow, who wore the uniforms of their rank; Mathias Erzberge and Count Von Oberndorff were in plain civilian dress.

TERMS OF THE ARMISTICE WERE FORMALLY READ TO GERMAN ENVOYS

Marshal Foch and the German envoys entered into conference at 9 o'clock and the terms of the armistice were formally read. Although the plenipotentiaries were announced to have been invested with full power from the Chancellor, they maintained that this power did not permit them to act on such proposals as were made. They petitioned on philanthropic grounds that hostilities should cease until the nature of the terms be submitted to German Headquarters at Spa.

This strategic request met with refusal from Foch, who declared that there could be no such halt to the fighting. It is surmised that this preliminary was an astute attempt on the part of the Hun commanders to cloud the issue and to gain time if nothing else. No proposal of compromise or evasion is to be tolerated. The powers conferred upon Marshal Foch were strictly confined to the conclusion of an armistice and the amendments to its terms are closely limited.

GERMAN REPRESENTATIVES SENT WIRELESS MESSAGE TO IMPERIAL CHANCELLOR

With the Allied Generalissimo in the conference were both British and American representatives. Admiral Weymiss represented British. Having performed his duty in handing the armistice terms to the German envoys, Marshal Foch informed them that they must be accepted or rejected within the next 72 hours, that period expiring at 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

Understanding that parley was useless the German representatives sent a wireless message to the Imperial Chancellor and the German High Command. This message as taken from the wireless was as follows: "Friday morning at Allied General Headquarters, the plenipotentiaries received the conditions of an armistice as well as a formal demand that they be accepted or refused within seventy-two hours, expiring on Monday morning at eleven o'clock, French time."

THE GERMAN PROPOSAL WAS REJECTED BY MARSHAL FOCH

The German proposal for an immediate conclusion and provional suspension of hostilities was rejected by Marshal Foch. A German courier, bearing the text of the conditions of the armistice has been sent to Spa, no other means of communication being permittable. "Please acknowledge receipt and send back courier as soon as possible with your latest instructions. Sending of fresh delegates is not necessary for the moment."

Spa apparently is the Headquarters of the German High Command. The town is in Belgium, seventeen miles south-east of Liege, and near the border of Prussia. Spa is about one hundred miles north-east of La Pelle, near where the German emissaries entered the French lines.

Practically All Germany is Reported to be Seething With Revolt

Important Cities in All Parts of the Empire Are in the Hands of Revolutionists.

CABINET RESIGNS

LONDON, November 9. — Practically all of Germany is reported to be seething with revolt.

Despatches received here to-day indicate that important cities in all parts of the Empire, are in the hands of the Revolutionists.

Following the reports that the council of workmen and peasants in Munich had declared Bavaria a republic, it was announced that the revolutionists are believed to have sejzed Dresden ,the capital of Saxony.

A despatch from Stuttgart, the capital of Wurtemburg, said the cabinet of that state had resigned.

An unconfirmed report received here to-day said that the insurgents had seized Berlin, setting fire to the post office and the city hall.

Reports that the Kaiser would quit are still taken reservedly though the government feels certain that his tenure of office is about closed, regardless of how the armistice goes.

China Will Ask That Japan Evacuate This Territory After the War.

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—China will ask at the peace table that the Japanese evacuate Kiau Chau, authoritative disclosures here to-day indicated.

This territory, formerly indefinitely leased to Germany by China, was taken by Japan after a spectacular siege that began with her entry into the war. Unofficial statements from Tokio at the time of occupation were that Japan would withdraw her forces at the end of the war.

Later intimations of Japanese statesmen have been that Japan intends to hold Kiau Chau, as well as other German possessions in the Pacific and the East with the sanction of the Entente. Chinese officials see a confirmation of their intentions in the permanent enterprises and undertakings started by the island empire in Kiau Chau and in the surrounding province of Shantung.

FIRE DESTROYS LIVERY STABLE

Six Horses Were Burned to Death in Livery Stable on Chambers St. —Building Badly Damaged

CAUSE UNKNOWN

FACTS CONCERNING FIRE.

Fire started at 4.05 a.m., and was out two hours later.

Cause of fire unknown.

Six horses burned to death.

Building badly gutted.

Loss covered by insurance, amounting to $2,700.

Sharp at 4.05 this morning a fire alarm was run in at the Fire Hall, and in two or three minutes the firemen were at the scene of the fire on Chambers Street.

Mrs. Watson, who resides just north of Mr. D. G. Moloney's livery stable on Chambers Street, had been ill, and observed the glow of the flames on the window pane, which looks onto the livery stable. The flames travelled rapidly from the front of the building to the rear, where the horse stables are situated.

Four Lines of Hose.

The firemen promptly laid four lines of hose, in all 1,700 feet, one line from the four-way hydrant at the corner of Hunter and George, also the hydrant at Brock and George, and the two-way hydrant opposite J. R. Bell's grocery store. The flames, fanned by the early morning air, and fed by four tons of hay in the loft, soon filled the horse stable with smoke. Two horses belonging to Mr. Gerald Dunford and two horses belonging to Mr. Moloney were removed safely from the stable, but the six remaining horses were later found dead and lying in their stalls, suffocated by the smoke.

It is thought that all the horses would have been saved if more ventilation had been provided.

Cause Unknown.

The cause of the fire has not been ascertained as yet, but it is thought that sparks from the Quebec heater in the office had set fire to the walls of the office, which were constructed from thin sheeting. A wicket from the office to the stable proper allowed a draft into the office, which greatly facilitated the progress of the fire. The flames soon ate their way through the thin roof into the hay loft, and in a short time the south side of the roof was one mass of flames.

In an hour the fire was completely under control, and at six o'clock the fire was out.

The light harness, three light vehicles and four tons of hay were consumed by the flames. Over one hundred bushels of horse feed is a total loss, being damaged by water and smoke.

Twenty-seven hundred dollars insurance held by the H. P. Lindsay agency will at least partly cover the loss.

THE PASSING OF CROTHERS.

The announcement that Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labour, has handed in his resignation and that it has been accepted, will not, it is thought, cause much gloom in the Dominion. It seems to be the general concensus of opinion as voiced in the Canadian press, both Unionist and Opposition, that the late Minister of Labour failed to measure up the responsibilities of his important position. He never seemed to fit in and never succeeded in possessing the confidence of the labour interests. The resignation of W. F. O'Connor, High Cost of Living Commissioner, after a tilt with Hon. Mr. Crothers, did not improve the minister's position in the mind of the public, and there have been other incidents of the same kind that have helped to strengthen the opinion that the best interests of Canada would be served by the removal from office of Mr. Crothers.

His successor, Hon. Gideon Robertson, starts out in his new position under favourable auspices, inasmuch as the record of the man whom he succeeds has been such that almost any showing would be an improvement.

THE DANGER OF RELAXATION

Celebrating over peace prospects is a process of "letting off steam" that almost every one enjoys, and that does no harm as long as it does not bring with it the danger of people neglecting the vital necessity of subscribing to the Victory Loan. In the midst of our enthusiasm over the possibility that the end of the war is near at hand, the people of Canada must never lose sight of the fact that the whole prosperity of the Dominion hinges upon the successful raising of at least $500,000,000. There is no use cheering the peace news and the return of the soldiers from the front if we are going to allow the boys to come home to a country impoverished and demoralized for want of financial support. Canada does not want a period of post-war depression, but as sure as is the defeat of Germany is the fact that Canada cannot escape such a condition if the people of this country do not realize the all-important responsibility that rests upon them in connection with the Victory Loan. There is a danger of a relaxation of effort in the rejoicing over the news. This is not the time for relaxing; on the other hand the pace of the Victory Loan drive must be quickened. Every effort must be exerted to send Canada over the top in this national enterprise upon which so much depends. Mr. G. H. Wood, Provincial Chairman of the Victory Loan Campoign, sound the following warning:

To-day's peace celebrations, although premature, make us pause to consider what the effects of actual peace will be on the campaign. I am afraid that there may be a grave danger of many, because the end of the fighting appears to be in sight, feeling that such an amount as $500,000,000 would not now be required. This is, of course, a totally wrong conclusion, and the public must be warned not to harbour any such illusion for the following reasons:

(1) An armistice merely leads to a declaration of peace and may involve months of negotiation before peace treaties are actually signed.

(2) It will then take from one to two years to demobilize and bring our soldiers home.

(3) The Mother Country will require our foodstuffs for probably years to come, and Canada must furnish the funds if our products are to find that market.

(4) War expenditures will continue long after an armistice has been signed, and banks' advances must be repaid.

There is just as much need, therefore, to raise not less than the $500,000,000 with peace as without it.

DON'T THROW THEM AWAY.

A young man, who by reason of physical disability, has been exempt from military service, thought a good way of celebrating the reported end of the war yesterday was to destroy his exemption papers. "These won't be needed any more," was the way he expressed it and the documents would have been torn up if a friend had not pointed out the folly of such a course. There may be other young men who have been thinking along the same lines as this particular youth, and for their benefit it may be pointed out that it is highly desirable that exemption papers should be carefully kept even after the war is over. There are in every military district in Canada a number of defaulters, men who have not lived up to their obligations as regards military service. The end of hostilities will not mean immunity from punishment for these men. They will still be regarded as defaulters and will be liable to arest at any time. For that reason the men who have been honourably exempted should see that they retain the documents that show such to be the case, so that they will not be in any danger of being apprehended as defaulters.

GERMAN TOYS

Five thousand tons of German-made toys, bought by American importers when the two countries were at peace, but prevented from reaching their destination by the British navy, have now arrived in the United States. Their reception has not been appreciably warmer than would have been accorded a Zeppelin. One of the largest consignees has refused to accept the toys, but the others have announced hat they will pay the duty and sell them if possible. The prospect of being able to dispose of anything that bears the stamp "made in Germany" for some time to come is not bright. The various patriotic societies and newspapers that have discussed the question raised by the arrival of the toys decline to see any force in the argument of the importers that they were bought before the United States and Germany were at war, nor are they impressed with the contention that as the Germans were paid for the toys long ago, it will make no difference to the manufacturer whether they are accepted. The demand of the patriots and particularly of the patriotic women who have discussed the matter is that the toys shall be burned. There is blood upon them.

The disposition eventually made of them will throw an interesting sidelight upon the general prospects of German trade after the war. There are those who contend that as soon as peace is signed with Germany the German people become at once friends of the people now arrayed against them, and that German goods, if they are cheaper or better, will soon have the popularity that they had won before the war. There will be reason to believe that they are right if this shipload of toys, with every little wooden soldier, every flaxen-haired little Grechen bearing the brand "made in Germany" can be sold at this time in the United States. Horrible thoughts of the little Belgian children and their toys, of the little French boy who pointed his wooden gun at the German soldier and was immediately bayoneted, must for a long time to come be associated with German toys. The word "German" is abhorred by tens of millions of people, and will as long as they live, and irrespective of tariff laws, this powerful sentiment has doomed German trade after the war.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Stick it, Canada.

Lend as they fight.

For what better purpose could the people of Canada lend their money than to bring the boys back.

Two millions is not too high a mark for Peterborough's Victory Loan drive. We are well on the way and there is a week to go.

Admiral Wilson's premature announcement of the signing of the armistice is not in keeping with the "silent navy" idea. However, he is one of Uncle Sam's admirals.

Congratulations to the Matthews-Blackwell Company. They have handsomely won the honour flag. The plant down by the river has never been found wanting in supplying either men or money for war purposes.

Wear your Victory Bond button and display the flag in the window. Show that you are backing up the boys.

Once again. Every cent of the Victory Loan will be needed no matter when peace comes.

The Victory Loan will bring the boys home. That's reason enough to induce anyone to subscribe.

Wear a Victory Loan button and be ready to celebrate the coming of peace, conscious that you have done something to help the Empire along.

There is nothing uncertain about Victory Bonds. They are official.

STUDY YOUR FURNACE

There is nothing mysterious about the modern heating plant. It is simply a fire enclosed so that the heat can be conducted to different parts of the building as wanted. The heat can be conducted because both hot air and hot water will rise if given the opportunity. Neither can travel downwards unless pressure is used, so that the necessity of a continuous upward flow is fundamental.

How to get more heat from your coal than the chimney does is now more important than any other branch of household economy.

In the average Ontario home 25 per cent. of the coal used can be saved by proper damper control. Under present careless, unscientific firing methods, it is estimated that only 25 per cent. of the best value of the coal is utilized. Under proper conditions of installation and operation, 50 to 60, and even 75 per cent., may be converted into useful heat.

The flow of air through the fuel makes it burn. Try to visualize this flow of air, and you will easily learn how to operate the dampers properly.

The importance of personal attention cannot be too strongly impressed upon the householder. Study your furance. Do not leave your heat problem to the itinerant odd-job man. Remember, every time you save 60 pounds of coal you have saved enough to make another 3-inch shell to be used against the Hun.

If you are not getting the proper heat, do not blame the coal, the furnace nor the fireman until you have actually determined who is at fault. It is natural to assume that most heaters are installed large enough for their work, provided they are properly fired. With the average heater the trouble is usually local.

The first essential is cleanliness. To get the most heat from the least amount of coal, the heater must be clean. One one-hundredth inch of soot has the same power to resist heat as 10 inches of iron.

The presence of dirt or ashes impedes the draft and interferes with the radiation of heat from the radiating surfaces of the furnace. These are in warm air furances the fire-pot and drum; in hot water boilers the sections through which the water circulates in order to take up the heat from the fire.

Above the feeder door (or to the side) are clean-out doors in the flues of the furnace or boiler. Keep these flues clean and remove the soot and fine ashes that lodge on the heating surface frequently. When doing this, have the draft door and coal door closed, and the check damper at the back also closed and the smoke pipe damper open.

Examine chimney, furnace and pipes; see that they are in good repair and clean; that fire, ashpit and clean-out doors are tight when closed; that smoke-pipe fits tight to the furnace, and is not inserted too far into the chimney. Stop air-leaks into the furance or fire-box. Trivial cracks may be cemented.

All heat pipes in the cellar should be thoroughly and completely wrapped with asbestos or other non-conducting material to prevent loss of heat. Your hot water or steam boiler should have a good covering of asbestos plaster or mineral wool.

There is not much use in trying to heat a building when, through ill-fitting windows or doors, a great part of the heat escapes or an undue proportion of cold enters. Storm doors and windows, weather strips and such preventative devices will lessen the amount of coal consumed. The place most likely to be neglected in this repect is the basement. A cold basement means a cold house, and seriously interferes with the heating apparatus. Cellar windows should be thoroughly gone over, and all unnecessary openings stopped.

COLONEL MEYERS' MESSAGE IS QUITE OUT OF DATE

(By United Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 9.—(By Mail.)An American intelligence officer near Fereen-Tardenois in the Vesle fighting bagged two traitors—and in a couple of weeks will have their family.

In a bit of woodland northward of Fere he captured a German messenger pigeon that had deserted, mated with a traitor French pigeon and was busily engaged in rearing a family. The German pigeon still had the message it had started out with. Rolled up in a tiny metal tube on the bird's leg was a message signed "Colonel Meyers." It was dated "9:30 a.m. July 19," and the message was merely "The situation is unchanged in the past hour."

On July 19, the Germans were in possession of the wood where the pigeon was discovered. At the time the American officer found the deserters they had built a nest and were 3 eggs on the way toward acquiring a family. Both the traitors and their family will get the punishment usually meted out to traitors.

"After removing the message," said their captor, "I let the pair loose to finish rearing the family. As soon as the family is old enough, we're going to have some executions—and a pigeon potpie."

WAR ORDERS CANCELLED.

Significant Action of British Government by Cable.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—A number of British war contracts of importance and value placed with Chicago manufacturers were cancelled by cable today. The orders, which were for military supplies, had been placed here originally by British corporations, who, in turn, furnished the material to their Government. The cancellations, while not of wholesale character, were regarded as significant as a beginning.

Bankers are advising manufacturers to accept cancellations only on terms which will safeguard them from loss and prevent general financial disturbance.

BROCK STREET SKATING RINK FOR SALE BY TENDER

LOOK AHEAD!

Imagine, if you can, what your situation will be in five, ten fifteen years, and then study the possibilities for your country.

As to your own future condition there may be some doubt, especially if you have not yet joined the ranks of the country's sagacious and patriotic army of Victory Bond holders — if you have not yet absorbed the gospel of wise investment. But as to Canada—can there be any doubt?

Do you know what will happen in this country when peace returns? Everyone will leap back into his work and set the wheels of genuine progress spinning more rapidly than ever before.

Industry will hum; farms will thrive; mines will boom; labour will strive; commerce will wax to greater proportions than ever before.

A few years from now 9,000,000 human beings will be working harder than ever before to earn the interest on Victory Bonds.

The bond you buy now has great possibilities before it.

The essence of business acumen is to buy something that will be worth more to you in the future—and worth more to the rest of the world so you can take your profit.

Opportunity is here. Buy Victory Bonds. Keep them for the great and cumulative gains of the future.

PETERBORO SIXTY YEARS AGO

The following extracts are from the reports of the special Commissioners to enquire into the Indian affairs of Canada, having reference to the condition of the remnants of tribes still remaining in the district, (1857), and will be found interesting:

The Mississaguas of Rice, Mud and Scugog Lakes.

These bands, members of the same tribe, surrendered the greater part of their possessions in 1818 for an annuity of $2960 (740 pounds.) The tract so ceded contains 1,951,000 acres situated in the Newcastle district.

The Rice Lake Indians occupy about 1550 acres of land, of which 1120 were granted in 1834 to trustees for "the benefit of the Indian tribes in the province, and with a view to their conversion and civilization."

They have subsequently purchased 430 acres in addition ,out of their own funds; 200 acres in Otonabee are also held in trust for the joint benefit of the Rice and the Mud Lake Indians.

Rice Lake.

These tribes are all Christianized; the Rice and the Scugog Indians adopting the Methodist form of belief, while the Mud Lake tribe are under the superintendence of the New England Company. Their present minister is a Baptist.

The Rice Lake Indians number 145, being a small increase within the last 15 years. Their village contains 26 houses, all but one of which are built of logs, 13 barns, of which 11 are frame structures, a frame church, a school house, a council house and a schoolmaster's house.

The school is at present kept by a white woman and the usual attendance is reported latterly to have reached 30. During the past winter it averaged about half that number. The total number of children of an age to attend school is given at 40.

Mud Lake Band.

These Indians are so called from their settlement on Mud or Chemong Lake, where they have been located for upwards of 25 years.

They occupy a tract of 1600 acres in the Township of Smith, which was given for them in trust to the New England Company in 1837. Their present clergyman, the Rev. Mr. Gilmour, has allotted to each family a parcel of ground varying from one to four acres. They number 96 individuals, holding 70 1-2 acres of land, all of which are cleared. Their public property consists of a log church, and a small quantity of farming implements and stock. They possess 17 houses and 6 sheds or barns, all of which are made of logs. The produce raised last year was:

Spring wheat	35 bush.
Indian corn	15 bush.
Potatoes	195 bush.
Hay	10½ tons

Their stock combrises 4 horses, and 17 head of cattle. The average attendance at the school is said to be about 20.

As doubts have been started respecting the Indian claims to the islands in Rice Lake, it may be well to remark that at the time of the surrender of the country from the head of the Bay of Quinte to the River Etobicoke, in 1788, Rice Lake was expressly reserved, and does not seem to have been subsequently ceded. It is true that there were such informalities in the execution of the treaty, that Lt.-Governor Simcoe declared it not to be binding except so far as the good faith of the Indians recognized it. They have carried out their share of the bargain, and we conceive that their claim to the islands in Rice Lake should consequently be admitted.

VALUE OF LANDS.

The assessed value of lands in the county will be seen by a table prepared by a select committee of the Counties Council at its last session. A very erroneous idea, however, of the actual value of the land in the counties is afforded by this table. From letters received in answer to questions addressed to well informed persons in the different townships, this is ascertained to be the fact. In Fenelon for instance, the average value of the land by the assessment rolls is $7.76; while the real value is reported at from $8 to $20 per acre! In Asphodel the assessment fixes the value at $5.60; while it is worth from $12 to $40. Emily assessment is $6.66; while the actual value is from $20 to $50; and so on we may go through the counties. A safe approximate would be arrived at by trebling the assessed value.

PORT HOPE AND PETERBORO RAILWAY.

The returns of freight over the road since it was opened were as follows: From 10th October, 1857, to March 31st, 1858:

881 tons merchandize	$3070
2023 tons heavy freight	2810
5248 barrels flour	1199
13,686 bush. wheat	670
450,000 feet lumber	611
24 cords firewood	24
Unclassified	859
	$9243
Passengers, 4884	5834
Total	$14,627

The gross receipts for April and May, 1858, were $10,409.60.

TIRED AND DISCOURAGED

So when spring came I was all run down doing all my work and looking after the children. I felt all tired out, and looked on the gloomy side all the time. I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and the results were most satisfactory. I feel fine now, and am recommending the Nerve Food to others."

RELEASE NOVEMBER 9.
FOR OLDER SOLDIERS

(By United Press.)

Camp Lee, Va., Nov. 9.—As the draft of about 20,000 men arriving here in November consists largely of men from 31 to 37 years of age, who have not be accustomed to active physical exercise, intensive training will be modified for their benefit. It is realized tha they will be less able to stand the strain of hard training than the men of fewer years.

Where the Scout Shines

(By Captain H. B. C. Pollard.)

A strange bit of front is always more hazardous than one to which one has become accustomed, for the "safe ways" are all to learn. When a local push has driven back the Germans and attained its set objective, the new country presents fresh dangers for a day or two, until the troops have learnt their way about. Ordinarily, the communication trenches that the Germans themselves have dug, serve as covered ways. But these are often unsuitable, having been designed so as to be under cover from the front, rather than from the land behind them. In the same way, the parapets of the captured trenches have to be piled upon their quondam parados, and the whole new line undergoes a radical reversion of front.

The two days succeeding the occupation of a new bit of grounds are usually fairly hazardous. For one thing the artillery of both sides makes trouble for its enemy in entry, rendering the nightly digging parties no pleasant task for either side. Then both sides are still ignorant of the exact line held by the adversaries, and of the strength with which it is held and of the precise location of the reserve and support lines.

Instead of the well organized front trenches, securely faced with wire entanglements, the front lines of the opposing sides are simply fringes of patrols squatting in shell holes or behind hedges, taking what advantage they can of the natural cover of the battlefield.

Some of these patrols are simply fixed points, feelers thrown out to guard against the chance of a sudden enemy surprise or counter-attack. The others are moving or scouting patrols, whose duties are not so much to fight as to reconnoitre and bring back news of where the enemies new lines is established. To do this our scouts must penetrate the screen of enemy patrols, which is a dangerous and difficult task.

It is for jobs of this nature that the system of scout training insists so much upon regular practice at night work. The art of crawling unseen, seeing and hearing oneself is only to be learnt by assiduous practice. Also the work needs courage, resource and a perfectly trained body. Our practised scouts excel at the work and can pass not only through German patrol screens, but often penetrate the enemy lines as well. There, close pressed against the ground, they see the German digging parties and estimate their strength, they see the machine gun emplacements being prepared and they can judge roughly the numbers of men moving in the sector amid the dark night. This information brought back across No Man's Land and retailed to the battalion Intelligence Officer, is checked off against the map. In the morning the guns may be turned on to demolish new machine gun emplacements, or the latter can be left till the next thrust when tanks will make straight for the marked points and crush them out of existence. In the meantime, the companies in the line know of their existence and take good care to avoid any undue exposure.

Sometimes the Boche will lie quiet, hardly firing a shot and hoping to tempt the British into an insufficiently supported attack. An instance of this occurred at Meteren, where the trenches round the town were thick with infantry, and almost thicker with machine gunners. For a week or more they had been quiet as mice, even resisting the temptation to blaze off at visible groups of our men. But one of our scouts had crept in the dark night round their girdle of defences, had counted the guns and estimated the number of the men. When we attacked we did so in full force, preceded by a helpful artillery barrage. Had we not been warned, the assault might have had another tale to tell.

So the daily work goes on, thrusts or nibbles at the German line, followed by pauses for accurate reconnaissance, periods that are quiet for the bulk of the troops, but are violently exciting for the scouts.

Martin Crivea Got Ten Years

Ten years in Portsmouth penitentiary was the sentence meted out in police court by Magistrate Farrell, of Kingston, to Martin Crivea, the Sulphide man who some time ago shot at and narrowly missed hitting Capt. Jas. Graham, head of the military police in this district. The prisoner was removed to the big institution in Portsmouth, and this closes for a time at least, a most sensational career.

Crivea does not look the part of the desperado, and in the court he failed to carry out the impression of the character that he has won for himself by his actions. Since the M.S.A. came into operation he has constantly said that he would not serve under the colours, and away back in the wilds north of Sulphide he took possession of a hut, and barricaded it with planks, boards and other means, making it into a miniature fort, behind which, heavily armed and desperate, he boasted that he would not be taken by the military people. He was apprehended twice and escaped twice from Fort Henry.

Crivea's Record.

When Capt. James Graham came to Crivea's case on his diary he looked up his record and came to the conclusion that it was about time to cut short the career of the desperado who was the terror of the north country, and he started out with a little band of trusted men.

It did not take the little party long to locate the miniature fortress, and to surround it. Crivea then, when he saw that he was surrounded, made a dash for liberty, and it was then that he emptied the contents of his revolver at the head of Capt. Graham. Fortunately his aim was bad, but the bullets passed close to the head of the officer. Crivea was soon caught and arrested, and he was brought to the city and lodged in Fort Henry. His case was under the charge of the military authorities for some time, and he was medically examined, it being decided that if he was fit for overseas he would be sent over under escort. The medical examination proved that he was not in an overseas category, and he was turned over to the civil authorities.

Many Cases of Hardship Throughout the City as Result of Influenza Epidemic

Many a Home Has Been Darkened by the Shadow of Death—The "Little Nurse" Who Died.

OUT OF FUEL

There were many cases of hardship in Peterborough as a result of the influenza epidemic which swept over the city. To many families it was a big strain on the family exchequer and much suffering resulted in various homes throughout the city. Many a home was darkened by the shadow of death and more than one wage earner was removed from his home, leaving behind a wife and several children to struggle alone in the world. In other cases the situation was reversed and the mother was taken away at a time when her tender care was most needed by the growing family.

Whole Family Sick.

Take for instance the case of a little home on Elm street. Mother sick, three children in bed, father hardly able to get up, but must, as the fire must be kept up and hot drinks be got for the family or lose them. His job hangs on the generosity of his employer and naturally his pay stopped with the day he went off. Bills mother had striven to keep down to father's $15 per week began to race up. Doctors must be paid and the house kept fairly warm even if wood is $14 a cord. Five days pass and still the doctor holds no hope. How much longer it will keep up the father does not know and has got into a semi-stupor where he has got beyond hope and caring.

Little Nurse Died.

Take another case. Every one ill. This is in the south end. The father a day labourer, took the Flu at work brought it home. Presently all the family, including the two boarders, who helped out in making the father's meagre wages meet the cost of living, also took it, and the nursing was left in the hands of one little girl, who was not actually as ill as the rest. Some days passed and the mother felt better. Not so the little nurse pro tem. She had developed pneumonia from getting in and out of bed, and in two days a little coffin told the tale of the debt she had paid. "She practically killed herself," the physician said.

Out of Fuel.

Right in the middle of the city one doctor found a case where two old people, who lived alone, both huddled under meagre blankets and tried to keep warm in a house which had neither fuel or nourishment in it since two days before he was called. Had the kindly neighbours known, help would have been instantly sent in, but there was no one to tell about them, and only a casual visitor found out the circumstances and told the doctor. Relief came, but there was suffering undreamed of beforehand and still to be met on recovery.

Temperature of 104.

Such cases were not confined to the city. The Relief Officer found one where four were ill with Flu, amongst them the father. When Mr. Miller's attention was drawn to them the father was chopping wood in the shed with a temperature of 104. But for the high cost of help, someone's services might have been secured.

Hopeless Homes.

These are only a few cases, but they may reveal to the fortunate ones some of the want which is being felt. Scores of homes where things had just began to look up and the bills got caught up with, are now hopelessly tangled. If those who escaped would subscribe 1 per cent. of what they would not take and have the Flu, many lives could be made brighter when the sufferers who don't die return.

No Calls From Able Bodied.

The Relief Officer said that in three years not one call had come to him from an able bodied man. Sick calls are all he receives now and of them there are many. From one end of the town to the other during the epidemic he has hurried, and is still hurrying, as with the death of the "Flu" epidemic, want certainly did not cease.

Great Silent Navy Has Had a Hand in All Phases of War

Admiral Sir William Grant Gives a Peep Into Tremendous Deeds of British Maritime War Machine.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—Work of Great Britain's "great silent navy" in the far east was described here by Admiral Sir William Grant, K.C., British naval commander-in-chief in North America.

Speaking at the opening of the British naval exhibit, Sir William said:

"The navy was at work day in and day out, breaking German attempts to raise native populations in India and elsewhere in preventing the formation of raider and submarine bases, and in the general protective measures, against mine-laying and raiders, of the vast overseas traffic which included the transport of great numbers of troops from Australia and New Zealand and more than 100,000 Chinese coolies to France and millions of tons of rice, sugar, oil, wheat, rubber, tin, et cetera.

MESOPOTAMIAN CAMPAIGN

"The campaign in Mesoptamia was absolutely dependent on the navy for transport of troops and all supplies overseas. Rivers had to be dredged, wharves and piers built, and railways laid. Japan, China, Hong Kong, Siam, Straits Settlements and India were ransacked for tugs and small craft; Burma, Sumatra and Borneo for hundreds of thousands of tons of timber and India for railway material and coal.

"The same countries sent large supplies to the Saloniki armies and still large of timber, petrol and what not to the armies in Egypt and Palestine.

AND EAST AFRICA, TOO

"In German East Africa the same story held good."

Speaking of the work of the British and American navies in transporting the American army a task which he described as "one of the most remarkable feats of organization and endurance known in the world's history"—Sir William said that while transports and cargo ships have been "exposed to every devilish device the enemy could invent," and had suffered great losses, "we must not forget that the price is being paid by the women and children of Great Britain who are living on the barest allowance of food in order to free the necessary ships."

Talk No. 4

Why Rates Go Up!

ONE-thousand-and-seven public utility enterprises in Canada and the United States, up to July 31st, 1918, have been granted by regulatory commissions, authority to increase their rates. Among these have been 331 gas plants, 280 electric light and power plants, 220 city and interurban electric roads, 36 water plants, 79 telephone systems, 61 hot water and steam plants.

Just to give an instance or two from our own experience:—

To run a pair of long-distance wires (one circuit) on our poles from Montreal to Ottawa has just cost us $20,124. A similar circuit on the same poles in 1913 cost $12,870.

A circuit just completed from Toronto to Hamilton cost $7,396. A similar circuit in 1913 cost $4,730.

A mile of underground cable put down in Toronto has just cost $8,976. The same work and material in 1913 cost $6,072.

A mile of 4-duct conduit in Toronto has cost $12,672. In 1913 the cost was $8,448.

Such increases in cost affecting all phases of our work, in spite of rigid economies, make present revenues inadequate to enable us to meet our obligations to employees, shareholders and patrons.

SAVES WOMEN FROM TORTURE

Put a few drops on a touchy corn, then lift corn out with fingers

Your high heels have put corns on your toes and calluses on the bottom of your feet, but why care now?

For a few cents you can get a quarter ounce of the magic drug freezone recently discovered by a Cincinnati genius.

Apply a few drops upon a tender, aching corn and instantly, yes immediately, all soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn so loose that you lift it out, root and all, with the fingers.

Just think! Not one bit of pain before applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also hardened calluses on bottom of feet just seem to shrivel up and fall off without hurting a particle. It is almost magical. It is a compound made from ether says a well known druggist here.

Lady Duff Gordon was speaking about the new skirts. "They're shorter and skimpier than they were," she remarked, and added: "The children of Israel worshipped the golden calf, and now, in the twentieth century, the practice has become universal."

MR. E. ELLIOTT DISCUSSES COUNTY PROVINCIAL ROADS

What the Operation of the Scheme Would Mean to Peterboro County—"Why Should the Farmers be Penalized?" Asks Mr. Elliott.

MR. E. ELLIOT—C

To the Editor,

Sir:—

County Provincial Roads only obtain where County Provincial Roads have been adopted, and the systems are an equal burden to the total farmers of a County to construct and maintain about one-tenth of the roads of a County.

In this County to attempt more than 140 miles or even 200 miles does not exceed one-tenth of the roads. Where would such County Provincial Road be designated in the County of Peterboro? Or would a continuance north from the city away through the thinly populated points be designated, thereby adding to the mileage and relieve the Government of that much road now under the Colonization Road System.

Mr. Thompson points out the fact that Hastings County has adopted the road from Belleville to Monooth, a distance of 100 miles and that the minister assures him that he can get as much for the County of Peterboro, at the same time he leads you to believe that the County Council alone designates the systems, quite a contrary argument.

MUST BE APPROVED

The Act says the appointment of the Superintendent and the designation of the roads shall be subject to the approval of the Government. Where would Mr. Thompson then approve of 100 miles in the County of Peterboro for County Provincial Roads?

Pointing again to the Minister's "promise" to go as good for him as for Hastings that is as good in mileage, I presume it would be a road pointing to the same object as Hastings road, namely: a relieving of the Government of part of its Colonization Road responsibility and shoulder a percentage of the same on to the farmers of the whole County. Referring in his letter to the fact that the County Provincial Road runs north in Hastings County to Monooth, then the "hand writing on the wall" is plain that the County Provincial Road that the Minister will approve of for Mr. Thompson in the County of Peterboro, equal to what Hastings got would start 10 miles south-west of the city on the Port Hope road and run through the township of Monaghan, City, Smith, Apsley, Burleigh and Anstruther, out through Chandos to the extreme north-east corner of the County and from the Hastings Road at Monooth, which means a distance of 70 miles and that means 46 miles of what is now the Colonization district and maintained by the Government.

The settlers would not be benefitted only to the extent of paying the County's per centage of such roads, whereas at present the Government is under obligation to maintain such roads free to the settler.

THE EXPENDITURE

Any other County Provincial Road, a part of the suggested County Road System (according to the map supplied) would require the farmers from all of the County to raise 40 per cent. of such expenditure on one-twentieth of the roads of the County.

Mr. Thompson claims that there is no chance of the County getting the auto licenses without prejudice. Why? There has been sold within the arbitrary boundaries of the County this year in the neighbourhood of 16,00 licenses respecting in the neighborhood of $20,000 receipts, then why should the farmers be penalized to to 80, 60, or 40 per cent of systems to get back money raised as the result of autos wearing roads. It is an indisputable fact that the main roads are worn badly by autos, and that 95 per cent. of the City traffic done in the country is done on the main roads and that not more than 20 per cent. of the farmer's traffic is done on the suggested main roads for County Road designation.

The county pays in 1918 $52,148.25 for war purposes, $9,257.00 of that Provincial War Tax goes to the Province, also any ratepayer whose income exceeds a certain sum is subject to a Dominion War Tax, yet we hear no complaints from the facts that the ratepayers of the County are loyal and anxious to do their bit to bring to a close the war. But is the government going to hold up the farmers for all time and piece out the auto license money in a way that grinds all the farmers of the County to keep up 10 per cent. of the roads, and the Government have nothing to pay; for if the County did engage in enough road building and maintenance to earn back $20,000 it would be more than the County would stand for. Mr. Thompson says in his letter if more money is required then go to the Government, but now is time to get terms on an equal basis, any terms yet submitted sticks the farmers. He also refers to assistance in bridge building, but such assistance would not apply to bridges on County Roads. Since 1905 the County has expended $66,000 on steel and concrete bridges and only four or five of them are on the suggested County Roads, however, they are all there now and of a permanent character.

He claims this system is bigger than any political party, at the same time the politicians appear anxious and full of "promises." Is it not time that the farmer looked upon these "promises" from his own standpoint?

Mr. Thompson claims that Ontario possessed greater natural resources than the State of New York. Then as all are supporters of good roads, not "opponents" as he styles those that will not agree to have the farmer unduly burdened, we ask th eGovernment to establish through roads in this province, and build and maintain the same out of those great national resources through the provincial treasury.

Five million dollars has been expended in New Ontario to open up roads together with other additional grants, then if Old Ontario can expend over five million dollars to develop New Ontario, that is chiefly noted for its pulp wood, why can she not expend ten million dollars on the roads in Old Ontario that has "greater natural resources than New York," and cease doling out the people's direct Auto monies on a basis very discriminating against the farmer who is engaged in the most important Canadian industry.

Where is L. S. Squire, Esq., the so called "Municipal Advisor?" Is he still in the Road Department, or rather is he not in the Fisheries Department now?

ADVICE NOT NEEDED

His advice is not needed now, since that 36 out of the 37 Counties of the province are captured. The roads can look after themselves except in Peterborough county that have had forsight enough to ask for proper terms, be it reported was to have taken part in a public meeting in Havelock to so inspire the ratepayers in order to frighten the County Council into carrying the scheme. Other meetings have been held for the same purpose, but the County Council of the County of Peterborough use their own judgment. As stated before Mr. Thompson can continue his campaign and wind up with a verdict from the people, the only way such legislation should follow.

The opponents to County and County Provincial road system are real agitators of good roads, and it is incumbent upon the Ontario Government to meet such agitation through roads out of the Provincial treasury, or in other words from the heritage God gave us. Pay back the auto fees, less cost of colection, etc., to be expended on the main roads of the county, then the county would be justified in adopting a county road system with from $15,000 to $20,000 auto fees to start with, together with 40 p.c. from the Government for construction and 20 p.c. for maintenance, also commuting all statute labour on such main roads and expend the money, together with other monies under the system on those roads.

Yours respectfully,
ED. M. ELLIOTT.

Closing of Public Schools Will Not Seriously Hamper Work of Coming Term

Mr. A. Mowat, School Inspector for Peterboro, is of the Opinion That the Average Pupils Can Catch Up With Their Studies—Teachers Will Have to Work Harder.

In the opinion of Mr. A. Mowat, Inspector of Public Schools, the enforced closing of the public and private schools for the past four weeks will not seriously hamper the work of the coming term.

"The bright pupils and the average pupils can catch up in their studies, but it is the pupil below the average that it will affect. There is no reason why, with good, honest work and co-operation that the 2,700 pupils under my jurisdiction should not make good," opined Mr. Mowat.

Many pupils of the local schools have been heard to ruefully remark that their Christmas and mid-summer vacations would be somewhat lessened in order to make the school term the length as heretofor. But the Inspector states that only Dr. Cody, the Provincial Minister of Education, can make a ruling on this point. No local individual or body has the authority to extend the school term.

Must Work Harder.

And Mr. Mowat did not forget to add that the teachers must work harder in order that their pupils would be up to the standard when examination time came.

Dr. Cody will exercise complete discretion in the matter of Entrance examinations. If he sees fit he may lessen the severity of the examinations in view of the shortened school term.

THE EMBASSY SECRETARY IS BACK FROM RUSSIA

Norman Armour Tells of the Horrors of the Bolshevist Regime in Petrograd—The Population Starving.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, Nov. 8.—A British liner arrived here from England with 225 passengers, making the trip within six days, which was a record for wartime. The ship in making fast to the pier this morning bumped the pierhead and tore away some of the superstructure with her sharp stem. There was delay in getting the baggage from the hold because the longshoremen insisted on a full hour for luncheon at noon.

In the first cabin was a party of American officials from Russia, among them Norman Armour, Secretary of the United States Embassy; William C. Huntington, the Commercial Attache, and Felix Willoughby Smith, former United States Consul at Tiflis. They are returning to Washington under orders of the State Department.

Speaking of conditions in Russia under the Bolshevist regime, Mr. Armour said the outside world had no conception of the terrible things that are occurring daily in Russia. "The conditions under the greatest tyrants in the time of the Czar," he said, "were never half so bad as they are today under the Bolsheviki. We were ordered out of Petrograd on July 25 with the other foreign diplomats and consular officers, and were sent to Vologda. We were often ordered to leave that place, but stayed on because there were ten employees of the National City Bank and a lot of money and valuables that needed protection. The Bolsheviki attacked the British Embassy and killed the Naval Attache because he would not obey orders, and frequent attacks were made on our party of Americans but we stood them off.

"Our hope was that help would come to us from Archangel. Toward the end of August, Bolsheviki covered our building with machine guns, and when night came, swooped down on us, carried our effects into the streets and took us to the railroad station, where a special stain was waiting to carry the party to the frontier. A wide detour was made to avoid entering Petrograd."

Mr. Armour said he had a Norwegian passport, and got back to Petrograd, disguised as a dispatch bearer for the Norwegian Government.

"I found the principle building closed," he said, "and the entire city seemed deserted. The Bolsheviki guards were out in force, and their attitude toward the public was more autocratic than anything ever perpetrated in the name of the Czar. Words are inadequate to describe what I saw in Russia during this reign of terror, misery, want and wholesale murder. The people are starving and can get no hearing much less redress, from the blood-crazed Bolsheviki."

As an illustration of food conditions in Petrograd, Mr. Armour told of seeing an emaciated cab horse die in the shafts, and of hungry men and women cutting up, and carrying away the carcass.

Mr. Armour refused to discuss movements of the allied forces in Russia or Siberia.

Pte. Freddie Graham is Getting Better

Peterboro Hockey Player is Now in Hospital in England.

Mrs. Robert Graham, Lakefield, has received the following letter concerning her son, Pte. Freddie Graham, who is well known in Peterboro. Pte. Graham is getting along fine and his wound is healing nicely. The letter which is from the platoon sergeant, follows:

"Somewhere In France",
Saturday, 12, 1918

770214 Sgt. Hill, G. W.,
Mrs. Robt. Graham,
Lakefield, Ont.

Dear Mrs. Graham,—Just a line in receipt of your recent parcel of Aug. 20th to Freddie Graham. No doubt you have had notification of him being wounded and now in a hospital in England. His was a machine gun bullet through his right shoulder and just to-day I have received a letter from one of his pals in the same hospital saying Freddie as usual was quite happy and was progressing favourably. We miss him very much in the platoon as both your boys are well liked both in my platoon and they are very popular throughout the company.

Freddie is out of the fighting and will be for some time and Iam sure that will be quite a consolation to you. Now Mrs. Graham as regards that parcel of Freddie's, I might just say that all casualty parcels are divided amongst the boy chums, and all the boys are very grateful for these parcels, but they regret very much that their pal (Freddie) was not here to enjoy them too. I am Freddie's platoon sergeant and I sincerely hope that he shall not have to return to France, I remain,

Yours truly,
GEORGE HILL,
Platoon Sgt., P.P.C.L.I.,

Letter From a Peterboro Soldier

Pte. Arthur Searle is at Present in the Hospital.

Mrs. J. H. Bettes, Hunter street, has received a letter from her adopted son, Pte. Arthur Searle, who is at present in hospital at Sheffield, England with a machine gun bullet in his left arm. He mentions meeting a Peterborough girl who is a nurse in the same hospital. He is somewhat skeptical about an early peace and seems to think that it will run into another winter's campaign

October 8, 1918.

My Dear Mother,—I received your letter not long ago when I was in France, and was very glad to hear from you. I am now in hospital wounded. I received a bullet in my left arm just above the elbow and have been in bed for a week or more.

I think myself I have had quite enough of it, and I hope that I get to Canada this winter, but I don't think there is any hope. I think I told you that I had a brother in the American army who has been wounded. I met a Peterborough lady in the same hospital as I am in. She is one of the sisters of the hospital. She gave me a bundel of papers to-day and I am quite all right.

With much love, from your son, Arthur.

Yours,
Pte. A. Searle, Canadians,

Canvasser Who Took Liberties Was Fined $20

J. C. Regan Was Found Guilty of Kissing Married Woman by Force.

HAMILTON, Nov. 9.—Calling upon Mrs. Ida Caraben at her flat on Ottawa Street to sell some articles John C. Regan remained to kiss. The osculation cost the amatory canvasser $20 in police court—and he got only a little peck at Mrs. Caraben's neck.

"I was just showing him out," testified Mrs. Caraben, "when he grabbed me, held me fast and asked me for a kiss. I put my hand over my mouth, so he kissed me on the neck. Then he must have felt sorry, for he went down on his knees and kissed my hand, asking for forgiveness. I'm an insurance agent. He offered to take a $2,000 insurance policy from me if I'd say nothing about it. "I told him a married man had no right to do such things."

"She asked me to call and get a customer. I did so, and then she hailed me on the street later and told me that if I'd call around she'd give me the names of other people who would buy from me. When I called at her house on Saturday night she made me wait in the hall until she pulled down the blinds," said Regan.

"Why did she do that?" queried his counsel.

"She said that she had to be careful on account of the neighbours."

"Did you kiss her?"

"No."

"Did you attempt to kiss her?"

"No."

"This is a case that needs corroborative evidence," remarked Regan's counsel.

"No; I'm going to exercise my judgment as to who is telling the truth, and I find in favour of the woman. Mr. Regan must pay a fine of $20," ruled the magistrate. "I only hope that any woman who is approached in that way will come here and prosecute. Married women, especially soldiers' wives, are exposed to a great deal of temptation these days."

Sugar is the best of the "quick energy" foods to stimulate blood and brain of soldiers in the grim campaign. They must get it. Manufacturers and all large users have been strictly limited by the Food Board in the use of sugar, and they are now using substitutes in large quantities in a splendid effort to conserve, yet serve the public as well as before. Private homes should follow their example and use substitutes, especially corn syrup and glucose.

Why Not Insure The Payment of Your Premium?

Suppose you are thirty-five years old, and carrying $10,000 of Life Insurance costing you, say $300.00 per year, would you not like, (in case of serious accident or illness destroying your earning power) to have the payment of this premium paid for you as long as you live?

Then Read The Following:

The Sun Life of Canada will give you a further insurance of $5,000.00 if you are still insurable, and if you become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the Company will not only relieve you of all future premiums on THIS policy during such disability, but they will guarantee to hand you a $500.00 cheque every year, which you see will pay the premiums on your $10,000.00 and in addition will give you a handsome CASH XMAS BOX each year and, nevertheless, will pay the face of your policy at maturity or death.

Many people hesitate to take out Life Insurance, lest some catastrophy should force them to give it up. Well, that bugbear is removed by the Sun Life of Canada.

UNCLE SAM FILMING MOVIES FOR FARMERS

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Again the movies have been called upon to help win the war.

This time, they are to be used to stimulate food production. The department of agriculture has announced that 1,000 feet of film a week, designed to increase the size of crops, will be ground out at the big motion-picture laboratory connected with the department.

There is to be a wide latitude in the subjects chosen, some of which should be of interest to farmers in every section of the country.

Farmers will be shown how to fight forest fire, how to control hog cholera, the best way to exterminate the prairie dog, how to make cottage cheese, approved methods of fumigating California fruit, up-to-date methods of drying vegetables at home and a score of other things of interest to the agriculturist.

There will be released also pictures of the Red Cross pig club; the great wheat fields of the Northwest and the big shipbuildings plants that have sprung up over the country.

TOOK BRONCHITIS AFTER THE MEASLES

Measles is a disease that is very hard on children, and it generally leaves the system in such a debilitated condition that it is liable to attacks of some other trouble. One of the most common of these is bronchitis, which starts with a short, painful, dry cough, a feeling of tightness through the chest and difficulty of breathing, accompanied by a wheezing sound from the lungs.

There is a raising of phlegm from the bronchial tubes which is very often streaked with blood.

Bronchitis although not really dangerous, should never be neglected as some serious lung trouble is most liable to follow if it is.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will loosen the phlegm, soothe and heal the irritated bronchial tubes, and in a short time the bronchitis will disappear.

Mrs. Murdock McLean, Adanac Apts., Winnipeg, Man., writes: — "About two years ago my little girl had bronchitis; took them after having the measles. I tried several cough remedies, and oils of all kinds, but they all failed. At last I got Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. After using three bottles she has never had any sign of it since. I can honestly recommend it as being a grand medicine."

The genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Council Approves Committee's Changes in Engineer's Plans

Hunter Street Bridge Will Have Longest Single Span of Reinforced Concrete in Canada.

PREPARATIONS PROGRESSING

The longest reinforced concrete span in Canada will be a feature of the new Hunter street bridge, which will give it something of a national interest, according to the plans which Mr. Frank Barber, the designing engineer, has submitted to the Council. At a special meeting held last night, the report of the special bridge committee of their meeting with Mr. Barber this week was adopted. A general discussion followed on the question of the number of spans and also upon other details of the plans which in certain particulars have not been finally determined.

The consideration of a temporary bridge for use while the new one is building occupied the Council's attention for a time.

Ald. Edgar asked Mr. Barber whether it would not be advisable to move the present bridge on Hunter street to London street and divert traffic by that route.

Ald. Weir objected that the distance around Hunter street would be too great, and Mr. Barber explained that in the agreement with the contractor the latter would be given an option of erecting a temporary bridge probably by moving the present one within five hundred feet north or south of Hunter street. These and other details were discussed at length, but the Bridge committee's report was adopted as follows:

The Engineer submitted to your committee the general plan of the bridge, to which we recommend the following amendations:

(a) That the roadway on Hunter street east of the river be brought to a level from the east side of Driscoll street to the centre of Burnham street, and that from that point the grade ascend to the level of the bridge.

(b) That the roadway on Hunter street west of the river be brought to a level from the high point east of Water street to 117 feet east of Queen street and that from that point the grade ascend to the level of he bridge over the railway tracks;

(c) That the poles for the trolley line be of centre pole construction;

(d) That steps be constructed on the south side of the bridge and parallel to the bridge to the lane leading to the Riverside park;

(e) That there be a ramp on the east side of the river along the north side of the bridge, and that no ramp be designed at the present time on the west side of the river, but that it be added later if it is found to be necessary;

(f) That the alignment of the railway sidings be as shown on the plans;

(g) That a wall be built on the east side of the river along the ramp and that no other retaining wall be constructed for the approach fills;

We recommend that with the above amendations the plans 632-6 and 632-7, being the general plan and elevation of the bridge, be approved and signed by the Mayor, the detailed plans and specifications to be submitted to the Council later for their approval.

We also make the following recommendations:

(a) That the specifications shal provide that the contractor must make sufficient provision for traffic while the bridge is being constructed;

(b) That the contractor be required to furnish a performance bond from an approved Guarantee Company for 10 p.c. of the amount of his tender and a bond for $50,000 guaranteeing the bridge for five years, but not including ordinary maintenance;

(c) That the contractor be paid 85 p.c. of the work done on progress estimates, and the balance thirty days after the completion of the bridge;

(d) That the bridge shall be completed within one year from the time of the signing of the contract under a penalty of $40.00 a day for each day's default, and that if the bridge is completed within the said year the contractor be paid a bonus of $40.00 a day for each day of the year after it is completed;

(e) That the width of the roadway be 42 feet between curbs and 54 feet between the inside of the handrails, widened slightly at both curves;

(f) That the bridge be designed for double street railway tracks and to carry 60 ton-inter-urban cars in train on both tracks, and 20-ton road rollers, and to carry a distributed load of 80 pounds to the square foot.

A MEAL THAT MONEY CAN'T BUY WHEN YOU GROW UP AND HAVE PLENTY OF IT.

The school boy's holiday ends on Monday, and the fields from which he has flown his kites in the autumn sky and the woods where he harried the chipmunks, built stone dams in the creeks and played soldier with cap pistols, will soon forget him unless the Saturday afternoons bring him back to his play grounds of the past month. To have followed three of these "small boys" from day to day as they scrambled over the country around the city during the holiday whose tragic cause they but faintly comprehended, was to have renewed youth and vitality in the simple amusements that keep them away from home until uncomfortable and insistent gnawings turn them tablewards more intently than any parental call. Young Bill, the composite boy of twelve or fourteen years, soon learns that the heaviest dinner he can carry expends its energy after two or three hours roving through woods and fields. Earlier in the season there are orchards to raid, but in October the trees are bare and foraging is fruitless.

Anticipating such a contingency Bill and two chums decided to carry their rations with them, and late one afternoon this week you might have found them towards five o'clock in the growing dusk preparing a meal at the edge of a woods west of the city with all the relishing expectation of small hungry boys far from the vexatious restraint of table manners.

They had beans, boiled eggs and bread garnished with an appetite and digestion for which dyspeptic millionaries might have traded their estates. The air, crisp and warm all afternoon, began to cool as the shadows of the trees lengthened across the fields and a light fog seemed to exhale from the ground. It was then after a long circuitous tramp that the three hopefuls hungrily brought out their food from the cache in a fence corner, and lighting a fire gathered around it for the ceremonial rite that takes grown-up "youths" to the woods in the excuse that they are hunting deer.

Had you witnessed the preparations you would have found that Bill was the leader of this group, but even his orders were subjected to a running criticism that started at inexpert attempts to secure a safe support for the lard pail in which they proposed to heat the beans and boil the eggs. This at length they accomplished to their satisfaction and in accordance with the most approved ideas of camp fire building; then filling the pail with water they squatted around it and waited for it to boil. Each with a stick they kept the flames playing merrily about the old "Rose brand" lard pail. The while they talked as small boys do on such occasions. You can imagine the trend, from recollections of such incidents far back in your own past. These lads discussed the preparing meal. The water seemed a long time before its first bubbles started up to the surface breaking around the submerged tin of beans. When it was all aboil, the three eggs were dropped in The chefs were in doubt as to when the eggs would be done, but it was agreed that they should be neither too soft nor too hard. They had forgotten spoons, in fact had overlooked every prandial utensil to which they were accustomed.

Finally, the moment had come, Bill announced, to rescue the eggs, and the only resource was to lift off the pail and empty it on the grass. Something told them that the beans might not be warmed to the centre of the can, but there was no alternative but to open it. They had foreseen the need of the opener, and as Bill held his nose over the aromatic vapour that lifted as he pried back the top he exclaimed "Gosh that's great," and held it for his chums' approving smell.

They had nothing to drink, neither had they the customary pepper and salt. The problem of substituting for plates was quickly solved by using slices of bread on to which they poured three shares of steaming beans. The liquid added a dash of succulency that was sufficient, and necessity immediately discovered the merits of a baked bean sandwich with boiled egg on the side. There in the glow of the fire, their eager faces reflecting its warmth and light, they munched in profound silence and increasing satisfaction.

There wasn't a worry in the world for them as the butter bread, beans and eggs filled up that hungry void. When Bill's beans began to lose their warmth all too quickly, he held the sandwich momentarily near the fire and then bit at the hot spot. The three of them began to feel sleepy, and as Bill stretched himself along one side of the fire he announced reluctantly that they had better start for home. They dallied as boys do until a rolling boom told them that it was five o'clock. With that they poured a pail of water on the fire, hid the pail in the corner of the rail glance at the dead cold embers they glance at the deol cold embers they skirted the woods to the road homeward bound.

As they approached the city their feet that had carried them willingly in their afternoon's wandering began to grow heavy, and at the "Gravel road" crossing Bill announced that they would hail every automobile for a ride. At the first attempt they were a trifle shy, and the car had passed them before Bill hollered, none too bravely.

Further on a touring car came up behind them. It was probably the fifth or sixth.

"This is the one we get," Bill urged. When it was alongside them they shouted together "Give us a ride mister." The back seat was empty, but the elderly couple in front both noticed them, turned toward each other for a moment as if confirming the call. Then the car stopped in its swirl of dust, and if this page from the schoolboys' holiday has seemed a bit of fiction, Judge Roger and Mrs. Roger of Cobourg may be called to testify that they picked up on the Gravel road a few days ago three small boys who looked tired and hungry, and apparently anxious to get home in time for supper.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers —Meat forms uric acid.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

License Board Explains Situation

By the Chairman — How to Get Liquor—Ample Provision For Sale for Medicinal Purposes.

In view of the general lack of knowledge of the law in respect to the obtaining and possession of liquor not only on the part of the general public, but many druggists and doctors as well, J. D. Flavelle, chairman of the Ontario License Board, issued the following authoritative summary of existing legislation:

A druggist is legally entitled to have ten gallons of liquor on hand at any time. This amount includes all kinds of liquor exclusive of ethylic alcohol and sacramental wine. A druggist can purchase all the foregoing liquor from a vendor, or he can purchase direct from an Ontario distiller any Ontario whiskey he requires. He can purchase ethylic alcohol in unlimited quantities from either a vendor, an Ontario distiller or a wholesale druggist in Ontario.

A duly qualified medical practitioner is legally entitled to carry in his house or in his office ten gallons of liquor. He can procure one quart from any qualified druggist, or he can purchase from a vendor any quantity unto ten gallons, from which he can administer personally to his patient for medicinal purposes only.

A hospital can have on hand an unlimited supply of liquor and can administer such liquor to their patients when prescribed by a duly qualified medical practitioner. A hospital can procure one quart from any qualified druggist or an unlimited quantity from a vendor of any kind of liquor, or can procure any quantity of Canadian whiskey required direct from an Ontario distiller.

When a doctor, in his judgment, considers a larger quantity of liquor is necessary for his patient than the prescribed six ounces, he can issue a prescription for one dozen bottles of ale, beer or porter containing not more than three half pints each, or one quart of wine or distilled liquor, which can only be procured from one of the seven vendors in Ontario.

None of the foregoing liquor mentioned can be legally used for beverage purposes — all the provisions mentioned for procuring liquor are absolutely for medical purposes only.

In the opinion of the board, if the druggists, doctors and the hospitals of Ontario work together in unison and keep the continuous stock of liquor on hand which they are entitled to, it ought, under the present regulations as they now exist, provide all the liquor that is required for strictly medical use during the present epidemic.

STEAMER'S HULL SADLY DAMAGED.

SARNIA, Nov. 9.—The hull of the steamer Price, which lies upside down on the bottom of Lake Huron, 11 miles from this port, is in poor condition, say divers employed by the New York company attempting to salvage the wreck. The hull is badly broken between the boilers and engine rooms.

It is believed that the Price collided with some other craft before being sunk on Nov. 4, 1913.

The hull holds several thousand tons of coal. Skeletons of members of the crew have been encountered within the ship.

SEND CHRISTMAS BOXES TO THE FIGHTERS NOW

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Two hundred cars, laden with 100,000 mail sack of holiday cheer for American soldiers in France soon will speed eastward toward New York to be shipped overseas in time for Christmas.

Some of the mail already has arrived for shipment. The entire lot is expected at the embarkation port in the next ten days, allowing ample time for its arrival in France.

Superintendents of the 15 divisions of the railway mail service completed plans for the transportation of the Christmas gifts for soldiers at a conference here, some weeks ago. In New York the mail passes from the control of the postal authorities to those of the army and navy.

Every member of the American expeditionary forces is permitted to receive one Christmas parcel. The parcels must be of uniform size, measuring 3 x 4 x 9 inches, with weight not exceeding 9 pounds.

Every parcel should bear the name dressed in substance, as follows:

"Christmas Box Dept., Port of Embarkation, Hoboken, N.J.

"For Private John Blank,

"B Co., 3rd Field Artillery,

"American Expeditionary Forces."

Senders may write any message of Christmas cheer on the outside of the parcel.

Cartons of the size prescribed may be obtained at any Red Cross chapter.

Christmas packages for members of the navy should be addressed as follows:

Name of addressee, in full, together with his rank of rating.

Designation of vessel or station or naval base to which addressee is attached.

Care of Supply Officer, Fleet Supply Base, 29th St. and 3rd Ave., Bush Terminal Station, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Parcels intended for men in the navy may weigh up to 20 pounds. They must be so packed as to be readily examined.

Food Board Flashes

Every precaution should be taken to see that no windfall apples go to waste this year. Gather every one and dry those that are not used in any other way.

Prepare the apples for drying by peeling, coring and slicing them one-quarter of an inch thick. Then drop them in brine made with 1 tablespoon salt to 2 quarts of water. This keeps them white. Spread them on clean towels to absorb excess moisture. Then put them on trays and dry them either in the sun or by artificial heat. Finally store them in the cellar or attic.

BIG FEED IS MINER'S PRIZE.

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A big Christmas dinner, with all the things that go with a "regular" meal, is the prize hanging before the coal miners of Westmoreland county, Pa.

The fuel administration has announced that a big feed will be served the mine crew that makes the greatest percentage gain in coal production in November over the previous month. James S. Amend, local production manager, devised the plan. More than 2,000 camps have enrolled for the competition.

EMERGENCY HOSPITAL WILL CLOSE TO-DAY

Remaining Patients Removed to Other Hospitals.

The Emergency Hospital will close its doors this afternoon at four o'clock after a life of two weeks. During this time while twenty patients were treated, only one patient died. The eight patients were taken home or to the other hospitals. After the closing Miss Reid, the superintendent, and Miss Alford, will remain for some time to fumigate the building. The rest of the staff left to-day at noon.

The doctors have been well pleased with the hospital generally, especially so from a point of central location.

TRINITY CHURCH.

All the services of the church will be held to-morrow. The pastor, the Rev. F. E. Malott, will preach in the morning on "Service." His evening theme will be "God's Artillery." The Sunday School will re-open at 2.30 in Reid Street Hall. The Brotherhood will meet at 3 p.m. in the church. A full attendance of the choir is requested at the morning service. Vicitors are always welcome. The Brotherhood will extend a cordial invitation to men to spend an hour with them.

Eastern Township Soldier Had a Thrilling Experience

Harry Drope Escaped Into Russia From a German Prison Camp and Later Reached England.

Private Drope belongs to the well-known Drope family of the County of Northumberland, which has such a distinguished record in the war. He was visiting his father, Mr. Thomas Drope, at whose home in the Township of Alnwick he has been stopping since his return home on Oct. 16th. Harry Drope was one of a pontoon of which Lieut. Macdonnell, of Kingston, was in command, the regiment being then under Colonel Buller.

Anticipated Attack.

Anticipating the British attack about to be projected in the Ypres salient by a few hours, it will be remembered the Germans by intense artillery attack, destroyed the British trenches, disorganized the projected attack, and under cover of their barrage, came over in great numbers and made prisoners of the few who remained in the British trenches, most of them, like Harry Drope, wounded. This is known as the battle of Sanctuary Wood. It is a marvellous tale that he tells in his easy, quiet way of his treatment by the Bavarian soldiers opposed to them, and his ultimate transportation near Konigsberg in East Prussia to a German Prison Camp, in which were great numbers of Russian, Italian and French prisoners, with a few Britishers.

A Pick and Shovel.

After labouring there with pick and shovel at tasks he had never been accustomed to, and barely keeping alive mainly from food reaching them through British and Canadian Red Cross sources, he began in March last with two Russian soldiers to think out plans for escape. They were of course much too far away from either the Swiss frontier or the Holland frontier to turn their eyes westward, in which direction no doubt Private Drope longed to move as it meant home to him. There was nothing for it but to strike out for Poland, then of course under German control, and with Russia in the background under Bolshevik rule. He had formed a friendship for the two Russians, one of whom was from Siberia, and had been at the outbreak of war engaged in gold mining. It is impossible in this brief reference to Private Drope to recount in anything like detail his marvellous adventures in which he exhibited wonderful endurance, determination, ingenuity and valor, all of which qualities contributed to his ultimate successful effort whereby he finds himself once more in his beloved Canada.

A Tribute.

He takes occasion to pay well deserved tribute to the loyalty and heroism of his Russian associates. One of these finally became so exhausted that he feared to go on lest he might hamper the other two. At this juncture the three came under the observation of a German soldier while they were endeavouring to obtain much needed rest in a deserted barracks where they had secreted themselves while struggling by the aid of a compass and map, secured by one of the Russians, to reach the frontier of Poland. The exhausted Russian told his companions that he would grapple with the armed German, who had discovered them, and hold him long enough to enable them to escape. The poor fellow did so, and what his ultimate fate was, Private Drope has never been able to learn.

The population of Poland he found in a starving condition, and for food they had to depend mainly upon raw onions, and such other roots as they could gather in the dim light of early morning or at dusk. While secreted in a forest they came across a cow, and so desperate was their plight, that the Russian, who was a large, stalwart man, managed to seize the cow by the horns, and held her while Private Drope milked her. It was in Polish territory that a former discharged Russian soldier befriended them by exchanging some rags of clothes for their German prison garb, and giving them the only food he had, a piece of black bread.

Arrival in Russia.

Arrived at the banks of the swift flowing Dneiper River they were confronted with the problem of getting across, having ascertained that the only means was a rowboat, used as a ferry, with a German soldier on guard on the west bank, and Bolshevik soldies at the east landing. They were assured that there would only be one German sentry on guard and they would, therefore, have no great difficulty in getting into the boat and getting across, as they would be mistaken for Russian peasants. So desperate had they become then that it is evident from Private Drope's narrative, that they had made up their minds if necessary, to overpower the armed German sentry and secure the boat. It turned out that this would have been impossible, however, because on reaching the landing they were astonished to find seven or eight German soldiers, who happened to be there just at the time. Nevertheless, they got into the boat and were rowed across along with the others, being mistaken for Russian peasants.

Hands of Friends.

In the hands of the Bolshevik they were provided with transportation to Moscow, and there, falling into the friendly hands of British and United States officials, they experienced for the first time in two years, the comforts of civilization. Here Pte. Drope parted with the Siberian, who declared his determination to press on through to his home in Siberia, a long and weary journey, no doubt. Pte. rDope carries a photograph of his Siberian companion, and his address, and they hope to meet again. It was ultimately through the kindness of Sir William Clarke, of the British Mission to Russia, that Pte. Drope, who was made one of Sir William Clarke's party, was taken to Archangel, and there stepping on the deck of a British warship, felt really free, and was repatriated by his own extraordinary efforts. The good British ship brought the party safely through the White Sea and the Arctic Ocean, around the north of Norway, down into the North Sea, and landed them at Newcastle-on-the-Tyne. On the ship was Colonel Keyes, a brother of the famous Admiral Keyes, who conceived and carried out the great attack upon the Germans at Zeebrugge and Ostend, and Pte. Drope became his guest for some days at his home in the Isle of Wight. He was on leave in parts of England and Scotland, finally sailing to Canada and landing at Montreal. He is now making his way west to his adopted home at Regina, and, notwithstanding his long service, his wounds, his privations as a prisoner of war, and his heroic struggle to freedom, is endeavouring to re-enlist in the Royal Flying Corps.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A general railway strike has begun in Germany, according to a Copenhagen despatch.

Want to Locate Next of Kin of Peterboro Soldiers

The Department of Militia and Defence has issued a list of casualties, stating that every effort has been made to locate the next-of-kin, but so far without success. The Department further asks that anyone having knowledge of the whereabouts of the next-of-kin should communicate with Ottawa at once. Two Peterborough County men are mentioned in the list, Pte. John Broadway, next-of-kin, Michael Rejan, 194 Clifton Street, Peterborough, and Pte. William B. Proctor, next-of-kin, Dr. Bryson, Rice Lake, Ontario.

PRICES ON THE FARMERS' MARKET

POTATOES WERE LOWER IN PRICE THIS MORNING.

The price of potatoes is on the rapid decline and this morning they sold for forty cents less than a week ago. Any quantity of potatoes of a splendid grade could be had at $1.80 a bag, and less later in the morning.

The farmers' wives gladly resumed their old quarters in the inside building for the first time in three weeks.

Butter sold at 53 to 55c a pound, eggs 55c and 60c a dozen. Chickens and ducks sold at 30c a pound; geese sold at 25c to 28c a pound; turkeys, 35c a pound. Apples were $1.50 a bag for fall apples and $5 a barrel for winter varieties.

Specks Floating Before His Eyes

When specks start to float before the eyes, when everything turns black for a few seconds and you feel as if you were going to faint, you may rest assured that your liver is not working properly.

The essential thing to do in all cases where the liver is slow, lazy or torpid, is to stir it up by the use of a medicine that will clear away all the waste and poisonous matter from the system, and prevent as well as cure all the troubles arising from this accumulated mass which has collected in the system.

Keep the bowels open by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and you will have no liver trouble of any kind. They will clear away all the waste and effette matter which has collected and make the liver active and working properly.

Mr. John R. Morrison, Grand River Falls, N.S., writes: "Several months ago I was troubled with a sour stomach, and had specks floating before my eyes. I took five vials of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which cured and cleaned my blood before any length of time. I told my friends about it and they got some, and they, too, find themselves different since they took them. I recommend your pills very highly."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OBITUARY

MRS. WILLIAM A. LAVOIE.

The death occurred last evening at 7:15 after a long illness of Catherine Mennell, wife of Mr. William A. Lavoie, 127 Sophia street. She leaves to mourn her loss besides her sorrowing husband, two sons, Lawrence and Wilfred, at home, and one daughter, Helen; two sisters, Mrs. P. J. Conway, of Saskatchewanfi and Mary M., at home.

The funeral will take place from the family residence at 2:30 p.m. on Sunday to the Church of the Immaculate Conception and St. Peter's cemetery.

MR. GEORGE WALLACE.

The death occurred in Vancouver on Thursday, October 31, of Mr. George Walace aged 67 years. Mr. Wallace, who formerly lived in in Peterborough, moved to Vancouver from Winnipeg. He leaves to survive him one son, Malcolm P. Wallace, Waterloo Road, Vancouver, and one daughter, Mrs. Percy W. Dawson, of Winnipeg.

The funeral took place on November 4 in Vancouver to Vancouver cemetery.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. W. J. Hopwood of Water street, left this morning on his trip to the Pacific Coast in the interests of the North British Rubber Company of Edinburgh, Scotland, and expects to return about Christmas. Mrs. Hopwood will spend a few weeks with friends in Toronto during his absence.

The many friends of Miss Dorris Hutchison, 103 Gladstone Ave., will be pleased to learn that she has completely recovered from a severe attack of pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eakins has returned to Beloeil, Quebec, where they will reside, after spending their honeymoon with the former's parents, 275 Thomas Street.

Cadet Kenneth MacKenzie has returned from England, and is at present in Boston, from whence he will report at Halifax to join the Flying Corps.

Lieut. and Mrs. John Birnie are visiting Lieut. Birnie's parents at Collingwood.

Mrs. Marling, Lakefield, was in the city to-day.

Word has been received in East City that Dr. Dover, chemist with the Hercules Powder Company, now stationed at Charleston, W., Va., that she is just recovering from a slight attack of tonsolitis. Dr. Dover states that influenza has been very prevalent in Charleston, but it is now less so than it has been since the epidemic first overtook the city. It is still very bad among the coal miners inhabiting the mountains in West Virginia.

Private Norman Patterson, son of the late A. W. Patterson, has arrived home from France.

In a letter received by his mother, Flight Lieut. Wm. J. Hattrick states that he is now on active service in France. He also stated that he is well and likes the country.

Voice of The People

Sir,—Could you please inform me through your paper if there is a branch of the Sons of Scotland Benefit Society in the city, and the address of their meeting-place or secretary's address, and oblige,

For the benefit of those who were not present at the last service, extra envelopes will be placed in the pews.

REGULAR SERVICES AT ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

To-morrow the regular services will be held and the Sunday School will meet in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. In the morning the minister will speak on "The Near Approach of Peace." In the evening his topic will be, "The Need and Nature of Salvation," showing that the saved man is the morally sound, morally healthy and morally well man. After the three Sundays of absence from the place of worship, it is earnestly hoped that every one will endeavour to go to church to-morrow.

RED CROSS ROOMS OPEN AS USUAL.

All Red Cross workers are reminded that the Red Cross workroom in the Public Library will be open as usual each Wednesday afternoon. Despite the fair prospects of peace, there is still a most urgent call for supplies, as there are at present thousands of our boys in hospitals, whose needs must be looked after. It is imperative then, that we should not slacken in our efforts but rather that we should show our thankfulness by working with renewed energy for the next few months in order that Red Cross supplies may not fail.

PUBLIC MEETING CALLED FOR MONDAY

In the event of the armistice being signed there will be a great Union service held on Monday afternoon under the auspices of the Ministerial Association.

REV. C. A. G. SPENCE.

Rev. C. A. G. Spence, who for the past three years has been in charge of St. Alban's Mission, Brownton, has been appointed Rector of Apsley Church, and has removed to his new field of labour. The work at St. Alban's will be carried on by the Rev. James Price, of St. George's Church, assisted by other local ministers, until a new minister is appointed.

SERVICES IN GEORGE STREET CHURCH

The regular morning and evening services will be held in the George street church to-morrow. The minister will preach at both services. If in the meantime it is officially announced that the armistice terms have been signed Thanksgiving Services for Victory will be held, with appropriate music. The Sunday School will assemble in the afternoon.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

At the early communion and at 11 o'clock in St. John's to-morrow, the service will be in accord with the spirit of the All Saints' Festival which could not be held on the proper day, Nov. 1st. In the prayers and hymns commemoration will be made of those who have died in battle or in the recent pestilence. In the evening thanksgiving will be offered for national mercies, with further remembrance of the departed.

KNOX CHURCH SERVICES RESUMED

The session of Knox church is requested to meet in the vestry at 10.30 to-morrow morning. The business to come before the meeting is important, but can be disposed of easily in twenty minutes if the members are on hand promptly at 10.30.

After the morning service the minister wishes to meet with the Board of Management for the discussion of important business.

The minister and superintendent of the Sunday school hope that there will be a large attendance of teachers and officers at the afternoon session, as the matter of purchasing a Victory Bond by the school will be discussed and decided.

Satisfactory Reports.

The finances of the association were reported as very satisfactory, and reports read showed most of the time had been occupied in Red Cross work.

Mrs. R. P. Boucher, the retiring president, occupied the chair.

BOYS ACCUSED OF CREATING DISTURBANCE IN THE SOUTH END

Three boys, ranging in years from 16 to 19 years, appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning charged with making a disturbance last evening on the corner of Townsend and Rubidge streets. Many disturbances at this corner have been reported to the police of late, but always managed to elude the guardians of the law until last evening. The boys threw some insulting remarks at a man passing by on a wagon. The man got down to chastise the boys but in the words of the police, the boys jumped on him and it was a free-for-all for a few minutes.

The boys pleaded not guilty and the case was adjourned until next Tuesday.

ARMISTICE HAS BEEN SIGNED

Washington---United Press--2.45 a.m.--The Armistice with Germany was Signed at 5 o'clock this morning--French time---Hostilities ceased this morning at 11 o'clock--French time--The State Department stated that the terms of the Armistice would not be made public immediately though it plans to make a quick Announcement of the Terms.

ARMISTICE HAS BEEN SIGNED BY GERMANY STATE DEPT. ANNOUNCED THIS MORNING

Fighting ceased this morning at six o'clock, Peterboro' time, bringing to a close the biggest war in History--The terms of the Armistice not disclosed in the early morning despatches--Nature of the terms are such as to make it impossible for Germany to renew hostilities.

Principal Strategic Points In Germany Will Be Occupied By the Allied Forces

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The armistice terms have been signed by Germany, the State Department announced at 2.40 o'clock this morning. The announcement was made verbally by an official of the State Department in the following form:

"The armistice has been signed. It was signed at 5 o'clock a.m., Paris time, and hostilities will cease at 11 o'clock this morning, Paris time."

Five o'clock a.m., Paris time, is midnight Sunday here. Eleven o'clock is six o'clock a.m., Toronto time. The terms of the armistice, it was announced, will not be made public until later. Military men here, however, regard it as certain that they include—

The immediate retirement of German military forces from France, Belgium, and Alsace Lorraine;

Disarming and demobilizing of the German Army;

Occupation by the Allied and American forces of such strategic points in Germany as will make impossible a renewal of hostilities;

Delivery of part of the German High Seas Fleet and a certain number of submarines to the Allied and American naval forces;

Disarming of all the German ships under the supervision of the Allied and American Navies, which will guard them;

Occupation of the principal German naval bases by sea forces of the victorious nations;

Release of Allied and American soldiers, sailors and civilians held prisoners in Germany;

Without such reciprocal action by the associated Governments.

There was no information as to the circumstances under which the armistice was signed, but since the German courier did not reach the German military headquarters until ten o'clock yesterday morning, French time, it was generally assumed here that the many envoys within the French lines had been instructed by wireless to sign the terms.

Forty-seven hours had been required for the courier to reach German headquarters, and unquestionably several hours were necessary for the examination of the terms and a decision.

It was regarded as possible, however, that the decision may have been made at Berlin, and instructions transmitted from there by the new German Government.

Public Holiday

In order to mark the signing of the armistice by Germany and the glorious victory of the British Empire and its Allies, and to celebrate the victory and the cessation of hostilities, I ask all citizens to observe this day as a public holiday.

A public procession and meeting will be held to-night at the Central Park. The parade will start from the Park at 7.30 o'clock.

Praise God, from Whom all blessings flow.
God Save the King.

GEORGE H. DUNCAN, Mayor.

Germany had been given until 11 o'clock this morning, French time, six o'clock Washington time, to accept, so hostilities ended at the hour set by Marshal Foch for a decision by Germany for peace or for the continuation of the wafr

The momentous news that the armistice had been signed was a few minutes before it was given to the newspaper correspondents telephoned to the White House for transmission to the President. Later it was said that there would be no statement from the White House at this time.

Revolution Sweeps Over Germany and Engulfs the Hohlerzollern Regime

Red Flag of the Revolutionists is Flying From All Strategic Points Throughout the Empire—Cannonading In Streets

OFFICERS DISARMED

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Severe fighting took place in Berlin between six and eight o'clock last night and a violent cannonading was heard from the heart of the city. The revolution is in full swing in Berlin, and the Red forces of Germany in possession of the German capital. Many persons were killed and wounded before the officers surrendered. The Red forces are in control and have restored order. Strong guards are marching through the streets. The Crown Prince's palace has been seized by the Revolutionists. People are shouting "Long live the Republic" and are singing the "Marseillaise."

Schleswig-Holstein, a Prussian province, which formerly belonged to Denmark, is proclaimed an independent Republic.

Leipsic, the largest city in Saxony, Stuttgart, the capital of Wurttemberg and Cologne and Frankfort has joined the Revolution. Soldiers' Councils at Stuttgart, Cologne and Frankfort have decided to proclaim a Republic.

Red Flag Hoisted on Ships in Hamburg.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 10.—The Soldiers' and Peasants' Council at Munich now controls the whole administration of Bavaria, it was reported here to-day. Kurt Eisnera, a Socialist newspaper man, has been made Premier and Foreign Minister.

The Cologne Gazette says the Workmen's and Soldiers' representatives in Hamburg have occupied the military headquarters, and posted the Red flag on the ships in the harbour. Similar events were reported at Cuxhaven and Rendesburg. Work stopped in all Berlin munition plants at 10 a.m. to-day in obedience to a declaration of a general strike.

German Socialist is Now Recognized as the New Chancellor of Germany.

Special to the Examiner:

ZURICH, Switzerland, Nov. 10. — Because of troubles in the interior of Germany, Prince Maxmilian of Baden and all the Bourgeoise Ministers have resigned, says a despatch from Berlin. Friedrich Ebert, the German Socialist, to-day has been definitely recognized as Chancellor.

Berlin was occupied by the forces of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils on Saturday afternoon, according to a Wolff Bureau report received here.

It is officially announced from Berlin that the War Ministry has placed itself at the disposal of Friedrich Ebert, the Socialist leader, whose appointment as Imperial Chancellor was forecasted yesterday by decree of Prince Maximilian. Friederich Ebert, the Socialist leader, has issued a proclamation, saying that he plans to form a People's Government, which will endeavour to bring about a speedy peace.

A Copenhagen message says six German battleships anchored outside Flensburg directed their cannon against the Revolutionaries, and that a bombardment is expected. The battleship Koenig, which refused to surrender, was taken after a hard fight. The Workmen's and Soldiers' Council to-day is complete master of Hamburg, and all civilians who are found in possession of a weapon are killed. Count Reventlow, a well-known member of the Holstein nobility, has fled to Denmark, and has declared to the "Politiken's" frontier correspondent that, in his opinion, the conditions will be much worse when the soldiers return from the front. A general anarchy can be expected. Several German ships have succeeded in escaping from the revolution, mostly schoolships. Three German destroyers have anchored outside Stockholm, and all guardships of the Baltic have joined the Revolutionary movement.

Strike Movement Spreading Over Whole of Germany.

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(British Admiralty wireless).—An Amsterdam telegram stated that the strike movement is spreading over the whole of Germany. The Berlin stations are occupied by the military. All trains to Berlin are stopped, and the most drastic measures are being taken against possible agitation.

The Berlin official wire says that the Berlin garrison has joined the Revolutionists. A general strike has been proclaimed in the capital, and a proclamation issued stating: "Long live the Socialist Republic and the Soldiers' Council." Military revolutions are reported from all parts of the Empire.

Garrison of City of Frankfort Joins the Revolutionists.

THE ALLIES ARE DRIVING ON

London, Nov. 10, (Sunday Noon Bulletin,)—British troops have reached the southern outskirts of the historic town of Mons, Field Marshal Haig announced to-day. Between audenardo and Mons, the British mode an advance of nearly ten miles. They have captured Renaix and are approaching Leuze.

KAISER HAS ABDICATED

Crown Prince Has Renounced His Claims to Throne—Last Obstacle In Way of Speedy Peace Has Been Removed.

NEWS OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED BY BERLIN

THE BERLIN OFFICIAL WIRELESS REPORTS ABDICATION OF KAISER

(United Press Service.)
(Received Saturday, 3 p.m.)

LONDON, Nov. 9. — The official Berlin wireless "states that the Kaiser has decided to abdicate and the Crown Prince to renounce the throne."

The British Admiralty wireless office confirmed the Berlin wireless report that the Kaiser had abdicated and published a circumstantial story of Chancellor Maximilian's announcement to the effect that the German Imperial Chancellor Prince Max of Baden had issued the following decree:

Careful mothers o'er the land
Always keep Cascarets at hand.
Children think them dandy—
They are mild cathartic candy.
Cascarets sell for a dime;
They "work" every time.

When a child has a coated tongue, tainted breath or is bilious, constipated, feverish, or full of cold, give Cascarets. Children gladly take this harmless candy cathartic which thoroughly cleanses their little stomachs, livers and bowels without griping. Each 10 cent box of Cascarets contain directions for dose for children aged one year and upwards.

Director Raymond Wells, who besides producing motion pictures, is one of the directors of the Hollywood officers' training camp, tells of an encounter between Instructor Captain Eastman and a recruit:

"You've fallen out of line not less than five times. You should not be in this regiment at all," cried Eastman.

"Where should I be?" demanded the recruit.

"In the flying corps, and then you'd only have to fall out once."

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Brian Tells Ruth Abont His Dinner With Mollie.

CHAPTER XXXV.

Brian caught a Fifth Avenue bus at the square. It would take him nearly home. He rode on top, the only passenger. While he smoked he thought of Mollie.

"Good little scout," he said aloud, "I wish the others had kept away. Next time I'll have Mollie meet me up-town, somewhere," showing he intended there should be a "next time."

When the conductor came for his fare, he had no change, so took out a dollar bill (his last one) and handed it to him.

"I've spent a lot of money, these two nights," he soliloquized. "But it was worth it. I'll have to borrow to pay the rent to-morrow. Clark will let me have it."

Clark was the man who had loaned him money once before. Brian had paid it with the check Ruth's aunt had given her, and he had also given Clark much bigger interest than the banks gave. So he had no fear but that he would accommodate him again. That settled, Brian gave neither it, nor the fact of his extravagance any further thought. His mind dwelt on how sweet Mollie King was; what a jolly little studio she had, and what a comfortable place it was to visit.

It was after two o'clock when he switched off the lights.

"Pretty late for an old married man," he muttered with a grin.

Ruth was at home when he arrived the next night. She had sent word what time she would be home so that he might meet her; but he had been away from the office when it came. He had not gone back, so missed it altogether.

Ruth had been terribly disappointed when she realized that Brian was ot at the station. She had lingered some little time hoping he would come for her. Then she had gone on home, a little hurt, but her mind made up to show no signs of it. So she had met him with a loving kiss and no reproaches, although he saw she had been disappointed.

"See, Ruth, I would have gone back had I thought of it! But I forgot all about your promise to let me know the train you were coming on. I'm awfully sorry, dear," and he was. He felt chagrined that he had failed to remember Ruth's message.

"Never mind, dear. I'm here now. Had an awfully lonesome time, dear?"

"No—not so very," Brian flushed and stammered a little. "I went out to dinner. There wasn't any use eating alone."

"Indeed there wasn't!" Ruth said heartily. "Where did you go?"

"Down town to the Brevort."

"How in the world did you come to go away down there?"

As she asked the question, Brian recalled what Mollie King had said:

"You tell her then the others will have nothing to gossip about." Yes, Mollie was right. He better tell her himself.

"I asked Mollie King to dine with me. She is good company. The Brevort is handy for her, so I asked her to meet me there."

"Oh—" then, after a minute, "did you ask her both nights?"

"Yes," with a little bravado, "I was lonely. Mollie is the best company of anyone I know. If you will leave me alone, I have to find some one to take your place, you know," this last pleasantly.

"Of course you do. And don't think for a minute I object to your having company," yet, as she said it, Ruth's heart contracted a little, as she thought of Mollie King, and of two nights in succession.

"Well, let's have dinner. You must be hungry. How did things go in Philly" Brian changed the subject. He did not care to be asked if he took Mollie home or what time he himself got in.

"Oh, everything went beautifully!" Ruth responded with enthusiasm. "It is the loveliest old house and will lend itself to certain schemes wonderfully. I am delighted that Mr. Mandel let me have the work to do. Even if it did mean letting you dine with another woman," she added with a little laugh.

For the remainder of the evening Mollie King was not mentioned. But she was in the mind of both. Ruth told of the details of her business, in which Brian was only politely interested but through her mind ran the picture of Brian and Mollie at dinner together. Brian listened occasionally asking a question, but, in his thoughts, Mollie and her smoke-filled studio insisted upon intruding. It was so easily to talk to Mollie. She sort of looked up to a fellow. But a wife who earned more than he did, then insisted upon talking business—well—he loved Ruth, but he couldn't help it if he wished she would not be so superior.

The fact of the matter was that Ruth was not at all "superior." She constantly tried, in her talk with Brian, to eliminate anything that might make him feel that she was sensible of her earning power. She constantly tried to make him see her business as a business, done because of her love for it, instead of the remuneration she received. She had sensed his feeling of resentment toward that phase of it, from the start, and was constantly on her guard when talking to him.

When Brian fell asleep, Ruth lay for some time, wide awake, thinking of her handsome, careless husband and Mollie King.

"He belongs to me; she can't take him from me," she muttered before she fell asleep to dream that Mollie had taken Brian from her, and that Brian wanted to go.

Patriotic Week in New York

Ushers In the Pre-Winter Styles.

New York, October—

What a patriotic throng I'ile New York at the present time! What an inspiration the Avenue is with its many-colored flags, its artistic decorations and its hundreds of bond booths where one may exchange their surplus change into stamps for the government. And the thousands of pretty girls who have voluntarily given up their pleasures to devote their time to this splendid work; many times by their winsome smile do they win over a quarter or two that had entirely different destination in view.

SMART TOP COAT FOR THE MISS

The professional people are doing their share in a most admirable fashion. One of the most favored and most popular actresses of the day was selling bonds at the plaza of the Library, Fifth Avenue. She wore a black satin dress which was severely plain, with black soutache braid in a design over the front of the waist and at the hem, as the only trimming. A heavy silken cord with huge tassels at the end held in the attractive dress at the waistline. A large black hat with uncurled ostrich on the brim claimed the right to outline the profile of this charming person.

BACK TO THE "HOBBLE SKIRT

So tight are the skirts getting that, with their added length, women are beginning to take small steps, even tiny steps, and the resultant effect is the strong semblance to the "hobble" of the past. But these new skirts are conserving material for the government, and just a little shorter step is not regarded as a sacrifice when one is bent on being patriotic to the utmost. Besides, they are graceful. Sometimes a button or two is left open at the bottom of the skirt to allow more freedom in walking. If the skirt is not buttoned from the waist to the hem, a slit is made at the lower edge and carefully concealed under a pleat or fold.

One particularly good looking dress that attracted much attention was of dark blue serge, and embroidered with senna-colored floss. The skirt was draped after the newer fashion, which gave it the effect of the peg-top. A small velvet toque of rose color, with dull blue petals, gave a pert and piquant demeanor to the costume. Dull-black kid pumps, with military heels, this person of good taste chose as her footwear.

CHILDREN MUST BE PROTECTED

The children must be safeguarded, for, if they do survive the frequent coughs and colds it is often with the lungs so weakened that they become chronic sufferers from bronchitis or consumption. Being composed of simple ingredients of undoubted value, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is admirably suited as a treatment for children. It is pleasant to taste. So much so that children delight to take it on this account, as well as because of the quick relief it affords them.

THE EXAMINER PATTERN SERVICE

LADY'S TWO GORED SKIRT.

The simpler the style the smarter it is considered this season. The two gored model is being used almost exclusively for suits and separate skirts. Practically the only style of pocket which is used is the slash pocket, as shown in No. 8921. The back gore extends well over the hips to the front and is much wider than the front gore. The latter is curved from the waistline to hip at each side. It is stitched in deep tuck effect at the sides and trimmed with buttons. The wide belt is slashed at the front and the two ends cross and button on opposite sides.

The lady's two gored skirt pattern No. 8921 is cut in seven sizes, 24 to 36 inches waist measure. Width at lower edge of skirt is 2 yards. Size 26 requires 2⅝ yards 42 inch, or 2¼ yards 54 inch material.

Quebec Does Much Better.

At the same time, one of the surprising features of the Dominion campaign is the showing which is being made all through Quebec Province, where there is evidently a strong disposition to break the 1917 record. Though the city of Montreal is running along easily, with a 75 per cent. increase over her last year's figures, the increase over the 1917 drive is even more marked through other parts of the Province of Quebec. The latest available figures from the province, exclusive of the city and island of Montreal, show returns up to Tuesday night, and they indicate the most surprising percentage increase yet to be reported from any large district in the Dominion. At the end of the eighth day Quebec Province proper, leaving out Montreal, had produced $11,261,050, compared with $2,679,550 at the corresponding period of the 1917 campaign, which is an approximate increase of 300 per cent. It is explained that this improved showing is due largely to better organization, as this year they have both English-speaking and French-speaking organizers. The organizers largely responsible for pulling the province into the place she should have occupied last year are Messrs A. E. MacNutt, English-speaking organizer, and A. P. Frigon, French-speaking organizer. The man at the head of the Montreal organization, which is setting such a fast pace for Toronto, is Mr. J. W. McConnell. A further examination of the Toronto and Montreal figures seems to indicate that the district teams in the two cities are running about neck-and-neck, which will doubtless be an incentive to the local canvassers to do their utmost.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

For Art's Sake

By ROY PERCIVAL.

He made his living by portraying human faces and here was one that at once enchanted every pulsing fiber in his artistic nature. It had the possibilities of a hundred varied expressions and as Dean Worthington noted this, he drew nearer to the shelf desk in the counting room of a daily paper.

It was raining outside and the girl wore no gossamer and her cloak was dripping, her shoes unrubbered.

"What will three lines cost, please?" she inquired anxiously.

"Twenty-one words—sixty cents. Three insertions, one dollar and forty."

The girl paused to look over a little worn purse. She probed for the last dime it contained.

Worthington had found time to notice in clear regular handwriting the words, "Wanted; position in an office as typist or clerk."

The fair-haired, sad-faced girl completed the advertisement, paid for it. The moment she was out of view Worthington approached the receiving window, some loose change in his hand.

"Advertisement just handed in—make it three insertions instead of one," he spoke.

"This it?" inquired the clerk lazily.

"Yes," and Worthington noted carefully what he was plotting for, the initial and number "W-233." His was the first letter deposited in the newspaper office next morning, directing "W-233" to apply to Room A—Fine Arts building. It was there that Worthington had his studio. Illustrator in the finer lines of work, he had plenty to do, but no especial need of an office assistant. Miss Daphne Bertram appeared before ten o'clock.

"In answer to my advertisement," she said and extended the letter he had written.

"Be seated, please," he said. "I am an artist—studio and office, as you see. I have plenty to do, and want an assistant to learn my ways and see that I am not interrupted in my work unless there is a real occasion for it. There is some filing and clippings work to do, a few bills to send out and occasional letters to write. The position will pay twenty dollars a week."

Daphne almost gasped. The pay was far beyond her fondest anticipations. "I am sure I should like it very much, indeed," she said.

He made a pretense of the importance of going over some files containing clippings of illustrations from books and magazines. He shut himself up in his studio, wondering how he should bring about what he really desired—the opportunity of limning the fair face that had so attracted him.

There was not only an artistic sentiment in his endeavors but the interest of human sympathy. The evident forlornness and poverty of the girl appealed to the natural impulsiveness of his sterling nature.

"Won't you help me out a bit?" he came out and spoke to her about the middle of the afternoon. "I need a human model for one of a group in a delineation of a family assailed by the menace and dread of war."

"Please stand by the window, Miss Bertram," he added, "looking out as if waiting in great fear for the coming of enemies. That's fine—turn the chin slightly downwards. Thank you, indeed," and he hastily pencilled the outline he required.

The ice was broken and Daphne was glad rather than otherwise as the days passed by. She seemed to fill in a practical aesthetic need of her employer. She was pleased at his palpable recognition of grace and beauty, and the latent artistic impulse in her nature made her occupation harmonious.

As the weeks went on, with her material needs contributed to, Daphne became happy and contented. Worthington had meantime learned her history—an orphan, with no dependence except upon her own individual industry. She began to fill a void in his life, for he too had known sorrow—that of a trustful man who had wedded a dissipated woman whom he kept at bay by giving her money.

An artist friend came into the studio one day, chatted casually and then, closing the door communicating with the outer room, said seriously: "Worthington, I presume you engaged this interesting assistant of yours for art's sake, but I can tell you something. She is so grateful to you she has come so to love you—don't interrupt me, it is the truth—that when she learns of your wife and has to leave here it will break her heart."

"No more than mine," spoke Washington in a subdued tone and his head sank abjectly. "I am glad you have reminded me of the false paradise in which we are living. I shall announce a long sketching trip in Japan and—and forget the sunshine and sweetness Daphne Bertram has brought into my lonely life."

But fate ruled otherwise. Dean Worthington was shocked one morning to recive a telegram from another city, announcing the death of his wife from an overdose of chloral. He went away for six months after that, leaving Daphne in charge of the studio, but he knew, and she knew, that they would meet again when the scars an unworthy wife had left upon his patient, sorrowful spirit had all been healed and forgotten.

SHE COULD NOT STAND OR WORK

But Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health and Stopped Her Pains.

Portland, Ind.—"I had a displacement and suffered so badly from it that at times I could not be on my feet at all. I was all run down and so weak I could not do my housework, was nervous and could not lie down at night. I took treatments from a physician but they did not help me. My Aunt recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried it and now I am strong and well again and do my own work and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the credit."—Mrs. JOSEPHINE KIMBLE, 935 West Race St., Portland, Ind.

Thousands of American women give this famous root and herb remedy the credit for health restored as did Mrs. Kimble.

For helpful suggestions in regard to such ailments women are asked to write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its long experience is at your service.

Stoats Hunt in Packs.

In some years stoats appear to be more numerous than in others, and they are seen not in ones and twos, but in dozens, hunting together in small packs. Stoats will hunt together from scent and in full cry like a pack of hounds, one always keeping the line and followed closely by the others. This sight has been recorded by different observers who have also seen weasels hunting in the same way.

Valuable Services.

"I have indeed done a service," the orator declared. "I have given the people cause to think."

"That was something at least."

"Yes, oh, yes. But I have done a further service. I have told them just how to think."

Silent Service.

"Don't you like silent service in the house?"

"Sure. That's one reason we put in a dumb waiter."

The Boches Cook For Their Yankee Captors

By FRANK J. TAYLOR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 19. (By Mail.)—With the big haul of prisoners netted by the St. Mihiel salient drive, the American army had to go into the prisoner business in earnest. The first two days of that drive one encountered long lines of "Happy Heinies," as the doughboys called the Germans relieved of further war service, streaming back toward headquarters and later to the pens hastily erected near railheads.

The prisoner problem was a big one and an important one. Most of these were men who had surrendered wilingly and they therefore were exceptional material as sources of intelligence.

When the first waves of Americans went over the top, after the heavy barrage all along the line, they found few Germans above the earth. The boches had all been driven into dugouts by the rain of shells. Most of them stayed in the holes, until a "come outa here, you Dutchman!" from a doughboy routed them. Apparently the morale of the boches had been lowered to shaky ebb by previous defeats, and the American artillery "put the finishing touch on boche morale," as one intelligence officer expressed it after talking to hundreds of Germans who has passed through his office.

Anybody who saw a German anywhere could capture him. One regiment boasts that its chaplain captured six with nothing more formidable than a walking stick in his hand. Almost the entire personnel of an Aurstria-Hungarian division gave up, regimental bands were taken intact, and boches vied with each other in getting their things packed up, ready for departure "nach Paris," as some of them jokingly put it.

Ordinarily prisoners are hustled into headquarters under a pretty good guard of hardened doughboys, are hastily examined, and are rushed back where they can do no harm. But in this battle, prisoners became part of the army for a while, and were sent back whenever anybody had time to sort them into long processions.

One American division kept German musicians to play for it for several days. Several companies had boches doing kitchen police for a while, boches up to the rank of sergeants who were glad of the job, and another division's advanced party used German food, German cooks, and German waiters, all experts in their own lines.

Boches came in such quantities around division headquarters that only a small proportion of them could be examined to get military information of immediate value. From every woods and village came boches, until American officers ran out of receipts for them. It used to be that no doughboy would ever give up his prisoner until he got a receipt at divisional headquarters. One unit tells how a big batch of Germans formed themselves into a big line four abreast and fell in behind a group already taken, marching rearward. The formality of surrendering was not necessary.

Divisional headquarters is the field collecting places of prisoners. From all points where they are captured, boches are sent there. When the numbers ran up to 200 or 300, three or four doughboys were assigned to take the prisoners further back, usually to corps headquarters. From the corps the Germans were marched back to the nearest "pen."

They though enough pens had been built along the front to care for Germans who fell into American hands. But pens were crowded and overflowing before the first day's returns were all in, and you witnessed the strange sight of Germans assisting to build their own "pens" undef direction of doughboy guards.

All the Germans were finally herded back into pens near the railheads, and put on trains headed for permanent quarters where they'll have their only request granted, that of "houses to live in and a little work to do." Regular American soldier rations had made them ambitious for something to do.

"THE DAY'S" DAWN IN PETERBORO'

How the News Reached This City at 3.20 this Morning

A UNITED PRESS "BEAT"

THE DAY for which Peterborough waited so long, so patiently and so confidently was heralded by the United Press telephone message to The Examiner at 3.20 o'clock this morning. Immediately, pre-arrangements for the publication of the glorious news were set into operation. Members of the mechanical and editorial departments were gathered by automobile and in a comparatively short time the staff was handling the detailed despatches before any other news agency was heard from. The Examiner's street bulletin anounced the cessation of hostilities at four o'clock, nearly an hour before the news had reached Peterborough by any channel other than the United Press.

Police Sergeant Blade broke the news to Mr. C. G. Patterson of the C.G.E. Company who forthwith passed on the great tidings to the light sleeping citizens by some internal arrange ment by which the "Old Roarer" broke the news. Homes flashed light more than hour before the whistle usually wakes them, but the first consciously heard note was significant of the momentous event that had been expected hourly since Friday.

The old bellower achieved a new note this morning, as it echoed the swan song of the last and most belligerent nation of the once haughty and arogant Central Alliance. To the low rumbling tones that call the workmen to a new day six times a week was added a high-pitched exulting blast that was the keynote of the forthcoming rejoicing.

The most ardent spirits scrambled out of bed and soon issued from their homes straggling up town singly and in little groups that haled each other with hopefull cheers. Undoubtedly most persons breathed a prayer of thanksgiving when they first heard the whistled announcement, but it was admitted that the greater part of the populace are sound sleepers or upon hearing the C.G.E. whistle's glorious chortles decided that the celebration would keep until nightfall, and dropped back into the dreamland the Kaiser and his vanquished war lords would have envied in their nightmare of disaster.

Toward 6 a.m., George St. began to take on something of real life. Mayor Duncan and City Clerk Armstrong had been working for an hour up to that time on the plans for the approaching day, which should be the most memorable in Peterboro's history and at 6.30 His Worship kicked off the lid.

Bells, whistles and cheers greeted the grey morning, clamorously announcing the dawn of that greater democracy for which the world has bled and died during more than four long years.

The Fire Department's motor engine screamed through the streets betwen the hour of six and seven, bearing the news of the German acceptance to every home, and presently George street began to collect the crowd that promises to celebrate the greatest carnival Peterborough has ever known and for which she has paid a heavy price.

ports that the King of Wuttenberg has abdicated. A revolution is sweeping many parts of Germany. The garrison of the city of Frankfort has joined the rebellion, which is in full swing in that city. At Hamburg the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council has been reported formed. Demonstrators are said to have entered the military prison and released the prisoners. Russian prisoners released afterwards participated in the demonstrations. At Kiel a detachment of Marines seized the Neustadt Barracks without firing a shot. The Red flag is flying over the Castle of Prince Henry, a brother of the Kaiser. Troops from Rendsburg have joined the rebels. In Emden the revolution is reported to be spreading.

DUKE OF BRUNSWICK AND HIS SUCCESSOR HAVE STEPPED DOWN

(United Press Service.)
(Received Saturday, 4 p.m.)

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The British Admiralty wireless a telegram received in Copenhagen from Brunswick via Berlin asserts that the Kaiser's son-in-law, the Duke of Brunswick and his successor, have abdicated.

It is reported from Amsterdam that owing to a rush on the banks in Berlin the banks have stopped payment.

The revolution is now spreading all over Western Germany and is reported to have reached Cologne.

SEVERAL MINISTERS HAVE RESIGNED

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(British Admiralty Wireless)—A Berlin telegram reports the resignation of the Ministers of the Interior, Instruction, Agriculture and Finance.

The Prussian Food Controller has again requested to be released from office and the resignation of the Minister of Public Works has been in the hands of the Cabinet for some time.

ABDICATION IS OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED

(Canadian Press Despatch.)
(Received Saturdaq, 6:15 p.m.)

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The abdication of Emperor Wilhelm of Germany is officially anonunced in Berlin according to a Havas despatch from Basel, Switderland.

German wireless message received in London this afternoon states that the German Imperial Chancellor, Prince Maximilian of Baden, has issued the following decree: "The Kaiser and King has decided to renounce the throne."

(Canadian Press Desptech.)

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Before Prince Maximilian offered his resignation as Chancellar, he issued the following appeal to Germans abroad: "In the fifth year of hostilities, abandoned by its allies, the German people could no longer wage war against increasingly superior forces."

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Field Marshal Von Hindenburg and the crown Prince were present. The Crown Prince signed a renunciation of his right of succession to the throne.

The Kaiser was greatly affected, saying: "It may be for the good of Germany."

Kaiser Wilhelm has fled to near Utrecht, Holland, according to a German press report reaching this government this afternoon.

AIMED TO "TEUTONIZE" THE WHOLE WORLD

Throughout his reign of a quarter of a century the Kaiser had but one ambition—to "Teutonize" the world. He subordinated everything else, or made everything else fit in with his ambitions.

In 1871 Germany had no navy or merchant marine worthy the name. It was through the Kaiser's demands that both wer raised to second place among the nations. It was the same with the German army. The vast Germany military machine was actually the child of the Kaiser's ambition.

Because he taught, and practised the theory that only through military and naval supremacy could Germany arrive at "a place in the sun," the Kaiser became known as the "war lord." Although he forced out Bismarck, the "iron Chancellor," the Emperor followed Bismarck's teachings that only by the "mailed fist" could Germany live and grow.

AIDED BY DIVINE RIGHT CLAIM

His oft-repeated insistence that he ruled by divine right aided him in carrying out his policies. It tended to make his subjects, both high and low, more subservient to his demands and whims. As the German Empire grew from a population of 47,000,000 to 67,000,000, and to a place in the commercial world surpassing in some lines even Great Britain, his influence and power increased.

The Kaiser was born January 27, 1859. In saving his mother's life when he was born the main nerves of his left arm were so strained that the arm became shrivelled, and has hung useless ever since. Since childhood he has had to use a specially-made fork with a heavy edge that server as a knife as well.

One reason for his well-known dislike for his mother, who was a daughter of Queen Victoria of England, was laid to the operation which resulted in the loss of the use of his arm.

LAST GERMANY ARTERY SEVERED BY BRITISH

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The capture of Maubeuge by the British, General March, United States Chief of Staff, said Saturday, marks the definite severance of the last German artery to that sector of the west front, and will make it impossible for the enemy to shift his forces to meet the new attack. Summarizing the Allied successes since the inauguration of the forward movement, General March pointed out that the Germans have been driven sixty-four miles further from Paris and the territory they occupy in France has been reduced from 10,000 square miles to less than 2,500. The American first army under General Pershing has advanced thirty miles in the last eight days.

MAUBERGE WAS AN IMPORTANT FRENCH FORTRESS BEFORE WAR

Maubeuge was the last important French fortress in the hands of the Germans, and before the war it was considered a fortress of the first class and guarded the Namur-Charlerol route into France by the way of the Sambre River. The town is situated on both banks of the Sambre and was founded in the seventh century. Several famous battlefields of French wars prior to 1800 are in close proximity to Maubeuge. Maubeuge was taken by the Germans after heavy fighting with the British and French late in August 1914. The town is within a few miles of the Belgian border south of Mons, which is thirteen miles northward by rail. Namur is about forty miles east northeast of Maubeuge, and Charlerol is about midway betwen the two.

PETERBOROUGH MONDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1918

Allied Troops Cease Fighting at Command of Foch

Allied Terms of Surrender Includes the Evacuation of Alsace-Lorraine

The Unconditional Surrender of All Enemy Forces in East Africa is Also Included in the Armistice Terms---Reparation Must Be Made for Damage Done---All Black Sea Ports Must be Evacuated---Duration of Armistice is to be Thirty Days.

SURRENDER OF VAST AMOUNT OF MATERIAL

(By Carl D. Groat—United Press).

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—President Wilson this afternoon told Congress and the world the terms Germany accepted when she signed the armistice.

These terms pictured her surrendering abjectly to General Foch on the field her armies beaten, her Government overturned, her former Kaiser master in flight.

A small Congress and a small crowd heard the President's burning words, but enthusiasm ran riot.

The German surrender terms include—

The cessation of hostilities;

The evacuation of invaded territories, including Alsace Lorraine and Luxemburg;

The surrender of vast amounts of guns and equipment;

The evacuation of the left bank of the Rhine;

The surrender of vast amounts of rolling stock in occupied territory;

Abandonment of the Bucharest and Brest-Litovsk Treaties;

Unconditional surrender of all German forces in East Africa;

Reparation for damage done;

Surrender of scores of submarines and larger war craft;

Concentration of aircraft at stipulated points;

Evacuation of all Black Sea ports;

Restoration of all Allied and United States merchant vessels.

The duration of the armistice is to be thirty days.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The naval terms provide for the surrender of 160 submarines, 50 destroyers, six battle cruisers, ten battleships, eight light cruisers and other miscellaneous ships. All Allied vessels in German hands are to be surrendered, and Germany is to notify neutrals that they are free to trade at once on the seas with Allied countries. Among the financial terms included are the restitution for damage done by the German armies, restitution of cash taken from the National Bank of Belgium, and the return of gold taken from Russia and Roumania.

STRICTLY MILITARY TERMS IMPOSED BY THE ALLIES IN THE ARMISTICE TERMS SIGNED BY GERMANY.

Special to the Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Strictly military terms of the armistice are embraced in eleven specifications, which include the evacuation of all invaded territory, the withdrawal of German troops from the left bank of the Rhine, and the surrender of all supplies of war. The terms also provide for the abandonment by Germany or the Treaties of Bucharest and Brest-Litovsk.

President Wilson announced to the Congress to-day the following terms of the armistice signed by Germany last night—

1. Cessation of operations by land and in the air six hours after the signature of the armistice;

2. Immediate evacuation of invaded countries, Belgium, France, Alsace-Lorraine, Luxemburg, so ordered as to be completed within fourteen days from the signature of the armistice. Occupation by Allied and United States forces jointly will keep peace with the evacuation in these areas;

3. Repatriation beginning at once and to be completed within fourteen days of all inhabitants of the countries above mentioned, including hostages and persons under trial or convicted;

4. Surrender in good condition by German armies of the following equipment: Five thousand guns, thirty thousand machine guns, three thousand minnewerfers, and two thousand aeroplones;

5. Evacuation by German armies of countries on the left bank of the Rhine. These countries on the left bank of the Rhine shall be administered by local authorities under the control of the Allied and the United States armies of occupation. The occupation of these territories will be determined by Allied and United States garrisons holding the principal crossings of the Rhine—Mayence, Coblentz, Cologne, together with the bridgeheads at these points in a thirty kilometre radius on the right bank, and by garrisons similarly holding the strategic points of the regions. The evacuation by the enemy of Rhine lands shall be so ordered as to be completed within a further period of eleven days., in all, nineteen days after the signature of the armistice.

6. In all territory evacuated by the enemy there shall be no evacuation of inhabitants, no damage or harm shall be done to persons or property of the inhabitants.

The remaining conditions cover technical points, and arrange for the complete disarmament of all vessels of the German Navy not actually surrendered. Every sailor and officer in the German Navy is to be paid off and discharged. The existing blockade conditions set up by the Allies is to remain and all German merchant ships found at sea are liable to capture.

Freedom of the sea so and from the Baltic to be given to merchant ships of Allied Powers. All Allied merchant ships in German ports to be surrendered. All German forts in the neighbourhood of the Baltic to be occupied by the Allies.

This armistice agreement to be effective for thirty days, and may be renounced on two days' notices by either party within that period.

7.—Five thousand locomotives, fifty thousand wagons and ten thousand motor lorries in good working order with all necessary spare parts and fittings shall be delivered to the associated powers.

8.—German command shall be responsible for revealing all mines or delay-acting fuse disposed on territory evacuated by German troops and shall assist in their discovery and destruction.

9.—Upkeep of troops of occupation in Rhine land, excluding Alsace Lorraine shall be charged to the German government.

10.—An immediate repatriation without reciprocity according to detailed conditions which shall be fixed

GREATEST WAR IN HISTORY CAME TO END THIS MORNING

Armistice Was Signed by the German Representatives at Midnight---The Terms Were Strong---The Signing of the Agreement Brands Germany as a Beaten Nation.

EX-GERMAN EMPEROR ARRIVES AT THE DUTCH FRONTIER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. — At six o'clock this morning, United States eastern time, the greatest war in history came to an end.

The State Department officially announced early to-day that the German plenipotentiaries signed the United States-Allied armistice terms at the Foch headquarters at five o'clock this morning, and that hostilities ceased at 11 o'clock, both French time. While an armistice merely halts the war and does not end it, the terms laid down by Foch are such as to prevent Germany from renewing hostilities. The war, therefore, may be reported as definitely over.

There remains now the great problems of the peace conference and the gigantic work of returning the fighters to their homelands. As to the first, Geneva and Brussels are mentioned as the most likely points for the peace negotiations, and as for the second, the general staff already has completed its plans for demobilization.

At the close of the unprecedented strife Germany stood alone before the wrath of twenty-two civilized nations. These twenty-two were in arms, five others had severed relations and her Government, and two others, Russia and Roumania, she had embittered by the enforcement of a victorious peace. Her enemies had called to the colours over twenty-three million men during the conflict, determined to crush for ever the power that had upset the peace of the world. Her allies, Bulgaria, Turkey and Austria-Hungary, had left her when her strength began to weaken, and finally her own people, seeing at last the disaster their treacherous Emperor and war load had brought upon them, overthrew his reign, and he had fled the country. In the kaleidoscopic events of the four years of war, twenty-two great nations participated in the fighting. Over thirty-three million men were under arms. More than sixteen million men were killed, wounded or gassed. The war has cost more than one hundred billions of dollars.

The actual terms had not been announced by the State Department up to early to-day. Word apparently was awaited from Paris as to any possible changes in phraseology at the Foch headquarters at the last moment. The text, as shaped by the Versailles Conference, was in possession of the State Department, and it was assumed that it would be made public during the forenoon.

Its terms were strong. They were such that Germany could not renew the war even if she would. They made it certain that the associated supremacy should be assured. That was scarcely necessary, for Germany was thoroughly defeated in the field, and the crack in morale at home had written "finish" on the struggle long before the document was signed.

THE WORLD WAR ENDED THIS MORNING AT SIX O'CLOCK, PETERBOROUGH TIME.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. — The world war will end this morning at six o'clock, Washington time, 11 o'clock Paris time. The armistice was signed by the German representatives at midnight. This announcement was made by the State Department at 2 o'clock this morning.

EX-GERMAN EMPEROR'S ARRIVAL ON THE DUTCH FRONTIER.

LONDON, Nov. 11. — The former German Emperor's party which is believed to include Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, arrived at Eysden on the Dutch frontier, 7.30 Sunday morning, according to the Daily Mail. Practically the whole German General Staff accompanied the former Emperor, and ten automobiles carried the party. The automobiles were bristling with rifles, and all the fugitives were armed. The ex-Kaiser was in uniform. He alighted at the Eysden station, and paced the platform, smoking a cigarette. Eysden lies about midway between Liege and Maastricht, on the Dutch border. Chatting with members of the staff, the former Emperor, correspondence says, he did not look in the least distressed. A few minutes later an Imperial train, including restaurant and sleeping cars, ran into the station. Only servants were aboard.

Evacuation Period is Extended

"Allied Troops Will Not Advance Until Further Orders."

(Special to Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 11. —Marshal Foch issued the following order to all the allied commanders to-day:

"Hostilities will cease on November 11th at 11 a.m., along the entire front.

"The allied troops will not, until further orders, go beyond the line reached at that hour."

(Special to Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 11. — The period given for the evacuation of the left bank of the Rhine by the German forces has been extended by 24 hours according to a French wireless despatch received here.

The Belgian frontier east of the Forest of Trelon, east of Avesnes, has been reached by the French. The Italian troops have entered the town of Rooroi, less than two miles from the frontier. Between Meziers and Sedan, the French have forced their way to the east bank of the Meuse, between Lumes and Vrigne.

Kaiser Has Crossed the Border Into Holland

Presence of Kaiser and His Party Is Causing Uneasiness Among Authorities—Did Not Obtain Permission.

CONDITIONS IN GERMANY

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The arrival of William Hohenzollern, the former German Emperor, with his wife and eldest son, has caused excitement and much uneasiness among the Dutch authorities and public of that country. It is unofficially stated that the refugees did not obtain the authorization from Holland to enter the country, and crossed the frontier in the neighbourhood of Eysden because the Dutch neutrality guards were weak at that point.

Wurttemburg, Schleswig, Holstein, and Hesse Darmstadt, have declared themselves independent republics, following the action taken by Bavaria last Friday. The Republic of Poland has served official notice on Austria that Poland has annexed the Crown land of Galicia.

WAVE OF ABDICATIONS.

Special to the Examiner:

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The flight of the former Kaiser and the Crown Prince into Holland has precipitated a wave of abdications in Germany.

It is officially announced in a despatch from Darmstadt that the Grand Duke of Hesse has decreed that under present conditions, pending a permanent action, a State Council will take over the Government at Schwerin in Mecklenburg-Schwerin and Duchy.

A constituent assembly will be elected through equal, secret and direct suffrage.

FREE SOCIALIST REPUBLIC.

Special to the Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 11. — Hesse Darmstadt has declared itself a Free Socialist Republic until a German Republic is established. It is reported that the garrison at Dresden is in the hands of Provisional soldiers and the Workmen's Council.

The Krupp Works at Essen are in the hands of the Revolutionists. Their owners attempted flight, but were arrested.

In Berlin the crowds were fired on by machine guns once at the beginning of the revolution, but the situation is now one comparative order, all troops having joined the revolution.

PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT.

Special to the Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 11.—In their proclamation of the establishment of a Republic in Schleswig-Holstein to-day the workmen and soldiers announced: "The political power is in our hands. A Provisional Government is in the process of formation.

"Our aim is a free, Socialist Republic, organized along lines that will secure peace for the future.

AN ACCOMPLISHED FACT.

Special to the Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 11.—The revolution in Germany is to-day, to all intents and purposes, an accomplished fact. The revolt has not yet spread throughout the whole Empire. Fourteen of the twenty-six states, including all the four kingdoms and all other important states, are reported securely in the hands of the Revolutionists.

Fleet Has Surrendered

Entire Austrian Fleet Has Been to the Italians.

(Special to Examiner.)

ROME, Nov .11. — The entire Austrian fleet has been handed over to the Italians, and is now interned in Venice, Spakato and Buccari.

(Buccari is in the Istrian peninsula, six miles south east of Fiume. Spakato is in Dalmutia, 75 miles to the southeast of Zara.)

The supplementary clauses of the armistice, it was announced, provided that by 10 p.m. November 6th, Austria must place in Venice, the vessels Teghelef, Prince Eugene Ferdinand, Maxsaida, No. 5 Maxsaida, Novara and Helgoland.

Nine destroyers, twelve torpedo boats, fifteen submarines, and all German submarines in Austro-Hungarian waters. Other units of the fleet were consigned to Spalato and Buccari. Restitution of merchant ships to the Allies was carried out according to agreement.

REBELLIONS HAVE OCCURRED IN HANOVER

Rebellions have occurred in Hanover, Cologne, Brunswick and Magdeburg, according to an official announcement from Berlin. These cities are not wholly in the hands of the mutineers. The garrison at Magdeburg resisted.

Socialists are now reported to control the Wolff News Agency, which formerly was dominated by the German Government. The Prussian Ministry is said to have resigned in a body. The revolt is spreadng through Bavaria, the Baltic ports, Berlin, Cologne and elsewhere like wildfire.

GERMANY IS BRANDED AS A BEATEN NATION

(By Carl D. Groat).

United Press:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Germany signed to-day an armistice agreement that branded her before the world as a beaten nation.

By its terms, she surrendered in the field to a better force than the mighty military machine her autocrats had builded.

By it, she agreed to the evacuation of occupied territories. She swore away her hold on a generous portion of her battleship and submarine fleets. She acceded to demands for the surrender of a portion of her war material. In other words, she admitted that the Allies were victorious, and agreed to strong stipulations which made the nation unable to renew the strife, even if its shattered people were so inclined.

Special to the Examiner:

ZURICH, Nov. 10.—The Austrian National Council has decided to conduct a plebiscite on the future constitution for Austria, also on affiliation with the German Empire, a Vienna despatch announces.

German Censorship Authorizes a Vague Report.

Special to the Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 10.—The German censorship permits the sending out of reports that riots have occurred in Berlin. Schools were closed because it was dangerous for children to be in the streets. Soldiers are occupying all public buildings and places. The police dispersed demonstrators before the Crown Prince's palace.

GERMAN COMMANDER NOTIFIED.

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Marshal Foch, according to a French wireless received here, has notified the German Commander-in-Chief that hostilities will cease on the whole front as from Nov. 11 at eleven o'clock a.m., six o'clock Washington time.

Besides the five principal German delegates, others in the German party are Major Dusterberg, Brickmann, Kriebel and Von Boettcher and Baron Von Lersner. The principal German delegates are Matais Erzerber, General Winterfeldt, Count Alfred Von Oberndorff, General Von Gruennel and Naval Captain Von Salow.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

MONDAY, NOV. 11TH, 1918

Praise God from whom all blessings flow.

Peace at last. The enemy has signed the armistice terms —the war is over. Praise God the time will soon come when the boys will be home. The news is so stupendous that we can scarcely yet realize what it meant. The menace that has over hung the world for the past four years and three months has been completely crushed The Kaiser, the arch criminal is gone, hurled from his seat of power by his own people. The bull dog tenacity of the British people, the courage and dash of the French, the never-say-die spirit of the other Allies and the assistance of Uncle Sam have triumphed.

As Canadians we can celebrate with full vented enthusiasm because the Dominion which we are so proud has played a man's part in the gigantic struggle. To-day is the time for rejoicing and for giving thanks to the Providence that has brought us safely through the perils of the world's greatest war.

So on with the celebration but even as we demonstrate our wild delight in the news let us remember that our responsibility does not end with the signing of armistice terms. Let us not forget that we must this week complete the raising of the Victory Loan and that we must begin to prepare for doing our duty to the Soldiers of Canada's army who soon will be returning to us.

But for today on with the celebration.

READY FOR PEACE?

Four years and three months ago Canada was not ready for war. Is Canada now ready for peace? Would that the answer to this question could be given in the affirmative. As a matter or fact, there is no indication that this country is prepared to meet the post-war economic and industrial problems that will flood in upon us as soon as the war comes to an end, and with it the end of the war industries that have kept the factories running night and day. That munition-making will stop almost immediately the war is ended seems inevitable; in fact the Imperial Munitions Board is already warning its employees to take the first opportunity of securing permanent positions that presents itself. The majority of the munition plants are not prepared to engage in any other line of manufacturing and cannot promise continuation of employment to the thousands of workers who have been engaged in making iron rations for the Huns. Some may be able to manufacture peace products, but their staffs will necessarily have to be curtailed and many employees will find themselves without positions.

In Toronto to-day there is being held a meeting to organize for peace and to impress upon the Dominion Government the importance of dealing vigorously with the problems of reconstruction. Senator Frederic Nicholls, head of the Canadian General Electric Company, is chairman of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association Committee which has been considering this vitally important matter and the committee is to be augmented by representatives of the Trades and Labour Congress, the Independent Labour party, the Canadian Reconstruction Association, and the different technical bodies. It is to be hoped that this representative body will succeed in awakening the Government to a realization of the fact that Canada should have a big share in the reconstruction of Europe. Already much valuable time has been lost, and through the inaction and slowness of Canada's trade representatives abroad foreign contracts that would have been of the greatest benefit to Canada in the days following the end of the war have been allowed to get away.

With war industries eliminated, and thousands of war workers released, followed by the return from overseas of Canada's soldiers for whom positions will have to be found, the labour situation will become most serious if vigorous Government action to meet the problem is not taken at once.

PORT HOPE'S CHANCE.

The people of Port Hope just now have the finest opportunity of their lives to gloat over their neighbors from Cobourg, and, needless to say, they are taking full advantage of the chance. The two lakeshore towns, it should be understood, are deadly rivals in every sense of the word, and civic jealousy has been developed to the Nth degree. Of late years, Cobourg having been chosen as the port of call for the big ferries crossing Lake Ontario, has been rather inclined to patronize her sister lakeshore town, and Port Hope having nothing to offset the advantage gained by her rival, has had to submit silently. Now, however, Port Hope suddenly bursts into the calcium light, because of the fact that among the very few people who were privileged to be present at the historic meeting between General Foch and his associates and the German armistice envoys, was a Port Hope boy, Rear Admiral Sims, of the United States navy, who represented America at the conference. Admiral Sims was born in Port Hope. Hence the pride of the people of that town at the incident, and the joy over the opportunity to score at Cobourg's expense.

THE LAST WEEK.

The last lap of the Victory Loan drive is before us. The home stretch has been reached, and with the finishing line in sight, there should be a renewed inspiration and zeal in the campaign, so that both the city and county shall have not only earned their honour flags by the end of the week, but shall have left their objective far behind. Flushed by the success of the first two weeks of the campaign, other cities have decided to increase their objectives. Peterboro's aim is $1,850,000, but we should at least reach the $2,000,000 mark before Saturday.

It is of the utmost importance to Canada that this loan shall be fully subscribed. It will be a personal loss to every citizen who can arrange to buy bonds, if he fails to do so. As an investment nothing more attractive has been offered the people of Canada. The bonds, backed by the whole credit of the Dominion, pay the splendid interest rate of 5 1-2 per cent. It will be a long time before there will be another chance to get government bonds offering so many advantages as the present loan.

To keep Canada's industries going ,to ensure the sale of Canada's surplus farm produces to Great Britain, to bring the boys home from overseas, Canadians everywhere must invest to the limit in Victory Bonds.

IN BAD TASTE

The management of the theatrical attractions that visit Canada from the United States, especially the musical offerings that are so frequently presented on Canadian stages, always seem to forget that their performance is not being given at home, but in a foreign country. The result is that song after song, telling of the prowess of the "Yanks," and impressing upon those who have to listen to these numbers the idea that Uncle Sam is doing all the fighting, are being inflicted upon Canadian audiences. The songs are all right in their place; they were written for the people of the United States and undoubtedly are popular across the line, but in Canada they do not exactly fit in—any more than a British company touring the United States would seem justified in singing one boastful song after another exalting the deeds of John Bull in the world war. Even to those who fully appreciate what the entrance of America into the struggle has meant to the Allies, the constant repetition of ditties conveying the idea that only one nation is doing the fighting is distasteful. Such songs are seldomly enthusiastically received on this side of the border, and it is not to be wondered at when it is considered that in the audiences who listen to them there are usually men who were fighting in France a couple of years before Uncle Sam got into the game and many more who gave up their husbands or fathers or brothers to the cause of democracy long weary months before an American soldier stepped on board a transport. Theatrical managers should appreciate these facts and realize that it is bad taste, to say the least, to allow too many of the songs of the type referred to to be given before Canadian audiences.

Alas, the war is not a new thing to Canada For over four years she has been pouring out her flesh and blood for civilization's sake. Her troops had sustained over many thousands casualties before the United States declared war and since the toll has steadily increased. In fact the Canadians have sustained over two thirds as many losses in the past two and a half months as the American army has had to face since the war began.

The companies who come to us from the South would be wise to understand these things and to refrain from inflicting such numbers as "The Yanks Are At It Again" on audiences who know only too well that long before the "Yanks" were at it, the Belgians and French and British and Canadians and Australians and New Zealanders and Italians and Serbs and Russians were at it, fighting and suffering and dying that the German menace should be removed from the world.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Stick it, Canada.

Lend as they fight.

Two millions at least from Peterborough County in the Victory Loan.

Lets hear from the townships this week and Peterborough will speed past its objective.

Only one more week for the Victory Loan Campaign. You may never get another chance after Saturday of buying Government bonds with interest at 5½ per cent.

The only way the Kaiser should be allowed to step off the throne would be into the air with a rope around his neck.

Food Board Flashes

The school lunch box presents an everyday problem to the busy mother of several growing children. She must select the necessary foods in sufficient quantities to meet the needs of the growing child; she must provide variety in choice from day to day and pack the food carefully in a suitable receptacle so that it may be in perfect condition when served.

The war breads are extremely wholesome for children. The four authorized substitutes are barley flour, oat flour, rye flour and corn flour. Milk, eggs, bread, lean meat, cheese and beans provide the child with muscle-building material. Heat and energy are derived from sugar, fruit, milk and vegetables, while the mineral matter in fruit and vegetables is essential for all ages.

Big Home Front Drive on To-day

(By United Press.)

New York, Nov. 11.—Confidence in the success of raising $170,500,000 to be used in service work for American fighters to-day marked the commencement of the nationwide United War Work campaign of the seven recognized servide agencies merged for the drive.

With the slogan "United We Serve," the Y.M.C.A. National Catholic War Council (K. of C.) War Camp Community service, Jewish Welfare board, American Library Association and Salvation Army went before the nation on their records of aid in winning the war, asking for a fund to continue and to expand their service to our fighters, and to those of our allies and to the American women war workers in France. The drive will continue until November 18th.

Organized at the request of President Wilson, the United War Work campaign fired its first big gun in the form of the President's warm endorsement of the services the seven cooperating organizations have rendered to minister to the mental, spiritual and bodily welfare of the American fighting men, providing athletics, entertainment, recreation and many comforts which all tended to sustain a high morale with the resultant splendid record of the American war-making branches. In addition to the President's official statement that these organizations fulfil an extremely necessary part in winning the victory against the Germans, managers of the drive announced to-day they had the signed endorsement of the cabinet members of the civilian heads of every entente nation and of the American and allied military and naval leaders.

A hundred field workers of the united force, invalided from the war zone after having been gassed or wounded or exposed to illness in the course of their unselfish work for the soldiers and marines have been assigned to tell their experiences this week at meetings throughout the land giving first-hand information as to the need of more and continuous service for our fighters. Meetings and parades have been arranged throughout the country while motion pictures showing the work of the various service organizations will present convincing arguments for the success of the drive.

The United War Work campaign was organized at President Wilson's request to coordinate and merge the seven distinct drives which the seven agencies contemplated, a great saving in energy, duplication, and time. The director-general of the campaign is Dr. John R. Mott, chief executive of the Y.M.C.A., who with George W. Perkins represents that organization; the other agencies being represented as follows: Mrs. Henry P. Davidson, Y.W.C.A.; John W. Agar and James W. Phelan, National Catholic War council; Mortimer L. Schiff, Jewish Welfare board; Myron T. Herrick War Community service; Frank A. Vanderlip, American Library association, and Gordon George Battle, Salvation Army, with Cleveland H. Dodge as treasurer, John D Rockfeller, Jr., chairman of the New York City campaign committee, and Raymond B. Fosdick, of the war department committee on camp activities as ex-officio chairman.

WAR AND THE SUGAR BOWL

No. 4

Canadian restaurants are not permitted to give their customers all the sugar they ask for. Manufacturers and confectioners have also been put upon strict sugar rations, and could not well get below their present minimum. Why should people at home expect to get it? When all the people in private homes get down to the level of restaurants and sugar manufacturers, the shortage will be fully met. "What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander." 2 pounds a month—the limit—means 6 spoonfuls a day.

There'll Be A Hot Time In The Old Town To-night

Preparations for Parade and Public Meeting at Central Park—Fireworks are Expected, Bands and Decorated Automobiles Will Be Out

It looks like a big night to-night. The morning show was only a workout, an improvised celebration that was surprisingly complete, uproarious and funnier than a circus parade, but if the crowd is not exhausted by the jostling, shouting and noise of the morning and afternoon, to-night should surpass anything the old town has ever witnessed. It has been a long time coming, but it is here at last, and to-morrow it will be history.

Route of Procession.

In order that there may be some order to the procession, which would have been held anyway, Mayor Duncan has prepared the following route:

Meet at Central Park at 7.30 o'clock.
Down George street to Charlotte street.
Charlotte street to Park street.
Park to Hunter.
Hunter to Aylmer.
Aylmer to Simcoe.
Simcoe to George.
George to Central Park.

Everybody is invited to take part in the parade and to follow the directions of the marshalls. The individual processions afterwards may look out for themselves. The Oddfellows, Laborers' Unions, and other bodies are preparing to march in groups.

Programme at the Park.

The programme at Central Park, after the procession, will be as follows:

Doxology.
God Save the King.
Mayor's address.
W. S. Anderson, Esq., Warden of the County.
His Honour Judge Huycke.
His Lordship Bishop O'Brien.
I. B. Burnham, Esq., M.P.
Rev. J. A. Mackenzie.
(Sing)—Rule Brittania.
G. A. Gillespie, Esq., M.P.P.
H. Staunton, Esq., President G. W. V. A.
Lieut.-Col. Jos. Mills.
(Sing)—Maple Leaf.
God Save the King.

Autos In Parade.

Automobile owners are requested to decorate their cars and join in the parade. All the bands in the city will be out, and it is expected that the parade will be the biggest, noisiest and most joyful that Peterborough ever imagined in the gloomy days when the Hun was having it practically all his own way.

GOV'T MUST MEET NEW SITUATION G.W.V.A. SEC. SAYS

Apparently Have No Plans to Meet the Change that Peace Will Immediately Bring

TORONTO, Nov. 11.—"The war has been won by democracy and now democracy must be made safe and sure for a sorely-stricken world," was the statement made this morning by W. E. Turley, the Provincial Secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association.

"The Mafeking of to-day may conceal for a brief while the serious problems that are confronting Canada," continued Mr. Turley. "Nevertheless, we are face to face with conditions that call for more energetic statesmanship than was evidenced in the early days of the war.

"Canada may have been partially prepared for war, but there is very little to show that she is even partially prepared for peace. A committee to consider the problems of reconstruction was organized some months ago, but their plans have apparently been kept a deep secret."

"What would you suggest the Government should do to meet these needs?"

Should Inform the People.

"The Federal Government should immediately acquaint the people of Canada with the methods they intend to use to meet the situation," replied Mr. Turley. "Canadians want to know and ought to know just how they can do their part in saving civilization for the world at large and ruin of the social industrial confusion that is now upon us."

"Representative men and women of every grade of society who together will be the best brains of all trades and professions, should be given an opportunity at once to combine in the great work that lies before us.

Unity Is Essential.

"Surely to goodness this war has taught us the necessity of unity," exclaimed the G.W.V.A. secretary. "But if this war fails to weld Canada into a greater unity than existed prior to the war, then the Government at Ottawa may be saddled with much of the blame for it."

"The close of the war may see much criticism of the Government, which has been so far restrained, attaching itself more directly to the departments affected. The G. W. V. A. for example, have not criticized the Government for placing returned soldiers in buildings that have been condemned.

"The Federal Land scheme is at the end of its present possibilities, two thousand homesteads being the absolute limit of land that is at present obtainable. Then, again, there has been a shameful evasion of the housing ploblem by the present governments and preceding governments, which should not be allowed to continue."

"Real estate adventurers and hustler speculators have had Canada by the throat for too many years and they must have their throttling hold broken if we are to dwell together in peace and comfort."

Allies Enter Dardanelles

(Special to Examiner.)

PARIS, Nov. 11. — "The French torpedo boat Mangini, with Brig.-General Houst on board, and the British torpedo boat Shark with the British General on board, entered the Dardanelles yesterday," it was officially announced to-day.

"They will anchor opposite Constantinople, where they will soon be joined by the allied squadrons.

"The Admiral commanding the French naval division in Syrian waters, wired that Alexandretta was occupied on Nov. 9th."

By covering up their tracks some men get credit for walking in the straight and narrow path.

Canadians Take Mons

Important Town Fell Before Cessation of Hostilities Was Declared.

(Special to the Examiner)

LONDON, Nov. 11.—(Official)—To the Canadian troops falls the honor of capturing the last important town before the armistice put an end to hostilities. Mons, where the British made brilliant stand at the beginning of war, was retaken Saturday by Canadians it was officially announced.

Americans Fox-trotted

Motorcycles Tore Along Shell Torn Roads With First News of Armistice

By WEBB MILLER

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, Nov. 11.—Motorcycle couriers tore along the road today shouting "It's over, boys!" Marching columns, tired and mud spattered, were galvanized into new life. They shouted, laughed and sang. I saw several doughboys under full packs fox-trotting in the middle of the road. The cheers rang from column to column. In the rail back to the nearest cable office, I passed many detachments who had not heard of the armistice. It was easy to tell by their appearance who had heard the news and who had not.

President's Proclamation

Special to the Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. — President Wilson issued a formal proclamation at ten o'clock this morning, announcing that an armistice with Germany had been signed. The proclamation read:

"My fellow-countrymen, the armistice was signed this morning. Everything for which America fought has been accomplished. It must be our fortunate duty to assist by example, by sober friendly counsel and by manly aid in the establishment of a first democracy throughout the world." — Woodrow Wilson.

MARSHAL FOCH RECEIVED BY THE PREMIER OF FRANCE

Paris, Nov. 11.—Marshall Foch was received by Premier Clemenceau at 10 o'clock this morning.

Crowd Cheered King and Queen

(Special to the Examiner)

London, Nov. 11.—A great multitude waving flags appeared before Buckingham Palace shortly before noon and cheered until the King and Queen, Princess Mary and the Duke of Connaught appeared on the balcony. National anthem was sung by the crowd.

When House of Commons met today Premier Lloyd George, after opening prayer was said, moved that the House adjourn immediately to St. Margaret's Church for thanksgiving service.

VICTORY BONDS

"THE DAY"

The war is over.

The guns are silent—the trenches are vacant—bloodshed has ceased—democracy is triumphant—freedom is assured.

Germany, the beaten, whimpering bully of the nations, lies stripped of power, whining for mercy, shudderingly awaiting the righteous retribution to be exacted for his fiendish crimes against outraged civilization.

A war-worn world is nursing its wounds and planning for a future of peace and universal freedom.

In this day of thankful joy and glorious triumph let us not forget the imperative duty lying immediately before us.

Let us manfully, dutifully and determinedly round out the nation's splendid effort.

Let us be as big in this triumphant day as our men have been heroic in the fiery din and bloody peril of battle.

Issued by Canadian Victory Loan Committee in Co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.

May Return First

RAILWAY TROOPS ARE LIKELY TO RETURN TO CANADA FIRST.

LONDON, November 11. — Another appeal is made to women and children of Canadian soldier dependents to return to Canada forthwith. Accommodation is now ample. Canadian military authorities are putting arrangements for this class of traveller on a wider basis, enabling soldiers now awaiting transhipment at Buxton and their wives to travel together.

It may be taken as a broad principle that those soldiers who have served the longest will have first passage home, and much also will depend upon information supplied from Canada concerning immediate labor needs of the Dominion. Such units as the Railway Troops doubtless will be demobilized as early as possible. In any event transshipment will be spread over a considerable time. We are in a position to assert that nobody will be able yet to count upon returning to Canada at any definite date.

Wise is the woman who doesn't worry but twists her crowning glory up in curl papers and keeps right on hoping for the best.

DR. E. K. HENDERSON DEAD.

Former Torontonian who had Spent Recent Years in Practice in Haliburton.

The death occurred at Haliburton, of Mr. E. K. Henderson, son of Mr. James Henderson, of Toronto. He was only 31 years of age. He was a graduate of the University of Toronto, and had wide experience considering his years. He was a house surgeon at the old Toronto General Hospital and assistant to Dr. Wishart, in Toronto. Then he went to study in London, Paris, and Vienna. In Toronto he was a member of the Bloor street Presbyterian church. He was well known throughout the County of Haliburton, and was the Medical Officer for the county battalion raised there some time ago for active service. He settled there after marrying a Haliburton girl.

It is believed by the Toronto doctor who went up to Haliburton to attend him, that Dr. Henderson got cold while out all night one night attending a patient. His brother, Dr. Jas. Henderson, died recently after serving in Flanders and Mesopotamia.

Enemy Keeping Out of Reach

(United Press.)
(By Lowell Mellett.)

ALLIED FRONT, November 10. — 10 p.m. — Brussels was reported to-night to be as brightly lighted as in peace time.

The Germans are succeeding in keeping out of the reach of the British at many points, but the cavalry and airmen were passe-ving contact with the enemy.

Now, All Together and Over The Top!

It will take the united effort of every man, woman and child in town to surpass the quota set for us in this Victory Loan 1918 drive.

But we'll do it!

We cannot afford to let any ward—any section—any individual institution lag behind.

The ONLY way to do a thing is to DO it.

NOW is the time to subscribe—not to-morrow, or the day after—but NOW—TO-DAY.

When the men at the front get an order to take an enemy trench, they don't say "to-morrow will do." No! They respond to the call of duty PROMPTLY.

When we, at home, are given a definite objective to reach—as we are in this Victory Loan Campaign—we must lose no time in getting our individual subscriptions in.

If the Victory Loan workers fail to call on you promptly, look them up.

Plan to take all the Bonds you can possibly pay for. The payments are as follows:

10 per cent. on application. 20 per cent. January 6th, 1919.
20 per cent. Dec. 6th, 1918. 20 per cent. February 6th, 1919.
31.16 per cent. March 6th, 1919.

Or, you can arrange with your Employer, or your Bank, to buy your Bonds, on other terms, extending the payments over a year.

See that your factory—your store—your place of business—earns the right to display the Honour Emblem, that signifies a duty well done.

How the Big Cities Are Celebrating End of War

Old Air Raid Signals Were Fired in London—Paris Takes the News Calmly—Herd of Elephants Head Big New York Parade—Nothing Overlooked in Toronto.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 11.—News of the signing of the armistice soon became known to those persons in the centre of the city as flags were immediately flown to the breeze and the issuance of evening newspapers for which there was a great rush at 11 o'clock. The first official celebration came when old air raid signals were fired from all police and fire stations. London then gave itself over to the celebration of the event which although expected was welcomed nevertheless.

Special constables were called out to-day to assist the police in handling the crowds celebrating the signing of the armistice.

Paris Taking It Calmly.

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, Nov. 11.—France is bearing the good news with the same calm temperament with which it bore the vicissitudes of the past four years. Quiet joy is visible on every countenance, but there is little outward expression. The French public is turning its attention to the extraordinary events in Germany. While few bands played in the streets and there was much singing of the Marseillaise, great crowds in the boulevards paid most attention to the newspaper bulletin boards. Many Parisians remained up until far into the night discussing the news in cafes.

In Old New York.

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A herd of elephants elbowed its way solemnly up Fifth avenue this morning, but nobody noticed it. The elephants had intended to take part in a United War Work Campaign parade, but by eight o'clock all New York was on parade, and there was not room for any formal processions. The delirium of last Thursday was rank routine compared with the superledlam that reigns in New York to-day.

Nothing Overlooked.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Nov. 11.—Nothing ever invented, in the way or means and methods of joyful celebration was overlooked by this city to-day. The whole city was awakened at 8 a.m. and the crowd grew larger and enthusiasm more intense as the hours passed. A public half holiday had been proclaimed for this afternoon for Victory Loan celebrations, but practically every place of business or toil failed to open this morning. The crowds as a rule while enthused beyond measure but were quite orderly and no serious damage had been reported up to noon. A favourite method of celebration was the hanging and burning of the effigy of the Kaiser in the middle of the street. Despatches indicated General celebrations all over the Dominion. Reports of early morning riots in Kitchener, Ont., proved unfounded.

THE BRTISH NAVAL LOSSES

Twenty-seven Thousand Men Killed as Result of Naval Activity.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The British navy from the beginning of the war, has lost from all causes, the following ships:

Eleven battleships, three battle cruisers, ten armoured cruisers, seven light cruisers, fifty-four destroyers, six torpedo boats, fourteen submarines, fifteen mine sweepers, four monitors, four gunboats, thirty-three trawlers, thirtythree auxiliary cruisers and ten motor boats.

No less than 27,000 of the navy's personnel have been killed.

CASUALTIES DURING WAR

The Total is Estimated at Twenty-six Million Men.

(Special to Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The "Express" estimates the casualties of the European nations during the war as follows:

Germany 6,900,000.
Austria 4,500,000.
France 4,000,000.
Britain 2,900,000
Turkey 750,000.
Belgium 250,000.
Rumania 200,000.
Bulgaria 200,000.

With the unestimated casualties of Russia and others not included in the above list the "Express" estimates the total casualties of the war at twenty-six million men.

AMERICAN CASUALTIES

Special to the Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. — The American casualties in the war, made public up to the hour of the cessation of hostilities, totalled 60,420; of these, 12,460 were killed in action.

Believes German Sailors Mutinied Two Weeks Ago

This Belief is Expressed by Sir Eric Geddes.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Sailors in the German navy mutinied when the fleet was ordered out to fight the British two weeks ago, is the belief of Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the British Admiralty. He added there must be sympathy for the British fleet because it had been robbed of its chance to "give the enemy a good licking."

Her sister, Mrs. R. Sixbey who resides in Rochester telephoned to Peterboro at an early hour this morning, told her sister the good news which was hardly audible because of the bands and hilarity of the populace.

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Sir,—At this time of celebration and rejoicing and decoration may I suggest one way of illuminating after dark sets in viz., for every householder to turn on the light in every room facing the roadway also the verandah light, say from 6 to 9 o'clock to-night, the effect would be fine.

RACING MACHINERY MAY GET INTO ACTION

OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—Horse racing, with the privilege of betting, is one of the things which will come back automatically after the war unless Parliament should specially legislate otherwise. Since August, 1917, racing with betting has been banned, and under the order-in-Council the lid is to be on during the continuance of the war and six months afterwards. At the expiration of that time the restriction will be lifted without the necessity of legislation. The order-in-Council will run out and the law will stand as before, so if peace is imminent the ponies and bookies may resume their activities next summer.

EARLY MORNING PARADE WAS OVER A MILE IN LENGTH

The Band of the Great War Veterans Headed the Opening Parade—All Kinds of Vehicles Pressed Into Service.

Never has Peterboro seen such a parade as the impromptu one arranged by the Great War Veterans this morning. A procession over a mile long, containing every kind of vehicle that could be induced to move, including even an old-fashioned high-wheeled bicycle, everything bedecked with flags and bunting, and with men, women and children packed on whatever there was room to sit, stand or cling, with every possible device that would make a noise, the parade was an outpouring of the city's joy that has never been equalled. There had been a half dozen earlier triumphal processions during the morning, and the participants in these all got together at the armouries for the big turn out, that would show just how Peterboro felt over the news.

Out in front were the combined bands of the Veterans and 57th Regiment, and marching behind, proudly, as they had every right to do, were the men who had helped to make the victory possible by meeting the Huns in the earlier clash of the war, the members of the Great War Veterans' Association. Included in their ranks, in his French uniform of blue and red, was Louis Houedry, who went back at the beginning of the war to fight for his native France, and who represented the gallant poilus in this morning's parade. Behind the marching Veterans came the Temple Band riding in a huge truck, behind which was dragged a field gun, manned by a number of veteran artillerymen. Then followed the Collegiate Cadets, carrying their rifles and headed by their own bugle band. The stretcher-bearers belonging to the Cadet Corps brought up the rear, carrying thereon the Kaiser, who looked to be in a bad shape, as might have been expected.

Route of Parade.

Then came car after car, big trucks, packed to the limit with wildly cheering people and pleasure cars flying the flags of the allies. Delivery wagons of all kinds had their share in the parade. There were clown bands and negro bands, kazoo bands and impromptu choirs, which sang all sch patriotic airs, "Until the Boys Come Home," being an especial favorite. Everything on wheels that could be induced to slide along, was requisitioned for the parade, which starting from the armouries at 10 o'clock, moved down George street to Charlotte street, west to Aylmer, along Aylmer to Hunter and then east to Water, along that street to London, over to George street, and back to Central park, where a meeting was held for a few minutes. Mayor Duncan addressed the crowd briefly, remarking that the authorities desired them to keep on celebrating, and announcing the parade this evening. His Worship asked that everyone should provide himself with a torch of some kind for the procession.

Mr. Harvey Staunton, president of the Peterboro branch of the Great War Veterans, said that to-day was the day the people had been waiting for for over four years. It was the greatest victory in the history of the world and they proposed to celebrate all day and all night, a statement that was wildly cheered.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn, chairman of the Victory Loan Committee, reminded the crowd that Canada's obligations were not over with the end of the war. The Victory Loan must be fully subscribed so that the boys might be clothed and fed and maintained until they can be brought home.

Sections of the paraders did not dispense with the conclusion of the Central Park meeting, but kept the noise going until the noon hour, and were ready to resume again the first thing this afternoon.

SPECIAL PRAYERS IN CATHOLIC CHURCHES EARLY THIS MORNING

Special prayers of thanksgiving were offered in the Catholic churches this morning for the successful termination of the war and the coming of peace as indicated by the enemy's signing of the armistice. On Sunday it was announced, in expectation of the receipt of the news during the night, that in the event of official news reaching the city, the people should first express their gratitude to God. The whistles and bells this morning stirred the entire community. At St. Peter's Cathedral the congregation was so large that the mass, now celebrated in the vestry on week days to conserve fuel, was held in the church. The attendance at each of the two other churches was also large.

THE SMALL BOY HAD A MEMORABLE DAY

Whether the small boy has understood the meaning of the war, he required no instructions in celebrating the victory expressed in Germany's acceptance of the armistice. They were due for school this morning after the long holiday caused by the influenza epidemic, but instead they poured into the streets as early as on circus day, and took possession of the city.

The past four years have clouded the best part of many a youth's life. The boy who passed his entrance examinations when the war broke out is almost a senior in the Collegiate Institute. His term has lacked many of the pleasures that former students enjoyed, and to which he was entitled, so to-day's celebration offered something of a compensation, and he made the most of it. You saw him on waggons and drays, clinging to automobile steps, beating tin pans, blowing horns, throwing fire-crackers at girls' heels, entering into the fun and the din with all his heart. The small boy will remember this day above all others if he lives one hundred years. He provided the noisy background that dragged the city out of its sedate, sober, cheerless disposition, transforming it into as boisterous a community as any in the country of similar size. So, the small boy should be encouraged to wring the last measure of joy and fun out of this day. His fathers and brothers secured it for him, and its deeper significance will come home to him when he is no longer a boy. Don't you envy him?

CANADA WITHOUT A SHIP.

No Vessels to Transport Men — Result of Policy of Building by I. M. B.—Some Ships on Way.

OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—"As a direct result of the policy of building ships by the Imperial Munitions Board, it is true that Canada is without one ship to assist in the transportation of its men, is the statement made by Alex. Johnston, Deputy Minister of Marine. It was with a view to remedying this very deficiency that the Minister of Marine successfully urged the Government to undertake the construction of merchant ships to be owned by Canada, registered in Canada, and entirely subject to the direction of the Canadian authorities. The ships built by the Imperial Munitions Board are not to be owned by Canada.

WAR SUMMARY

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The Associated Press in a summary to-day says:

While the curtain was rolling down on the most stupendous tragedy in mankind's history, events were moving with terrible swiftness in Germany, about which revolved the plot and counter-plot of the drama. Berlin, Leipzic, Stuttgart, Cologne, Hamburg and Frantfort are in the hands of the Revolutionists, who last week raised the Red flag at Kiel. Germany's Navy is apparently scattered to disjoined units, each seeking sanctuary in Danish ports, or waiting in German harbours for the latest turn of events. Crowds singing the "Marseillaise" are marching through the streets of autocratic Berlin, and the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council has taken over the government of the Empire.

1,567 DAYS OF WAR.

After 1,567 days of horror, during which the whole civilized world has been convulsed, the greatest war in history ended this morning at six o'clock, Washington time. Details of the terms indicated by Marshal Foch it is believed are of such a nature as to protect the world from a resumption of the struggle by the Germans. It is assumed that they call for the demobilization of the Germans and the surrender of a part of Germany. The announcement of the State Department did not tell anything of the scene at Marshal Foch's headquarters at the time the armistice was signed. It was stated, however, that at five o'clock, Paris time, the signatures of Germany's delegates were affixed to the document which blasted for ever the military ambitions of Germany, which has cost, at the very lowest estimate, ten million lives.

Interviews With Prominent Citizens Concerning End of the World Conflict

"This Is a Great Day for All," Said Rev. J. A. McKenzie, President of Peterboro Ministerial Association—"Of Our Own Heroic Sons Canada Can Never Say Too Much," Declared Rev. Canon Davidson.

MAYOR G. H. DUNCAN.

"I do not know the terms of the armistice, but I take it for granted that they are such as to guarantee peace, and such peace as shall be lasting and count the signing of the armistice glorious news, a complete victory for the British Empire and its Allies, for freedom and liberty and the right of the people of all nations, small and large, to live their own lives unmolested by the unholy ambitions of others. A new and better day has dawned for the people."

REV. J. A. McKENZIE.

"This is a great day for us all. There are many reasons for this. The reason that will make it live throughout years and centuries to come is that it vindicates once again the purpose and power of God to dethrone the evil and exact the right."

REV. J. A. McKENZIE,
Pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church and President of the Ministerial Association.

REV. CANON J. C. DAVIDSON.

"On this day of gladness as a first duty we lift up our hearts in praise and thanksgiving to God, the Giver of this and all other blessings. Glory to God in the Highest, and once more peace on earth good-will towards men!

"Next, our thankful hearts go out to the brave men of our armies who have been the splendid instruments in God's hands of the glorious triumph and world-wide happiness!

"Chiefly do think of those who have nobly died that we may enjoy peace, progress and prosperity.

"Lastly let our glad hearts warm up towards one another—our fellow-citizens, compatriots—in fact everybody, everywhere! Again, peace on earth, good will towards men!

"Glory to God in the Highest, God save the King, our Empire, and Canada, our country! Has He not done it?"

BISHOP O'BRIEN.

"What can I say on a day when the vast majority of the world is thrilled with joy and gratitude but that I am thankful to God for the glorious victory and for the triumph of right over might. It has been a long, hard and bitter struggle, we have passed through days of depression and discouragement, but the length and hardship of the struggle make the victory all the more glorious.

"All honour to our leaders and our splendid soldiers who made victory possible; our gallant dead have not died in vain,—their remains lie in hallowed graves in Flanders' fields, and may their souls enjoy the light of Heaven, for they died in a sacred cause; the living, the war-worn soldier deserves our everlasting gratitude for he risked his life and was prepared to make the supreme sacrifice that we might live and that justice and right might triumph.

"May the world become better as a result of this excruciating trial and tribulation, and may we, who have been a united people in the prosecution of the war, be for ever united in the bounds of charity, mutual esteem and good will."

Judge E. S. Huycke.

"This is one of the greatest days in the world's history. To me it is wonderful, the most wonderful for humanity since the first Easter morning. For this day let us all most humbly, devoutly, reverently thank God. The freedom of mankind has been most seriously threatened, much more seriously, I feel, than many seemed to realize. 'Britons never shall be slaves' is a common saying, so common as to be almost trite. We always realized that Britons would die in defence of their own freedom, but the past four years and four months have shown their willingness to die for the freedom of other men and other nations. Christ died to make men holy. Our brothers and our sons have died—died willingly, gloriously — to make men free. Are we who are left worthy of so great an heritage as they have secured and left us. If not, they have died in vain. I pray the Good God, the great All Father, that we so prove ourselves in the coming years, that those years may be those of peace and goodwill among all men, and that this morning's dawn may be also the dawn of the Golden Age for which this old world has longed and striven throughout the ages."

MR. J. H. BURNHAM, M.P.

"Of our own heroic sons Canada can never say too much. It was they who made it possible for Canada to continue as a free people. To the wives and mothers of those at the front we pay humble tribute. We know what they have offered and what they have borne, and when the boys and girls come home and when we cheer until our throats are like to burst, let us not forget and let us never forget 'the girls they left behind them.'"

MR. G. A. GILLESPIE.

"The culmination of hostilities creates great responsibilities on the Allied nations, that is, the re-adjustment to normal conditions.

"The people of Canada will have a great duty to perform in the part that they must play in the production of food-stuffs to feed the Allied nations and indeed the Central Powers as well. Canada has exported millions of dollars more foodstuffs this year than last, and they will be expected to export millions of dollars more in 1919. So that our duty will be to furnish the money by subscribing to the Victory Loan to the hilt so that Canada can carry on in the great part that she has chosen and so nobly upheld.

"It will be the duty of producer and consumer to still realize the great task before us and bend our whole energy for a few more years so that Canada will emerge from the final struggle with the same courage as our soldiers overseas.

Belgium to Ask Indemnity of $2,000,000,000 From Huns

But Allies Will Not, It is Said, Expect Foe to Pay Their War Bills—Enemy Must Pay For Property Destroyed and Also Rental on It.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—According to reliable authorities the Allies will not attempt to saddle their war bill on the central powers as one of the peace terms. The Huns, it is figured, will have enough to do to pay the indemnities that will be demanded.

As an instance of what the enemy will have to pay the United Press has been given to understand that the indemnity Belgium alone will ask will be close to $2,000,000,000. The enemy also will have to pay huge indemnities to Serbia, Roumania, Montenegro, Italy, Russia, and France.

Not only will he have to pay for property destroyed, but he will have to pay rental on it.

Allies Have Won the Greatest Victory in History

(Special to the Examiner)

London, Nov. 11.—"The empire and its allies have won the greatest victory in history," declared Premier Lloyd George today in an address from the steps of his residence.

"You are well entitled to rejoice. It is you, and your sons and daughters who have done it. Let's thank God."

Peterborough, Ontario.

Dear Miss Dawson:—

Yesterday afternoon when the report about peace had come and your exchange was very busy, I had a long list which I called. I would like to thank yourself and the young ladies of the exchange for the effort they made to hand to them expeditiously and the success with which they did it under the circumstances.

Yours Very Truly,
S. R. ARMSTRONG

KILLED IN ACTION

SAPPER JOHN H. CAMERON

The news of the death in action of Sapper John Hamilton Cameron, son of Mr. John Cameron of the Customs House, was a shock to a very large circle of friends. Sapper Cameron was a Peterborough boy in every sense of the word, inasmuch as he was born in this city thirty-three years ago, and was educated in the local Public schools and Collegiate Institute. After leaving the latter he engaged in survey and engineering work, first in connection with C.P.R. construction work in Western Ontario and afterwards with the Trent Canal staff at Hastings. Later he accepted an offer from the Saskatchewan government and was engaged in engineering work at Regina, leaving for the west four or five years before the war.

Sapper Cameron enlisted in 1915 with the Canadian Engineers at Calgary, and after training at Landsdowne Park, Ottawa, went overseas in 1916. He was for some time with the 5th Canadian division in England and then went to France as dispatch rider, being connected with the 1st Canadian division. An official message from Ottawa states that he was killed in action on Oct. 15th.

Sapper Cameron is survived by his father, Mr John Cameron, three sisters, Miss Elsie at home, Mrs. Stanley H. Carpenter, Regina, and Mrs. E. S. Clarry, Calgary, and by two brothers, Norman of Montreal, and Max of the Royal Air Force, at present at Beamsville Camp.

FLU SPREADS OVER CIVILIZED WORLD

Germ Eludes Bacteriologists and Health Authorities Are Baffled

The Influenza Epidemic continues unabated. Its ravages are not confined to this city or even to Canada, and cable reports indicate that it is rapidly spreading over the civilized world. It has baffled medical skill to an unusual extent and has claimed more victims perhaps than any other epidemic in a score of years. The germ has eluded the Bacteriologists and medical men now agree that the best cure is prevention.

The surest prevention is to build up the bodily powers of resistance and to get the system into the best physical condition possible. It is now universally agreed that it is possible to perfect the powers of resistance of the human system so that it can throw off almost any infection not excepting Spanish Influenza.

It has been discovered that persons who are weak and rundown are the earlist victims, and if you find yourself tired or weak and losing flesh or if you are in a generally run-down condition and below your normal weight, this warning should be heeded promptly.

If you are in this condition nothing on earth will build you up and strengthen you like Tanlac, which contains the most powerful tonic properties known to science. As a reconstructive tonic and system builder it is without equal and contains the very elements needed by the system to give you fighting strength to ward off the Influenza germ. This is a statement of facts and is supported by the recognized authorities and reference works including the United States Dispensatory and the Encyclopedia Britannica and leading text books used in the school of medicine. This statement is further proven by the fact that millions of persons who have actually taken Tanlac have testified to its extraordinary merit as a medicine and by the fact that Tanlac is to-day having the greatest sale of any tonic on the market, over Eleven Million bottles having been sold within the past three years.

Tanlac is also the ideal strengthening tonic for persons who are suffering from the after-effects of Influenza, Grippe or bronchial troubles and hundreds of thousands are using it daily with the most gratifying results.

In connection with the Tanlac treatment it is necessary to keep the bowels open by taking Tanlac Laxative Tablets, samples of which are included with every bottle of Tanlac.

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd. In Havelock by A. C. Denike. In Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd. In Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter. In Gelert by A. J. Scott. In Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

Austrians Giving Themselves Up

(Special to The Examiner.)
(By Henry Wood.)

ROME, Nov. 11.—The total of Austrians who have been taken prisoner by Italian and Allied forces is now 600,000, and is increasing hourly. The Austrians are giving themselves up in order that they may obtain bread and much needed rest.

Government officials directing the kingdom's agricultural needs, have arranged to use 200,000 of the Austrians in farming.

Turkish Treasury Unable to Discharge Its Obligations

Elaborate Organization Created to Feed the Army—Tax Collectors on the Job.

Probably no country has displayed so little capacity to organize its food supply as Turkey. The outward show of control is there, but all is in a state of flux. Rationing was begun in March, 1917. A few months later it became apparent that the food card system was a failure, and that the barest necessaries of life were scarcely to be had in Constantinople. Strange revelations are made of Turkish control in the last issue of the National Food Journal, issued by the British Ministry of Food. The government of Turkey attempted to ration food, it appears, not only without knowing what stocks of grain were at its disposal, but actually without having taken a census of the population. In April, 1918, the census had still not been taken, and nothing has been heard of it since. Moreover, the officials were hopelessly corrupt, and food was in the hands of speculators, who sold it to Germany at high prices.

The Bread Supply.

Elaborate organization has apparently succeeded in keeping up the bread supply and the feeding of the army. A Food Council was formed, bread supply, and the feeding of the its executive powers. It set to work in the approved Turkish manner by appointing five more subordinate commissions, of which the most important was that for the suppression of monopolies. The result was that it was nobody's business to regulate food supplies and prices. At last in July, 1918, it was decided to institute a Ministry of Food. It was stated, however, that the principal task of the new Ministry would be to provide for the army and the officials, and only in the second place for the ordinary officials. How wretched this is may be judged from the statement made by a Turkish official some months ago, that the cost of living in Constantinople had risen 1970 per cent., and the cost of average foodstuffs had risen 3045 per cent.

Tax Collectors.

The Turkish farmer has to satisfy not only the army of tax collectors, but the requisitioning authorities. At first an amount of cereals of all kinds equal to the tithes, i.e., a second tenth, was requisitioned. Later it was announced that the Food Office might requisition a third tenth if necessary, and in the case of olives, a fourth tenth. The price for the second tenth was to be six times the pre-war average price, and for the third tenth twelve times. It might be thought that, though this system would raise the price of bread to the consumer, it would at any rate satisfy the farmer. But the requisitioning is paid for in paper money which has depreciated enormously—that is if it is paid at all. The treasury is not always in possession of sufficient funds to discharge its obligations.

A draft chairman was speaking of the complaints made in exemption and non exemption cases.

"Doubtless some get off who should go, and others go who have greater right to stay behind," he remarked, "for while we do all we can to be fair we are in a good deal the same fix as Mrs. Mulligan.

"'Do yez feel better this morning, Mrs. O'Toole?' asked Mrs. Mulligan.

"Mrs. O'Toole—'I do, an' then again I don't.'

"Mrs. Mulligan—'Thot's bad, fur it's harrud to know whether to say Oi'm sorry or glad.'"

"The Town is Yours," Said the Mayor To Early Crowd

Salvation Army Band Led the First Paraders—Crowds Quickly Gathered to Celebrate Victory.

"This is the most glorious day in the history of Peterboro!" Mayor Duncan shouted to the crowd at the corner of Charlotte and George streets this morning, when the first parade halted for a moment while His Worship announced the day's programme.

"The War Veterans will parade at ten o'clock," he continued. "This afternoon at three o'clock there will be a public meeting of Thanksgiving at the Armouries; and to-night a public celebration at 7.30."

"I don't need to tell you how to celebrate. We will have fireworks for you to-night. The town is yours. Go ahead!"

This announcement caused a noisy episode in the first impromptu parade of this morning about nine o'clock.

Salvation Army Band First Out.

At 6.30 a.m. the first ringing cheer sounded on George street when quite a group of workmen gathered about The Examiner's bulletin board and lingered as they read first the bewildering pregnant flash that told of the passing of Kaiserism, then caught the Mayor's notice of a public holiday, and finally surrendered the last doubt as to the veracity of the news. Some natural cheer leader called for cheers for the king, Foch and the allies, and in the growing daylight Peterboro's enthusiasm began to articulate with the old reserve and diffidende cast to the winds.

The Salvation Army band appeared from nowhere about eight o'clock. Adjutant Buntin and a handful of bandsmen formed the nucleus of the first demonstration which was very quickly swelled by comrades and citizens of all ages, from the small boy to the gray-haired man.

They marched up and down George street, and as if by magic their parade took on imposing proportions. Big drays and auto trucks that came to work remained to play and parade. The Quaker Oats truck was loaded with small boys waving flags, blowing horns of all discords, and cheering themselves hoarse. The Campbell Milling Company, Matthews-Blackwell, Ernie Reid with the Utilities truck, and a long string of others, fell in line, and if they hadn't been decorated by design, their appearance was none the less gay and colorful.

Archie Barbeau's furniture van was loaded on all decks with men and boys, shouting and singing, and as the morning wore on towards ten o'clock, the procession continued without rest, and with increasing volume while the crowd seemed only to be warming and tuning up for later events.

ANOTHER KING ON THE RUN.

(Special to Examiner.)

BERNE, November 11.—The King of Wurtemburg has fled from Stuttgart, through fear of violence. His destination is unknown.

COME, MEN -- "OVER THE TOP"

THE RACE IS ON! EVERY CITY, TOWN AND VILLAGE IN CANADA IS ENTERED FOR THIS RACE, THE WHOLE OF CANADA WATCHES FOR THE WINNERS.

THE AMOUNT SET FOR US IS $1,000,000. WE MUST EXCEED IT! CERTAINLY WE SHALL WIN OUR HONOR FLAG, THE FLAG THAT SHOWS THAT PETERBOROUGH HAS "DONE ITS BIT" FOR

Canada's Victory Loan 1918

There is not a man or woman in Peterborough who hasn't something to do with this matter. It is our fight that the men in France are fighting, it is our Victories they are winning from day to day. We have a very close personal interest in every move that is made on the great chess-board of the war.

NOW, ALL TOGETHER, so that Peterborough may go "OVER THE TOP" with honor!

Victory Bonds are issued in four denominations, $50, $100, $500 and $1,000. Every one of us can buy according to our means. Twenty-five per cent. over our quota of $1,000,000 will give us a crown on our Honor Flag. Let us have two crowns, or three!

The safest, most attractive investment for Canadians in the world to-day are Victory Bonds, received by the whole country, bearing 5½ per cent. interest and Canada's promise to repay the principal at maturity.

The Victory Loan Button will show that you are a buyer of Victory Bonds 1918. Your name on the Honor Roll of your place of business will be an inspiration to others.

GET IT THERE EARLY.

Now, All Together And Over The Top

It will take the united effort of every man, woman and child in town to surpass the quota set for us in this Victory Loan 1918 drive.

But we'll do it!

We cannot afford to let any ward—any section—any individual institution lag behind.

The ONLY way to do a thing is to DO it.

NOW is the time to subscribe—not to-morrow, or the day after—but now—TO-DAY.

When the men at the front get an order to take an enemy trench, they don't say "to-morrow will do." No! They respond to the call of duty PROMPTLY.

When we, at home, are given a definite objective to reach—as we are in this Victory Loan Campaign—we must lose no time in getting our individual subscriptions in.

If the Victory Loan workers fail to call on you promptly, look them up.

Plan to take all the Bonds you can possibly pay for. The payments are as follows:

10 per cent. on Application.
20 per cent. December 6th, 1918.
31.16 per cent. March 6th, 1919
20 per cent. January 6th, 1919.
20 per cent. February 6th, 1919.

Or, you can arrange with your Employer, or your Bank, to buy your Bonds, on other terms, extending the payments over a year.

See that your factory—your store—your place of business—earns the right to display the Honor Emblem, that signifies a duty well done.

POST WAR TRADE CONDITIONS

(By SENATOR FREDERIC NICHOLS, President of the C.G.E.)

POST-WAR TRADE CONDITIONS

Transportation Facilities Essentially Related to Export Development.

(By Hon. Frederic Nicholls.)

During the year 1914, before there was any thought of war conditions, it must be admitted that grave doubts were being expressed in regard to future trade conditions in Canada. We had for some years experienced a period of great prosperity and trade expansion, largely by reason of our heavy expenditures for railway construction, railway equipment, and public works of all kinds, and hundreds of millions of dollars had been borrowed in Great Britain for these purposes and for developing our natural resources. This what may be called "Boom" period reached its crest in 1913, and early in 1914 the tide of prosperity was receding concurrently with the completion of the National Transcontinental Railway, the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, the Canadian Northern Railway, and their many subsidiaries, such as grain elevators, coal and ore docks, palatial hotels, etc.

Then came the war, which created for the time being a moderate panic, and moratoria were enforced, the stock exchanges closed and various relief and employment agencies were established to take care of the unemployed. Our national resiliency enabled us, within a very brief period, to pull ourselves together, and as time progressed production was stimulated by war orders in ever-increasing quantity for munitions, food products, and many other lines, until to-day Canada is experiencing a degree of prosperity that is almost unbelievable.

Within the limits of this brief article it is not possible to quote figures demonstrating our material advancement or to dilate upon our national achievements, and it is sufficient to mention that for the past three years our exports of munitions and war commodities have amounted to over $1,000,000. The great expansion in trade, by reason of the money secured therefrom, has enabled Canadians to invest $756,000,000 in domestic war bonds, and in addition thereto to increase their deposits in the chartered banks by $592,000,000 during the four years since the war has been in progress.

What of our Future

So far, so good. But what of the future? What of the time when our war orders will cease, our soldiers return, and employment found for them and the hundreds of thousands now engaged in war work? Should not, without delay, a wise and statesmanlike policy of preparedness for after-war conditions be inaugurated by the Union Government of the day? That the necessity for such exists has long been recognized in high places, but so far no action has been taken. Two years ago Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, issued a "Call to action," and from his militant and eloquent appeal I may quote as follows:

'In the belligerent world fully twenty million additional men will lay down arms and flood back into the fields and factories, the cities, towns and countrysides, while millions more will lay down the tools now being used in making war munitions and take up again the tools of peaceful pursuits; and still other millions now engaged in the various subsidiary services of the war will be thrown out of employment and have to look for work in other lines."

Perhaps the government have been so strenuously engaged in all that pertains to actual winning the war that they have been unable to as yet prepare for after-war conditions. Many suggestions have been made in the Senate and in the Press, but at present it is my purpose to deal only with the more indirect advantages that would accrue to this country by the adoption of a policy of co-ordination between inland railway transportation and ocean traffic.

Economical Transportation Essential.

A country of continental proportions can engage largely and profitably in foreign trade only if equipped with economical means of transportation, both by land and sea. Foreign trade must in the widest sense be carried on in competition with the world, and therefore if the transportation charges on our raw materials incoming and our finished products outgoing are larger to any appreciable degree than are similar charges paid by our competitors, the difference is equivalent to just so much added to the cost of the product. Should the extra cost be of sufficient moment to wipe out the margin between profit and loss, then the development of our natural resources will be retarded, labour will lack employment, and the current of our balance of trade set strongly against us.

Successive governments in the past have recognized the principle that transportation facilities were essential before the natural products of the farm, the forest, the mine, and the finished products of the mills could be marketed, and our population and wealth increased thereby. This recognition, sometimes unwisely, took the form of cash subsidies, land grants and other inducements to those who might build and operate railways under private control. Hundreds of millions of dollars and vast areas of lands have been diverted from the Treasury and the public domain as a price paid for the encouragement of railway construction; some two hundred million dollars have been spent in developing our canal systems, and another two hundred millions to facilitate transportation by the way of wharves, docks, dredging and harbor facilities. The point that I desire to make is that all of this vast expenditure has been made without any attempt whatever at co-ordination, in so far as the development of ocean traffic is concerned and which is so vital to a rounded-out system of land and sea traffic, in order that this country may not be dependent, as in the past, on alien assistance. The strength of a chain is governed by its weakest length, and therefore of what avail is a complete and well-ordered system of state-owned railways and canals if the advantage gained thereby is outweighed by excessive ocean transport charges under foreign control. Canada is so placed between Europe and the Far East that she should be able, if her land and water transportaiton systems were well developed and skilfully combined, to add to her other commercial advantages an immense carrying trade between the two enormous populations of Europe and Asia.

Rate-Controlling Influences.

ed the earlier methods of railway grants and subsidies. On the contrary, within the past few days the government has written an important page into the history of Canada by the acquisition of a transcontinental railway system, and this step necessitates the study of our transportation problems from an entirely new viewpoint. In the past the Canadian importer and exporter have been governed in regard to domestic freight rates by an arbitrary tariff, which was non-competitive, but legalized by the Railway Commission, of which Sir Henry Drayton is the chairman, but in the case of shipments overseas, any reasonable freight rate from an inland point to an ocean port may be neutralized by excessive chages resulting from combinations in restraint of trade by ship owners whose rates do not come under public control.

Let us Lead—Not Trail.

I have in the Senate directed attention to some of the problems which will confront us during the period following a declaration of peace, the first and most important being the demobilization of our troops, and finding them employment, as well as continued employment for the hundreds of thousands whom their return will displace. This can only be done by securing a volume of trade orders that will to some extent compensate for the cessation in the production of munitions and other war commodities. This volume of trade in turn can only be secured from abroad and to enable us to secure such our lad and sea transportation must enable us to compete. The government of Canada, through the Marine Department, of which the Hon. Mr. Ballantyne is the progressive head, has announced its policy of aidiing encouraging and stimulating the building of shipyards and the construction of ships, and let us all hope that this policy will be extended to construction of an adequate fleet of state-owned cargo ships that will, in cooperation with our state-owned railways, enable us to take advantage of our geographical position and leave us independent of foreign vessel owners, who will naturally give their best service to their own people.

The present situation has been summed up most eloquently by Prime Minister Hughes of Australia, who has said:

"The war has destroyed all the landmarks of the world in which we used to live. Every day we confront a situation without precedent, and ancient traditions are buried beneath the burning lava of war. Nothing matters but that we should learn by experience to no longer waste our time in profitless doctrinaire discussions or drift with the backwaters of inaction."—Toronto Board of Trade News.

The Red Cross Campaign Was Brought to Successful Conclusion

The Objective of $30,000, Was Exceeded—Will Have to Carry on For Another Year.

The Red Cross Campaign that was carried on this year under considerable difficulties, has been brought to a satisfactory conclusion—all reports being complete.

With the exception of a few scattered cards that are out, and a few of last year's subscribers to see that it was impossible to finish by last Saturday evening. These, however, will be closed up this week, and the cards will be in the hands of the collectors.

Like the Victory Loan, the Red Cross will require to carry on for many months yet, and while it is expected this is the last canvass, yet all the money subscribed for this year will be positively needed. The committee in charge of this year's campaign desire to tender their heartiest thanks in making the campaign of 1918 so wonderfully successful in the face of the severe conditions that existed during the canvass.

Germans Bombarded Road Over Which Courier Travelled

(By United Press.)

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS

Paris, Nov. 10, 12. p.m.—There was no word from German headquarters at Spa and no signs of German courier who carried the Allies armistice terms there, at the hour of cabling. Authorities would not be surprised if courier did not return before Monday. "The time limit for Germany's answer expires at 11 a.m., Monday." German artillery kept up unusual bombardment along the road to be taken by German messenger after the Germans had been repeatedly told that the Courrier was waiting to start. The artillery fire did not lull until after a French airplane was ready to take the messenger over the lines.

News Received From Capt. Bygott

Several Valuable Souvenir Sent Home to Lakefield.

Lakefield, Nov. 9.—Mrs. J. M. Bygott has received word from her husband, Capt. Bygott several very interesting and valuable souvenirs of the war—three German shell cases of solid brass polished and engraved for him by his men of the Australian company. The work is beautifully done and the shell cases will be unique flower vases. One of them has a maple leaf engraved on it as a compliment to Capt. Bygott's nationality, another a cangaroo, the national animal of Australia. Capt. Bygott, who was in command of C Company, of the 93rd Battalion was transferred about fifteen months ago to the Imperial army and was given an Australian company.

You can't flatter an honest man by telling him he is honest.

Senior Five Pin Bowling League Will Resume This Evening

The Matches For the Remainder of the Week—League Standing.

The Senior 5 Pin Bowling League at the Y.M.C.A. will resume its interrupted activities this evening, when the Invincibles will try to prove their right to the name against the De Laval Trundlers. The matches for the remainder of the week are as follows:

Wednesday, Nov. 13, Engineers vs. Rosebuds.

Friday, Nov. 15, Bankers vs. Printers.

All the teams are apparently very evenly matched, judging from the standing to-day which is as follows:

	Won	Lost
De Lavals	2	1
Bankers	2	1
Invincibles	2	1
Printers	1	2
Rosebuds	1	2
Engineers	1	2

The alleys at the "Y" this season are a revelation when compared to those of previous seasons and it is the intention to maintain them as second to none in town. Any new players wishing to play in the league should leave their names with Mr. Roper at the "Y," or with Mr. C. C. Parsons, at the Bank of Commerce.

KID LAVIGNE AND JOE WALCOTT WEREN'T PARTICULAR ABOUT WEIGHT

Were Not Afraid to Stand Up Before Bigger Opponents—What a Difference To-day.

Nowadays pugilistic champions will not risk their titles unless their opponents deposit a million dollars and guarantee to make a specified weight at a certain minute. They figure it down to very fine points. But there was a time within the memory of older fans when boxers weren't so darn particular, and were willing to take a chance. Two of these game lads were George Lavigne, the "Saginaw Kid," and Joe Walcott, the "Barbados Demon." They were little sawed-off runts in physique, but either of them would have fought a six-foot heavyweight. As a matter of fact, Walcott did do just that, when he met the great Joe Choynski in a New York ring in 1900—and what's more, the diminutive black stopped his man in seven rounds! Choynski was a fraction of an inch short of six feet, while Joe the Giant Killer stood only an inch and a half over five feet.

A fight between two such game lads as the French-Canadian and the Black Demon might be expected to be full of thrills—and it certainly was! Just 21 years ago, Oct. 29, 1897, the sports had their last opportunity to see these two sawed-off gladiators in the ring. The fight was staged at San Francisco, and Lavigne, who was then lightweight champion, won in a dozen rounds. While this battle was full of interest, it lacked the ginger of the earlier meeting between Lavigne and Walcott at Maspeth, N.Y., in 1895. Old-time sports will tell you that that was the greatest fight in the world. For fifteen rounds the little fellows banged away at each other, hammer and tongs, and in the end it was called a draw. It was generally conceded that Lavigne had the shade on his dusky opponent.

Walcott challenged all the prominent heavyweights of the day, including Fitzsimmons and Tom Sharkey, but the whole bunch side-stepped the stunted little darkey. Of course, Joe couldn't have licked such men as Fitz and Sharkey, but he certainly would have made them extend themselves.

When Kid Lavigne went to England to fight Dick Burge for the lightweight championship of the world, in 1896, he again took on a man several sizes larger than himself. Jack McAuliffe had repeatedly refused to meet Burge owing to a difference over weight, but that didn't bother little Lavigne.

When Lavigne, who looked like a kewpie, crawled through the ropes at the National Sporting Club of London on the night of his bout with Burge the British fans could hardly restrain their mirth. Burge towered head and shoulders over the little Canadian. The British champion had been a five to one favourite before then, but when the two were in the ring the disparity seemed so great that Lavigne looked like a 100-to-1 shot. But Lavigne won! You could have knocked those London fans over with a feather.

He didn't have any easy time of it, for Burge was a sure-enough fighter, and not a slap artist. On one or two occasions, in fact, he rocked Lavigne with blows that looked like sleep punches. But the Saginaw Kid only shook his head and bored in. The end came when Lavigne put across a knockout in the seventeenth round, and the ancient edifice rang with cheers for his valor. The British sports showed themselves good losers and several of the noble sports pressed real money on Lavigne.

And they haven't forgotten that fight to this day.

Vessels torpedoed but reached port were three battleships and one light cruiser. Other craft destroyed include fourteen transports, six ammunition and supply ships, two store ships, 53 steamers and 197 sailing ships.

BRITISH PREMIER FAVOURS KNOCKOUT

German Courier Had Difficulty in Getting Across the Lines—A Stern Reckoning.

London, Nov. 10. (Sunday, Noon Bulletin)—Lloyd George in statement, said that owing to the rapid triumphant advance of the allied troops and their relentless pursuit, the Germans envoys have not been able to get through and other means have had to be devised for enabling them to cross the lines.

Commenting on the Kaiser's abdication and the proclaiming of a regency in Germany, he added, "This is judgement, the greatest judgement in the world." After announcing that the allies intending to secure beyond all doubt, the freedom of the world, in the final reckoning with the enemy, the British premier said: "I am a believer in the knockout blow. Germany's reckless wantoness was with full consent of the people. The terms must be such as to prevent a repetition of wantoniess and recklessness which placed the world in such awful agony. Germany must expect a stern reckoning."

Hun Plant Here Sold for a Song.

Bargains at Sale of Isle of Orleans Stone Plant.

Quebec.—Quebec saw a huge plant go under the hammer this week, and incidently ran across some bargains The whole outfit valued at $75,000 as a minimum estimate, was knocked down in lots for $8,450.36. At least one Montrealer was on hand, to get a slice of the melon. The outfit was that which, in pre-war days, was operated by Herz, or Count, Mundheim, on the Island of Orleans, and which attracted much attention in the early days of the war. It was asserted at the time that the German-owned cement and artificial stone plant was but one of the many ramifications of the Williamstrasse minions and that, under the guise of a manufacturing concern, the natives of Hunland had really secured a footing at a point whence, in case of necessity, they could dominate the St. Lawrence channel and assure the reduction of the Quebec citadel, guardian of the gateway to the upper river. Wild rumors were current at the time that on the island huge concrete foundations had been discovered, all ready for the accommodation of the German long range guns which were destined eventually to arouse Quebec from its chronic condition of somnolence. The "talk" and rumors went on apace, Mundheim didn't seem to mind. He was a frequent visitor to Montreal, and cut quite a swath, oblivious to all the appeals appearing in the press and elsewhere asking that the Government officials look into the Hun venture at the Island. Finally, however, Government secret service agents did act. Mundheim was apprehended, and detained as an enemy alien. Thenceforth, the plant ceased operations and a few weeks ago it was deemed advisable to put it under the hammer.

The outfit is one of the best of its kind on the continent, say experts. There were in it certain machines imported from Germany which could not be duplicated in America, it is said. G. Mayer of the Dominion Iron and Wreckage Co., Montreal, says that he personally bought $14,500 when imported from Hunland. It could not be duplicated in America to-day, at any figure, he says.

Another bargain was that of all the immovable property, comprising all cement buildings, covering four and a half arpents of land, and rights and beach lots covering another four and a half arpents, mining rights covering two sand bars of 133 arpents, with a Government valuation of $14,000, the whole valued at not less than $30,000. It was knocked down to G. I. Lachance Reg'd, of Quebec, the highest bidder for $9,010.

The G. I. Lachance firm is to continue the operation of the plant as a Canadian concern.

Allied Armies Were on the Move Along Whole Front When Hostilities Ceased

Despatch Fyled Forty Minutes Before the War Officially Came to an End—Heavy Artillery Action on Both Sides.

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 11.—When hostilities ceased at 11 a.m. to-day the Allied armies were on the move forward along the whole front, from the Dutch border to the Metz region, a distance of more than 200 miles.

Heavy artillery firing continued through the night. It was audible 25 miles in the rear of the American lines.

The German guns retaliated, but were fairly smothered by the Yankee fire.

This despatch was filed from the front just forty minutes before hostilities were officially to cease.

TO DIRECT FOODSTUFFS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Government direction of the distribution of foodstuffs after the war until normal conditions prevail in Europe will be continued under the Department of Agriculture if Congress approve the request of President Wilson to that end. The Food Administration will cease to exist with the signing of peace treaties.

Lloyd George Announces Signing of the Armistice

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 11.—It is officially announced here that the armistice with Germany was signed at 5 a.m. to-day, and that hostilities ceased at 11 a.m.

Prime Minister Lloyd George announced that the cessation of hostilities was effective at 11 o'clock on all fronts throughout Europe.

CIVILIZATION MUST PUT THE KAISER ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

(By J. W. T. Mason).

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. — William Hohenzollern, ex-Supreme War Lord, is the first German to desert. The day of the war's end finds him running away from his army and nonchalantly seeking an asylum in the nearest neutral country, with the blood of 26,000,000 dead and wounded men on his soul. If ever guilt was personal, William Hohenzollern is personally responsible for the devastation that has made Europe a shambles and so nearly subjected modern civilization to mediaeval reaction. His attitude towards the world in general and to Germany in particular has been that he owes no accounting to any other but the German "Gott." He cannot be allowed to go into retirement on this plea. His responsibility is first to his fellow men, whose deep agony he has sought to prolong by breaking every law of humanity.

Must be Extradited.

And now slinking away to smoke a cigarette on neutral soil, he is trying to save himself from the criminal's dock. Civilization must demand his extradition for trial on the charge of world murder. He has tried to plunder the planet like a common marauder. His orders that have inflicted twenty six million casualties on the flower of the world's manhood will cripple the earth perhaps for generations. The sorrow and mental anguish left in his bloody trail are beyond all estimate.

OBSEQUIES OF OLD BILL THE KAISER FEATURE TO-NIGHT

About two hundred and fifty young men of the city have been invited to attend the obsequies of His late Majesty Emperor Wilhelm of Germany, better known as Kaiser Bill. Service will be held at Clancy's Undertaking Parlours at 7.30 this evening. The procession will then proceed South on George Street to the Peterboro Incinerator, where interment will take place. Bob Anderson has loaned his Victrolia for the occasion; hundreds of other carriages will be in line to raze upon the Hun War Lord's body before it is consigned to the Rink Street rest-house. One of the Peterboro County's agriculturists has kindly consented to loan his hay waggon to be used as a hearse. Many famous personages will be in the procession as mourners, VonHindenburg, the German Clown Prince and Ludendorff. The pall bearers will be "Count" Wise (Von Kluck); Harold Huff (Von Mackensen), Joe Clancy (the undertaker, minister, grave-digger, bell-toller and Marshall of Ceremonies), Bill Mcdonald (Von Ersberger), Gordon Lamb (Admiral Von Tirpits) and Bernard Park (the caurt joker.)

Will Suspend Recruiting

Manufacturers Are Affected by the War Developments

Are Taking Care Not to Find Themselves Overstocked When Peace is Declared—Steel Control.

SCRAP DEALERS

Events that are transpiring in Europe are having their effect on the machine tool and supply trade this week. There is nothing surprising in that. In fact the trade is right now going through the successive stages that had been anticipated. There are lines in which it can be said that the passing from war to peace footing has been partially accomplished. Panic talk is not heard. Of course there are industries that are so outstandingly war favorites that they will pass away when peace comes again, but this group is in the minority and is prepared for its fate.

STEEL CONTROL

There seems to be a growing feeling that there will be some measure of control in regard to the steel and iron situation afer the war has ended. Such a measure would have the effect of lending a desirable stability to a situation that might otherwise be uncertain and panicky. Reports from United States indicate that some form of conrol will be maintained from Washington while business is getting on a peace footing. The feeling is that with some such body setting the standard of prices it will be a much easier matter to avoid outting prices to points below cost, and it will allow firms to dispose of their war-price stock without having to go out of business.

SALE OF SUPPLIES

The demand for machine tools for war plants is practically at a standstill. Sales of supplies are better but inclined to be spasmodic. Munitions plants are not stocking up with supplies but are buying for actual and immediate needs.

Jobbers are running low on stocks of steel plate. In fact it is hard for them to restock at present, and they are not inclined to do so considering the difficulty that is met with in getting material from United States points. They are satisfied to approach the coming of peace with warehouses as near empty as it is safe to run them.

"STOCK" ORDERS.

Machine tool dealers in Canada come under a recent ruling made in United States in regard to "stock" orders. The practice in the trade has been to place orders for machines and then sell them. Now no order can be placed that is not backed by a bona fide sale. This ruling will make it harder for the dealers to do business for the time being, but it will also do much to keep them from facing peace with a lot of single-purpose machinery on their hands, and it will also go a long way in cutting down the avalanche of cancellations that otherwise might follow in the wake of peace being announced.

SCRAP DEALERS

Scrap dealers are to all intents and purposes out of the market. The prices have not actuallly slumped yet but every indication points to a moving to a lower plane in the very near future Scrap metals are now about 85 per cent. above pre-war prices. Copper, for instance, was worth 14 cents before the war, while now the United States government fixed price is 26 cents. Scrap prices are likely to come down ,and as a result there are many sellers on the market now but few buyers, and sales are made only for special and urgent cases. Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News.

13.—Evacuation by German troops to begin at once on territory of Russia, as defined before 1914.

14.—German troops to cease at once all requisitions and seizures.

15.—Abandonment of treaties of Bucharest and Brest Litovsk and of supplementary treaties.

16.—Allies to have free access to territories evacuated by the Germans on their eastern frontier.

17.—Unconditional capitulation of all German forces operating in East Africa.

18.—Repatriation without reciprocity within maximum period of one month in accordance with detailed conditions hereafter to be fixed.

19.—Reparation for damage done and immediate restitution.

The immediate repatriation of all Allied and American prisoners without reciprocal action by Allies also is included.

Starving Soldiers Are Indifferent to All But Food

Terrible Plight of Austrian Armies Worse Than in Napoleon's Retreat.

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMY AT TRENT, Wednesday, Nov. 6.—Amid the rejoicings of this redeemed city scenes of destruction and starvation are common as one passes over the roads which the Italian troops are trying to pass the thousands of Austrian prisoners who were cut off by the Italians south-west of Balzona. Every road leading up to this city is crowded with men and on every hand there is evidence of the collapse of Europe's mightiest armies.

The horrors of Napoleon's retreat from Russia, it is said, by military observers, were trifling compared with the suffering of the Austrian troops in this region. Great masses of men wait for long hours to move a few feet or a few hundred yards to halt anew on a road littered with the carcasses of horses and with cannon, pistols, rifles, broken down auto-trucks and machine guns.

There is no swearing among these men. There are even moments of profound quiet broken by snatches of song. Italian soldiers seem positively sorry that the end of the war is approaching. They say: "What's a few months more, now that we are sure of victory?"

Many Starving to Death.

Many Austrians are dying from sheer fatigue and starvation and not wounds. The Italians are doing all they can to hurry up food supplies. This is difficult and in the meantime dead horses are eaten, the flesh cooked by the roadside by fires kindled by the soldiers.

Large bodies of Austrians are helpless. The correspondent passed between Rovereto and Trent, a distance of sixteen miles, an unending column of men marching none knew whither. They asked orders from an officer who was with the correspondent. When asked if they knew about the armistice, they said: "We want food. Food is the only thing we are interested in. We are indifferent to war and peace and death—everything but food."

Strange tales are told of the exploits of Italian prisoners returning home. About Trent, a group of Italian prisoners broke out and ordered the chauffeur of a truck to drive them to the Italian lines, and the man obeyed. Another Italian prisoner, mounted on horseback at the head of a regiment of Austrians, announced smilingly, "These are my captives."

Nine Divisions Taken.

It is estimated that nine Austrian divisions were taken with their staffs. Thirty-nine divisions were partially disorganized and fifteen, although in bad condition, are retreating from the advancing Italians. These troops, while equipped for retreat, are without orders and go travelling here and there like droves of sheep. It is a common thing to see an entire brigade without officers, the latter having been ordered to go separately to the concentration camps. The correspondent saw at Pergire the General of the Sixth Austrian Division motoring along in his own car. He said he was going home, having been given special permission. In the meantime his troops have been abandoned.

Returning to the lower levels of the mountains by way of the Asiago plateau the correspondent saw further evidence of the devastation of war. There is not a home left standing in the town of Asiago. There is much suffering among the people throughout the mountains, who are foodless and have been robbed of their possessions. By a miracle, the regors of the Alpine winter has not set in yet and these people say: "These ravages are necessary. They remain glorious memories of our salvation."

The problem of feeding the armies of prisoners is grave, but the Italians are making a superhuman effort. They are also treating the prisoners as well as possible. It is common to see hardy Italian troops generously toss their own bread rations to the Austrians, saying laughingly: "To-morrow is another day. We will eat then."

AT DISPOSAL OF NEW GOVERNMENT

LONDON, November 11. — Field Marshal Von Hindenburg has placed himself and the German army at the disposition of the new peoples' government at Berlin, says a despatch from the German capital by way of Copenhagen.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The Paris morning papers, before the signing of the armistice was announced to-day, expressed the fear that the revolutionary Government in Germany might not be stable enough to sign a satisfactory armistice with the occupation of the country by the Allies.

OBITUARY

ADA SANDERS.

Ada Sanders, the eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Joseph Sanders, River, Road, died on Saturday after a short illness. The death is particularly sad as her younger sister, Dorothy, died only a few weeks ago.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence to Little Lake cemetery. Rev. D. Brown officiated.

MRS. MARY JANE CLOSSON.

The death occurred last Saturday of Mrs. Mary J. Closson, 84 years of age at her residence, 250 Euclid avenue. Service will be held at the house to-night at 8 o'clock. The body will be sent to-morrow on the 8:10 a.m. G.T.R. train to Warkworth for interment.

MRS. THOS. LA RUE.

Annie Rowen, widow of the late Thomas La Rue, died on Saturday morning in Oil City, Pa.

Deceased, who was formerly a resident of this city, was a sister of Mrs. John Lynch, Elm street. Her niece, Miss Margaret Lynch, has been with her for the past month and was at her bedside at the time of her death.

The funeral took place in Oil City this morning.

MRS. WILLIAM LAVOIE

The funeral of the late Mrs. William Lavoie took place from the family residence, 127 Sophia street at 2.30 p. m. on Sunday to Immaculate Conception Church and St. Peter's Cemetery. The pallbearers were Mr. M. J. Maher, Mr. E. H. Mann, Mr. James Ellis, Mr. John Malane, Mr. Daniel Leonard, Mr. Din Guerin.

The floral tributes were many testifying to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

MRS. HENRY MICHAELS

The death occurred yesterday in St. Joseph's hospital after a short illness of Mrs. Henry Michaels, Lot 14 Concession 4. She leaves to survive her, beside a sorrowing husband, two sons, George and John at home and two daughters, Mrs. Nelson Guyatte, Cobourg; and Mrs. Thomas Johnston of Otonabee Township.

The funeral will be held to-morrow morning at 8.30 to Sacred Heart Church and St. Peter's Cemetery.

MRS. WILLIAM LAMB

Mrs. Wm. Lamb passed away at the family residence, Verulam, on Friday, November 1st, following an attack of influenza and complications. She had only been sick about a week, and her sudden demise came as a great shock to her many friends and neighbors. She was 40 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamb were married 16 years ago and have spent all that time in the township of Verulam.

Deceased was a faithful member of St. Peter's Church, Verulam. A short burial service was conducted in the church, by Rev. Pierre B. de Lom, of Fenelon Falls. Interment took place in St. Peter's Church cemetery.

Left to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and loving mother is her husband and four children, Edna, May, Lorne and Kenneth, also three sisters Mrs. Abbott, Verulam; Mrs. Nichols, Bobcaygeon; Mrs. Smith, Michigan; and six brothers, John Oliver, Bobcaygeon; Thos. Oliver, London, Ont.; Wesley Oliver, Peterboro, Richard Oliver, Little Britain; Sam and David Litt Britain; Sam Oliver and David Oliver both of Verulam.—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

MRS. STUART HAYWARD.

Mrs. Hayward, widow of the late Stuart S. S. Hayward, passed away at midnight on Saturday last, at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Schawbe. Mrs. Hayward had been here for a few months past with her sister but returned to her home in Peterboro to attend to some business, where, about a month ago, she had a slight stroke. Later she came back to Cobourg, and on Tuesday had a second stroke, which left one side practically paralyzed.

Mrs. Hayward, before her marriage Eliza Emma Sykes, was the youngest daughter of the late William Eykes, Esq., and was born at the old homestead in Hamilton Township. After her marriage to Mr. Stuart Hayward, they resided for a time at Ravensworth, near Port Hope and later at Cobourg and Peterboro, Mr. Hayward's death occurring at the latter place from pneumonia at the time that Canada was first visited by the influenza, several of the family being ill at the same time .

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon. The services were conducted by the Rev. F. J. Sawers, and interment was at the Little Lake cemetery at Peterboro. Mrs. Hayward is survived by four sons and three daughters, viz., Alfred of Buffalo; Gerald and Harold of Toronto, Roland of Transcoma, Man.; Mrs. Fitzgerald, Buffalo; Mrs. Skill, Cobourg ;and Mrs. Dickson, Sask. She is survived also by one brother, Mr. R. J. Sykes, Campbellford, and by two sisters, Mrs. Wilgar, East Wellington, B. C., and Mrs. Schawbe, of town. With all much syfpathy is felt.

IMPERIAL KAISER NOW A FUGITIVE

(Special to the Examiner)

London, Nov. 11.—Reports of the former Kaiser's present whereabouts are contradictory. The latest information received here stated he had motored to Count Dentinok's castle at Middachem, Holland, with two officers. He has but little baggage with him and he looked worried.

LLOYD GEORGE SPOKE TO GREAT CROWDS

LONDON, Nov. 11. — Premier Lloyd George spoke to cheering and enthusiastic crowds in the streets, saying: "The war will be over by 11 o'clock. This empire has done a great deal to end the war, and you are now entitled to shout."

A great roar of approval came from the crowd.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Pte. William Bertrand Elliott, who died Nov. 10th, 1917, of wounds received at Passchendaele Ridge on November 5th, a member of the C. A. M. C.

How sleep the brave who sink to rest,
By all their country's wishes blest.
BROTHERS

IN MEMORIAM.

HENRY.—In Loving Memory of our dear brother, John Lloyd Henry, died November 11, 1917.

In a near and silent cemetery,
Where the trees their branches wave,
Rests a true and loving brother
In his cold and silent grave.

He bid no one his last farewell,
He waved his hand to none,
His spirit fled before we knew
That he from us was gone.

When we leave this world of changes,
When we leave this world of care,
We shall find our missing loved ones
In our Father's mansion fair.

THE POOR WART!

(By United Press).

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Somewhere in Pennsylvania there is a little army of plant experts engaged in waging deadly warfare against the potato wart.

Word reached Washington several days ago that the wart had made its appearance in gardens in Eastern Pennsylvania. Six experts from the agricultural department left at once for the battlefield. Ten from the State Department of Agriculture joined the federal men. Several potato experts from the agricultural colleges have joined the allied forces to force unconditional surrender of the potato wart.

Revolutionists Storm Prison In the German Capital

Those Incarcerated as War Victims Were Released—Kaiser May be Interned in Holland—Supplementary Declaration to the Armistice Terms.

TUESDAY MORNING NEWS DESPATCHES

Tuesday morning bulletin:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 12.—Armed workers and soldiers stormed the prison in Alt Moait street in Berlin, but at the request of Deputy Buechsner they released only those incarcerated as war victims.

PICKED UP IN LONDON.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—German armistice delegates in a message to the German High Command sent by French wireless, was picked up here, announcing the signing of the armistice.

WILLIE WILL BE INTERNED.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 12.—It is stated on good authority here that William Hohenzollern, former German Emperor, will be interned in Holland.

WILL ENFORCE TERMS.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—A supplementary declaration to the armistice terms was signed to the effect that in the event of six German battle cruisers, ten battleships, eight light cruisers and fifty destroyers not being handed over owing to mutinous state, the Allies reserve the right to occupy Heligoland as an advance base to enable them to enforce terms.

HEADED FOR BRITISH LINES.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 12.—Emperor William it is reported here was on his way to the British lines to surrender when he was headed off by the German revolutionists and forced to seek safety in Holland.

REVOLUTION SPREADING.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The German revolution is steadily progressing throughout the Empire, says a German wireless despatch from Berlin. Soldiers' and Workers' Councils are being established everywhere.

AWAITING DECISION.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 12.—William Hohenzollern, former German Emperor, his eldest son, and Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, it is learned from reliable sources, are in a railway train near the station of Eystena awaiting the decision of the Dutch Government. The blinds on the train are down.

RUPPRECHT FLEES.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 12.—Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, Commander of the German northern army group and his staff have fled from Liege where the garrison has revolted according to the Belgian newspaper "Les Neuvelles." Officers at Liege have been deposed and the red flag hoisted.

Huns Won't Own Earth After War

(By United Press.)

Washington, Nov. 11.—When Germany finally signs the peace treaties she will find that the United States is a new and strong competitor in markets Germany formerly dominated.

Before the war Germany grew rich on sales to America of analine dyes, potash, fine and pharmaceutical chemicals, clay and graphite crucibles and optical glass and instruments. Moreover, Germany controlled the markets of the world in these commodities.

War industries board officials today declared that America has not only met her war requirements in these, but that soon she will be able to compete in them, despite Germany's cheaper labor and large natural resources.

Charles H. MacDowell, chief of the chemicals division of the war industries board, has been in conference with steel manufacturers and representatives of the potash industry on methods of salvage of soluble potash out of fumes from blast furnaces and from ore reduction processes. Other departments of the board have given impetus to the development of other commodities which heretofore we were unable to produce.

Valuable soluble potash fields have been discovered in Utah, Nevada, California and other sections of the west. These, coupled with lowering the costs of production through new processes and the standardization of old processes, worked out by the chemical division of the board, will meet with demand.

Increasing demand for fertilizer in America, through abnormal demand for foodstuffs, and consequent wearing of the soil, created a shortage which America is forced to meet. This demand will not deminish, experts say, but the full development of the newly discovered resources after the war will give America a doubly strong position in the potash market.

LAUGH AND GROW FAT.

"Laugh and grow fat,' is an old saying laden with value for nervous people in particular. Drop the worry habit and use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and you will soon get the nervous system restored to good condition. Digestion will improve, appetite will return, and you will find such symptoms as headache and sleeplessness fast disappearing.

A Princess's Fate in Germany is in Doubt

The Beautiful English Wife of Heinrich of Pless Was Called a Spy—Served as a Red Cross Nurse.

Where is the "Fairy Princess" of Europe?

Where is the beautiful Princess of Pless, who, with her wonderful gowns and jewels and a coronet worth a king's ransom, flitted from the court of Berlin to the court of St. James, a favorite of both Germans and English? So fairy-like was her beauty that the Germans, into whose royal family she married, called her the family she married, called her the most beautiful woman in their country.

Where is the "fairy princess"? The question echoes through Europe. Strange rumors come from Berlin. For 20 years she has lived happily with Prince Heinrich of Germany, to whom she was married when she was Daisy West, a 17-year-old English girl, whose beauty and charm the whole country was mad about. There were gay winters in Berlin, springs in England and Wales, and summers in the stately old German castle at Furstenstein in Silesia, with house parties of American, English and German guests.

And then came the war—and no more of England she loved so well. The prince had spent much of his time in England among her people. He had been willing to have his first boy christened in London, the Queen acting as sponsor. The Emperor of Germany and King Edward had expressed a wish to be godfathers. The princess, to please both, named the baby William Edward. He was the most popular baby in two countries.

The very year of the war the prince and princess had spent a happy season in England with her sister, Sheila, the Duchess of Westminster. But after that August 4, the prince was bitter against all things British.

"I liked England," he said. "But——" and he shrugged his shoulders.

SERVED AS RED CROSS NURSE

The princess laid aside her gorgeous costumes for the uniform of a Red Cross nurse. She spent days and nights nursing men who had been sent to kill the people she loved. She nursed them because she loved her husband and humanity.

And then one day she understood. It was plain to her why there were no letters from home, although she wrote day after day and waited and hoped in vain for answers. She was being watched as a spy. Her work as a nurse did not free her from the most alarming suspicions and prejudices. She was English. That was enough when "England was warring on Germany."

It is widely known throughout Germany that the English wives of even the Germans of highest rank cannot suppress their pro-ally leanings. Berlin began to gossip of how strongly British the princess always had been. It was recalled that when King Edward visited Berlin in 1910 and was taken ill at a reception, it was the Princess of Pless that ran to his Majesty's aid. She had studied nursing, and, recognizing his ailment, tore open his collar and administered first aid, and it was believed her presence of mind had saved his life. "She loves the English too well," has been the Berlin gossip since the war began.

Even the fact that the Kaiser doted on her and had favored her in many ways, even presenting her with the pearl and order of Queen Louise, did not check the criticism. "Her husband is the Kaiser's able officer, his confidential friend, but the wife?" and so gossip implied many things.

When the princess first heard the reports she laughed. The beautiful head, with its mass of golden ringlets was only held the higher. The smile that kings and courtiers had found irresistible did not leave her mocking violet eyes. If there were ever tears they were reserved for the privacy of her own room. And yet her heart ached. England was home. But her husband, her sons, she must be loyal to them. She must even send one to fight against England as his father was doing.

WAS AN IDEAL MOTHER

She was an ideal mother. She had made an ideal home for her husband and children. When she went as a young bride to the castle of her husband's ancestors in Bavaria she found the old Duke of Pless living in almost feudal formality. The "Fairy Princess" made life there most pleasantly informal. The peasants on the estate worshipped her. Her husband's supreme happiness and her own was found in riding, boating, or hunting in the Silesian forests together. When she returned from a brilliant London season and tongues wagged concerning her affair with the Duke of York or other men who admired and followed in her train, what did the prince care? Was she not a "Fairy Princess," and were not fairy princesses full of caprices and whims? And was she not beautiful enough to exact homage at every court in Europe? And withal, the prince knew she was a devoted wife and mother, and no cloud marred their happiness until the war.

The present rumors about the princess are many, but vague. Some say that in her vain efforts the last two years to communicate with her people she has become despondent and is slowly dying, a victim of melancholia. Berlin was startled one day when a rumor spread that the prince had found his wife with incriminating papers and had murdered her with his own hands. It was pointed out that she was not to be seen about the palace or grounds; she was not at Furstenstein, and the report must be true. And then she was seen and recognised as a Red Cross nurse in a Berlin hospital.

"The princess! How pale! She must be ill," was the remark in passing.

"Yes, ill at heart. Her husband is at the front. The boy must go at once. Against England. And she is accused of being a spy," was the whisper.

THE UNANSWERED QUESTION

Perhaps more than anything else that has caused her grief is the bitterness the prince feels toward her people. On that last day in July, 1914, when resplendent in the full uniform of a high German officer he hurried to the front, he had laughed at his wife's fears. The war would be over in a few months, he was certain. The Kaiser said so. He would be home by Christmas.

"Well, we will be through by Christmas of 1915, anyhow," he said to a friend the next year, when reminded of his former prophecy. "Our unrestricted submarine warfare will bring England to her knees in three months."

But a year later he was not so buoyant. "I don't believe the damned thing will ever end," he is quoted as saying.

BALKAN NATIONS CONFER.

To Meet In Paris and Iron Out their Differences Soon.

WASHINGTON, November 11. — Balkan-Slav Central European nationalities are planning to assemble in Paris shortly to delve into conflicting territorial and nationalistic claims in Central and South-eastern Europe.

The purpose is to give these recently enchained peoples an opportunity to iron out minor differences in desires and aspirations and to prepare a co-ordinated, workable programme for the great peace conference.

Chief among the issues are:

Conflicting claims of the Jugo-Slavs and Italians in Istria and the Adriatic.

Alleged trickery of Hungary, acting as tool of Vienna to lure Bosnia and Crotia into an alliance.

Disputed Hellenic aspirations in Albania.

Holding the Serbian-Jugo Slav programme.

Fear of duplicity on the part of Hungary in her dealings with the Jugo-Slavs has been expressed by Italian diplomats as well as by Czecho-Slovak and Balkan representatives here.

It is the diplomatic opinion that the Serbian problem will require the most detailed attention of the conference. Sentiment seems to have been crystallized on a strong Jugo-Slav State to embrace all of Serbia, Bosnia, Crotia and Montenegro.

Hot Water for Sick Headaches

Tells why everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it before breakfast.

Headache of any kind, is caused by auto-intoxication—which means self-poisoning. Liver and bowel poisons called toxins, sucked into the blood, through the lymph ducts, excite the heart which pumps the blood so fast that it congests in the smaller arteries and veins of the head producing violent, throbbing pain and distress, called headache. You become nervous, despondent, sick feverish and miserable, your meals sour and almost nauseate you. Then you resort to acetanilide, aspirin or the bromides which temporarily relieve but do not rid the blood of these irritating toxins.

A glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, drunk before breakfast for awhile will not only wash these poisons from your system and cure you of headache but will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary canal.

Ask your pharmacist for a quarter pound of limestone phosphate. It is inexpensive, harmless as sugar, and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

If you aren't feeling your best, if tongue is coated or you wake up with bad taste, foul breath or have colds, indigestion, biliousness, constipation or sour, acid stomach, begin the phosphated hot water cure to rid your system of toxins and poisons.

Results are quick and it is claimed that those who continue to flush out the stomach, liver and bowels every morning never have any headache or know a miserable moment.

WAR PRISONERS AND MUSIC

Prisoners of war must have something to do, some activity to take up their time and employ their energies. The one thing to which they react, the onething where the language question does not enter, is music. In these camps are gathered together men of many races, every rank of life, every degree of education, and speaking all the tongues of the civilized world. The one thing in which they can all take part, get together in common fellowship and gain mutual comfort, is music.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Ruth is Made Uncomfortable by Mrs. Curtis

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Ruth met a Mrs. Curtis, the next day, when she went out to luncheon. Brian had introduced her one day in the street, and Ruth never had seen her again, so she was more than a little surprised when Mrs. Curtis asked if she were going to lunch; then proposed that they lunch together.

It surprised Ruth that Mr. Curtis should seek her company. To Ruth it seemed that they could have nothing in common. She recalled that Brian had said that Mrs. Curtis was a society butterfly. She, Ruth, was now a working woman. But to their surprise she found Mrs. Curtis rather interesting.

"And so you actually work?" Mrs Curtis said, "Work in a store. How quaint! Doesn't Mr. Hackett object?"

Why should she ask that question? Ruth had not yet learned to answer it without looking conscious. Even meek Mrs. La Monte had asked it, one day when she came to the shop to see her husband.

"Why should he?" Ruth queried, in return, conscious of the flush on her face. "I don't mind HIS working."

"No, of course not! But he's a man, that's different."

"I don't agree with you. If a woman is capable, and if she cares more about doing some sort of work outside of the home than she does about peeling potatoes and washing dishes, why shouldn't she do what she likes best—especially if there are no children?"

"You have the oddest ideas, Mrs. Hackett. I'd give anything to know how to do something that would keep me eager and interested as you seem to be."

"It isn't 'seeming,' Mrs. Curtis, I AM interested. I love my work in the shop, and I hate, I abominate washing dishes and doing housework. Mr. Hackett is young, has his way to make. It wouldn't be right for me to hire competent help and sit around doing nothing. It wouldn't be fair," Ruth might have added, "Nor would it be possible."

"That's a new way of looking at it. But most men hate to have their wives work. And another thing! I have observed that where the wife works, where she really earns money, the husband, after a while lets her do it all. It seems to me that it is bad for a man in that respect. It sort of has a demoralizing effect on them. And the queer part of it is, it seems to affect all classes of men in the same way, from the washerwomn's husband up."

"I don't agree with you, Mrs. Curtis, although it is interesting to hear your views. Of course, I have never known women who worked, so I am not qualified to talk upon the subject. But I can't see WHY it should demoralize a man, as you say, to have his wife earn money."

"I don't know WHY it does either, but I know that it does, in almost every case. Of course, I am not saying it will in your case. There are always exceptions, you know. Then, too, Mr. Hackett is a professional man, and they have more pride in succeeding than any other class, I think. By the way, have you met that old friend of Mr. Hackett's, Mollie King?"

"Yes, and found her charming."

"Isn't she? I am not much for that Bohemian crowd, myself, but I always liked Mollie, and Mr. Curtis is as fond of her as I am. I often have her to dinner. I would like you and Mr. Hackett to dine with us some night when she is with us—that is, if you would care to come."

"I should like it very much," Ruth replied honestly. It would give her a chance to see Brian and Mollie King together.

"How nice. I don't suppose Mr. Hackett will object. Mr. Curtis used to say he thought they would make a match. I never agreed with him. And you see, I was right."

Ruth saw a near tragedy looming up, yet she smiled, swallowed hard on, then said quite calmly:

"Oh, Brian, Mr. Hackett, has told me all about his old acquaintances, Miss King included. It is quite interesting to listen to his stories. But I presume you had the same experience with Mr. Curtis."

Mrs. Curtis hadn't. But she said nothing about her husband's secretiveness, although she determined to put him through the third degree when she reached home. Receiving no reply, Ruth continued:

"You see, in my work I am often sent out of town to look after the redecorating of some wonderful old houses. It isn't fair that Mr. Hackett should be alone, feel compelled to dine and spend the evening alone when I am out of town. So I am glad that he has some one like Miss King to go out with him, and to entertain him when I am away."

"So you knew and approved, I thought so. I told Mr. Curtis I bet you knew all about it, Mr. Hackett's dining at the Brevort with Mollie. You have been married too short a time for your husband to deceive you."

"He wouldn't think of such a thing!" Ruth replied, saying things under her breath that would have astonished her companion should she have heard. "We always talk everything over together."

"How lovely! wait until I tell Mr. Curtis." Then as they rose from the table, "I'll telephone Mollie, then find an evening both you and she are free, and have you to dinner. So glad I met you."

"Oh, thank God you told me, Brian," Ruth said aloud to herself, as, with flaming cheeks, she hurried back to the shop. "I will go to that dinner if I have to crawl there!"

IF TONGUE IS COATED, BREATH BAD, STOMACH SOUR, CLEAN LIVER AND BOWELS.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once — a teaspoonful to-day often saves a sick child to-morrow.

If your little one is out of sorts, half sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally — look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels, and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and from grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask the druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Smoke In War.

Smoke is a valuable weapon in this war; it is extensively used on both sides to mask military and naval movements, and elaborate means have been devised to throw up clouds of smoke. A very interesting use of smoke is described in the Scientific American: "During a poisonous gas attack smoke is employed to ward off the fumes. Being considerably heavier than the poisonous gases generally employed, a barrage of smoke causes the dangerous fumes to pass over trench and dugouts and to dissipate themselves in higher regions."

Her Correction.

It is a fine story that comes from Blighty, of a Tommy who was having tea in a garden with some kind old ladies whom he was entertaining with accounts of his experiences in Flanders. Every time he said "Wipers" one of the ladies murmured "Ypprr." Later, Tommy, when asked by his mates what sort of a time he had, said: "Oh, fair enough, only one of the old ladies had the hiccups bad. I kind o' ated to go on with my story and not 'elp 'er!"

High Heels Put Corns on Toes

Who cares? Corns or calluses lift off without any pain.

Because style decrees that women crowd and buckle up their tender toes in high heeled footwear, they suffer from corns, then they cut and trim these painful pests which merely makes the corn grow hard. This suicidal habit may cause lockjaw and women are warned to stop it.

A few drops of freezone applied directly upon a sore corn or tender callus gives quick relief and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off without pain. Ask the drug store man for a tiny bottle of freezone, which costs but a few cents, but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

Freezone dries in a moment and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without even irritating the surrounding skin.

Women! Keep a bottle of freezone handy on the dresser and never let a corn ache twice.

OUR DOG VICTOR

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

I owned a dog, and I called him Victor. He was of mixed hunting breed—some setter, some spaniel and some hound. The first moment I saw him and looked into his eye I knew he was very intelligent and could be taught almost anything. I bought him for $5 and took him home with me.

Vic became very much attached to me and I to him. I taught him various tricks which he learned very easily. I tried to train him not to bark at any and every body who came near the place, but failed. His chief delight was to go walking with me. I am fond of walking, and on those days, not being engaged in any vocation, I used to stray away miles into the country. Vic was my only companion and the only one I wished for.

Vic understood me without my explaining things to him, and his opinions did not clash with mine—that is, with two exceptions. I didn't think it proper for him to bark at every cow he came to or to tackle cats. Vic had different views in these respects and paid no attention to mine whatever.

One morning Vic was missing at the breakfast table where I was used to feeding him choice morsels of food. That was the end of him for me for a year. I advertised for him, offered a reward for him, did everything I could to get him back without avail. At last I made up my mind that he had been stolen and removed to another locality. Then one morning he reappeared and was as delighted to get back to me as I was at his coming.

That same autumn—October—I made up my mind to take a walk of a couple of hundred miles. I laid out a course, making a circle covering the distance. I took Vic with me, of course, and never did dog enjoy an outing more. I believe that these walks were the secret of Vic's being more attached to me than to any one else, for, no matter how much any one else petted him and stuffed him with sweetmeats he would wait for hours in the hope of getting a stroll with me.

I was passing through a wood on the outskirts of a pretty village when I met a young lady who the moment she saw Vic fixed her eyes upon him intently.

"Why, Zip," she cried, "come here!"

She was evidently a former acquaintance of the dog, for he bounded toward her and was as glad to see her as she was to see him. When their transports had somewhat subsided I ventured to remark to the young lady:

"You two have evidently met before."

"He's my dog," she said, looking up at me, much pleased at regaining her lost property."

"Indeed!" I replied. "I thought he was mine."

"No; I bought him nearly a year ago. He was probably stolen from me."

"I bought him two years ago. He was probably stolen from me and sold to you."

That mingled look of injury, reproach and other expressions of suffering under a gross injustice was engaging. It seemed to say, "Now that I have at last found my dog surely you are not going to be so hard hearted as to separate him from me." I had a mind to play upon her feelings as I would on a musical instrument with a view to drawing out more such expressions.

"I am perfectly willing," I said, "to resign the dog to you if he will go with you."

"Of course he will come with me. He loves me as I love him."

"Very well." I bid you good morning. I am much pleased to be instrumental in returning your dog."

I lifted my hat and walked on without looking back. I had not gone far before Vic came running past me. I stopped and, turning, saw the young lady standing looking at Vic as reproachfully as she had looked at me. I called the dog and returned with him to her.

"Don't you think," I said, "that he has proved he is my property?"

"No. He has simply proved that he has been in a measure weaned from me to you."

"I think I can add to the proof he has himself offered."

Taking up a pebble, I laid it on Vic's nose and began to count. When I reached ten he tossed it in the air and caught it in his mouth. I had taught him the trick with a lump of sugar. The expression on the girl's face was delightful to see.

"I didn't know he would do that!" she exclaimed.

"If he is your dog he will perform similarly for you. Suppose you give an exhibition of some tricks you have taught him."

"I never taught him any."

"I will be generous with you. I will turn over the dog to you on condition that I be permitted to visit him as often as I like."

"That's very kind of you," she replied innocently. She evidently did not see that my purpose was to visit her as well as the dog.

I went with her to her home, where I left Vic shut up in the barn. A week had not passed before I became so anxious to see him that I could remain away from him no longer. My visits became more and more frequent till at last I forgot to ask for the dog, so engaged was I with the lady. And now, a year after the meeting with her in the woods, I have won my dog and his mistress also.

Too many men seem to have forgotten that their wives were once their sweethearts.

Other Activities Beside the War Interest the Italians.

It was strange to read, a few months ago, a tiny paragraph tucked away in the corner of an Italian daily full of war news, saying that Prof. Ghislanzoni and a party of archeologists had left for Cyrene, Africa, to continue the work of excavations. In this way the Italians are certainly looking ahead, for the already filled museums of Tripoli and Bengasi will become one of the necessary sights for tourists of all countries after the war.

To the Italians, who live much on the tradition of ancient Rome, it is highly gratifying to seek and find in their youngest colony the remains of a still older tradition, the Greek settlements. All will remember the finding, just before the war of the wonderful Cyrene "Venus Rising from the Sea," in the best style of late Greek sculpture. This statue is now safely sandbagged and packed away in a Roman vault. Following the Venus came the discovery of the "Three Graces," a very fine work. This remains in the country where it was discovered, an admirable policy now followed by the Italians, who have placed all recently found works of art in Libya in the above mentioned museums of Tripoli and Bengasi. If for no other reason this policy tends to raise the esteem of the native for the governors of the country.

It has already been found necessary to enlarge the Tripoli museum, which, in addition to statues and inscriptions, contains much material from Roman tombs and splendid mosaics and frescoes from the Roman villa discovered on the seashore. An imposing entrance is made to the town itself by the magnificent triumphal arch to Marcus Aurelius, now repaired. After the removal of the walls of the town, rendered necessary by its growth, interesting evidence of the extent of the fortifications in Roman times was found. The details of this can be studied in the Notiziaro Archaelogico just published.

At Cyrene as many as twenty fine statues have been discovered during excavations in the old Roman forum and capital. Among them figure a Jupiter, an Alexander the Great, an almost perfect statue of Mercury, an Eros, a dancer, etc. And all these riches have come to light after a single year of labor. Some of the finds show Egyptian influence, and one not to be forgotten is a colossal statue of Demeter, who had a sanctuary at Cyrene.

It speaks well for the Italians that they have been able, owing largely to the efficiency of the former governor-general, Ameglio, to bring about a sufficiently peaceful situation in Libya for these excavations to be undertaken, so that Cyrene, never dead, may rise again like Rome itself, and become, as formerly, one of the pearls of the Mediterranean.

(Cyrene, the ancient capital of Cyrenca, is known on many modern maps as Gurelna, although the old name has never been dropped. It lies due south of Italy on the northern African coast, halfway between Tripoli and Alexandria.)

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

An Experiment in Orphans

By JANE OSBORNE

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Professor Osgood had near-sighted eyes, ten acres of good rich garden soil, a desire to do his bit and an order from his publishers to get in his manuscript for his book on truck gardening in ancient Rome by the first of October. Naturally the course of the summer would shape itself in only one way. His defective eyes prevented him from enlisting, the possession of ten acres made it his patriotic duty to raise everything possible, and in the meantime he would complete his book from the notes he had been collecting for the past five years. He would divide his time between the mental work of his book and the physical work of supervising his garden.

He could not cultivate ten acres intensively himself. Labor was scarce. It was necessary in the community where his ten acres was located to pay three dollars and a half a day for a laborer. There would be no economy and no patriotism in that sort of gardening. The only thing left to do was to send for orphans. He had heard of other people doing it. So he wrote to the nearest large city where there was an asylum for motherless and fatherless girls and boys and asked for two young boys of fourteen or fifteen who would profit by a summer in the country with plenty of wholesome food and not too strenuous outdoor work. He intended incidentally to give them daily instruction in the classics, but this he did not tell the authorities of the institution.

Professor Osgood was really not very old or very eccentric. Perhaps he might some day become eccentric if left too much to the solitary contemplation of ancient Roman truck gardens. But now as he sat one very sunshiny May morning in the railroad station of Babcock's there waiting for the arrival of his two orphans who were to help in his war work, he was quite a normal looking young man of thirty-five or six.

Barbara Grayson, whose five acres adjoined his, was also at the station. She was knitting a sock to save time, and the fact that she wore a rather severely cut, fairly short suit of khaki with canvas gaiters and a wide-brimmed khaki hat proclaimed the fact that she had recently "gone in for farming" as a war measure, and that it was not her regular occupation. Not having a book to write and having a great deal of energy and fully as much patriotism as the professor, she was planning to manage her five acres alone. She was now waiting at the station to receive from the conductor some seeds that he had promised to bring her from the city on the morning train.

Professor Osgood rose eagerly when the train stopped and peeled his eyes for two sturdy fourteen-year-old boys, and Barbara ran to the conductor, leaning out from the car vestibule to hand her the seeds. Professor Osgood was still casting about in search of the two sturdy boys, when the train chug-chugged out of the station and two girls dressed in blue gingham, each carrying a cotton umbrella and a cheap wicker suitcase, advanced toward Barbara.

"We're the orphans," one said in a monotone to Barbara, and another held out a sealed letter, which, from the appearance of the envelope, had been held closely by a warm hand all the way from the city. The ink had run, but Barbara saw it was addressed to "Professor Osgood." Barbara, not having the slightest idea of Professor Osgood's plans, was entirely mystified, but smiling on the two girls, handed the letter to the professor. He read it twice slowly and then handed it to Barbara. He knew her but slightly, but she was the only person in the station, and assuredly he needed moral support.

"Our boys have all been placed," said the note, signed by the matron of the city institution. "I'm sending two sturdy, honest girls that are used to hard work. Don't be afraid to give them enough to do. If they have plenty to eat and enough sleep, work won't hurt them. Our visitor will be out in two weeks to make inspections and to see how they are getting on."

While Barbara was reading the letter, Professor Osgood gazed mutely at the two sturdy girls over the top of his spectacles.

"Won't we do?" asked one.

"Neither one of us wants to go back," faltered the other. "It's nice here." This with an approving glance at the very green, very sunshiny country around them.

Professor Osgood thought a minute more, and then concluded that they would do, and while Barbara trudged back by one road, the professor, with his two orphans following him, trudged through the dusty road to his old farmhouse.

At one o'clock, as Barbara sat for a minute after her midday meal, mapping out on paper exactly how she would sow the remainder of the seeds she had just received, there was a knock at the door of her shack—it was of the portable, put-up-and-take-down variety, with only two rooms and a species of kitchen—and Professor Osgood appeared. Barbara invited him to sit down with her and drink a cup of coffee, quite as if they were old friends, and this the professor accepted with apparent gratitude.

"I've come to ask advice," he began. "You see I'm pretty ignorant about a good many things. It didn't occur to me at first that I oughtn't to keep those girls. They want to stay and they have worked like trojans all morning, and they cooked the dinner and are washing up the dishes now. They are a great help. I can do the heavy work and I'll give them short hours and I'll put away something from the proceeds of the garden for them every week. They are nice girls—stupid rather and perhaps a little dull—but splendid outdoor workers. They take to it like peasants. It occurred to me, however, that one conventional doesn't do that sort of thing. That is, wouldn't there be something out of the way about my keeping these girls there, without some one to chaperone them? That's the idea, isn't it? It occurred to me that maybe you could help us out. It's all war work and I know you are just cultivating your garden for patriotism. Couldn't you come over to my place and live? I'd do all the heavy man's work and you could sort of keep your eye on the girls."

Barbara laughed at the professor and suggested that so far as convention went there would be no advantage in the way he had outlined.

Several other plans were suggested. There wasn't room in Barbara's cottage for the orphans, and Barbara didn't like the idea of staying in Professor Osgood's house with the orphans while he stayed in her shack. So it was decided that for the time being he would sleep in the hayloft, while the orphans stayed alone in the house. Perhaps within a week or so the orphans would be tired of the experiment or would have proved themselves poor farmers.

But as a matter of fact just the opposite thing took place. They became expert agriculturists, and when Barbara, at Professor Osgood's suggestion, asked them whether they weren't ready to go back, they both burst into tears, the only sign of vivid emotion that they had expressed since their arrival. So the professor continued to sleep in the hayloft without any serious discomfort. After all there was no one in the neighborhood to criticize the arrangement and the plan might have worked out all summer were it not for the expected visit of the inspector.

"Did the people at the asylum know," said Professor Osgood feeling carefully one day as the girls were about to go forth to hoe the first showing of beans, "did they know I was living here alone when they sent you?"

"No, sir," said one emphatically. "They said there was a Mr. and Mrs. Osgood, they did, and the matron said: 'Mind you do what Mrs. Osgood says.'"

The professor suddenly became pensive. It was not the first time he had thought in a rather concrete way of late of the possibility of a Mrs. Osgood. After all it was not such an entirely preposterous idea. Other men, reasoned the professor, had managed to win the love of women completely and entirely their superiors in every way. How foolish it would be not to take the chance. Not to ask Barbara to marry him would not make the intensity of his love any less poignant. And perhaps—. The professor left his orphans abruptly and sauntered over to Barbara's shack. He had planned several ways of beginning the conversation, but Barbara was busy planting corn and he felt that quick action was most suitable.

"Barbara will you marry me?" he said, looking very hard at the corn in her curved palm.

"Bless your heart," said Barbara, dropping the grain and laughing a little. "I was almost afraid you wouldn't ask me in time. I thought maybe you would sometime, but I wanted to have it all fixed and settled before that orphan inspector got around. It's part of our war duty, isn't it?"

Typewritten Signatures.

In these days of typewritten letters and equally typewritten official documents the writing by hand is becoming a lost art.

Average of time for reading letters is two minutes for the body of the letter and anywhere from fifteen minutes to two hours trying to figure out who made the hieroglyphics that stand for a signature.

In these days of economy it seems wicked to waste so much time. Let the stenographer type the signature in full at the end of the letter, leaving a space below in which the author may satisfy his taste for cubist or futurist art.

Every man, even a lawyer or a soldier, has a right to sign his name as he pleases. But the man who writes a signature which none can copy—or read—should at least furnish his friends with a key to the code he uses.

Women to Give Up Platinum.

Women possessing platinum-mounted jewelry are being urged to have it converted into War Savings stamps and used for making war materials. A special drive has been inaugurated to increase the platinum supply for the government by melting up slacker baubles of platinum. "Women have gone without heat, without wheat, without meat," said one of the leaders of the movement when telling of her plea to her sex to sacrifice their ornaments. "They have been asked to economize on the materials in their clothes and reduce the height of their shoes to save leather. Surely they ought not to find it a hardship to go without platinum. There is a shortage of platinum and it is only with great difficulty that a sufficient quantity for actual needs is being obtained for the government."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Half heartedness is the sign of a weak will.

Woman finds the glass that cheers in her own dressing room.

It is never too early to realize that it is never too late to mend.

One half the world certainly knows how the other half dances.

Mind your eye!

A BUG darts at your eye. Your eye closes—before you think. Reflex action. Your eye telegraphs to your brain "Bug coming!" Your brain flashes back "Close up!" You aren't conscious of the exchange of messages—but your eyelids close. Force of habit protects you. Habit and reflex action save time and effort in numberless ways, and keep your brain clear for the real problem.

Habit, for example, sets the hour when the delicate departments of your digestion combine in a supreme reflex action to move your bowels. Nujol cultivates that habit. If they move regularly all you know is that you feel well.

If they don't move regularly, you know it—the habit has failed.

The food waste stagnates in your large intestine, decays, generates poisons, which are absorbed into your blood and carried all over your body. Your next effort will be more difficult—and soon the bad habit of constipation will be established. The good habit of regularity is replaced by the bad habit of irregularity—reflex action is paralyzed, and the waste accumulates.

Don't exchange a good habit for a bad one. Nujol builds such a strong habit that it offers a maximum of resistance to the clogging of the intestines. Don't wait until you're "sick" to start. Nujol night and morning will give you a reflex action as "regular as clockwork." Be as proud of your inside cleanliness as you are of a clean face and clean teeth.

Pills, purgative mineral waters, salts castor oil and other cathartics, weaken and cause strain. They increase constipation. Nujol acts easily, harmlessly, naturally. Your druggist has it

PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

Their Coast Line Is Longer Than That of the United States.

"It is not generally known perhaps that the coast line of the Philippine Islands is longer than that of the United States," said a man who has spent more than fifteen years in that country. "The Philippines are numerous islands," he continued. "It would take one many months to tour all of the islands. Of course the climate varies, but in most parts it is delightful. The average temperature is lower than in many parts of the United States and the humidity is not nearly so great. Records of temperature in the Philippines have been kept since 1865, and in that time the maximum recorded was 103 degrees. The mean temperature is from 70 to 80 degrees.

"If the humidity were great there are times when it would be almost unbearable, but ordinarily I would rather live in the Philippines than in most sections of this country. It is fortunate that in the month of greatest humidity, September, the temperature falls lower than at any other time of the year, which makes it possible to endure the conditions.

"I have frequently been asked if there is much drinking among the Filipinos. There is comparatively very little. The Filipinos have discovered, even if some of our own countrymen have not, that alcoholic drinks and the tropics do not mix. It is seldom you see a Filipino intoxicated. There are native brewed drinks in different islands, but the people do not overindulge."

If you want to avoid being annoyed by flies in your house keep them outside.

The value of our plant and equipment in use at the end of last year, in round figures was $42,670,000, an excess of thirteen millions over our capital and bond liability.

How was this excess plant acquired?

By careful administration over a long period, our surplus earnings derived from the economical operation of our plant and from premiums on sale of stock and bonds, as well as from profitable investments, have been turned back into the business for the purchase of new equipment.

This means that on this thirteen odd millions no dividends have been paid; our subscribers, not our shareholders, have benefitted by it.

Rates have been low by reason of our small capital and bond liability. Neither stock nor cash bonuses have been paid our shareholders.

Net earnings for 1917 were only 5.5 per cent. of our assets. At the increased cost of operation and maintenance our earnings cannot provide an adequate return on the investment.

This situation we wish to meet by the application of a fair schedule of rates.

LEMON JUICE WHITENS SKIN

Girls! Make beauty lotion at home for few cents

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best bleaching and skin whitening lotion, and compexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how tan, redness, sallowness, sunburn and windburn disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

Japanese Newspapers.

Japanese newspapers, according to Prof. F. L. Martin, of the University of Missouri's school of journalism, divide their news into "hard" and "soft." The hard news consists of serious, important events. The soft news includes all sorts of "human interest" incidents. What is called the "third page" of the soft news department consists of trival stories which would be called gossip in this country. Here is a sample of "third page" soft news: Since Etsunaka, a resident of Osakusa, has separated from her master, a coal dealer, she has lost a good opponent for her noted powers of quarreling. The neighbors are breathing freely again at the prospect that they need no longer hear embarrassing quarrels which have made the neighborhood famous. The reaction has been so great that Etsunaka has been downhearted. She says: "I feel sick now that I have no one to quarrel with."

Two old Ducks.

An army captain, who is also an ardent sportsman, tells of two ducks that made their home in a small pond in No Man's Land—and this at a point where the lines were only 100 yards apart and shells were falling all about and often in the pond itself. Then there was the brindle cat that "adopted" his machine-gun company. She travelled up and down the line, but never stayed anywhere except in one of the machine-gun emplacements. On bright days she would hop up on top of the parapet and sit there, making her toilet, and then stretch out on the sandbags for a nap. At this point it was not possible to show a hand or a periscope or any other small object without drawing the fire of some boche, but they never shot at the cat. Superstitious, perhaps!

She Benefitted.

"Did your husband leave you anything?" asked the white woman of the colored lady in mourning, who had consented to do her washing.

"No'm," answered the bereaved. "Ah suppo'ted him all the time we been married. Even paid his lodge dues. But the lodge done well by me. They give him a gran' funeral an' pays me fo'ty dollars a month allimony."

ONTARIO'S BIG CROPS

Ensure Equal Crops Next Year by Attention to Seed Grain.

Larger Profits From Live Stock Made When Stables Are Given Thorough Clean-up — Live Stock Thrive Better In Dry, Well-Ventilated Stables.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

ONTARIO is fortunate this year in having a good supply of grain in almost all classes of crops. The more grain there is to select from, the better chance there is to get the very best seed for sowing in the spring. Too many farmers forget the seed supply for next year's crop until most of their grain is fed or sold.

If the best of this grain was set aside for seed at threshing time or taken from the grain bins before any of it was fed or sold, there would be less work of seed preparation in the spring and a foundation provided for better seed than is often sown.

Small, shrunken or broken seed has a feeding value nearly equal to that of large plump seed. The following results of seed selection experiments conducted at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph will show, however, that there is very great difference in the value of these for seed purposes:—

Selections.	Weight per Measured Bushel (lbs.).	Tons of Straw per Acre.	Bushels of Grain per Acre.
Oats—
Large Plump Seed	33.2	1.9	62.0
Medium - sized Seed	32.2	1.8	54.1
Small Seed	31.3	1.8	46.6
Barley—
Large Plump Seed	49.5	1.5	53.8
Small Plump Seed	48.8	1.5	50.4
Shrunken Seed	49.1	1.4	46.0
Broken Seed	48.6	1.3	43.2
Spring Wheat—
Large Plump Seed	59.1	1.4	21.7
Small Plump Seed	56.3	1.3	18.0
Shrunken Seed	56.9	1.2	16.7

(Oats were tested seven years, barley six, and spring wheat eight.)

Selecting the best seed from that which the farmer has available will not only provide large plump seed for sowing which will produce the most vigorous plants and the largest yield of best quality, but it will very largely illiminate any weed seeds which may be in the grain. — Dr. C. A. Zavitz, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

Clean, Dry and Ventilate Stables.

Cleanliness, dryness and good ventilation are hygienic conditions very desirable in the housing of all kinds of live stock. Horses, cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry all do better and are less liable to contract infectious and contagious diseases when kept under such conditions than when dirt, dampness and poor ventilation are found in the stables in which they are housed. Undoubtedly, outbreaks of infectious and contagious diseases do occasionally occur in the best built and best kept stables, but the danger of these spreading is much less than where unhygienic conditions prevail.

Without doubt good stock has been produced under stable conditions that were not of the best, but the chances of producing and maintaining good healthy stock are much greater where cleanliness, dryness and good ventilation in the stables are the order of the day.

Dirt of all kinds, whilst it does not itself produce disease, is liable to harbor and foster the bacteria or other germs that do cause infectious disease, hence, so long as it is lying around inside the stables it is a source of danger to the stock.

If there is one class of stable more than another in which cleanliness is desirable it is the dairy stable. Milk is an ideal food for many varieties of bacteria as well as for human beings or live stock, and many varieties of bacteria are always present in stable dirt. Consequently, when dirt or stable dust gets into milk, many contaminating bacteria get in with it. It is the action of these bacteria in the milk that causes it to spoil either by souring or putrefaction. Consequently, one step in the production of good clean milk is to have it produced where there is little danger of dirt or dust getting into it.

Dampness is a great agent in the spreading and fostering of disease. Perhaps the one disease that it is most liable to induce is pneumonia. Many hogs are lost annually as a result of contracting pneumonia through being kept in low-lying, damp quarters. Dampness due to bad ventilation is very conducive to the development of various lung troubles with all kinds of stock. The damp stagnant air in badly-ventilated stables lowers the vitality, depresses the blood circulation and so puts the animals kept under these conditions in such a state as to make them ready subjects for the development of such diseases as influenza, pneumonia tuberculosis and others.—Prof. D. H Jones, Ontario Agricultural College Guelph.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigour and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro phosphate, which is inexpensive and sold by most druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessless and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION:— Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

A Simple Way To Remove Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scip and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

ELBA AND ST. HELENA.

Napoleon's Comic Opera Empire and His Grim Island Prison.

An "empire" eighteen miles in length and twelve miles in extreme width, such is the Mediterranean isle of Elba, to which Napoleon was consigned by the victorious allies and where he received the homage of his new subjects. Elba, long a place of pilgrimage for tourists from all nations, lives chiefly in the memories of that ten months of comic opera, when the man who had all but mastered Europe aped his vanished royalty and, like a child with a new toy, issued foolish decrees which began, "Napoleon, emperor, sovereign of Elba, to his people."

Utterly devoid of a sense of humor the emperor must have been to take his new position so seriously. It was a huge joke that the powers played upon the Corsican by permitting him to retain the title of emperor and awarding him a "kingdom" that placed him on the same footing with the sultan of Sulu and the king of the Cannibal Isles.

If Napoleon had remained there he would doubtless have become what his enemies intended he should become—an object of derision, the butt of the world's sneers and jeers. But he did not stay, and the glory of the "hundred days," the brave carnage of Waterloo, the culminating tragedy of St. Helena, restored Napoleon to a place among the world's heroes.

St. Helena was grim and terrible. There humanity pictures Napoleon "with his hands crossed behind him, gazing out upon the sad and solemn sea"—a caged lion, feared by all the world. Elba was trifling, pitiful, petty, insignificant, and there Napoleon was a caged monkey to be laughed at. —New York World.

Dominican Tobacco Crop.

Owing to the high prices obtained for the 1917 crop a large acreage was planted for tobacco this year in the Dominican Republic, and it was expected the yield would total approximately 57,500,000 pounds, or double the average. Drought, however, has done so much damage it is now likely that the crop will not exceed 23,000,000 pounds. The greater part of the crop will be exported to France, Spain, Algiers and Holland. The amount remaining from the 1917 crop is about 12,420,000 pounds.

A Caustic Critic.

The Paris critic Martin once only had taken his chocolate in a place other than the Cafe Foy, and he then found it not good. This happened at the Regence, and the young woman at the desk, to whom he expressed his displeasure, said: "You are the only one to complain. All of the gentlemen of the court who come here find it good."

"They also say, perhaps, that you are pretty," he replied slowly.

How to Win Beauty.

Full of good common sense is the suggestion in the Journal of the American Medical association on how to be beautiful. "For giving the face a good color," the expert says, "get one pot of rouge and one rabbit's foot. Bury them two miles from home and walk out and back once a day to see if they are still there."

An Early Peace Conference is Not Expected Until the New Democracies are Organized

The Wreck of the Hohenzollern-Hapsburg Feudalism Will Have to be Cleared Up First—Germany's Challenge Failed.

THE ARMISTICE

(United Press Service.)
(By Fred Ferguson.)

PARIS, Nov. 12.—An early peace conference is not expected. It will be necessary for the Inter-Allied conference first to organize, stabilize and confederate the baby democracies rising from the wreck of the Hohenzollern-Hapsburg feudalism. Germany's challenge to the Allied political front failed as completely as its efforts of last July to break the military front. Unanimous agreement on the armistice terms at Versailles confronted Germany with a diplomatic Chateau Thierry, beyond which it was impossible to pass.

Doctor Solf, German Foreign Secretary, in a wireless despatch from Berlin to President Wilson last night, pleaded for the mitigation of the armistice terms.

FRENCH HEADQUARTERS TRANSFERRED TO METZ

(United Press Service.)
(By John D. Gandt.)

PARIS, Nov. 12.—French General Headquarters will be transferred to Metz within ten days, was the general belief expressed here to-day. The "Petit Parisien" says it understands the Allied Premiers soon will meet in Versailles to consider peace problems. It is believed there is a strong probability that the peace conference will be held there. The German courier arrived at the French lines from Spa, Sunday night, carrying instructions from the Chancellor and General Groener, it was learned to-day. The delegates were reinforced by four specialists to press the necessity of feeding Germany. They described food conditions as critical. A reduction of the neutral zone east of the Rhine was granted. The delegates recognized the four financial paragraphs as similar to those imposed by Bismarck in 1871. They asked special facilities to transport the army behind the Rhine.

Mathias Erzberger, leader of the Catholic party and chairman of the German delegation, will remain as secretary. General Winterfeld wept bitterly when he signed the document. The German delegation took a special train from Rethondes to Tergnier, where a German automobile met them and carried them back to the German line.

Victory Loan Must Succeed

At least $500,000,000 must be obtained by Saturday Night

1—To bring the boys home;

2—To maintain them in Europe till peace is firmly established;

3—To maintain our industrial activities and provide new employment for munition workers and soldiers as they return;

4—To continue our loans to Britain for buying Canadian food;

5—To enable Canadian workers to get their rightful share of orders for rebuilding Belgium and France.

Monday, November 11th, will be recorded as the greatest day in British history. We all relaxed and rejoined, and will remember it as long as we live. Let us in our rejoicing not forget the tremendous responsibility that rests on us for the remainder of the week. Canada must subscribe for $35,000,000 on each of the next five days.

NOTE HAS REACHED PRESIDENT WILSON

GERMANY ASKS FOR MITIGATION OF ARMISTICE TERMS.

(Special to Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, November 12. — The appeal of Dr. Solf, Foreign Secretary at Berlin, for intervention by President Wilson, for the mitigation of the armistice terms to save Germany from starvation, was delivered to Secretary of State Lansing to-day by Minister Sulzer of Switzerland. It was sent immediately to the President.

Five Peterboro Factories Have Won Victory Flags

E. F. Ackerman Company Takes $25,000 Bonds in Addition to Subscriptions of Employees—Reports Show Farmers are Buying More Than in First Weeks of the Campaign.

The Peterboro factories that have won the honor flag in the Victory Loan are the Canadian General Electric Company, the Matthew's Blackwell Company, the Peter Hamilton Company and B. F. Ackerman & Sons.

The Ackerman Co. is the latest accession to the honor list and in addition to the total subscription of the employees the company itself has taken $25,000 worth of bonds. The local factories are already well represented and it is believed that this week will find others stepping up into the select rank.

At the Hunter St. office of the Loan today it was stated that the reports from the township are showing much improvement this week.

Some of the townships of this county which had been lagging in the work of securing the local objective, and were represented by a small percentage of their particular share, have begun to increase their amounts. In this, the last week of the Loan it is expected that the farmers will make themselves felt in placing Peterboro county securely among the groups that have given as much or more than was set for them.

Police Complimented on Yesterday's Work

The police have received many compliments on the manner in which the crowds were handled last night. Sergt. Reid who was acting Chief stated today the people themselves were to be congratulated upon the orderly methods of their demonstration. There were no reports of mishaps and the sergeant believed that not even one automobile was dented. Mr. Frank Pratt was the only special constable. He was traffic officer at Hunter St. corner.

SIGNED AT SENLIS?

Paris Temps Names Little French Town As Place Where Armistice Was Concluded.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—"If the German answer is in the affirmative, an armistice will be signed at Senlis, the headquarters of the Allied Generalissimo," says the Temps. This little French town was gutted by the Germans in 1914, and the Mayor and leading citizens wantonly shot to death by the invaders.

"There has been a striking change in the attitude of the German soldiers during the past few days," said a lieutenant who arrived in Paris the other day. "The Germans now surrender without striking a blow. They say that the people at home have lost their heads, and the country is crumbling to pieces, so why should the army make further sacrifices?"

GHENT OCCUPIED BY THE BELGIANS

(Special to the Examiner)

LONDON, Nov. 12—After the armistice became effective, the Belgians moved forward and occupied Ghent, according to battle-front despatches received here today.

From Ghent the front extends east of Mons, through Rocroi, Charleville and Doncery to the west bank of the Meuse and through Stenay and Damvillers.

CANADIAN CASUALTIES

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 12.—In the awful conflict that ended yesterday Canada's glorious effort has cost the lives of over fifty thousand Canadian soldiers. Up to and including the 31st of October, the latest casualty figures available total 211,378, divided as follows:

Killed in action, 334,877.
Died of wounds or disease, 15,457.
Wounded, 192,719.
Presumed dead, missing and prisoners of war, 6,246.

PEACE DESCENDS LIKE A MANTLE OVER BATTLEFIELD

The Canadians Are Now Resting at Mons.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FLANDERS, Nov. 12.—Peace has descended like a mantle over the battle front. The last big gun crashed its challenge and a great over-powering quiet replaced the turmoil, death and destruction. Almost coincident with signing of armistice by a desperate enemy the City of Mons capitulated before relently British pressure, Canadian troops under General Horne having captured the place. On this hallowed ground Canadian troops are now resting on their guns happy in the thought of the fitness of their final triumph. They had driven the enemy out by the same gateway through which Field Marshal Von Buelow and Field Marshal Von Kluck hurled their great armies against the valiant little force of "contemptibles" in 1914.

WORK FOR PRISONERS

Enemy Prisoners Will be Utilized in Re-construction.

CONFIRMED BELIEF

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—German and Austrian prisoners of war will probably be utilized in rebuilding territories devastated by the enemy. This was one conclusion drawn by officials here from the fact that armistice terms meted out both to Austria and Germany provided for the return of Allied prisoners "without reciprocation." High authorities confirmed the belief that the enemy prisoners would be put to work.

FLOWER OF FRANCE GONE

Nation Has Lost 2,500,000 Men—War Expenses Are Weighing Heavily

New York, Nov. 12.—An appeal to America to assist France in her reconstruction—with men, money, material and ships—was made here by Andre Tardieu, general commissioner for Franco-American war affairs.

Declaring that the war had reduced by one-fifteen the ective population tion of the republic, that 350,000 homes have been destroyed, that agriculture, commerce and industry in the invaded regions virtually had been wiped out, the French shipping and foreign trade have been reduced to almost nonexistence, Mr. Tardieu said that approximately 50,000,000,000 francs (10,000,000,000) would be required to finance the process of restoration. While France, "for many months the main battlefield of liberty and right" will draw upon her every resource and those of her colonies to mobilize this vast sum, the commissioner stated that she confidentially looks for assistance from the Allies.

Request To The United States

From America, the speaker continued, making public as he said, representations which he had presented to the administeration at Washington, France asks for contribution of labor by American troops now on her soil; for credits to the extent of fifty per cent of her re-construction purchases in this country for raw materials, road rolling stock and agricultural and industial tools, and for diversion of part of the emergency fleet to the uses of French commerce. In explaining these needs to the American Government the commissioner said he was given a "welcome by which I was deeply moved."

How France Has Suffered

"France has lost 2,500,000 men Some are dead, some maimed, some have returned sick and incapacitated from German prisons.

"The younger, stronger part of our nation, the flower of France, has died on the battlefields. Our country has been robbed of its most precious resources.

"Our own expenses: 120,000,000,000 francs, are weighing heavily on our shoulders. To pay off this debt there are at hand only such limited resources as invasion has left us. The territories which have ben under German occupation for four years were the wealthiest part of France. This area did not exceed six per cent of the whole country. It paid twenty-five per cent of the sum total of our taxes."

MRS. (REV.) G. HORTON DISAPPEARED OVER A WEEK AGO.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 12th. — On Sunday evening last, Mrs. (Rev.) G. Horton of this city, an aged lady, left home with the intention of going to church. Nothing further was heard of her until to-day when her body was found floating in the river here. Deceased was 61 years of age.

SPAIN FOR ALLIES NOW.

Demonstrations in Spanish Cities in Favour of Winners of War.

MADRID, Nov. 12. — Manifestations have occurred in the larger cities of Spain on the announcement of the victory of the Allies over Germany. The news has occasioned a recrudescence of sentiments favourable to the Entente.

The New Regime Appears to be Getting Foothold in Parts of Germany

The Revolutionary Movement is Continually Spreading—The New Provisional Government.

"SOCIALIST REPUBLIC"

Special to the Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 12. — An agreement has been reached between the Socialist and Independent Socialist parties in Germany and the new regime seems to have secured ample support from the press. In addition to the Wolff Bureau, the Socialists are now represented by three newspapers, the "Vorwaerts," "Lokal Anzieger," formerly the Emperor's favourite newspaper, and now re-christened the "Red Flag," and the former semi-official organ, "North German Gazette," which has taken the new title of "The International." The revolutionary movement is continually spreading. Koenigsberg, Frankfort-on-Maine and Strassburg are now controlled by Soviets. It is officially reported that there are no disorders.

Will Be All-Red.

Germany's new Provisional Government will be All-Red, that is to say, the Bourgeois parties will not be represented in it. The plan is to give the Independent Socialists the Vice-Chancellorship and two other secretarial posts. Proclamations issued daily are addressed to "Comrades" rather than to "Citizens," and references are no longer made to "the People's Republic" but to "the Socialist Republic."

Emperor Charles.

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The abdication of Emperor Charles has been rumoured several times in the past two weeks, but none of these reports have been confirmed. The most recent report in connection with Emperor Charles was received on Nov. 2, when it was said that he had announced his intention to abdicate.

Violent Fighting.

Special to the Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 12.—Violent street fighting has occurred in Dombovar, Hungary, between miners and soldiers of the old regime. The miners, with the aid of weapons smuggled from Russia, are reported to have defeated the soldiers.

A general strike will be called in Vienna to-morrow, it was learned today.

The entire German northern fleet and the island base of Heligoland are in the hands of Soldiers' Councils. German troops at Beverloo Camp in Belgium have mutined and are marching with their guns towards Holland.

REPUBLIC PROCLAIMED.

(Special to The Examiner.)

BERLIN, via London, Nov. 12. — The King of Saxony has been dethroned and a republic proclaimed. The ministry has been instructed to call an election on the basis of equal suffrage for men and women.

ANOTHER THRONE TOTTERS.

(Special to The Examiner.)

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 12.—Prince Heinrich of Reuss, reigning member of the younger line of that family, has relinguished the throne, it was reported from Berlin to-day.

Latin Quarter in Paris Came to Life Yesterday

(By William Philip Simms)
(United Press.)

PARIS, Nov. 12.—When the victory news arrived the celebrated Latin quarter of Paris came to life with a bang after four years of churchyard quiet. Students paraded, shouting, singing, waving flags. The war hit the Latin quarter harder than it hit any other section of Paris, rendering it silent and empty. Today it is gay as ever, blossoming into new merriment, gayly bedecked in bunting. The roof was almost lifted when bands boomed the Marseillaise.

Peterboro Soldier Lost Two Fingers

CORPORAL S. M. WARD IS NOW IN MONTREAL.

Mrs. P. M. Ward, 814 Water street, has received word that her son, Corporal S. M. Ward, has had two fingers amputated in hospital, London, England.

The letter from the Red Cross follows:

14-10-'18.

Dear Madam:

I beg to inform you that Corporal S. M. Ward, of the 87th Canadians, is now at St. George's Hospital, Hyde Park Corner, London, England.

Our authorized Red Cross visitor has recently seem him there. She tells us he is suffering from a gun shot wound in the right hand which has caused him to lose two of his fingers (the third and fourth fingers.) I am glad to report that she says his hand is doing fine and healing quickly. You may rest assured that he is receiving every care. Yours truly,

D. Forrester.

SHOT A 250 POUND DEER.

Gold Lake Hunting Club Secures Three Deer.

Mr. Percy Blade, brother of Patrol Sergeant Arthur Blade, shot a 250 pound deer last Saturday on the shores of Gold Lake. The Gold Lake Hunting Club have bagged three deer to date. The party includes Mr. Chris Moffat, Mr. Charles Mills, Mr. Tom Donaldson, Mr. Jack Stanger, Mr. Clifford Coons, and Mr. Arthur Blade, Sr. The party have established headquarters in Mr. Arthur Blade's cottage on Gold Lake.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

TUESDAY, NOV. 12TH, 1918

YESTERDAY'S CELEBRATION

They used to say Peterboro couldn't cheer but that was before yesterday. The demonstrations of Victory Day will never be forgotten; men, women and children were literally drunk with excitement and joy. Staid citizens whom one might expect to find unmoved even by an earth-quake flung their dignity to the winds and cheered, clapped each other on the back, waved flags and even blew toy horns with as much enthusiasm as the youngsters. The spectacle of a sedate middle aged citizen industriously hammering on a tin pan might on other occasions have caused some comment but not yesterday. "This is from the heart" one woman was heard to say as she watched the first of the many parades and she was right. Only people whose hearts were wholly in the struggle could celebrate as did the citizens of Peterboro throughout yesterday. Everything was forgotten except the fact that the war was over and that the allies had won. There were no strangers yesterday men shook hands with others they had never seen before and the city was one big happy family—making no attempt to hide its feelings. It was a great day and there will be more like it when the boys come home.

A WORD ABOUT OURSELVES

The events of yesterday demonstrated in no uncertain manner the completeness and excellency of the Examiner News Service.

The first word that the armistice had been signed was received in Peterboro by the Examiner. Thanks to this paper's connection with the United Press a telephone message to the Examiner at 3:20 o'clock yesterday morning conveyed the intelligence for which the people of Peterboro had been waiting. At 7 o'clock an extra edition of the Examiner was on the street, containing the official announcement by the United Press of the end of hostilities, an indication of the peace terms many details of the revolution in Germany and Mayor Duncan's announcement of a public holiday.

Later in the day the Examiner scored again when in its regular edition it published the terms of the armistice in full—so that this most important news was available for the people of Peterboro hours before it could be read in the Toronto evening papers.

The Examiner was the first paper in Peterboro to announce the signing of the armistice; the Examiner was the only paper in Peterboro to print the peace terms yesterday.

CHEERS NOT ENOUGH

Peterboro has had her celebration—her mafeking. From early morning until after midnight the overwhelming joy of the people at the victorious termination of the war was manifested in every manner that inventive minds could devise. But this is the day after and we wake to a realization that our duty is not yet complete our responsibilities not yet over. Unfortunately with peace does not come the end of all our difficulties. We cannot simply pick up our lives from today as they were before the war overturned the world and go on as we used to.

There are many duties before us and first and foremost because upon it depends the future of the country is the successful floating of the Victory Loan. It would be indeed disastrous if in our exulted rejoicing over the end of the war we were to allow the Loan to fail. The people of Peterboro must realize their solemn responsibility in this vital business. The campaign ends on Saturday— we are still behind our objective and every effort will have to be exerted during the next few days so that Peterboro may go over the top as her brave sons in France have on so many occasions. There are many who have not yet recognized the necessity of subscribing to the Loan. In yesterday's parades there were men who wildly waved flags and cheered at the top of their voices who are financially in a position to buy Victory Bonds and who have not done so. They still have a chance to show that their enthusiasm was genuine and that their cheers came from the heart by taking their share of the loan. The boys over there have never failed us; are we going to fail them at the moment when they have won a complete and permanent victory?

A FITTING CLIMAX

"Shortly before dawn this morning Canadian troops of the First Army under General Horne captured Mons."—official despatch from Sir Douglas Haig.

Every Canadian heart will be thrilled by the news that the last act of the great war as far as the actual fighting was concerned was the taking of historic Mons by the troops from the Dominions. What a climax to an uninterrupted series of victories by General Currie's men, starting with the breaking of the Germans front near Amiens on August 8th followed by the smash through the Hindenburg line east of Arras, the penetration of the Drocourt-Queant switch-line immediately afterward, the crossing of the Canal du Nord and the capture of Cambrai, Denain and Valenciennes.

Mons, a Belgian town practically unknown to the world at large when the war broke out is now one of the best known places in history of great struggle. It was here that the British regular army "the old contemptibles" first crossed bayonets with the Hun hordes. At Mons began the famous retreat in which the British troops outnumbered ten to one fell back slowly and steadily, fighting against overwhelming odds. Mons is therefore a name that means much to the British people. And it will be the source of great thanksgiving that it was captured from the enemy before the signing of the armistice brought hostilities to a close. It is the irony of fate that the Canadians, the first of whom were being mobilized at Valcartier camp when the first battle of Mons was fought should end the fighting by the capture of the historic town.

The Canadian people will rejoice that Mons has been added to the long list of Canadian victories.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Victory.

A real Victory Loan.

Lend as they fought.

And lend as you cheered yesterday.

All together. Two million dollars from Peterboro and let's get the boys home.

Never mind the Kaiser, he's a dead one. Get in on something live—Buy Victory Bonds.

"Thank God and the British Navy."

Mons—isn't that a grand name for the Canadians to list in their battle honours?

We have yet to hear from Karl Rosner, the Kaiser's pet war correspondent. His story of the flight of young and old Bill to Holland should make interesting reading.

Wanted—On a charge of murder and piracy on the high seas, William Hohenzollern, alias the Kaiser, alias the Beast of Berlin. Suspected to be in Holland. A reward for his capture, lead or alive.

Holland is not overjoyed at the arrival of the former Kaiser and his party. Wilhem may be deported as an undesirable.

Voice of The People

A NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL POLICY WANTED FOR CANADA

The Editor of the Examiner.

Sir:—

A national industrial policy for the reconstruction of our property in Canada is wanted. Why not employers, trades unionists and departmental representatives get together and hold a conference to consider the the outlining of a definite policy and the creation of machinery by which the policy may be put into effect. This is about to be done in Britain, why not Canada also? This idea, I believe to be worthy of consideration by every right thinking man and woman. The majority of employers and employed want to find a path leading to a good understanding. Working people are reading and thinking hard and want to avoid anything that means disaster. Sympathetically and justly handled they will rally to the support of true ideals (for the worker's one fault is perhaps being too much of an idealist.) If there is no better idea of central unity than we have now, both sides will be at the mercy of extreme, but capable leaders.

It is the conviction of some people that the lack of a bold, human and definite government labor policy, administered in a bold and definite way, has been responsible for most of our labor troubles. Canada is full of level headed labor men, who would view with alarm any form that is likely to crop up, espoused by a hand-full of hot-heads. The overwhelming majority of trades unionists are keen patriots, so for the reconstruction period we should get a business government league formed, for forming a business government by men who understand not only the needs, but the possibilities of the loyalty of those, by whose efforts those needs can be met. We in Canada are not wedded to tradition, or fearful of innovation. We are a young country. Don't let capital and labor miss this opportune time for getting together. Of course there are difficulties, but is not Industrial Unity worth the struggle? Trades Unionists ought not to be afraid to meet the employers (in fact we have seen of late that they are not) in conference, to tell them what they think of them, and then settle down to business, by laying the foundation for an industrial future, of which otherwise we may dream, but never realize.

It would only be right to have all the cards upon the table for the reconstruction of our property, such as the developments of our natural resources to the full, the State rendering the assistance of its power to attain that object. Also to put a fence around the German commercial pirate.

The vital factor of success will be the co-operation of the capitalist and employee to devise and work out these problems.

A BRITISH BATTLESHIP TORPEDOED

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The British battleship Brittania was torpedoed on Saturday at the western entrance to the Straits of Gibraltar, and sank within three and a half hours, the Admiralty announced. Thirty-nine officers and 673 men were saved.

TOOK 946 TONS OF HARD COAL TO HEAT GOVERNMENT HOUSE

Waterloo County Council Discusses Ontario's White Elephant

Kitchener, Nov. 12.—That the residence of the lieutenant-governor of Ontario is a "white elephant" on the hands of the Government and should be turned over for more useful purposes, is the pith of a resolution unanimously passed by the Waterloo county council.

John Taylor, Jr., who offered the resolution, declared that last winter, while poor people in Toronto were scratching the ash-heaps for a few burned cinders to keep them warm, the Government House was being heated by 946 tons of anthracite coal. He declared that the expenditure in connection with the Government House, in the face of so much distress at the present time was a sin and a disgrace.

NO CONSTIPATION NO PILES

We think, without a doubt, that constipation is the most prevalent and at the same time, one of the greatest troubles human nature is afflicted with, and causes more sickness than anything else.

Unless a free action of the bowels occurs at least once a day, constipation is sure to ensue, then comes the sore and uncomfortable piles, sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue obnoxious breath, sour stomach heartburn, water brash, and many other ailments.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, thus removing the constipation and its allied troubles.

Mr. Dan Doucette, Eel River Crossing, N.B., writes: — "Having been troubled for years with constipation and trying everything I know of, a friend advised me to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I used four vials and am completely cured. I can gladly recommend them to anyone who suffers from constipation."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills have been on the market for the past 2[illegible] years, and have been used with the best results by thousands of people in that time, and we have yet to hear of a complaint as to their curative powers.

Price 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Man Electrocuted at Oshawa Sub-station

FOOT CAME IN CONTACT WITH 2,000 VOLT SWITCH AS HE CAME DOWN LADDER.

Companions and Doctors Worked Over Him for Five Hours to no Avail.

OSHAWA, Nov. 12. — On Monday afternoon, just as Mr. Oliver Christie had completed his work of installing an additional switchboard at the sub-station of the Hydro-Electric here, and was coming down the ladder, a most shocking accident occurred. In some manner or another in putting out his foot to reach the step he touched the 2,000 volt switch which evidently resulted in killing him almost instantly. His fellow workmen standing on the floor, just below, caught his body as it fell, and immediately resuscitation methods were employed and the doctors as well as those who were working with him tried for five hours to restore respiration. He was a young man of 33 years and leaves a wife and two small children in Belleville, from where he came to make the installation here as above stated.

No inquest was considered necessary as the death was purely accidental. The body was removed to Belleville.

Must Not Fraternize

Communication With Enemy Troops is Absolutely Forbidden.

United Press:

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN FRANCE, Nov. 12.—Orders announcing that the armistice between the Allied Powers and Germany had been signed and given, directions as to the future conduct of all Allied soldiers along the line said that all communication with the enemy, both before and after the termination of hostilities, is absolutely forbidden. In case of violation of this order, the severest disciplinary measures will be immediately taken. Every emphasis is laid on the fact that the arrangement is an armistice only and not peace. There must not be the slightest relaxation of vigilance. Troops must be prepared at any moment for further operations. All troops must be held in readiness fully prepared for any eventuality and maintain the strictest discipline.

Less Electricity Used Yesterday

THE HIGH POINT OF CONSUMPTION WAS AT SEVEN IN THE MORNING.

Notwithstanding the brilliant illumination in every home yesterday evening there was considerably less electricity used than usual. The highest point of consumption was at seven in the morning, when the general public first began to arise to come out and celebrate. The chart here registered higher than at any time during the evening.

"GENERAL POST"

Original N.Y. Cast to be Seen Here.

1,400 returned men laughed uproariously at "General Post," with Thos. A. Wise and Ed. H. Robins, when this charming comedy was enjoying its recent four weeks run at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, Toronto, especially appealing to Canadians. Its brilliant dialogue and situations make "General Post," which will play the Grand Opera House on Saturday next, matinee and night, a rare treat, have nothing to do with war, and it has all the comedy element that has grown from the great struggle. Mr. Thos. Wise has repeatedly demonstrated that he is without a peer in the ranks of American comedians. His portrait of Sir. Dennys Broughton in "General Post is developed with qualities of sincerity, originality and unctuous humore that makes the character of vividly real as it is funny. Voice, gesture and facial expressions blend easily and naturally into a perfect picture of an obstinate English village overlord, quite as droll as any Shakespearian conception, and decidedly truer to life. The all-important comedy scenes are made doubly effective by the extraordinary fine acting of Edward H. Robins. In the character of Smith, the tailor, Mr. Robins makes a very difficult role balance the portrait contributed by Mr. Wise. The tailor, who is metamorphosed into a general, becomes in Mr. Robin's keeping a sincere and manly figure, a lover who justifies the world's alleged affection for victims of cupid, and a very natural and simple human being.

ocialists Are Assuming Control of Germany

-day the Empire is Kaiserless and Kingless—Republics Set Up.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Germany to-y was Kaiserless and Kingless. All ports tended to show that in addit-n to the Emperor all the Kings, inces, Grand Dukes, and other yalty of the Empire had renounced eir "Divine Right to rule a people hich already had abrogated that ght by revolution.

William Hoohenzollern, the former aiser, with his wife and son, the rmer Crown Prince, were believed have reached the castle of Count n Bentinok, at Desteseg, near recht, Holland. With them were d to be Field Marshall Von Hinden rg and a suite of ten.

Germany was still dominated by the volutionists, but reports indicated at the socialists were rapidly assum-g control of the government func-s.

A BIG FIGURE.

The biggest figure in Germany was ederic Ebert, Socialist and saddle ker, who had assumed the chancel-ship.

Republics had been set in Saxony, den and Wurtemburg, Bavaria and hlesvig-Holstein. Other German tes were in temporary control of Workmen's and Soldiers Soviets. me reports even stated that a move-nt was under way to make the ole Empire a republic. The Lokal zieger said that social democrats independents of the Reichstag ided to take action toward that.

Big Circulation at the Library

Over 738 Books Changed Hands On Day Library Re-opened.

Seven hundred and thirty-eight books were changed at the Public Library on Saturday, the first day the building had been opened since the Medical Officer of Health closed its doors two weeks ago. "The public were very considerate," the Librarian said, "and all came in early who could." The circulation was the largest in the history of the Library and three hundred higher than the average Saturday. An extra lady was put on the staff for the day.

Lieut. Goodfellow Reported Missing

Mr. Fred Goodfellow has received word that his brother, Lieut. S. J. Goodfellow, is officiall reported missing. He was with the Royal Air Force.

HAD SEVERE COLD AND TICKLING SENSATION IN THE THROAT.

This trouble is most distressing, and is caused from a cold that has settled in the throat.

How many people have lost a good night's sleep by that nasty, tickling, irritating sensation in the throat?

The dry, hard cough keeps you awake, and when you get up in the morning you feel as if you had had no rest at all.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which is composed of the most soothing and healing expectorant herbs and barks, combined with the lung healing virtues of the world-famous Norway pine tree, will give almost instant relief in all cases of this nature.

Mrs. G. C. Routley, Bright, Ont., writes: — "I take great pleasure in writing you of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

For several weeks I was troubled with a severe cold, and a tickling in the throat. I tried numerous remedies, but found no relief until I used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I had heard so much about, and on taking one bottle got instant relief. I highly recommend it to those who need a quick cure."

So great has been the success of "Dr. Wood's" in curing coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc., it is only natural that many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A SUBSCRIBER 1918 VICTORY LOAN

"The Day"

The war is won.

The guns are silent--the trenches are vacant--bloodshed has ceased--democracy is triumphant--freedom is assured.

Germany, the beaten, whimpering bully of the nations lies stripped of power, whining for mercy, shudderingly awaiting the righteous retribution to be exacted for his fiendish crimes against an outraged civilization.

A war-worn world is nursing its wounds and planning for a future of peace and universal freedom.

In this day of thankful joy and glorious triumph let us not forget the imperative duty lying immediately before us.

Let us manfully, dutifully and determinedly round out the nation's splendid effort.

Let us be as big in this triumphant day as our men have been heroic in the fiery din and bloody peril of battle.

Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committe, in co-operation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.

A Kitchener Alderman Was Compelled to Kiss British Flag

Ald. Bitzer Was Escorted From His Office to the City Hall for the Ceremony — Was Humiliated.

Kitchener, Nov. 12.—Ald. A. L. Bitzer was taken from his office on Frederick St. yesterday moning just before 10 oclock, escorted to the City Hall by a number or returned soldiers and civilians and made to kiss the flag on the City Hall steps, at exactly five minutes after 10 o'clock. The square was jammed with thousands of people who witnessed the humiliating scene and cheered as the alderman, hat in hand, reverently kissed the flag of the British Empire. There were menacing shouts of "Bring him down here!" from the crowd, but the civilians who had the proceeding in hand evidently meant no harm to the alderman, who, after kissing the flag passed unharmed to the City Hall.

The crowd which had brought Ald. Bitzer to the City Hall then proceeded to find Ald. H. M. Bowman and Ald. Asmussen to put them through the same ceremony. Their search for the aldermen evidently failed and neither of them was brought before the waiting crowd.

Ald. Bitzer stated to the press that he did not object to kissing the flag, but objected to the humiliating manner in which he was forced to do it. It was stated that on King street, yesterday morning, Ald. Bitzer had declared that it was not an Allied victory but a German victory. Ald. Bitzer emphatically denied that he had made any such statement. He declared that he was not on King street yesterday morning until the crowd escorted him to the City Hall.

John Schmitt, a jeweler on King street was also made to kiss the flag yesterday morning it being alleged that he made disloyal utterances.

CANCEL CONTRACTS GRADUALLY IN THE U. S.

Event of Peace Will Not be Marked By Slaughter

Washington, Nov. 12.—Chairman Baruch of the war industries board authorized the statement that the coming of peace will not result in immediate cancellation of war supply contracts, but that contracts will be cancelled gradually as requirements are reduced, making it possible to lift curtailments and restrictions upon ordinary industrial activities.

Trenton Loses Big Industry

War Baby Will Cease to Operate in a Short Time.

Official notice has been posted up at the British Chemical Plant to the effect that the T. N. T. and cotton lines will not be rebuilt. As a result all T. N. T. and cotton line employees have received their discharge. No announcement has been made regarding the nitric and sulphuric lines.

The smokeless powder plant will be operated at least for a short time on pyro (treated cotton) received from outside points. A large number of former employees at the plant have left town and others are preparing to leave.

Demobilization a Task of Two Years

Plans Were Mapped Out Along With Mobilization by the U.S. General Staff.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—America's armies will be a year or two years returning and demobilizing.

That is the general War Department estimate, though the Department is doing nothing towards demobilization until it is assured that Germany has fulfilled the armistice terms.

Demobilization plans, however, are all made.

In fact, they were mapped out along with mobilization plans by the General Staff. On the whole, the demobilization will follow the selective system. Men longest overseas and those most needed in industry will be the first returned.

The shipping problem will offer some difficulties. Britain plans to withdraw her transports from the American service, taking care of her Australian, Canadian, and Indian troops. Hence the process of return will be slowed up immediately. Still another phase of demobolization which spells a year or two years foreign service for many troops is the need for police duty abroad.

One phase of the demobilization calls for return of men to this country, sending them to camps and feeding them back into industry as industry adjusts itself. The Secretary of War has given the plain warning that it will be many months before the last man is out of khaki and back at a productive task.

The General Staff plans are so adjusted that there will be no sudden glutting of the labour market with a resultant "hard times" era.

Stoppage of further drafts followed the announcement of Germany's acceptance of armistice terms.

'NEPONSET' Is Here

Wednesday and following days we introduce it to Peterboro. Special Demonstration and Sale To Prove the Unusual Merits of This Celebrated

FLOOR COVERING

Not only do we take great pleasure in introducing "NEPONSET" but we recommend it with confidence and would like you to take advantage of this special demonstration to get acquainted with the many good points of this splendid floor material. "NEPONSET" is far better than oilcloth. It is equal to good linoleum and much cheaper. It is sanitary and waterproof. It is easily cleaned. It is almost unbelievably durable, and a coat of good varnish put on at a slight cost will double it's life.

It is a tough, thick, resilent fabric that takes the jar out of walking. It lies flat on the floor without tacking and will not buckle or crack. Where it has been used it is preferred to ordinary Linoleum. The wearing qualities have been thoroughly proven. The patterno are attractive. They are especially suitable for dining-rooms, kitchens, halls, bath-rooms and bedrooms, and there is a NEPONSET design suitable for each.

THE EXPERT FROM THE FACTORY WILL BE HERE

Mr. W. W. Thomas, the expert from the facto ry, will be with us for this NEPONSET demonstration. He will tell you all about it and explain just why and how NEPONSET is better than the ordinary floor covering.

Consult Mr. Thomas while he is here. He can give you much valuable information about floor coverings.

A guarantee goes with every yard of NEPON SET.

There is one NEPONSET quality, and one pla ce in Peterborough where it can be bought, and that is TURNBULLS.

WE PUT IT TO THE TEST

Just to show you the confidence the makers h ave in NEPONSET, they have instructed us to lay a piece down the centre of our store; another acros s the sidewalk from the entrance to the curb, and in theatre entrances; in fact, any place it will get more wear in a day even than in an ordinary home in months. Look for these demonstration pieces. They are cut from our own stock, and you can have a length the same as any of them.

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY PRICE

Special introductory price given for this demo nstration sale only, per yard, 95c.

The manufacturers instructed us to make this special price for this opening only, and we urge you to take advantage of the presence of Mr. Thom as, the expert from the factory, and this special introductory price which is in force while he is here.

Yesterday's Rejoicing at Highest Pitch Last Night in a Happy Riot of Fun

The Greatest Crowd Peterboro Has Ever Assembled Gave Vent to the Long Restrained Hopes and Longings for Victory and Appreciation of the Valour of Canada's Soldiers.

A RETROSPECT OF THE GAYETY

Peterborough's pent up joy that had been gathering force with the successive surrenders of the armies of the German allies and her own internal disorders ending with the overthrow and flight of the Kaiser and the signing of an armistice that is tantamount to complete defeat, found expression yesterday in a great emotion of thanksgiving and rejoicing that swept the city from early morning until late last night. Almost without cessation, the people, young and old, held high carnival that in most respects surpassed all the celebrations of the past. There were not the giant firecrackers of Mafeking night, but with that exception, November 11th takes first place in the demonstrations in old Peterborough.

"We're sitting on the world," the expression of the American soldiers, was the sentiment of the revellers, and from the whirling round of pleasure and hearty, boisterous, innocent fun, they might have been attempting to give an extra oscillation to the motion Canada's soldiers set going in April, 1915, and kept swinging by repeated blows in the last three years.

The morning and afternoon outbursts were tame beside last night's saturnalia of fun, copiously sprinkled with talcum powder, and running hrough the evening the endless clowning of the boys and young men who needed no urging to amuse and entertain under their own opportunity of self-expression. While the crowds surged and eddied in a pandemonium of noise, there wasn't a sign of disorder. No person was injured, there have been no reports of property damage, only the sound of revelry by night that will echo through the lives of the boys and girls, the men and women who made it a mocking valedictory to the Kaiser and his Junkers, and, let it be hoped, the militarism they had declared as necessary to the world as they pretended it was essential to "Kultur."

Comments on many sides were heard of the work of the Salvation Army Band during the day. Twenty minutes after seven the band had been collected and were parading up and down George Street, playing patriotic and sacred airs. All day the men played until the bandsmen playing the bass instruments handed them like an expressman moving a piano. As the hands of the old town clock approached the midnight hour, and the revelry had almost ceased, the Salvation Army bandsmen mounted a truck, and, accompanied by Mayor Duncan, motored into the suburban parts of the city to allow the aged and infirm residents of the city to participate in a small way in the celebration which held the city in its grip and paralyzed the street car system and other transient activities. It was a big day. The Belmont boys, the G.W.V.A., and the dray of Y.W.C.A. girls were not one bit behind the Y.M.C.A. boys who conducted William Hohenzollern's funeral. Alexander the Great was the Kaiser's inspiration. Alexander died on the funeral pyre, and so did the Kaiser—in Central Park.

Police Report.

The police report a quiet day. Only one man was taken into custody, a citizen who was "loaded," having had too close an acquaintance with the "kaag." But the Magistrate was lenient this morning, and the offender got off scot free.

His Worship did not establish any precedent. Both Magistrates Kingsford and Denison, of Toronto, allowthe day's topers to go, with a warning that the celebration lasted only for one day.

A regrettable feature of the day was the promiscuous throwing of talcum powder. One young lady especially was almost blinded by the powder, and had to retire from the field of activities.

Although the city was given over to the people by the Mayor, the police were not idle, and the blue coats could be seen at almost every corner in the down-town district. P. C. Lawrence was stationed at the Y.M.C.A. corner, P. C. Deannard at George and Charlotte Streets, while Sergeant Reid made the rounds. Patrol Sergeant Blade and P. C. Young were mounted.

In the afternoon a monster meeting was held in the Armouries under the auspices of the Ministerial Association. On the platform, besides the various speakers, were the different ladies' organizations of the city. Organizations which, perhaps, have contributed more to the comfort of the soldiers overseas than any other like agency, and in the same degree have borne the sorrows. The chairman was the Rev. J. A. McKenzie, President of the Ministerial Association.

The trend of the various able speeches concerned past war problems.

akefield Had a Big Celebration Yesterday Afternoon and Evening

r Veterans Headed the Procession—Torchlight Parade in the Evening.

Lakefield, Nov. 12.—Yesterday afternon at 3 o'clock there was an open service on the town hall square. A cession of Veterans carrying a ge flag was followed by the citizens. boy scouts and the Girl guides and number of leading citizens with decorated motor cars. The procession proceeded down Queen Street to the uare. The service was in charge of Rev. C. Spencer. The band played d Save The King, which was followed by the well-known hymn "O d, Our Help in Ages Past." Miss wood presided at the organ which s placed on the grand stand. Rev. Spencer read the National Prayer Thanksgiving which was followed an address by the Rev. B. Davies. o verses of "Onward Christian Solers" were then sung. Rev. P. J. Jull in prayer. The Reeve, F. J. Moore said a few words to the crowd before calling upon the speakers. Among the speakers were Capt. Finnemore of the Original Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry; Magistrite O. A. Langley was another speaker and also Mr. P. M. Fenton. The speakers were followed by the Doxology and cheers for the King and the soldiers and the women war workers.

The afternoon service was closed by the National Anthem. Owing to the illness of Rev. Father Meagher and Rev. B. E. Johnson, they were unable to be present. Among the large crowd was noticed Mr. W. Smith, a veteran of the Crimean war. Several of the men of the '66 were also present.

IN THE EVENING

In the evening a torch light procession left the town hall at 7.30 and proceeded up Queen Street to Regent Street, from Regent Street and north on Reid street down Queen street and over the bridge to the corner at Reeve Moore's house and then back to the town hall, where the effigies of the Kaiser and the Crown Prince were burned, and the veterans set off their fireworks. The order of procession was as follows:

Mr. Charlton's motor truck with the band of the Great War Veterans. Marching behind was the boy scouts under the direction of the Rev. C. Spencer, scoutmaster. The scouts carried the Kaiser's effigy and the Girl Guides that of the Crown Prince, under the direction of Captain, Mrs. Osborne.

Mr. Charlton's motor truck followed with the A. Y. P. A., who were playing kazoos and cymbals. The streets were crowded with people while the bells rang all the evening.

Children Had Share in Fun

Thanks to the kindness of the Public Utilities Commission, who placed a motor lorry at their disposal the children from the C. A. S. Shelter were enabled to take part in last night's celebration, and took full advantage of the opportunity. Seven of the youngsters are waiting for the arrival of father from overseas, so that they were entitled to have a share in the rejoicing.

VENETIANS PLEDGE.

By Henry Wood.

(United Press Staff Correspondent).

TURIN, Italy, Oct. 27. (By Mail).—Turin to-day celebrated the 52nd anniversary of the entrance of Victor Emanuel II. into the redeemed province of Venice, which had then just been liberated finally from the Austrians.

The initiative for this celebration was taken by the refugees from the invaded districts of Italy of whom there are been 7,000 and 8,000 at Turin alone. The majority of these are from the province of Venice itself, and the celebration of the anniversary of the original liberation of the province has the significance of a fresh pledge to attain its liberation for the second time.

Following the morning programme the refugees marched in procession to lay a wreath on the monument of Daniele Manin, Venetian patriot.

The greater portion of the exercises were in the gardens of the Royal Palace in the presence of Princess Letitia of Savoy-Bonaparte and the young duchesses, daughter of the Duke of Genoa, who in the absence of King Victor Emanuel at the front, is acting as regent on the throne of Italy.

Yesterday's Rejoicing at Highest Pitch

Opening Prayer—Canon Davidson.
Addresses—
Mayor Duncan.
Ex-Mayor Duffus.
Pres. Harvey Staunton of G.W.V.A.
Lieutenant-Colonel Mills.
His Honour Judge Huycke.
Rev. J. R. Webb.
National Airs.
Mrs. Canon Davidson.
Rev. Mr. Malott, D.D.

The united massed choir which had been hastily gathered together rendered a fine programme, under the direction of Mr. J. H. Renwick.

Sang Italian National.

A particularly novel effect was attained at the conclusion of the meeting. The massed bands played the National Anthems of the Allied countries, and when that of Italy was rendered, about fifty Italians in the back of the building, unable to restrain their patriotism longer, burst into their national song, and raised and waved their flag high above the crowd. This was the first time the Italian National was ever sung publicly in the city, and it was received with unbounded enthusiasm when the crowd finally realized what it was.

The Telephone Service.

The local telephone exchange had one of the biggest days in its history. In spite of the heavy load, a good service was provided. Operators who under the regular schedule were not due to report until the 11 o'clock "tick" Monday morning, were at the office ready for work before seven o'clock. The day's work was so arranged that each of the girls were enabled to get out and participate in the celebration.

Farmers Took Part.

There was an unusally large number of farmers in the city throughout the day, and particularly in the evening. They came from all parts of the county, and were among the last to leave for home.

Evening Meeting.

In the evening a large audience assembled in the Armouries, where inspiring speeches on the victory were made by prominent citizens. After the singing of the Doxology and the National Anthem, Mayor Duncan, who presided, gave the opening address, touching upon the great thankfulness which was justly felt at the happy conclusion of the world war. He then called upon Judge Huycke, who spoke upon the necessity of buying Victory Bonds.

A New Atmosphere.

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, who was next called upon, referred to meetings which had been held only a few months ago, in which he had joined, and to the difference in the atmosphere of those meetings to the present joyful occasion. He entered thoroughly into the spirit of thankfulness, both religious and national, and hoped it would permeate the nation at large. A magnificent triumph had been won, and we should all be proud and thankful for what has been done, and should not fail in the responsibility which has devolved upon us, but turn it to the highest good.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., praised the soldiers' conduct in France and what they had done for the country. He urged a generous treatment of the returned soldiers.

After his address Rule Britannia was sung by all.

A Different Frame of Mind.

Canon Davidson, who represented the Ministerial Association, brought the message from the Association of their interest in the public rejoicing. He then urged that we should cut loose from the dullness and despondency of the past and enter into a more gladsome and less anxious frame of mind. He urged a more generous and public-spirited future.

Great Future.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie endorsed the remarks of the previous speakers, and spoke of the great future unfolded by the victory.

Mr. Harvey Staunton spoke on behalf of the returned soldiers.

Colonel Mills, who spoke last, urged the people to remember that we are but one of the cubs of the old lion. To remember that Australia, New Zealand, and all the colonies also shared the responsibility of the victory.

After the addresses the 57th Band played the National Anthems of the Allied nations.

CREMATED KAISER

The principal feature of the evening celebration in Central Park was the burning of the Kaiser in an enormous bonfire. Several of the boys lit the fire and with fitting solemnity a roughly made coffin containing the Kaiser in effigy soaked in kerosine oil was dropped in. Hundreds of people flocked in the bright light and assisted in stoking up the fire which lasted until well into the night.

A feature of the parade was the automobile decorated with the blue and white banner of the Hellenes. At the first the Greek flag was not recognized, but soon cheer after cheer rent the air showing that the populace were aware of the no small part played by Venizelos and his troops on the Macedonian front.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

Peterboro woke up.

Everything on wheels was pressed into service. There were motor cars that looked more like ghosts than modern vehicles.

Several effigies of the Kaiser were to be seen in the parade. They all had the same fate—cremation, amidst scenes of rejoicing.

There were more clowns in the parade last night than Barnum ever dreamed of.

The Kaiser's funeral occupied a prominent part in the procession.

Did you notice the Italian delegation with their national banners?

Orangemen, Sons of England, and other fraternal organizations were all in line last evening. Even the fife and drum band was not missing.

The two services in the armouries were largely attended. Thousands, however, celebrated on the streets last night without knowing or caring what was going on inside.

The bright mind who first thought of throwing talcum powder around had the distinction of inventing the last atrocity of the war.

Fire works were missing. There were hardly any in town, and none could be got outside.

Wonder how many miles the Salvation Army Band marched yesterday?

Meets Death in a Restaurant

Piece of Meat Lodges in Man's Throat and Efforts Failed to Revive Him

Ogdensburg, Nov. 12.—Andrew Hartman, a machinist from Massena, choked to death in Hector Burnette's restaurant on South Water street, while partaking of a meal. Dr. D. C. Bartholomew was called to attend the man, but death ensued before he arrived. The remains were removed to the McLellan undertaking parlors, pending burial arrangements. Hartman's identity was discovered by means of a pay voucher which was found in his pocket. The police were notified and are endeavoring to locate his relatives.

Hartman who was a man of large build beween 45 and 50 years old, entered the restaurant shortly before 8 o'clock and called for some fried eggs. A man next to him ordered some steak and Hartman asked him for a piece of it, which he gave him. Hartman started to eat it and was instantly seized with a paroxysm of choking. Several of those present went to his assistance and vainly endeavored to relieve him. While they were working over the man, hurried calls were sent for physicians, but medical help arrived too late to save his life. Policeman Charles J. McCormick was notified of the case and assisted the coroner in conducting a preliminary inquiry into the circumstances.

WHY WOMEN BUY VICTORY BONDS

(By Marjorie McMurchy)

To help the fighting men.
For Victory.
For Peace.
For this sake of the Children.
For Canada.
For the homes of all men and women.
Because they have good business sense.
Because they are responsible citizens.
For Thanksgiving.
For their own homes.
For the Boy who is a Soldier.
For the World's To-morrow.
For the Immortal Dead.
Because Canadians will not give up the Cause, which is Honor, Love, Life itself.
Because the Victory Loan belongs to the women of Canada, as it does to the men.
This is Why Canadian Women will Buy Victory Bonds to the utmost limit of their ability.

WAR AND THE SUGAR BOWL.

No. 5.

"As much candy in the shops as ever," you say? Perhaps, but do you know most of them are made with substitutes for sugar? Candy makers, with manufacturing confectioners, public eating places and others, have splendidly responded to the call to conserve. They are using glucose to a large extent, and are including nuts and what not in their toffees and candies. The next step must come in the home. When the housewife does as well in limiting her sugar, the problem will end. It is a matter of loyalty.

Floating Mine Hazard An After-War Risk

EXPECTATION OF REDUCTION IN COSTS UNWARRANTED

UNDERWRITERS SAY COST OF INSURANCE WILL BE AN ITEM OF EXPENSE IN OCEAN TRAFFIC FOR AN INDEFINITE TIME—REDUCTION POSSIBLE WITH U-BOAT ELIMINATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Expectation that the end of the war meant the immediate elimination of war risk insurance, and a consequent reduction in the cost of ocean traffic was given a jolt yesterday, when marine underwriters pointed out that the danger incident to floating mines would last for a considerable period after peace is declared, and made it plain that shipping would not be protected against this risk by ordinary marine insurance policies. This information caused a hasty revision of views affecting after-the-war trade conditions, and was to some extent reflected in the cotton market and in other trade quarters.

Fear of continued losses from stray mines is based on the experience of a number of companies early in the war. Mines, which had been planted along the coast of western Europe, were found thousands of miles from the original locations, and for the reason that they were found in unexpected places they did considerable damage before a way was found to guard ships against them. The action of the tides, according to scientific explanation of the matter was responsible for the breaking away of the mines, and the Allies were forced to adopt better methods. The danger was reduced to a great extent by improved fastenings, and by closer inspection of fields but, even these precautions were not wholly successful and many a ship went down in seas far from the war zone as the result of contact with an escaped mine.

This hazard is expected to be present more or less indefinitely, and while the cost of the insurance against the risk will probably be nominal, it will be insurance that every ship owner will be forced to carry, possibly for two or three years.

Never judge the cook in the kitchen by the cook-book in the library.

Most men would rather give good advice away than keep it themselves.

ALLIED BLOCKADE STILL IN EFFECT

(Special to the Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The German wireless has recommended that German merchant ships run for the nearest port. By the terms of the armistice, the Allied blockade is still in effect, and all German merchant vessels found at sea will be seized. The wireless probably refers more directly to the Baltic and Black sea, which the Allies had not been able to penetrate before hostilities ceased.

KAISER'S LAST LUCKY PIECE.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—"Friends" of the Kaiser in neutral border countries are now explaining that the all-highest lost his "Sedan luck," on which he pinned his hope of victory. The "luck" is a sprig of shamrock given Emperor William I. by a peasant girl, and worn at Sedan. The present Kaiser is said to have worn it next to his heart in an elaborate sachet, ever since the war began.

War's Victories Not All on Battlefield

(By United Press.)

LONDON, October 13. (By mail.) —Criminals in Great Britain are making good.

Since the war began the number of inmates in British institutions has fallen off about 50 per cent.

Two things are responsible, according to Sir Evelyn Ruggles-Brise, chairman of the Prison Commissioners and director of Convict Prisons for England and Wales. They are:

First—The War;

Second—A concentrated policy of "purifying" young criminals.

Fifty local penal institutions which held 14,352 in pre-war days, now possess only 7,355.

Of 69 penal institutions 20 have been closed since the beginning of the war.

The war is partly responsible for the decrease in that it absorbed the great mass of the unemployed into usefulness in the army and navy.

The system of heading off the young criminal and instructing him how to make himself useful to humanity is a forceful check.

Another aid is the government policy of employment which aids the unemployed to find work.

The burglar and the drunkard are becoming obsolete.

Before the war 2400 burglaries or house-breakings were committed annually. Now there are only 800.

The number of drunkards has decreased from 62,000 annually to 3,700.

Many convicts are serving in the British army. Of course only those of good behaviour get in. Two of them have been decorated.

One, working on the western battlefront, volunteered to give up some blood to save a Tommy's life. Later he developed blood poison, but recovered, and then joined up with a bombing squadron. His record shows that he broke prison four times.

The honor system is being employed here successfully, as it has been in the United States. Prison officials are satisfied it works though occasionally some cannot resist the temptation to escape.

Convicts joining the army and the navy are not known among their fellow soldiers or sailors to have a prison record. Their commander is aware of the fact, but only for his private information.

No two convicts convicted of the same offence, are sent to the same regiment or ship.

ALLIED BLOCKADE STILL IN EFFECT

(Special to the Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The German wireless has recommended that German merchant ships run for the nearest port. By the terms of the armistice, the Allied blockade is still in effect, and all German merchant vessels found at sea will be seized. The wireless probably refers more directly to the Baltic and Black sea, which the Allies had not been able to penetrate before hostilities ceased.

KAISER'S LAST LUCKY PIECE.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—"Friends" of the Kaiser in neutral border countries are now explaining that the all-highest lost his "Sedan luck," on which he pinned his hope of victory. The "luck" is a sprig of shamrock given Emperor William I. by a peasant girl, and worn at Sedan. The present Kaiser is said to have worn it next to his heart in an elaborate sachet, ever since the war began.

War's Victories Not All on Battlefield

(By United Press.)

LONDON, October 13. (By mail.)—Criminals in Great Britain are making good.

Since the war began the number of inmates in British institutions has fallen off about 50 per cent.

Two things are responsible, according to Sir Evelyn Ruggles-Brise, chairman of the Prison Commissioners and director of Convict Prisons for England and Wales. They are:

First—The War;

Second—A concentrated policy of "purifying" young criminals.

Fifty local penal institutions which held 14,352 in pre-war days, now possess only 7,355.

Of 69 penal institutions 20 have been closed since the beginning of the war.

The war is partly responsible for the decrease in that it absorbed the great mass of the unemployed into usefulness in the army and navy.

WAR AND THE SUGAR BOWL.
No. 6.

Confectioners are often accused of using much sugar. The fact is they take only about 5 per cent. of Canada's total consumption—about 12,000 tons a year out of nearly 300,000 tons. Real saving in sugar must come from the remaining 288,000 tons, most of which is used in the 1,500,000 homes in the Dominion. If each of these honestly cuts the sugar consumption to the 2 pounds a month for every person allowed by the Food Board, there would be no sugar difficulty. It is plain now which foot the boot is on.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Some of the Utterances the Kaiser Made During War

The Ex-German War Lord Grew Despondent Towards the End—His Threat to America—The Lord as an Ally.

London, Nov. 13.—(British Adiralty Wireless.)—British newspapers give prominence to some of the Kaiser's utterances during the war.

In 1914 he said, "Before the leaves fall from the trees we shall be back again in the dear Fatherland. Exterminate first the treacherous English, and walk over General French's contemptible little army. You, my troops are my guarantee that I can dictate peace to my enemies. Up and at the foes. God's goodness will guide the German people through battle to victory—to the goal appointed for the German people by Providence. I have drawn the sword, which, without victory and without honor I cannot sheath. To the dust with all the enemies of Germany. Amen."

HIS THREAT TO AMERICA

In 1915 he said: "Our brave solders have shown themselves invincible in battle against nearly the whole world. The war drama is now coming to its close." He also said: "America had better look out after the war. I shall stand no nonsense from the Americans. In a just cause I am ready to force myself to be cruel."

In 1916 he said: "The world was prepared for anything but never for victory of the German fleet over the British. Fear will creep into the bones of the enemy. With God's help, Germany is invincible, in spite of the superior numbers of our enemies, and every day confirms this anew. The foe is defending his native soil foot by foot. This is the resistance of despair, but it must be broken. He has prepared his soup, now he must sup it."

THE IRON FIST

In 1917 he said: "If the enemy does not want peace, then we must bring peace by battering in with the iron fist and shining sword the doors of those who will not have peace. Victory in the coming year will again be on our side and that of our allies. If only we cast the burden on the Lord he will smite the foe hip and thigh, as he did Amalek, the prototype of perfidious England. The enemy has got to take his men until, exhausted he lays down his arms. England is particularly the enemy to be struck down, however difficult it may be.

THE LORD AS AN ALLY

"The year 1917, its great battles, have proven that the German people have in the Lord of Creation above, an unconditional and avowed ally, on whom they can absolutely rely."

In June, 1918 he said: "God has laid a heavy burden on my shoulders, but I can carry it in the consciousness of our good fight, with confidence in our sharp sword and our strength."

This was followed by various utterances of growing despondency.

ONLY MEDICINE MADE FROM FRUIT

Extraordinary Success which "Fruit-a-tives" Has Achieved

One reason why "Fruit-a-tives" is so extraordinarily successful in giving relief to those suffering with Constipation, Torpid Liver, Indigestion, Chronic Headaches, Neuralgia, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Rheumatism, Pain in the Back, Eczema and other Skin Affections, is, because it is the only medicine in the world made from fruit juices.

It is composed of the medicinal principles found in apples, oranges, figs and prunes, together with the nerve tonics and antiseptics of proven repute.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

GRAIN MARKET

Conflicting opinion on the question whether the end of the fighting on the war front would result in lower or higher prices in the grain markets seems to have been about evenly divided. After rather sharp fluctuations up and down the bulls had slightly the better of the argument at the close, but prices closed only fractionally higher than Saturday's close. November corn closed even, December 5-8c and January 1-2c up. Oats closed stronger. November 3-4c and January 5-8c up. Cash prices steady. Hay advanced $1 per ton.

Manitoba oats—No. 2 C.W. 82c in store, Fort William; No. 3, 79c; extra No. 1 feed, 81c; No. 2 feed, 78c.

Manitoba wheat—In store, Fort William (not including 2 1-2c tax), No. 1 northern, $2.24 1-2; No. 2 northern $2.21 1-2; No. 3 northern, $2.17 1-2; No. 4 wheat, $2.11 1-2.

Armistice Terms Were Made More Drastic Before They Were Signed by the Germans

Eighteen of the Clauses Were Changed—Ex-Emperor of Germany Will be Interned—Abdication of King Charles is Officially Confirmed.

ARMISTICE TERMS—C

Wednesday Evening Bulletin: Washington, Nov. 13.—Marshall Foch changed eighteen of the armistice terms before they were signed, making the terms more drastic. Instead of one hundred and sixty submarines to be turned over, he demands every one of the entire fleet of submarines boats and instead of fifty thousand railway cars, he demands a hundred and fifty thousand.

EBERT, HUN CHANCELLOR, STRONG WAR SUPPORTER

Socialist Backed Bethman-Hollweg in Proclamation That Necessity Knew No Law—Unreservedly Supported Government "War of Self-Defence"—Common Cause With Militarists.

SWORN FOE OF KAISER SINCE DENUNCIATION

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Americans should not jump to the conclusion that "Fritz" Ebert, the Socialist Chancellor of the German regency, is an anti-militarist and an enemy of war. The 47-year-old Heidelberg harness maker whom the whirligig of war so dramatically tossed into the position from which Bismarck once ruled, was an unreserved supporter of Germany's war from the outset. He was one of the Socialist majority which cheered itself hoarse on August 4, 1914, when Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg proclaimed that necessity knew no law and that Germany was hacking her way through Belgium in flagrant violation of international law.

Supported War Moves.

Friedrich Ebert cast his vote on every occasion for the 25 billion of war credits which the Hohenzollerns used up in their baffled attempt to enslave civilization. In December, 1915, when twenty anti-war members of the Socialist group in the Reichstag seceded from the party organization it was Ebert who publicly rebuked them. He declared that it was the sacred duty of the united German nation to support the Government "war of self-defence." Later Ebert introduced that fruitless resolution to excommunicate Hessew Liebknecht, Ledebur, Dittman, Bernstein, and other independent Socialists from further membership in the parliamentary group. A few weeks afterwards he was himself elected to succeed Haase as chairman of the group.

Ebert, whose name is pronounced as if it began with the first letter of the alphabet, is the son of a tailor. Beginning life as a saddler's apprentice he afterwards was editor of a Bremen Socialist paper and secretary of a trade union. Then he joined the executive committee of the Socialist national organization. In 1918 he became chairman of the party.

Sworn Enemies of Kaiser.

The German Socialists have dethroned William II. with fiendish satisfaction. They have been his sworn enemies ever since at the late Friedrich Alfred Von Krupp's funeral in 1902 the late Kaiser denounced the Social democrats as "wretches without a country." They did not lend their support to the Hohenzollerns' war out of any affection for that defunct dynasty. As the political representatives of the German working classes they gleefully made common cause with the militarists and industrialists who hoped in consequence of a short, sharp and decisive campaign to enrich Germany beyond the wildest dreams.

Fritz Ebert incarnates the spirit in which the "German people" accepted the war. His latest pre-Chancellorship utterance in the Reichstag was his whine against peace terms which would cripple Germany's power to resume her ruthless and rapacious designs on world trade.

New Government Told the Delegates to Sign

Terms Were Considered and Accepted in Berlin Late on Sunday—Instructions Telephoned to German Headquarters at Spa—Courier Left Immediately.

ALLIES ARE TO MAINTAIN THE BLOCKADE

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The new German Government, it appears, considered the armistice conditions at a sitting late on Sunday at Berlin. Having decided to accept them, it telephoned instructions from Berlin to Spa, German headquarters, authorizing the delegates to affix their signatures to the agreement.

The courier who was waiting at Spa left immediately for the lines and crossed them without incident north of Chimay. He reached the Chateau de Francefort at about two o'clock in the morning and found the German plenipotentiaries waiting for him. They asked, after they had read their instructions, to see Marshal Foch, who was in his special train on a switch near the chateau. Marshal Foch, with Sir Rosslyn Wemyss, First Lord of the British Navy, received them. A discussion, which is described by the Temps' correspondent as being "rather long," took place upon certain clauses, particularly that concerning the maintenance of the blockade. The German delegates signed the document at 5 o'clock.

Premier Clemenceau, receiving correspondents, said on the question of the blockade: "The German plenipotentiaries insisted, above all, upon the question of food. We will maintain, it is well understood, the blockade during the term of the armistice. Nevertheless, as the situation in Germany and Austria is desperate, we will do everything possible to feed them that we can in fairness to ourselves. It is the question of transport which dominates all these problems."

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts yesterday 371 cars, with 7,296 cattle, 2,647 calves, 1,742 hogs and 5,592 sheep and lambs.

The market opened yesterday with the heaviest run of cattle offering this season. Over 7,000 head of cattle were in the pens, but it is safe to say that about 75 to 80 per cent. of the total consisted of common light stuff, cows and canners. The result was a heavy drop in prices from a week ago on all common stock. Canners were down from $1 to $1.25, yesterady's prices ranging from $4.50 to $5. For good quality butchers' steers and heifers the market held about steady, very few of this class bein gavailable. Mediuf about 50c lower.

Lambs were down a dollar.

Hogs were steady at $18.25, fed.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy, Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache, and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive sourstion of acid is taking place in the stomach causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full oppressive burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excessive development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid and, make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few momenits and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as bisurated magnesia which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestents. Magnesia comes in several forms so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

The Lincoln Paper Mills, Merriton, Ont., showing the exclusive use of Dominion Friction Surface Belting in Paper Mill (above) and on Motor Drive in Sulphite plant (right).

"Perfectly Satisfactory Service"

This is the way the Lincoln Paper Mills of Merriton, Ontario, sums up

Dominion Friction Surface Belting

The conviction expressed in this statement is clearly established by the fact that our belting is used exclusively in both the paper mill and sulphite plant of the Lincoln Paper Mills.

The reason is obvious—Dominion Friction Surface Belting is not merely rubberized fabric—it is saturated with our special friction rubber surfacing which makes it take a non-slip grip on pulleys that transmits the total force, of each power unit, that can be transmitted by belting.

It is the result of over fifty years of belt-making experience by the oldest and largest rubber organization in Canada.

It is absolutely uniform and dependable—conserves power and labor—"speeds up" production and is the most economical belt for every transmission purpose.

Our belting engineers have increased the efficiency of belting equipment in Canada's largest manufacturing plants—the services of these experts are at your call without charge.

A phone or wire to our nearest branch places you under no obligation and will help to cut your manufacturing cost.

"BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN"

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did For Ohio Woman.

Portsmouth, Ohio.—"I suffered from irregularities, pains in my side and was so weak at times I could hardly get around to do my work, and as I had four in my family and three boarders it made it very hard for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. I took it and it has restored my health. It is certainly the best medicine for woman's ailments I ever saw."—Mrs. SARA SHAW, R. No. 1, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Mrs. Shaw proved the merit of this medicine and wrote this letter in order that other suffering women may find relief as she did.

Women who are suffering as she was should not drag along from day to day without giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For special advice in regard to such ailments write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its forty years experience is at your service.

Brian Finds Out That Ruth Wears Expensive Clothes

CHAPTER XXXVII

Ruth's luncheon with Mrs. Curtis had a very upsetting effect upon her All the afternoon her careless remarks recurred, making Ruth rather absent minded; so much so that La Monte wondered if her husband had been unpleasant because of her absence. For, while not at all intending to do so, Ruth had given both Mr. Mandel and his clerk an impression that Brian objected to her being in the shop.

So it was known and talked of, already—she thought bitterly.

Ruth wished that Brian hadn't taken Mollie to dinner. Of course she couldn't say so, couldn't object to what he did when she was away. But it was rather disconcerting to be told of how intimate he used to be with his Mollie King. Ruth had to own to herself that Mollie was attractive. "Fascinating" Mrs. Curtis had called her. She would watch Brian closely if Mrs. Curtis did give a dinner and asked them. She would also watch Mollie King.

"A penny for your thoughts, Mrs. Hackett!" Mr. Mandel stood at her elbow, smiling down on her. "I have stood here for ten minutes, and you haven't moved a muscle."

"Oh, excuse me, Mr. Mandel!" Ruth flushed with embarrassment as she took the papers she had brought her, plans he had brought her, plans for the redecoration of the Philadelphia house.

"Thinking of '' — apartment you told me you were going to take he asked with a quizzical smile.

"No—but I really am going to move, and I haven't half thanked you for the lovely things you said I might have to help make it attractive," she returned with more fulsomeness in her manner than she usually displayed. She had been glad he spoke of the apartment, that he had said no more about what she was thinking. She was not accustomed to hiding her feelings. She must learn to do so, or else to so concentrate on her work that even what Brian had done, or might do, could not take her thoughts from it.

Mr. Mandel said no more, save about the work in hand. For half an hour they discussed the lovely old house they were to "make over inside," as he expressed it; and when he left her with the plans nearly ready for her to work up the color scheme, Ruth really had forgotten all about what Mrs. Curtis had said—had even forgotten there was such a person as Mollie King.

But she recalled her again at dinner when she told Brian of meeting Mrs. Curtis.

"She is going to ask us to dinner, and she also said she was going to ask that nice Miss King you took out to dinner while I was away. I told her we would be glad to come. I hope I did right."

"Of course we'll go! The Curtises are rather jolly people, and they also have a very good cook. Curtis is pretty well fixed," he added, flushing a little as he always did when money was the subject.

Ruth started to repeat what Mrs. Curtis had said concerning a woman who worked, and a husband's attitude because of it; then caught herself. Brian was already more than a little sensitive on the subject. It would be better to say nothing that might possibly make him more so.

But several times during the evening Ruth thought of what had been said, and wondered if, by any possibility, Mrs. Curtis could be right. Did it have a demoralizing effect on a man to have his wife earn money? Why should it? If a woman were happier doing something outside of the home, and capable of doing it so that she had money, it seemed to her that it showed a smallness, a lack of broadness of character, which she did not like to think of in connection with Brian.

"Of course I won't earn more than he does very long," she said to herself, "then he will feel differently about it." Yet even as she said it, she wondered how long it was going to be before her husband earned more. He had been so optimistic before they were married, so sure that he would soon be on "easy street," as he had often expressed it, that Ruth had shared his views without questioning them. But now they had been married several months, and instead of more clients he seemed to have fewer. He had contributed less to expenses that month than the preceding ones. That he had spent the money entertaining Mollie King, she of course was not aware, altho she knew he had taken her to dinner twice. But when they had taken a meal at some restaurant together it had been a simple, inexpensive one—except the time Brian wanted to show off because he was hurt that she earned more than he did; and of which she never thought without a smile at his childishness. So she never figured that nearly half a month's rent had been spent on Mollie. Had she known it, she would have been shocked and —hurt. And had she known that because of his lavish entertainment he had again borrowed of Clark, she would have been angry. He had promised not to do so again, and Ruth never even thought of such a thing as his breaking his word.

Had she been able to diagnose Brian's feeling toward her when she realized she could earn more than he ever had been paid, she would perhaps have been surprised. That he for a moment felt, really felt, she was belittleing him to the extent he considered she was, she never dreamed; had she known, it is doubtful if she would have understood.

To-morrow—Brian Finds Out that Ruth Wears Expensive Clothes.

TAKEN ILL, UNABLE TO OPEN DOOR OF CAR ON A SIDING

Cobalt, Nov. 12.—Information has ben received in Cobalt of the death a few days ago of Frank Savage, of Shillington, Pa., formerly of Trenton. Mr. Savage was on his way north with a carload of settler's effects between Englehart and Matheson when he was taken ill. At Matheson the car was placed on the siding on Friday afternoon and for some reason he was unable to open the car, which appeared to be fastened. During the afternoon of Friday, and all night until some time Saturday morning he was unable to attract attention, thus being compelled to remain without food or heat. Saturday morning by desperate efforts he succeeded in making his exit from the car, and in an exhausted condition, made his way to the railway station, where he collapsed.

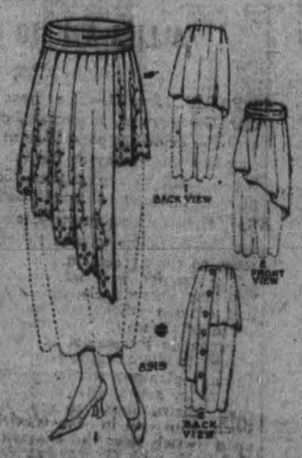
THE EXAMINER PATTERN SERVICE

LADY'S AND MISS' TUNIC.



Fancy tunics are being worn a great deal this season. The clever design illustrated in No. 8919 may be worn in either of two ways. No. 1 shows the tunic with one side very much longer than the other, and the long point coming at the left side front. If preferred, the tunic may be turned around so that the long point comes at centre back. The wide flounceings or bordered materials are suitable for this tunic, but if preferred plain material may be used, as the lower edge is straight. The tunic is gathered at the slightly raised waistline.

The lady's and miss' tunic pattern No. 8919 is cut in four sizes—16 years and 36 to 34 inches waist measure. The tunic of flouncing requires 2⅝ yards 27 inch material; of plain material, 2⅝ yards 28 inch or wider.

The Patterns Are Guaranteed to Give Excellent Satisfaction This Pattern Can Be Obtained From the Examiner Office on Payment of 15 Cents

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Cinderella's Diary

By HILDA MORRIS

(Copyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The girl was very young and pretty, but she looked tired. John Arnold, sitting opposite her in the street car, noticed her closed eyes and general air of fatigue. She was eighteen or nineteen years old, he decided, or perhaps twenty. She had a lovely oval face, framed with waves of bright hair, and she looked like a lady in spite of her rather shabby, inexpensive clothes. There was something very attractive about her.

John did not realize that he was staring at the girl until she opened her eyes. She opened them suddenly, as if she had felt his gaze through her closed lids. And she looked directly at him. It was a very impersonal look, casual and a little questioning, perhaps, yet it did a very curious thing to John Arnold. It made him feel very young, or very happy, or very glad of something; he could not analyze the feeling exactly, but at least it was different from anything he had ever experienced before. Perhaps it was because the girl's eyes were so luminous a gray, and so deeply fringed with black. They were very unusual eyes. They closed again, however, almost at once. It was as though she had given him a glimpse of something too precious to be wasted. The car jolted on and the girl still sat with her curling lashes resting on her pale cheek. She was evidently very tired.

"A schoolgirl, perhaps, or else she is taking a course in a business college," John decided, noting her pile of books. "They work hard, too, those girls. She looks as if she needed country air and a good long rest."

The car emptied itself, street by street, until there were few people left besides John and the girl of the curling lashes. As a matter of fact John had passed his street, but for some reason he had forgotten to get off. The tired-looking girl still sat with her eyes closed, resting. But at length she roused herself with a start and got off hurriedly at a noisy street lined with high apartments. John could see her hastening along in the chill dusk, the collar of her thin coat held high about her throat.

It was not until they had gone on some distance that he noticed the book. It lay directly at his feet, a cloth covered "Record" such as people use in offices. It was one of those books the girl had carried. John had particularly noticed its businesslike appearance. He picked it up curiously, and opened to the front page. A school notebook, no doubt, or office accounts. Perhaps it might contain the girl's address, so that he could return it.

The first page, however, dispelled this theory. Across it was printed, in a careful hand:

"Dorothy May Douglas. Her Diary."

Of course John Arnold should not have read the diary, yet its neat pages looked so alluring, and, after all, he thought, it might contain the address. She would want it returned; people do not like to lose such precious things as diaries. So that evening after dinner John settled down in his comfortable bachelor living room and guiltily scanned the pages of the little book.

"Monday—A hard day at the office. Miss Coleman is so difficult to please. When I get to be head of an office force I shall try to make them like me. I'll be nice to girls that have headaches, and I'll never, never speak so sharply that I make them want to cry. Oh, well, I hope I'll never be head of an office. I'd rather have a cottage with white muslin curtains and red geraniums in the window and keep a cat.

"Tuesday—Stupid day at the office. But I saw the loveliest silk dress in a store window as I was coming home. It was just exactly what I would choose, blue with gold embroidery. If I were Cinderella I'd write to my fairy godmother and tell her to bring me a dress just like that for the ball. Perhaps I am a sort of Cinderella, but there isn't any fairy godmother or any prince.

"Wednesday—It was dreadfully cold in the office today. Miss Coleman likes the cold. And now there isn't enough heat in my room tonight, either. I wish I were Cinderella; at least she had a fire to sit by."

In spite of the warnings of his conscience as a gentleman, John skimmed other pages, all pathetic with sordid details of work, wistful with girlish longings.

"I'm invited to a party," read the very last page of all. "A really truly party. It isn't a ball like Cinderella's, and no prince has invited me, but it will be a very grand affair. It's at Mrs. Colton Curtis' house, a dance she is giving for her daughter. I don't know why she invited me. She and mother were school friends, but there are such miles between us now, miles of different circumstances, I mean! I've never met the daughter, but I'm sure she wouldn't care for me. I'm not one of the well-dressed, expensive-looking girls whom she associates with. And I haven't anything to wear. Girls can't go to parties in blue serge skirts and shirtwaists. Whatever shall I do?"

John Arnold closed the book with a little sigh. Why should a girl like that, eager and young and charming, have to work and long for the shimmery things that other girls had, all the pink and frivolous things that are the trailing clouds of girlhood! This girl in particular.

Quite suddenly John's eyes fell on an envelope which had dropped from the little book.

"Miss Dorothy May Douglas, 68 Pleasant Avenue."

Cinderella's address! John looked at it, and abruptly the vague plan which he had been forming in his mind became a firm resolve. He would be the fairy godmother himself.

It happened that Mrs. Colton Curtis was John's aunt, and after much deliberation he decided to take her into his confidence. Mrs. Curtis was a lady with a love for whatever was unusual and romantic, so she delightedly "cut" an appointment with her own modiste to spend the next morning shopping with her nephew. Her ideas were as lavish as the most exacting fairy godmother could have desired. She bought filmy lingerie, silk hose, gold slippers that could be exchanged if too large for Cinderella's fairy feet, and to crown all, a blue silk dress with gold embroidery. Her purchases were packed in a huge box and addressed to Miss Douglas, but inside John put the missing diary, and a mysterious card—"To Cinderella From Her Fairy Godmother."

After the box had been sent John found himself in a flurry of impatience to see Cinderella again, at the party. He wondered what she had thought when she received the box, how she would look in the new clothes—

She looked all that the fairy godmother or the prince could have desired. Her hair, seen without a hat, was as gold as the tiny slippers. The blue silk dress made her mysterious eyes look blue, too, and the pale oval of her face was rosy with delight and happiness and wonder and a great many other pleasurable emotions. Moreover, she danced well. John, who danced with her most of the evening, found himself unable to look at any other girls. When she was tired he found a secluded nook in the conservatory and they sat together, a little silent now that they were for the first time alone.

"Do you know," Cinderella said abruptly, "I've seen you before."

"Have you? Where?"

"On the street car, one night. That was the night I lost my diary, too—"

She was silent, her eyes fixed on the distant vista of the ballroom. John's pulses were jumping guiltily.

"Your diary?" he questioned.

"Yes. Someone found it and sent it back, with—things. If it hadn't been for that I shouldn't be here now."

"No?"

"You see, I'm not really this—kind of a girl. I work, in an office. And I shouldn't have had these clothes, only the person who found my diary must have felt sorry for me or something. Anyway, she sent me things to wear to this party. Just like Cinderella and the fairy godmother. I wonder who it could have been."

John was silent.

"I'm telling you this," she went on, "because I thought you might have noticed. Were there any old ladies near us in the car that day—nice, godmotherly old ladies?"

He shook his head, and Cinderella sighed a little.

"It's almost twelve," she said. "I mustn't forget that I'm Cinderella and have to work tomorrow. I must go."

"Oh, no," he begged. "If you are Cinderella, with a fairy godmother, you must have a prince too. I wonder if—if I could be the prince?"

"You? Oh—"

"We'll have a house with white muslin curtains and red geraniums in the windows—"

"How did you know about that?" she cried, startled. "It couldn't have been you who found the diary—"

"I didn't mean to tell, Cinderella. You see, I'd so much rather be the prince—"

"Oh, well," she said softly. "If you'd rather—I think I should like it best that way, too. I should think I was dreaming, but the clock struck twelve and my dress hasn't turned back to blue serge—"

"It never shall," he promised. "Never, never, never as long as you live! We'll go ahead and live the rest of Cinderella's story, the part that never was written, and it's going to be the very best part of all."

On the Matter of Saving 25 Cents

Stop to think how fine is the line between saving and loss, when applied to buying!

Take those articles with which you are most familiar—stockings, shoes, groceries: The "Saving" of a few cents may mean the loss of dollars—in length of wear or benefit derived.

In other words, it's Quality determines cost. Discrimination is the factor that decides where the line should be drawn.

But one sure way exists to buy maximum value: insist on goods that bear a reputable trade name—shun the article that travels "incognito"—or masks its imperfections by its outer resemblance to a genuinely good product.

In electrical equipment there is a standard name to look for—BENJAMIN—a name known and recognised in electrical circles like the sterling mark on silver. Surely, it would be folly, for the sake of saving 25 cents on an article, to take without question something "just as good" or "the same as" the particular line that is accepted by all electrical authorities as standard, when in the inferior article lurks actual danger to life and property. Cheap imitations made in foreign factories pass no recognized inspection whatever for safety, and therefore, quite apart from their inferior quality, can you afford to take chances of danger from the use of inferior articles?

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure—look for the name when you buy.

LIFE IN THE LONG AGO.

When Huts Were Homes, and Beds Were Shakedowns of Straw.

For centuries the common people of England made their home in wooden huts of one room. When a family increased in numbers or wealth another hut was built beside it, or, rather, a lean-to was added and then another and another, as need required.

Sometimes they followed a straight line. At other times they were built out from the central hut at various angles. The roofs of these huts were thatched. An opening was left in the center for the smoke to escape. The fire was always built in a hollow in the center of the room. Beds were made of straw. Often they were mere shakedowns in the corner. Occasionally the straw was held in a little frame resembling the ribs of a ship.

Houses built by Saxon knights were much more pretentious. They were like halls, like the Roman atrium, with a lofty roof thatched with slate or wooden shingles. The floor was of hard clay. In the middle was a great fire of dry wood. The thin, acrid smoke from the fire escaped through an opening in the roof directly above the hearth.

Round the fire were long benches, on which heartsmen and visitors sat when not fighting or at work, and talked and drank the hours through. The tables were long boards on trestles. At night the floor was strewn with straw and, like the less prosperous folk, host and visitors slept together.—Youth's Companion.

CURIOUS MEXICAN TREES.

One Whose Fruit Is the Counterpart of the Green Parrot.

Mexico probably has a greater range of remarkable vegetation than any other country in the world. The parrot fruit tree produces an odd shaped fruit, bearing a close resemblance to green parrakeets. When the parrakeet is frightened it makes a dash for the parrot tree, where it assumes a position which makes it look like the fruit itself. So close is the resemblance that their enemies, the hawks, occasionally fly by a tree on which a dozen or more of these birds are sitting, apparently unaware of their presence.

Another remarkable tree is the arbol de dinamite—dynamite tree—whose fruit, if kept in a warm place, bursts with considerable force and a loud report, scattering its flat seeds to a surprising distance.

One of the most interesting fruits in Mexico is known as the melon zapote or papaya. It contains considerable pepsin, which reacts against both acid and alkaline conditions of the stomach and it is said that a diet which includes papaya precludes dyspepsia. Both the fruit and the leaves possess the singular property of rendering tough meat tender. When the pulp of the fruit is rubbed over a piece of tough meat the juice attacks the fibre and softens it.—National Geographic Magazine.

Fixed Both Ways.

Run-Down People Vinol is What You Need

Weak, run-down nervous men and women need Vinol because it contains the most famous reconstructive tonics in an agreeable and easily digested form:—Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Iron and Manganese Peptonates and Glycerophosphates.

We guarantee there is no tonic equal to Vinol.

HERE IS PROOF

Detroit, Mich.

"I got into a weak, run-down condition, no appetite, tired all the time and headaches—but had to keep around and do my housework. I read about Vinol and tried it—within two weeks I commenced to improve, and now have a splendid appetite and feel stronger and better in every way."—Mrs. John F. Watson.

Texarkana, Texas.

"I keep house and I was weak, run-down and nervous, back ached a good deal of the time, so it was hard to take care of my chickens and do my work—Vinol has restored my strength, and my nervousness has gone, so I can do my work as well as ever. Every run-down woman should take Vinol."—Mrs. Emma Britt.

For all run-down, nervous, anaemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like Vinol.

THESE LIBERTY BONDS ARE TOO SAFELY STORED.

(By United Press).

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—When the U. S. S. San Diego was sunk last June, off Fire Island, approximately $100,000 in liberty bonds belonging to the crew of the American vessel went down with her.

Efforts are being made to obtain a ruling from the Treasury Department that these bonds are to be considered as destroyed. Such ruling is necessary in order to have the bonds replaced.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat Too Much Meat which Clogs Kidneys, then Back Hurts and Bladder Bothers You.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys, and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Always Removed the Water.

The discovery that the removal of water naturally present in foods would arrest decomposition was made many years ago. The ancient Indians and the savage tribes of Africa are known to have dried their surplus meat supplies so that they might not be in want when game was scarce or hunting difficult. Egyptian tradition called for the placing of food in the tombs alongside the dead, and it is said that dried kernels of grain more than 6,000 years old when discovered in the tombs in our time, yielded perfect grain upon planting.

Negro Buddies.

Very few of the negro soldiers are endangered by Pershing's command to shoot the cowards. One man in Georgia, however, had a bad attack of cold feet not long before sailing. "Ah'll put on mah uniform," he said, "but I won't go to war." "Niggah!" said his sergeant severely. "Nobody ain't askin' you what you want. We's goin' to send you to a place where there ain't nuffin' but death. Once you get ovah the top you can use yonah own judgment."

"It's An Ill Wind - - -"

Three months ago the United States Government placed an embargo upon the use of steel for making pulleys, except for war orders.

Since that time the difficulty of securing steel pulleys has been so great that some shop superintendents have been forced, against their better judgment, to buy Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys.

But a curious result has come about from this necessity.

Their experience with the Dodge Wood-Split Pulley has been so satisfactory that they are now specifying Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys instead of metal pulleys, both as regards replacements and new equipment.

They have found that the face of a Dodge Wood-Split Pulley provides greater adhesion, consequently there is less belt slip; and, our pulley being lighter and better balanced, there is less weight friction. These advantages effect a saving in power and coal.

They have also found that Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys may be run at higher speeds than metal pulleys without danger of bursting.

In short, the Dodge Wood-Split Pulley has proved that it will do all that any metal pulley ever did, and do it better, at a less cost.

Add to this that you can get a Dodge Wood-Split Pulley of any diameter, from 4 inches up to 6 feet, on the day you order it, and the arguments in its favor are complete.

WAR NOVELTIES.

New Features In the Fighting Almost Every Week.

Some new angle of the war brings a novelty every few days. New schemes are adopted and new terms come into common use. An official communication on bombing, issued in London, tells of an air squadron going into German territory. "On the morning of Sept. 7, our squadrons attacked the railways at Ehrang, and the chemical works at Mannheim," the statement says. "Good bursts were observed on and beside the railway lines at Ehrang." Many other "good bursts" were observed when the chemical works were bombed. There is no explanation of what a good burst may be, but it is easy enough to understand. One can imagine an aviator dropping a bomb on an object below. If he sees that the bomb has caused destruction of property he knows that the burst of the explosion has been good. Thus "good burst" has come into use and probably will be common enough in the war news.

Allied troops in one section of France are reported to have made good use of their automobile cavalry a few days ago. They mounted machine guns on unarmored motors cars and sent them scurrying through the countryside, seeking German forces and punishing them severely. People in this country are more or less familiar with a game known as auto polo, in which motor cars are used in place of horses, but using motors instead of horses for cavalry and mounting machine guns in these cars are out of the ordinary. The whippet type of tank is another comparatively new thing. It is an armored tank. The cavalry cars are without protection. The whippet tanks are small enough to go where the big tanks could not be sent, and they also attain a greater speed.

These are a few of the new things brought out by the war every week. More and more do the people understand that this is a struggle in which the force with the newest and best machinery will be the victor.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

NOBODY CAN TELL WHEN YOU DARKEN GRAY, FADED HAIR WITH SAGE TEA.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and atttractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. When ever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound,' you will get a large bottle of this old time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural colour and beauty to the hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through you hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save four-fifths of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it really has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, whooping cough or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

A JEWISH REPUBLIC.

One of the Possible Results of the War.

Assuming that there actually will be a Jewish state erected presently in Palestine, it is of interest to speculate on the possible form of government likely to be adopted for it. The state itself will be under some form of British or Allied protection, of course. Doubtless it will have some kind of an army, perhaps even a navy of a sort—police boats, perhaps.

That the Palestine state will have an army of its own is probable. There already exists a Jewish legion formed of Jewish draft ineligibles in Canada, Great Britain and the United States, and it is said 1,500 of these men have already joined on the Palestine front a Jewish regiment which was formed in London and which has taken part with the British in fighting Turks in the Holy Land. This legion carries the blue and white flag of Zion with a six-cornered star of David in the centre.

It is the general belief that when the Palestinian state is brought into full being it will be found to be a republic somewhat after the American model, probably with adaptations and amendments to suit conditions. Discussing operations and possibilities a writer has this to say:

"On the hills of Zion a Jewish civilization with something of its old moral and intellectual vigor may once more come into being.

"The Jews have seized their opportunity. Already an administrative commission of Hebrews is at work restoring the country for that race.

"This administrative commission has a program. Its aim is to bring back the life of the Jewish colonies in Palestine to their flourishing prewar conditions. It intends to furnish the necessary educational, medical and economic aid to all Jews who go back to the Holy Land.

"One of its most important projects is the immediate founding of a Jewish university. Along the lines of diplomacy, the commission proposes to create harmonious relationships with the Arab and Armenian states, which are to be its neighbors."

Monte Carlo made a profit of over $4,000,000 last year, notwithstanding the men with sure systems to beat it.

Some French scientist has figured it out that in 2,000,000 years the earth will be frozen by the cooling of the sun.

A good example of wasted energy is a book agent trying to sell an encyclopedia to one of those fellows who know it all.

Dyspepsia Spoils Beauty

Makes the Dark Rings Around Eyes, Caves in the Cheeks and Ruins the Complexion. How to Get Rid of Dyspepsia.

"Take My Advice and Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets if You Want a Pretty Skin."

Digestive troubles ruin the complexion. The sour, fermented, gassy contents poison the blood, draw the corners of the mouth, rob you of sleep, give the face that hungry, haggard, mournful expression in the morning and you are tired all day. It is not what you eat but the fault of digestion that hurts. Eat anything you like and let Stuarts Dyspepsia Tablets digest your food, tone your stomach, supply your blood with nourishment, then good looks, a healthy appearance and bright eyes will soon return. Get a 50 cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store. They are real health makers.

Saving Space.

"Nonetheless" as one word is an excellent example of war economy in space and its appearance in our daily paper should be welcomed by all who deplore unnecessary expenditure, remarks the London Chronicle. While we have such forms as "nevertheless" and "notwithstanding," regard for consistency justifies its use. "All-the more" should follow suit, and perhaps we may also hope to see "in-thecircumstances," "bythebye," "un-derthecondition," and why not "whatthedeuce"? Thus will more room be found in the paper to supply mental pabulum for the voracious reader.

Mexico's National Pawnshop.

One of the most remarkable institutions in the City of Mexico is the Monte de Piedad, or national pawnshop. The monte is one of the oldest buildings in the capital, having been built for the private residence of Cortes in 1520, and it has been fortunate enough to escape the hands of restorers. It was acquired in 1744 by Count de Regla Terreros, who laid out $300,000 in organizing the Monte de Piedad, with the idea of saving the needy from the usury of the ordinary pawnbroker. Its success is attested by its long history, and Mexicans today can get one-third value on their goods at a rate of interest seldom exceeding 3 per cent per annum. If any one fails to keep up his payments the deposited goods are sold, and any balance over the sum advanced is handed to the depositor.

NOTHING CAN COMPARE WITH IT

Mr. Fred Adams, New Rose N.S., writes—"I have tried many medicines for coughs and colds but never found anything to compare to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. We have had the greatest never fails to relieve a cough and loosen satisfaction with this medicine for it it up."

At War.

There may be room for argument on the enjoyableness of war, but there isn't any doubt in the mind of Pte. Xyz. He approved of this one, and of France as a place to have it. We'll let him tell you why: "We trained at ———, otherwise known as Sahara. There were a million soda fountains in town but not a drop to drink. If you started to call on a girl with a box of candy under your arm an M.P. or a policeman overhauled you and make you open the package to prove that you weren't concealing a bottle of beer. You could walk around that town for a week and if your tongue hung out it just hung out, that's all. Well, we came to France and the first day here I got in front of a moving truck and it put me to sleep. I didn't know anything for quite awhile and then I got to dreaming. I dreamed that someone was pouring wine between my lips and I woke up. I woke up to find it was true. She, the person with the wine, was as pretty a little French Red Cross nurse as I ever want to see. They had taken me to a French hospital when I went out and that was where I woke up. They tried to tell me that I had been muttering, 'water, water' when that nurse gave me the wine. But I know I never said that."

Because their seconds could not agree two French duelists agreed to arbitrate their difficulty. The safety first movement is spreading.

Somebody ought to devote a few minutes to feeling sorry for a married man who can't think of a good excuse at the right time.

An aged woman in Chicago confessed that she started the famous fire there in 1871. Mrs. O'Leary's cow is apparently being overvindicated.

Are You a Shareholder in Your Country?

WHEN you subscribe for Victory Bonds, Canada offers you shares in Canada. These are Canada's bonds, with a fixed period to run, and repayable in full at maturity, just as a Government bill is repayable on demand.

But, unlike the Government bill, Victory Bonds pay you interest at 5½% all the time you hold them.

HELPING THE WOUNDED

Our Canadian nurses are needed "over there" now as never before. This is the time to learn how to take care of the wounded, the sick—or any emergency. You can learn a great deal by obtaining the "Medical Adviser" from your nearest druggist, a book of 1,000 pages, bound in cloth, containing chapters on First Aid, Bandaging, Anatomy, Hygiene, Marriage, Mother and Babe; or send 50c to Dr. Pierce, Courtwright St., Bridgeburg, Ont.

Thousands of women in Canada have overcome their sufferings, and have been cured of woman's ills by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Fainting spells, chills or severe pain at regular or irregular intervals should be corrected, and every woman who suffers from backache, headache, nervousness, should take this "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce's. Send ten cents for trial package to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., or branch, Bridgeburg, Ont., or write for free confidential medical advice.

Toronto, Ont.—"As a tonic and builder I can highly recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to tired and run-down women. I am the mother of eight children and have frequently had need of such a tonic but did not know what to take until my sister gave me some of the 'Favorite Prescription' which she herself had found to be good. It was exactly the tonic my system required and one bottle did wonders for me, so I take pleasure in telling others, hoping that they will give the 'Prescription' a trial and be benefited just as I have been."—Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, 254 Ontario St.

The Local Fuel Commission says—"You cannot buy coal if you have 500 lbs. on hand."

The Victory Loan Committee says—"You can buy all the Victory Bonds you want regardless of what you have on hand."

We say: "Buy Victory Bonds." The interest and profit on the investment will, in normal times buy for you anything you require, and leave you with the satisfaction of having been well paid for performing a patriotic service.

ONLY THREE DAYS LEFT

There remains but three days for the citizens of the City and County of Peterboro to respond to the call to bring our boys home. It cannot be impressed upon the public that this money is needed to-day as never before. The campaign has been interrupted by the epidemic and latterly by the privilege of celebrating the cessation of hostilities, nevertheless, the eleventh hour is almost upon us and there are thousands who have not yet bought their Victory Bonds. The above schedule shows the amount and the number of applications, and if those who have not responded and who are waiting for the canvassers to call would please call at County Headquarters, 174 Hunter Street, their application will be promptly attended to.

CALL AT THE OFFICE

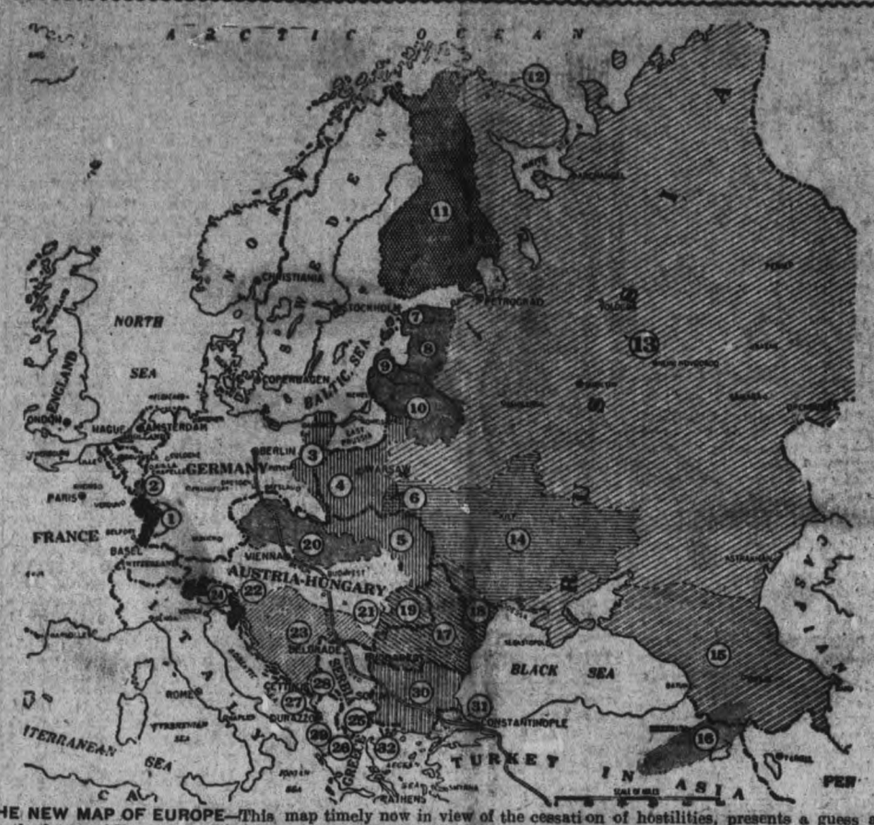
During the remainder of the campaign the city canvassers will not adhere to any special territory, but will be at County Headquarters and other parts, so that no citizen will have the excuse that the canvasser had not called. This is your warning to call at County Headquarters and do your duty, show your gratitude for victory. It is highly improbable that another opportunity will be given for obtaining Dominion of Canada Victory Bonds at 6½ per cent and free from federal taxation. The bonds will undoubtedly appreciate to a great extent in the very near future.

Advices from other Counties show that the people are not only responding more readily since the signing of the armistice, but a great number are increasing their amounts over what they had previously purchhased. Now is your opportunity. Your patriotic duty is as great as ever and your investment value is more than doubled. Remember County Headquarters at 174 Hunter Street.

HAVE WON VICTORY FLAGS

The firms who have already won flags are as follows: Canadian General Electric Company, Matthews-Blackwell co., Ltd., Peter Hamilton Co., De Laval Separator Co., Quaker Oats Co. Vermont Marble Company, Ltd B. F. Ackerman, Son & Company Ltd., and Colonial Hide Co. Mr. J. Costain of the Henry Hope & sons has got a wonderful organization in hand and it is expected that they will be the next to get the Honour Flag. The Peterboro Lock Manufacturing Co. are also well up to the top.

One of the bright features of the campaign has been the wonderful interest taken by the employers and employees of the industries of the city of Peterboro. It is questionable whether any other city its size has done better and it is most befitting that those who are behind the industries turning out the necessities for the boys at the front should be conspicuous in their response to the national call.



THE NEW MAP OF EUROPE—This map timely now in view of the cessation of hostilities, presents a guess at the future of Europe. 1, Alsace Lorraine to be restored to France; 2, Luxemburg, to be freed or joined to Belgium; 3, German Poland to be incorporated with (4) Russian Poland and (5) Austrian Poland into a new Polish state; 6, District of Cholm, disputed by Ukraine and Poland, ultimate fate doubtful; 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, Esthonia, Livonia, Courland, Lithuania, and Finland, each of which may be independent or part of a federated republic; 12, Murman coast, in dispute between Russia and Finland; 13, Russia, fate in doubt; 14, Ukraine, now separated from Russia; this is true also of (15) the Caucasus; 16, Armenia, to be definitely freed from Turkish control either as an independent or autonomous state; 17, Rumania proper, which will doubtless form part of a greater Rumania including (18) Bessarabia and (19) Transylvania; 20, Czechoslovakia, to be formed as an independent state out of Bohemia and Moravia, parts of Austria-Hungary; 21, Hungary, which may be either free or remain joined to Austria; 22, Austria, be free or joined to what remains of Germany; 23 Jugoslav land of Austria-Hungary, to form part of great Jugoslav nation; 24, Italy Irredents, to go to Italy; 25, Serbia, as she was prior to 1913 to be incorporated with (26) Macedonia, (27), an outlet to the Adriatic sea and (28) Montenegro into a great Jugoslav nation; 29, Albania, fate doubtful; 30, Bulgaria, as she was before the war, and as she may be, though she hopes for accessions from what is now Turkey; 31, European Turkey; 32, the region about Drama, Seres and Kavalla, to be restored to Greece by Bulgaria.

Renfrew Manufacturing Company to Discontinue Munition Work

Peterboro Company Will Cease Manufacture of Munition Inside of Next Thirty Days—Nearly Five Hundred Employees Affected—Prospects for the Future—Henry Hope Plant.

In about thirty days the Renfrew Munition Plant, opened in the city early this summer, will cease to manufacture munitions.

While the cessation of hostilities came too suddenly for the management of the company to make definite plans for what peaceful occupation they will probably turn the factory to Mr. T. A. Low said this morning that he hopes something will turn up. In the meantime he is confident that things will readjust themselves and his four or five hundred employees in the Peterboro plant thrown temporarily out of work will secure positions.

NO WORD OF CLOSING

The Henry Hope factory has not as yet any plans for the closing of their factory and has not received word cancelling the fulfilling of the contracts for munitions that they have now in hand.

PETERBORO MACHINE COMPANY

Mr. E. R. Wilson of the Peterboro Machine Company, said that he had had no advice from the Munition Board to discontinue the output and his factory will keep running as usual When the manufatcure of munitions is finally stopped the company will return to their former occupation.

CHIEF THOMPSON'S PARTY RETURNS.

TURKS WELCOMED THE CANADIAN

Was First Allied Officer To Reach Turkish Soil.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Nov. 13.—British airplanes landed at Galata in the suburbs of Constantinople, two days after the signing of the Turkish armistice, October 31. The first Allied officer to reach European Turkish soil, was Flight-Commander Henry Wiser, who is a Canadian.

The Turks gave the Canadian airmen an enthusiastic reception, declaring they were thankful that Turkey had been cleared of the Germans, who had fled to Roumania and Russian ports, in the Black Sea. They said they were eagerly waiting the arrival of the Allied fleet which had been concentrated at Mudros.

PALACE WILL BE PROTECTED

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 13. — The new palace at Potsdam where the former German Empress, former Crown Princess and other princesses and their children are living, has been taken under the protection of Potsdam Soldiers' and Workers' Council. The former Empress has expressed thanks to the Council for this protection, says a Berlin despatch.

PETERBORO SOLDIER IS GETTING BETTER

Pte. W. Griffin,
21st. Canadians.

Dear Madam:—

I beg to inform you that No. 3057102 is now at Royal Herbert Hospital, Woolwich, London. He has a gun shot wound in the shoulder but our Red Cross visitor has seen him and assures you that everything possible is being done for his comfort. We trust his progress will be satisfactory,

Yours Truly
D. FORRESTER, B.T.

He will be visited regularly and should he be in need of any comforts other than those supplied by the hospital we will gladly send them to him from our parcel office.

HOW DOTH THE LITTLE BUSY GROCERYMAN?

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The Red Cross has gained $50 because a local grocer was "too busy" to talk to a food inspector.

This was the excuse the grocer gave when the inspector called in quest of information. He was then asked to call and see the district food administrator. This time, he was not "too busy."

The busy grocer apologized to the inspector. He also agreed to contribute $50 to the Red Cross as conscience money.

DISPUTE OVER A PARTNERSHIP

Case Heard in the County Court this Morning.

At the County Court this morning a case was heard of Castle vs. Castle, in a dispute over a partnership in a butcher shop. The matter was left for the two brothers to settle between themselves.

Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the plaintiff; Mr. F. D. Kerr for the defence.

RUSSIA WILL BE A MENACE

The Canadian Siberian Expeditionary Force Will be Engaged in Reconstruction in Russia.

DUTY OF ALLIES

(Canadian Press.)
(By W. E. Playfair.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 13. — With one unit of the Siberian Expeditionary Force from Canada already established in Vladivistok and the remainder of the force mobilized in this country, the signing of the armistice with Germany naturally raises a question as to whether the Dominion will proceed with its plan of despatching an expeditionary force to the Orient. Military men here say that the latest developments in Europe will not affect the government's policy regarding the Siberian force. The first phase of the great war—that of destruction—appears to be over, but there remains a second phase, one of tremendous importance and difficulty, that of reconstruction. The Canadian force in Siberia will be engaged principally in reconstruction. The utter lack of stable government renders Russia a menace to the security of the world for years to come, and the duties of the allies will be to police Russia, including Siberia. With general readjustment that will follow war it is confidently expected that Canada will build up a trade of many millions per year through Vladivostok with Siberia and Russia.

PRESIDENT WILSON PROMISES HELP

Relief Work Will be Organized at Once—Germany Must Preserve Order.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 13. — President Wilson has sent a reassuring message to the people of Germany in reply to an appeal from Chancellor Ebert. He promises to aid Germany in the matter of food supplies and in relieving distressing want.

The reply was sent to-day by Secretary Lansing, through Minister Sulzer of Switzerland, who delivered yesterday Ebert's request for the intervention by President Wilson to mitigate the "fearful conditions" threatened through the enforcement of the armistice terms. It says that steps are to be taken at once to organize relief work in the same systematic manner it was carried out in Belgium, but that the President desires to be assured that public order will be maintained in Germany, and that an equitable distribution of the food can be clearly guaranteed.

NO MODIFICATION.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 13. — The allied high command has sent to the German high command, by French wireless, a message that there can be no modifications of the conditions of the armistice, including annexes, at this time.

It is added that a supplementary period of 24 hours for the evacuation of Belgium, Luxemburg and Alsace-Lorraine has been added to the 14 days stipulated in the original text, so as to permit the text to reach the German headquarters at the desired time.

GERMANY WAITED UNTIL LAST MINUTE IN CAPITULATING

Conditions in Germany are Not Normal and Allies Must Go to Her Aid for Sake of Humanity.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, November 13. — Premier Clemenceau, in concluding his speech in the Chamber of Deputies on the armistice terms, said—

"Germany surrenders to us all the locomotives and 150,000 cars which had been taken from us. This will embarrass her means of provisioning. Germany has waited until the last minute, and when exhausted she has been obliged to accept capitulation. Conditions there are not normal. In this first hour we must come to her aid. We do not make war against humanity, but for humanity."

SOUVENIR BADGES

The Examiner printed and sold about 1300 badges on Monday, which were bought by those desirous of having some small souvenirs of the day. A number are going overseas, others worked into cushions and others just kept to revive pleasant memories of the day. There are about 50 left and can be had for only 10c, as long as they last at the Examiner.

New Floor Covering at Turnbull's Store

A Sample of Neponset Has Been Laid on the Sidewalk in Front of the Big Store.

Neponset is a floor covering far better than oilcloth and a bigger money value than linoleum and equal to it in value. It is almost unbelievably durable and a coat of good varnish put on it at a slight cost will double its life. In texture it is tough, thick and is like a pair of rubber heels, it takes the jar out of walking. There are dozens of attractive patterns especially suitable for dining rooms, kitchens, halls, bath rooms and bed rooms.

Mr. W. W. Thomas, an expert from the factory is in the city and will explain the reason why it is better than other floor coverings.

A Neponset rug, as an experiment has been laid in front of the ticket wicket of the Empire Theatre where hundreds will walk on it every day, also leading into Turnbull's store, which is the only place in Peterboro where it can be purchased.

ALL THE CITIZENS HAVE COAL SUPPLY

City Treasurer Adams announced to-day that all the applications by newspaper coupons for coal have been filled, and it is accordingly assumed that every home has been supplied with coal. This is a gratifying condition, and the Council's fuel committee intend to make every effort to maintain this condition if possible. By cooperative effort the shortage of a month ago has been overcome and everybody is content for the present.

THIS FINAL WEEK FOR THE LOAN

There is ONLY a part of th good as One Hundred Per Cent. that if we fail to subscribe every Thomas White says is necessary out its full programme.

Every One Hundred Per Ce nt. Canadian should make the final week a big one for the Lo an. It will be a shame to fall short. The United States asked for six billions of dollars from the people and they responded with that sum—and eight hundred millions more.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 13TH, 1918

SHOP EARLY

It is not only a kindness, but it is good business to do your Christmas shopping as early as possible. Christmas is only six weeks away and Peterborough stores are all ready with their holiday stocks. Service, quality and better selection are the advantages that will be obtained by the citizens who commence their gift-giving now. There is nothing whatever to be gained, and much to be lost, in postponing the Christmas shopping until the last few days when stocks will be depleted and picked over, clerks tired and incapable of properly assisting the customer in buying to the best advantage and stores crowded to such an extent that the shopper is unable to get a chance to select the gifts he or she would prefer to get. Every citizen should realize the importance of early attention to the Christmas shopping. It means benefits for themselves, for the clerks and for the merchant and is a patriotic duty that should be carried out as far as possible.

SPLENDID SERVICE

The people of Peterboro owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. R. J. Devey, choirmaster of St. John's Church for his services in connection with the ringing of the People's Chimes. For many months, no matter what the weather conditions, or whatever the nature of the news from the front, the chimes have daily pealed out their message faith and enthusiasm. "Oh God, Our Help in Ages Past" and other well-known hymns have reminded the people that Divine Providence would never allow evil to triumph over right, and the stirring strains of "Rule Britannia," "Oh, Canada" "The Marseillaise" and similar patriotic airs have continued to stimulate the patriotic fervor of the city. In the dark days of last Spring, when the news from the the front was of the most alarming nature, the daily patriotic concert on the chimes had a bracing effect and when the tide turned the bells seemed to add to the rejoicing of the people. Mr. Devey undertook this daily task without any recompense and merely as a labor of love. With a son serving with the colors overseas, his heart was in his work and the daily message of cheer and love was perhaps inspired because of this fact.

On Monday when the news of the end of the war came the very bells in the People's Chimes seemed to know that something glorious had happened, so joyously did they join in the general celebration of the tidings.

AN ANXIOUS TIME

In thousands of Canadian homes the next couple of weeks will be an anxious time. The fighting is over it is true, but it continued right up to 11 o'clock on Monday morning and the Canadians were in the thick of it until the last shot was fired, taking Mons as the final act in the war The Canadian people realize that sometimes three or four weeks intervene between the day that a casualty has been sustained and the time that the official message to the next-of-kin is sent. That means that many people will be terribly anxious as to the safety of their dear ones for the next few weeks. The cable may be used by some soldiers to send a message home but it is hard to get word through in this manner and it will be several weeks before letters writen after the signing of the armistice can reach Canada.

In view of these facts a suggestion by the Toronto World is worthy of consideration by the Government. It is to the effect that the military authorities announce just what Canadian units were engaged in the fighting of the last two or three weeks. It is not likely that all four Canadian divisions were in action during the time and the publication by the Government of the forces that have been fighting would relieve the anxiety in many cases.

MUST PAY FOR IT

Victory is ours, but we—except those families whose dear ones have made the supreme sacrifice—have not paid for it. Canada's bills for war expenditure, amounting to over a million dollars a day, have not yet all been met. The financial arrangements for bringing our soldiers home have not been made and the wheels of industry must be kept going or the boys will come back to a demoralizedd country. The Victory Loan Campaign gives us our opportunity of meeting our obligations and of making it possible to bring our fighting men home and of financing Great Britain's purchases in Canada.

In the orgy of joy over the peace news, there has arisen a peril for Canada—a danger that the people of this country may not realize the vital importance of subscribing to the Victory Loan. Let us make no mistake—the prosperity of Canada will depend upon the result of the great campaign. There is anxiety at Loan headquarters, for, with the end of the campaign only a few days off the objective of $500,000,000 is still far away. Monday was a day lost as far as the Victory Loan was concerned, because in their rejoicing, the people forgot everything but the fact that the war was over and the result was that the Loan subscriptions were smaller than on any other day of the drive.

The seriousness of the situation may be realized from the announcement of Mr. E. R. Wood, Chairman of the Dominion Executive, that in order that Canada may go over the top in this tremendous undertaking, the people of Canada must subscribe thirty-five million dollars daily for the balance of the week.

The citizens of Peterboro and of the surrounding district are urged to awaken to the danger that confronts Canada. We in Peterboro have not yet won our honour flag, nor have any of the townships captured the coveted honour. The cheers of Monday should be succeeded by concrete proof that those cheers were genuine.

The best possible celebration that we in Peterboro can put on is a complete our share of the Victory Loan. Lend as they fight.

GET ON OR GET OUT!

(The Statesman.)

What has the Government done to safeguard this country against unemployment and depression after the war? At least sixty per cent. of the munition workers now employed may be discharged immediately an armistice with Germany has been proclaimed. Has the Government any scheme for meeting this grave dislocation of the labour market?

Canada is entering upon the most critical period of her existence. The problems of reconstruction are no less urgent and important than the problems of war, and, for Canada, at least, vastly more complex. It seems to be one of our national failings, that we can think of one thing only at a time. Side by side, with the organization for war, Great Britain found time to concentrate on the grave problems to which the war has given premature birth. Not so in Canada. Practically nothing has been done to meet the conditions which must arise once peace is declared. It is imperative that the spirit of optimism which has characterized our people during the past four years should be maintained throughout the days of reconstruction that lie ahead. The immediate unemployment of sixty to seventy per cent. of the munition workers, would not prove a serious matter were plans perfected for the adaptation of the munition factories and workers to the manufacture of industrial goods.

This is a matter which cannot be left entirely to private enterprise. In the United States, the proposal is to entrust the investigation of reconstruction problems to a Commission of experts, free from political influence and control. The recommendation of this Commission could, in the case of Canada, be submitted to Parliament for approval. Sir Robert Borden, it is announced, will attend the forthcoming Peace Conference as a plenipotentiary. What steps have been taken to recognize and co-ordinate the Government departments in his absence so that the problems of reconstruction may be tackled by men competent to render practical and useful service to the country? Is there a single member of the present Government who has given thought and study to this question and who is ready to lay his plans before the country? One of the most disastrous results of this war would be the failure of the responsible Government to meet the new conditions which will immediately arise when diplomacy succeeds to the arbitrament of the sword. Take, for example, the contrast between the five year budget of five million dollars, voted by the British Commons to scientific research, and the miserably inadequate provision made by a Government at Ottawa, which insists on ignoring Parliament altogether. Private enterprise is doing more in this department of industrial research than the Government. Dr. Macallum, as chairman of the Advisory Council for Scientific and Industrial Research, warns the country that

"The provision for research, either in pure science or in science applied to industry, has been and is utterly inadequate to our needs, and unless vigorous action be taken and soon to reorganize our industries on scientific lines wherever possible, Canada will face a serious industrial crisis in the years following the war."

Money that might be usefully employed in promoting such constructive work is frittered away and wasted on an enormous output of Government war literature which serves no practical need except to minister to the vanity of some Minister who thinks that a plethora of words will be mistaken for a sound administrative policy. Parliament should be sitting at this critical juncture in the life of our country. Changes should be made, and immediately, in the personnel of Departments that are obstructing the work of reconstruction. The Government itself is the worst offender. It has no policy, no foresight, and is a depressing influence at a time when the needs of the hour call for men of wide vision and resolute action—men who will inspire confidence and lift the country out of the Slough of Despond into which the present Cabinet has dragged it.

What has the Labour Department attributed towards the solution of the labour problem with which the country will soon be confronted? The country has had a tragic lesson in Government incompetence in the hospital scandal at Toronto. It will not do to stir the ugly and venomous head of social revolution by forcing upon the country, in these fateful times, a Cabinet of Antiques, which has lost the confidence of its own supporters.

The immediate and grave problem to be faced is unemployment. The manufacturing industry is the one that will be most seriously affected by the return of peace. In the importation of goods that can be made as well and cheaply in Canada, the Government Departments are the worst offenders against national sentiment. The encouragement of home manufacturers, and the creation of a national sentiment in favour of home made goods, is of more importance than the dissemination of information about a war which has been four years in existence. Let the Government call Parliament. It is the constitutional right of the people to be consulted through their representatives, especially when the Government in power no longer retains the confidence of the country. Canada has undiscovered resources in sane leadership in the ranks of Labour and Capital and on the farm, which should be called into conference to discuss ways and means for enabling our country to face the problematical days ahead with the same courage and resolution which it has met and surmounted the difficulties of the past.

and get ahead of Lord Shaughnessy, by learning How to Save in a Better Way than he did, as follows:

SHAUGHNESSY'S FIRST $100.00.

Let us repeat Lord Shaughnessy's own story of how he saved his first hundred dollars. When a young man in Milwaukee, the future C.P.R. president found that he could not save money no matter how hard he tried, so after taking stock of his position he decided upon a plan that would make him save.

He went to a friend who was the cashier of the First National Bank, and asked if the bank would loan him $100.00.

"If you let me have the money," said young Shaughnessy, "I will deposit it in your bank in a savings account.

The cashier had to scratch his head over this proposition, as it was the most peculiar one he had ever heard of. He asked for an explanation.

"Well," said the future C.P.R. man, 'if I owe the bank a hundred dollars I have got to pay it back. I want to get into debt so that I can save and pay the money back out of my earnings. Then the $100 I have on deposit will be mine."

The cashier saw the point and advanced the money and the future Lord Shaughnessy paid off the loan as quickly as he could.

Lord Shaughnessy is very proud of that first hundred dollars he saved, and he still has it. And he tells this story to inspire us to save.

How Many Crowns Shall We Have On Our Honour Flag?

Every city, town and village in Canada is asked to support the men who fight our battles on a dozen fronts.

An Honor Flag will fly in each place which meets this call with honor. We are asked for $1,000,000, an amount set as a fair response from Peterborough. If we subscribe 25 per cent. over that amount a crown is added to our Honor Flag, and for every additional 25 per cent. another crown.

How Many Crowns Shall We Have on Our Honour Flag?

With our pocket books wide open we will answer this call. To the limit of our means we will do our share in helping to OVER-SUBSCRIBE.

Canada's Victory Loan 1918

Canada—the whole commercial fabric of our country—stands behind the Victory Bonds. Whether we buy a $50 Bond or one at $100 or $500 or $1,000, let us do it quickly. There is no safer, no finer investment in the world than a Victory Bond—a Bond pledging the repayment of our money at the end of a definite period, and paying us, meanwhile, interest at 5½ per cent.

Money arms the soldiers, money pays for the thousand daily needs of the war. It is our part to lend the money to the limit of our ability.

The Victory Loan Honor Button will show that you are a buyer of Victory Bonds. Get it early. Your name on the Honor Roll of your place of business will be an inspiration to others. Get is there quickly.

Peterborough must have a place of honor on the list.

Regular Monthly Meeting of the Monaghan Township Council

Property Plans Submitted to the Council—Appointed Tax Collector.

BILLS PRESENTED

The North Monaghan Council met at the Court House Peterboro, on Saturday, November 9th. All members were present with Reeve John McIntosh in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

PRESENTED PLANS

Mr. Osias de LaPlante was present in the interests of Mr. Alex. Gordon and presented his new plan for the Reeve and clerk to sign the same, signifying the acceptance by the municipality. The new plan shows a portion of Mr. Gordon's property being plan 43 and line in the south side of Braidwood avenue east of Lock street.

Moved By Mr. Wilson, seconded by Mr. Forster that the clerk communicate with Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald O.L.S. and ask for a written statement as to the number of feet Brinton Carpet Company's fence is on the public highway.

That the clerk and township solicitor serve notice on the said Brinton Carpet Company to remove their fence off the public highway in accordance with the measurements given by Township Engineer in 1918. That if the Brinton Carpet Company has any objection or any reason whatsoever to the line defined by the Township Engineer in November 1918, the said Company notify the township clerk immediately in writing of their objections to the same—Carried.

APPOINTED TAX COLLECTOR

Applications were received for the position of tax collector as follows: Norman Moncrief, asking a salary of $225. per annum. Mr. H. Johnston, salary of $200. Moved by Mr. Henry seconded by Mr. Forster that Norman Moncrief be appointed tax collector at a salary of $200.

Mr. Moncrief who was present accepted the position.

A communication was read from the Hydro Electric Power Commission referring the council to the Utilities Commission, re pole at Brownton Post Office.

Gordon, Widdifield and O'Brien sent in a claim for damages to a horse owned by their client Mr. Hilmer O'Neil. The accident is alleged to have occured at a culvert near the Town Hall. The communication was ordered to be received and filed.

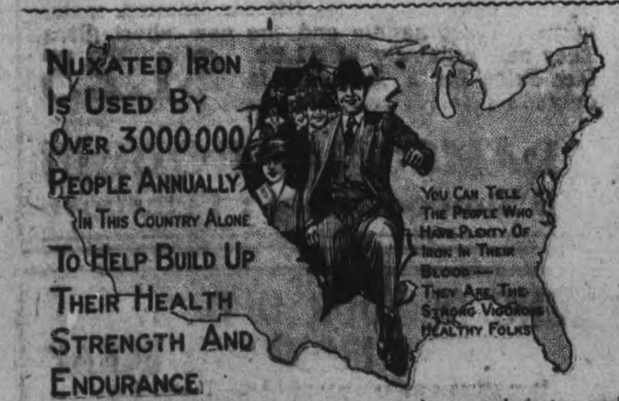
Moved by Mr. Wilson seconded by Mr. Bell that the meeting adjourn until Monday, December 16, at 2 p.m. at the Court House, Peterborough.



Look around at the men and women you meet in a single day. One glance is enough to tell the ones with plenty of rich, red blood, strength and physical energy to back up their mental power and make them a success in whatever they undertake.

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, says that to help make strong, keen, red-blooded Americans there is nothing in his experience which he has found so valuable as organic iron — Nuxated Iron. It often increases the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, run-down people in two weeks time. It is conservatively estimated that Nuxated Iron is now being used by over three million people annually, and it has been used and endorsed by such men as Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, former Secretary of the Treasury, and ex-Governor of Iowa; General John L. Clem (retired), the drummer boy of Shiloh, who was a Sergeant in the U.S. Army when only 12 years of age; also United States Judge G. W. Atkinson, of the Court of claims of Washington, and others. Nuxated Iron is dispensed by all good druggists everywhere.

Sold in this city by McDermid and Jory, druggists.

German Crown Prince Killed?

Conflicting Reports Concerning the Former Crown Prince of Germany.

(Special to the Examiner.)

BERNE, Nov. 13.—The body of Frederick William, Former German Crown Prince, has been found, covered with bayonet and bullet wounds, on a military train bound for Dutch frontier, it was reported here to-day.

DEATH CONFIRMED

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Death of Crown Prince of Germany is confirmed by German News Agency at Munich. He was shot and killed by German soldiers on Monday morning while trying to cross the Dutch frontier it is stated.

WITH THE TROOPS

(Special to the Examiner.)

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 13.—The Wolff Bureau, an official German News Agency, announced today that the former Crown Prince is with his troops at the front.

A LATER DESPATCH SAYS:

(Special to the Examiner.)

PARIS, (1.20 p.m.—The former Crown Prince arrived in Maastricht at four o'clock yesterday afternoon according to a despatch from Rotterdam today.

REACHED HOLLAND.

Late afternoon despatches from The Hague, said that the Crown Prince had arrived in Maastricht, Holland, safely. The late Kaiserin, the Crown Princess and other princesses and all their families, are practically prisoners in one of the palaces at Potsdam, near Berlin.

Fresh fighting broke out in Berlin on Monday. Loyal officers opened fire from the royal stables, and attacked the revolutionists with machine guns on the Unter der Linden. Several persons were killed.

HER TROUBLES HAD COST THOUSANDS

Mrs. White Says Tanlac Overcame Troubles After Everything Else Failed.

"Actually, a few bottles of Tanlac did more for me than all the other medicines and treatments that have cost me thousands of dollars," recently declared Mrs. Kittie White, whose husband is proprietor of the University Paint Company, and who lives at 1312 Forty-second street, East, Seattle, Wash.

"Fifteen years ago," she continued "I was as strong and healthy a woman as you ever saw, weighing in the neighborhood of a hundred and seventy pounds. My troubles started when I contracted asthma, which got so bad that many a time I had to sit up night after night wheezing and gagging, hardly able to get my breath, and suffering so terribly I really thought I was going to die. Then my stomach went back on me, my food would sour, and the gas that rose up in my throat would almost strangle me, and start me to vomiting till I was in such misery I would almost go distracted. My head ached like it would split and my back hurt like it was going to break in two. I lost over forty pounds. I was but ashadow of my former self, and was so weak, and felt so wornout that I was barely able to get around.

"Now this was just the awful condition I was in when one of my friends told me about Tanlac, and I thought if I could get my stomach in good condition and regain my strength maybe I could stand the asthma better, so I got a bottle. Well, sir, the results have far surpassed anything I expected. Why, my appetite is so great, that I feel ashamed to eat enough to satisfy myself, and my stomach is in good condition. But the greatest surprise of all is I haven't suffered a particle from asthma since I have been taking Tanlac. I felt so fine on finishing my first bottle that I just couldn't get another one quick enough, for I could'nt afford to miss a single dose. I sleep so sound now, that I don't know a thing from the time I go to bed till I get up in the morning. I never know what a headache is and those awful pains in my back have all gone. I have already gained several pounds and am gaining in weight and strength every day. Why, I can do any amount of hard work now without getting tired, and can't remember the time when I felt as fine as I do to-day. I am so happy over my great improvement that I want everybody to know what a splendid medicine Tanlac is."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd, in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd., in Fowler's Corner's by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle and Son.

EARLY MORNING FIRE

Another chimney fire gave the firemen a before-breakfast call this morning. A chimney at the home of Mr. N. Stabler, 514 Aylmer street was the offender.

Work on Munitions Will Not be Suddenly Stopped

Imperial Munitions Board Issues a Statement That Only the Initial Processes on Shells Will be Discontinued at Once — General Work Will Run Into December.

A TIME FOR ABSORPTION

OTTAWA, Nov. 12.—The Imperial Munitions Board desires it to be known that it is in communication with the British Ministry of Munitions with regard to the method to be adopted in ceasing munition production in Canada. The orders now running in Canada, which have been placed by the Imperial Munitions Board on behalf of the Ministry of Munitions and other British Government departments, may be divided into three classes:

(a) Articles which are no longer required at all, as a result of the cessation of hostilities, and of which no use can be made, e.g., shells and explosives. The further production of these would be economically wasteful, and it is therefore expected that the British Government will give instructions for their production to be discontinued as soon as possible.

(b) Articles which may no longer be actually required by the Government, but of which use can be made e.g., metals and raw materials of various descriptions. In this class it may be found possible to allow existing contracts to run out or to bring them to an end gradually, the British Government taking any loss on the materials as they are delivered.

(c) Articles which are still likely to be required, e.g., commercial lumber and ships. In this class it is not likely that any change will be made in exisiting contracts. It should be stated that the Imperial Munitions Board has still a number of steel and wooden ships under construction for the British Government, in addition to the program of merchant ship construction which is being carried out by the Canadian Government. This latter program will take up the berths in steel shipbuilding yards now occupied by the board's vessels as these are completed. As regards wooden ships, important contracts have been placed in Canada for this class of vessel by the French Governmens, and also on private account, which will ensure continued operation of the yards.

DISCONTINUE INITIAL OPERATIONS

With regard to class "A" i.e., the class of contracts which are likely to be discontinued as soon as possible, it is estimated that not more than fifty thousand work people are at present employed in Canada on British Government contracts of this description. It is proposed by the Board, as the method of dealing with these, that manufacturers should be asked at once to discontinue initial operations on material. This would involve the immediate reduction of their staff to the extent of perhaps ten to fifteen per cent. of the numbers employed. This must be taken as a rough general average, as the numbers would of course, vary in individual plants. The balance of the employees will be occupied in completing the manufacture of articles already in process, and as these are completed, will be gradually reduced. This will go on till a fixed date, probably about the middle of December, after which time further manufacturing operations in this class would cease.

GIVE TIME FOR ABSORBTION

It is hoped that by this method sufficient time will be given for a considerable portion, at any rate of the work people who will no longer be required for the manufacture of munitions to be absorbed in other employment. Many of the factories now making munitions have other lines of manufacture, the output of which has been restricted by shortage of material and labor, and which they may now be able to extend as these restrictions will disappear through the cessation of hostilities. It is understood also that the Canadian Government, as announced by the acting Prime Minister, is taking up with the railways, and in other directions, the question of placing increased orders for manufactured goods, and putting in new hand work of various kinds in order to provide occupation for munitions workers as they are released from the munitions factories.

H d Ability as a Line Gunner

Peterboro Soldier Was Instantly Killed.

Mr. and Mrs. William Edwards, 172 Park Street have received the following letter concerning their son, Corp. W. B. Edwards, 102 Canadians who was killed in action:

Dear Mr. Edwards:—

You will long since have heard the sad news of your son's death in action, but it may afford comfort and consolation from one who was intimately associated with him. I had just got to know him in March of this year when I took charge of the fourth platoon of the 102nd Battalion. He had then been a long time in France and his experience and ability as a line gunner rendered him invaluable in training the new drafts which reached the battalion at that time. A finer boy never gave his life for the protection of those at home, and his sterling character and fine disposition endeared him to all who came in contact with him. He was killed instantly in the taking of Beaucourt Wood on Aug. 8, and all his comrades in the platoon join in sending you our sincerest sympathy in your bereavement.

Yours Very Sincerely,
John Palmer Burt

ALMOST BLIND FROM HEADACHES.

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time. Headache seems habitual with many people; indeed, some are seldom, if ever, free from it, suffering continually, and wondering why they can get no relief.

In nine cases out of ten, persistent headaches are due to poisoned blood, the blood being rendered impure through some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels.

The reason Burdock Blood Bitters makes permanent cures of all cases of headache, is because it starts the organs of elimination acting freely, and the poisons and impurities are carried off from the system, purified blood circulates in the brain cells, and instead of pains and aches there is revived mentality and bodily vigor.

Mrs. Geo. Monck, Arden, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled a great deal with sick headaches, and at times would almost go blind, and have to go to bed. I tried different kinds of medicine without any benefit until I was advised to use Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking it, I have not been troubled since."

B. B. B. is a purley vegetable remedy, and has been manufactured for the last forty years by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Enemy Celebrates

Huge Bonfires Reported Behind the German Lines—Cheering All Night.

(By Webb Miller.)
(United Press Service.)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, Nov. 13.—Huge fires were visible last night in the direction of Conflans, behind the German lines.

At some places the Germans remained facing the Americans waving their hands toward the Allied lines and strolling in open fields without guns.

The second army reports "heavy shouting and cheering from the enemy lines all night, and flares and rockets."

The huge fires reported behind the German lines are accepted as being bonfires in celebration of the armistice, rather than the destruction of materials.

Is Helpless and Hopeless

Would Bring Count William Hohenzollern to Justice.

(By Ed. L. Keen.)
(United Press Service.)

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Joint action by the powers will be necessary to send the former Kaiser to Elba or St. Helena, or to subject him to criminal prosecution, it was pointed out by British officials to-day. No anxiety is felt regarding the possibility of Wilhelm again interfering with world peace. He is regarded as impotent for further evil, in view of the drastic armistice forced by the Allies. The internal situation in Germany is believed to be rapidly precluding any slight pro-Kaiser sentiment that may linger there. Count William Hohenzollern, as he now calls himself, is helpless and hopeless, so far as any Napoleonic "return from Elba" is concerned. The former Kaiser lacks the genius to sway the people that was Bonaparte's basis of power.

British newspapers are clamourous for the seizure of Hohenzollern's person and his commitment to exile.

Wards of Children's Aid Society Buy Victory Bonds

One Boy Took a Two Hundred Dollar Bond—Regular Meeting of the Society—Accounts Passed.

At a short round-the-fire meeting of the executive of the Children's Aid Society held yesterday afternoon Adjutant and Mrs. Buntin were appointed members in the positions vacated by Commandant McElheney and Mrs. McElheney.

Present at the meeting were Mrs. Gibbs, Mrs. Stocker, Mrs. Evans, Mr. Pennefather, Dr. D. King, Mr. J. Wearing and Mr. E. A. Peck, presiding.

The matron's report showed that fifteen children were inmates of the Shelter with 13 there at present.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT

Mr. G. W. Powell's report covering his activities since the last meeting showed that he had covered approximately 150 miles in the interests of the Society. In that time four applications have been made for children and one child has been brought to the shelter. Final tag-day results were $1,235.35.

VOTE OF THANKS.

A vote of thanks was tendered and will be communicated in writing to Mr. Ross Dobbin of the Peterboro Utilities Commission for his thoughtfulness in giving the Shelter Children a joy-ride in the Utilites truck on Monday when Peterboro was celebrating the signing of the armistice in a real Anglo-Saxon way.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. J. Knox and the ladies who assisted her in the last tag-day.

It was reported that many of the boys, wards of the Society, who were working, had learned the lesson of thrift and had bought Victory Bonds.

One boy took Victory Bonds to the extent of $200.

The A B C of Milk

Does the Food Administration ask us to decrease the consumption of milk?
No; nor attempt to substitute other foods for it.
Use all the milk. Children need plenty of whole milk.
Use sour and skim milk in cooking and for making cottage cheese.

If I cannot afford whole milk, shall I get skim milk?
Yes, skim milk is an excellent food.
Try to make up for the lack of fat in some other way.
But remember that children should have whole milk.

Is milk a cheap food compared to its food value?
Yes. Even at 14 cents a quart one gets protein as cheaply as in meat at 25 cents a pound, eggs at 35 cents a dozen, or fresh cod at 20 cents a pound.

How much milk does a child need each day?
At least a quart up to the age of 6 years; after that at least a pint up to the age.

Does an adult need milk?
Under normal conditions it is not absolutely necessary as it is for children, but it is nevertheless a desirable food for adults.

What is the nourishment of skim milk?
It contains all the protein of whole milk, contains lime, phosphorus, milk, sugar.

Why is milk so important a food?
Because it is the most complete and well balanced of any single food and is a vital food necessity for babies and children.

The Peterboro Milk Products Limited

Makes Cleanliness a vital part of the sanitary handling of their City Milk delivery.

Clarifying machines are used to eliminate the last traces of visible sediment from the milk. Pasteurizers destroy any bacteria that may be present in the milk, and then to cool thoroughly to a temperature of about 45 degrees Fahrenheit to prevent further growth. The best milk to buy is Pasteurized Milk.

Bottles are washed, brushed, rinsed and sterilized by machinery, thus guaranteeing that the consumer shall receive pure products, as far as possible.

And Now—Our Part

Canada's army has splendidly finished its share in saving civilization on the battlefield.

Now let us take up the completion of our share of the task.

Canada must still continue for a time to maintain her soldiers; must provide transportation to bring them home; must arrange for their future so that they may again become self-supporting units in a reconstructed world.

Canada must maintain prosperity at home---must continue for a time to finance the purchase of food and supplies for Great Britain and our Allies.

Canada must press forward her great shipbuilding programme, in order that she may take her rightful place as a great sea-carrying power.

For all these things hundreds of millions of dollars will be required. To demobilize and re-establish our soldiers in civil life alone will take many millions.

Canada's Victory Loan, 1918, will provide the necessary working capital,

Therefore, Canada's Victory Loan, 1918, must be a great over-subscribed success.

Our part, then, is to Buy Bonds and complete our great victory.

Work of Emergency Hospital Reviewed by Board of Health

Eulogistic Refereqces to the Work Accomplished by Dr. C. H. Amys, M.O.H.—Soldiers Dependents Cared For.

EXPENSE ACCOUNT

Eulogistic addresses to Dr. C. H. Amys, M.O.H., for his splendid handling of the recent epidemic of influenza, occupied most of the time of the Board of Health, at the regular meeting last night.

"To Dr. Amys' despatch in handling the epidemic and isolating cases of it is due the small death rate," Mr. H. Morgan said. It was only his quick action that saved a lot of suffering and death. Mr. W. H. Buller observed that no body of citizens could come before the Board and take exception to any action of the Medical Officer of Health during the epidemic, and he congratulated him upon his work. He concluded by speaking in glowing terms of the work of the whole medical profession. He personally had not heard of a call refused by any doctor.

Mr. Morgan endorsed Mr. Buller's statements.

Trying Experience.

Dr. Amys said that the experience the profession had gone through during the past few weeks had taken the heart and soul out of them. Calls were rung in day and night continuously. In his own home his children had been ill with the influenza, and coupled with other domestic cares, he had not only tended his own home, but gone at all hours to patients in every quarter of the city. If he had done or said anything in a hasty moment during the epidemic he took the occasion to apologize. He had ,however, nothing in mind which he thought necessary to retract.

M. O. H.'s Report.

In making his report to the Board of the epidemic, he said that the bottom had dropped out of it a week ago Thursday. The death rate had been very low considering the gravity of the situation. He concluded by thanking all who had turned out to the Emergency Hospital, all who had helped at the Trinity Church diet kitchen, and all neighbours who with neighbourly love and kindness, had really reduced the death rate by their care to those about them during the "Flu" epidemic.

Mr. Morgan added to this list the names of Mr. Stapleton, the Sanitary Inspector, and Mr. F. W Miller, for their splendid work in helping out.

Will Keep Trust.

Remembering the promise of the city to take care of the dependents of soldiers while they were away, Mayor Duncan insisted that money collected recently from two soldiers' orphans, should be refunded. This case was one of especial hardship, in which two little ones left orphans had been taken to the Emergency Hospital and treated for influenza. The grandmother asked that $14 she had paid for their expenses should be refunded.

On motion of Mr. Morgan, seconded by Mr. Murty, the money will be returned.

The expense account of the Emergency Hospital received last night, totalled over $600, without the accounts from grocers, hardware, drygoods, etc., itemized as far as received, as follows:

G. F. Jackson, caretaker	$40.00
E. Hensley, plumbing	240.43
R. Hicks, coal	92.91

Letter Concerning the Death of Flight-Lieutenant Brown

Late Lieut. Brown Was Well Liked by His Companions—The Fatal Flight.

Following is a letter received by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Brown, 317 Dalhousie street, from a friend of their dear son, Flight-Lieut. P. L. Brown, who died of wounds on Oct. 16:

Officers Mess.
Training Squadron, R. A. F.

Dear Friends,—Being, I believe, the closest pal your poor son had over here, I feel it my duty to write and tell you how much we thought of him in this Squadron and how much he personally meant to me who had known him intimately for over a year Knowing him so well and what his loss to you must mean I can enter into your grief and deeply sympathize with you. I cannot tell you how much I miss his cheery company, we had so many points in common and a lasting friendship sprang up as soon as we met. We went through our Cadet days together and I got to know him thoroughly when we were at Oxford where we shared the same billet. My mind goes back to the many pleasant days we spent there and the hours we spent on the river. He loved out door life and we spent many memorable week ends camping out in good Canadian style. He was wonderfully good company had such fine broad ideas and was a real true friend in every sense of the word. In all ways he has proved himself to be one of the best men I have ever known. He was the soul of generosity, would do anything for a pal. He continually spoke of his boyhood days, his people, his home in Canada with great affection. We had much in common for my home, too, is out there. Your son was a good Pilot and was being kept in England as an Instructor of Flying, but he felt he would like to be in France and just recently asked his commanding officer to send him over, but the latter would not let him go yet for, he felt he had not sufficiently recovered from his last accident and would not be doing justice to himself by going to France. I was in the air and saw him fall. You will be relieved to know that he did not suffer, as he never regained consciousness. How it happened will never be found out, now, but it is believed that something went wrong with the controls. The funeral will take place to-morrow and will be a military one and the whole squadron will be present at Bandon Hill Cemetery.

Any wish you may express with regard to his grave I shall be happy to carry it out.

With the greatest sympathy in your terrible loss, believe me dear friends,

Yours very sincerely,
L. G. DESTRUHE.

(By United Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 18. (By Mail.)—As the French and American troops pushed up through the St. Mihiel salient, detachments of the French engineers followed each regiment into the various towns with signs already painted to replace the German road signs that had adorned the crossroads and street corners for 4 years.

One French officer was plodding along the road toward Apremont with a bunch of signs under his arm when he walked into a party of Americans lying beside the road about a mile outside the village.

"Where are you going?" asked the American officer in charge.

"I'm going up to Apremont to post these signs," replied the French officer. "Better wait until we take it," replied the American, "it's still full of Germans."

May Establish a Republic in Sweden

French Socialists Want Military Law Eliminated.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 13. — The revolution in Germany has made an impression in Sweden, where the organs of independent Socialists publish a manifesto urging the establishment of Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils everywhere in order to establish a Socialist government and a republic according to Copenhagen advices. General demobilization of the army and an eight hour working day are also demanded.

FRENCH SOCIALISTS.

French Socialists are demanding that the administration of affairs under military law be ended immediately and that a general election be held at once to take action on problems arising out of the economic and the political reorganization of the country. They say that an international Labor-Socialist conference should be held during the progress of the peace negotiations.

Why Not Insure The Payment of Your Premium?

Suppose you are thirty-five years old, and carrying $10,000 of Life Insurance costing you, say $300.00 per year, would you not like, (in case of serious accident or illness destroying your earning power) to have the payment of this premium paid for you as long as you live?

Then Read The Following:

The Sun Life of Canada will give you a further insurance of $5,000.00 if you are still insurable, and if you become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the Company will not only relieve you of all future premiums on THIS policy during such disability, but they will guarantee to hand you a $500.00 cheque every year, which you see will pay the premiums on your $10,000.00 and in addition will give you a handsome CASH XMAS BOX each year and, nevertheless, will pay the face of your policy at maturity or death.

Many people hesitate to take out Life Insurance, lest some catastrophy should force them to give it up. Well, that bugbear is removed by the Sun Life of Canada.

How Many Crowns for Your Honor Flag?

Of course every city, town and district will earn its Honor Flag.

But how about the crowns?

For every twenty-five per cent. in excess of its quota, each city, town and district will be entitled to add a crown to its flag.

Can you do fifty per cent. better than your quota—that means two crowns for your Honor Flag.

But double your quota and it means four crowns.

Hang a flag in your hall, that for years to come will show that your city, town or district did better than well—

Lieut. W. J O'Brien Tells of Joyous Greeting to Canada's Soldiers in Liberated Towns

A letter to the Examiner from Lt. W. J. O'Brien, brother of Rev. Father Michael O'Brien, of St. Peter's Cathedral, conveys an idea of the joyous privilege the Canadian soldiers have enjoyed in the campaign of the past summer, during which they drove the Germans from an extensive area of France and received the rapturous greeting of the French people in many towns that had been occupied by the enemy for four years. Lieut. O'Brien was a law student at Osgoode Hall, when he enlisted as a private in the artillery, went overseas as a sergeant, and won his commission in action. His letter follows:

France, Oct. 19th, 1918.

To the Editor,
Peterboro Examiner:

I write this from the comfortable home of a French spinster, in a village east of the Douai-Cambrai road by some twelve kilometres. My object in writing is to try and describe the most wonderful two days I have ever lived.

The series of blows delivered by our armies since the memorable 7th of August, placed the enemy in a large and dangerous salient, to himself, between Douai and Cambrai. Our Canadian corps, sent out for a short rest a week or more ago, were given the task of helping out his retirement, when the word was passed that he was folding his tents. Our actual pursuit began on the morning of the 18th, when we crossed the canal by means of bridges, built by our engineers during the previous night. An hour later the horses' hoofs rang true on the most famous road in history—the paved road from Douai to Cambrai.

As we rode along a portion of this highway, I recalled to mind the many mighty struggles that preceded its capture—a veritable wealth of treasure and a million lives have gone to cut this important artery of German military life.

We bivouaced last evening in a pleasant little French village, about a mile behind the retreating Bosches, and were in the saddle again early this morning. I was sent ahead to keep in touch with our infantry, and within an hour of starting entered the village of B——, containing about a thousand French civilians.

It was upon my entry and short stay in this village that I was made to feel the joy that becomes the lot of a subjugated people, who, after four years of bondage, starvation and insult, suddenly awake to find themselves free.

The streets were bedecked with bunting and from a hundred windows the tricolor floated as proudly as its size and location permitted. I stopped for a few minutes beside the main crossroad, which had been mined by the Germans before leaving, and there I found a crowd of all ages busily engaged filling up the huge crater so that our Artillery and transport would not be delayed.

Then came the strains of the Marseillaise floating up the street, and one of our battalions swung into view in perfect step with the tune of the most inspiring march in existence. The Tricolor and the Union Jack fluttered at the head of the column, giving a most fitting air to the triumphant entry of our lads to this pleasant hamlet, so long befouled by the monster who had just left.

Back in my college days, I was asked to write an essay on "A Crowd." I had never been sufficiently observant to do justice to such a subject, but I could come nearer satisfying my English teacher now, for I saw at B—— a crowd I shall never forget. It was a crowd of nearly five hundred French civilians, seeing the Allies for the first time in their lives, hearing for the first time in four years their beloved national anthem, and realizing for the first time that they were no longer in the cruel state of bondage imposed by the most ruthless vandal in the world's history.

The column rested for a few minutes in the village, and I think that this short interval compensated for the years of misery endured by not a few of them. For they saw the liberated ones—men, women and children—crying for very joy, shouting out in a hundred voices, "Vive les Canadiens!" "Vive les Allies!" "Vive la France!"

Hot bowls of coffee, and what eatables they possessed were thrust into the hands of our hungry Tommies, and the horses and hats of our men were bedecked with roses and hyacinths. An old lady made a flank attack on a staff officer, giving him a most motherly kiss. It was probably the first time that he had been kissed for a year, but he bore it without the least embarrassment, not even taking the most rudimentary precaution of guarding against a similar attack from the other flank.

The Cure of this village is a mild appearing and venerable man, well past fifty. He solemnly doffed his hat to every man he passed in khaki. As I was watering my horse at a nearby pump he approached, and said: "God bless you all—you are our deliverers!" This was truly embarrassing, but I got away with it by blaming the whole thing on Marshal Foch.

Upon entering the next town shortly after the enemy retirement therefrom I witnessed the amusing spectacle of a vigorous middle-aged Frenchman chopping down the German sign posts and notice boards. His language was never learned in a Kindergarten, but it afforded him no end of relief, and not one of my small party appeared unduly shocked.

Having decided to make this place our headquarters for the night, I had no trouble in securing the most comfortable billet I have ever had in France.

Mere words cannot depict the scenes I have witnessed to-day, for I have seen a people in the very zenith of their joy. I have had the opportunity of seeing a wave of field gray soldiers in retreat before this on a dozen different battle-fields. I have remarked the tell-tale evidence of their defeat. But greater and grander than any of these is the memory of to-day—a memory that crowds out of mind the shouts of our wonderful infantry in attack, and the roar of our field-guns in support—it is the memory of a crowd of pale-faced beings shouting to the skies in the frenzy of exultation that is begot of Freedom.

Lt. Wm. J. O'Brien,
1st Bde., C.F.A.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 13.—Further details were available to-day concerning the arrival of the former Kaiser in Holland. In a dismal drizzle of rain, newspaper men, photographers and officials stood on a fence near the station platform. Some of the photographers climbed on to the top of the station. When the ex-Emperor walked to his automobile a few cheered. He started to salute, but the cheers were drowned out by hisses ,and he failed to complete the salute. Efforts to photograph him were frustrated by a German general who stepped between him and the cameras.

HOW NORWOOD CELEARATED SIGNING OF THE ARMISTICE

The Norwood Brass Band Supplied the Music for the Occasion—Items of Interest From Norwood.

NORWOOD, November 13. — Monday morning before six o'clock, the news that the armistice had been signed was ushered in, and the sleeping citizens were aroused from their peaceful slumbers by the ringing of bells, the blowing of whistles, fireworks, etc., which was kept up almost incessantly all day. In a very short time a large crowd has congregated at the main corner where a big bonfire had been built, and all entered into their several ways of expessing their joy.

The Norwood brass band played several patriotic selections, and the doxology and national anthem were sung. Rev. Mr. McCormack offered up prayer in thanksgiving. Reeve Squire declared the day a civic holiday and at nine o'clock a short meeting was held in the town hall to arrange for the day's demonstration.

In the afternoon a procession consisting of the War Veterans, the High School cadets, Boy Scouts, H. S. students, public school children, Women's Institute, I.O.D.E., village council, township council, the brass band, and many citizens, formed at the town hall and paraded Colborne street, Ridge street, Pine street, Peterborough street, Cedar street, Queen street, and then back to the town hall.

Following this there was a procession of gaily decorated automobiles, headed by a truck adorned with a large Victory Flag ,and conveying the brass band, behind which was an auto with an immense Union Jack, which floated over "what was left of the Kaiser," borne on an old board which trailed along in the mud and dirt.

This procession after parading several streets wended its way to Hastings, and gave the people of that place a little idea of how Norwood celebrates.

One of the features of the day was the raising of the Victory Loan flag to the top mast, showing that Norwood had gone "over the top."

At eight o'clock in the evening all assembled at the town hall where a programme of music, speeches, etc., was given.

The chair was occupied by Dr. S. P. Ford. The Norwood brass band furnished the evening's music and the united choirs of the several churches led in singing, "O, God, our Help in Ages Past," "Onward Christian Soldiers," and "Abide with Me."

Brief addresses were given by the Rev .Mr. Wolland, Rev. Mr. Noble, and Rev. Mr. McCormack.

Mr. Treneer of Peterboro, also favored the audience with a couple of selections.

After tre singing of "God Save the King," all gathered at the four corners to see "Willie" go up in smoke

SAM HUGHES IS GOING TO CLEAN UP THE GOVERNMENT

Has Served Notice On Premier Borden and Premier Lloyd George—Orders-in-Council.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—"I am protesting to Premier Borden of Canada and Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain against the appointment of Lloyd Harris as trade agent across the water," said General Sir Sam Hughes, M.P., formerly Minister of Militia, who is at the King Edward to-day. "There are thousands of men, clean and better business men. It looks to be an attempt to control the trade of the country through well recognized channels. It was bad enough to have him at Washington during the war, but let that pass.

"I am giving notice to rescind all orders-in-Council, restrictions on the liberty of the press and people, and to rescind any order under which persons could be punished for an innocent violation of orders-in-Council. Well-ordered laws are for the guilty, not for the innocent.

"I am moving to amend rules so as to restore liberties and privileges that rightly belong to the peoples' representatives.

"I pointed out long ago that there was danger from the government by order-in-Council of over-throwing autocracy in Prussia and being governed by it in Canada. An autocracy is the same to me as the Kaiser, Labour leader, Church dignitary or minister of the crown. It's the voice of the people that counts.

"I would also rescind the whole registration farce."

As to doings in Germany Sir Sam replied. "German tricks," but added: 'However, things are safe with Foch."

THE GREATEST ROBBER KING.

Frederick the Great, Founder of "Prussianism."

They have taken down the statue of Frederick the Great in Washington. Let us ask ourselves why he was called great. He tried to do many things, and from the position he occupied he was able to essay them under the most favorable auspices. In which of them, then, did he excel to such degree as to earn the title by which he is known?

He tried to write poetry, but even Voltaire's hired praise (which he reversed as soon as his pay was stopped) has not convinced the world that he was great in that department. He tried the flute and the fiddle, but we should inquire in vain for any evidence that he ravished any ear on those instruments. He tried to be a lawgiver, but outside of kicking the shins of his judges when they objected to his interference he acquired no greatness in that attempt. In what, then, was Frederick great? The answer is too plain that he was great only in those qualities of perfidy, cunning, faithlessness, cruelty and rapacity that made him the greatest robber king who ever sat upon a throne. In that greatness he has had few emulators, and in our times, at least, they have been confined to his own family.

Frederick, to do him justice, pretended to be nothing but what he was. When he started out to rob a neighbor he did not go forth canting about his mission. He called things by their right names. When he started out to rob Maria Theresa of Silesia some flatterer about the court inscribed a banner to be borne by the army with the words, "For God and Our Country." Frederick regarded it with disdain. "Strike out 'For God'," he said, "we are going to get a province, not to defend religion." He was under solemn treaty pledge to respect the Queen of Hungary's title to that province and cynically admitted it. But his ambition and his interest, he said, demanded a war of conquest, to which reasons he added one of personal vanity. He wanted, he said, to make people talk about him.

Frederick entered on this war with something of the impishness with which he was accustomed to throw oil on the new velvet suit of a courtier who was taking too much pride in his looks. Thus we have him writing home in a vein of questionable pleasantry. "I have the honor to inform your humanity that we are Christianly preparing to bombard Neisse; and that, if the place will not surrender of goodwill, needs must that it be beaten to powder." It is easy to imagine the present wielder of Frederick's sword rubbing his hands in the same way before Louvain and Rheims. It was to the same correspondent that Frederick wrote in his daredevil and cynical humor, "My dear Monsieur Jordan, my sweet Monsieur Jordan, my quiet Monsieur Jordan, my good, my benign, my pacific, my most humane Monsieur Jordan — I announce to your serenity the conquest of Silesia." It was in such humor that he pursued his greatness.

If treachery to an ally is a title to greatness Frederick was great in that, too. He made an alliance with France and then came to secret terms with Austria by which he was still to pretend to make war against her, but to allow her to withdraw her army from in front of him to surprise his ally in another quarter. The record of his treachery was made in Frederick's own hand. "In exchange (for Silesia) we will go no farther. We will besiege Neisse for form. The commandant shall surrender and depart. We will quietly go into winter quarters; and they (the Austrians) can take their army where they will. All be finished in twelve days."

This is the Frederick who was called great. He was the founder of Prussianism, the full fruits of which the world now sees.

OVER THE TOP —TO VICTORY

THE word has been passed down the line, "Stand ready to go 'over the top.'" But not as our soldiers do,—to face gunfire and bayonet. We, here in Canada, do not have to go over the top with the bayonet or bomb. Our campaign is a compaign of SUPPORT. Money must be forthcoming for the support of our men at the front, for the thousands of needs of the war which is being fought for freedom and for us.

While we await the word to advance, we consider our actual needs, we figure just how much we can spare as a loan to our country, and when WE go over the top it is with our open pocket-books in our hands, to loan on the best security in the world, the money that will help to bring VICTORY, and after VICTORY, PEACE!

Peterborough has been asked for $1,000,000. When that amount has been subscribed we shall have earned our Honor Flag; when twenty-five per cent. more than that has been subscribed, we shall have earned the right to place one Honor Crown on our Flag, and an additional Crown may be added for each twenty-five per cent. subscribed over our quota.

How Many Crowns Shall We Have?

It is up to each one of us individually and to all of us collectively. We have to get that Honor Flag and get it quickly. First let us wear the Victory Loan Button, and have our names on the Honor Roll in our place of business.

The Honor Flag will fly with more than two crowns on it if we all do our part and go

WEDDING BELLS

STEVENS-MULLEN

Yesterday in the Methodist parsonage of St. James' Church the marriage took place of Pearl Mullen, City, to Mr. Oliver, Henry Stevens of Paris, Ontario. They were supported by Mr. Reuben Stevens and Miss Jessie Irene Maconomy. The Rev. B. Greatrix officiated.

BELL—PROPHET.

A quiet wedding took place at the Trinity Methodist parsonage on Tuesday, November 12th, when Mr. Bruce J. Bell was united in marriage with Miss Olive Prophet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Prophet, of Smith township.

The Rev. F. E. Malott performed the ceremony. The young couple will reside on their farm on the Chemong Road.

Food Situation Continues Serious

America Expected to Back Up Any British Sacrifices.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Nov. 13.—John Robert Clynes, British Food Controller, said to-day that the food situation in Europe continues to be serious, necessitating larger shipments until spring. He said that he confidently expected America to back up any British sacrifices which might be necessary in behalf of the needy peoples of Europe recently freed from German domination.

GIRLS! GIRLS! TRY IT! STOP DANDRUFF AND BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR

Hair stops falling out and gets thick, wavy, strong and beautiful

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yet—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it, surely get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter for a few cents.

PTE. SAM LONG IS RECOVERING

Peterboro Soldier Was Wounded in Right Thigh.

Mrs. G. Long, 260 Westcott street, has received the following letter from Kent V. A. D. Hospital, England, saying that her son, Pte. Sam Long, is fast recovering.

Dear Madam,—I beg to inform you that Pte. S. Long, 19th Canadians, who was, as you know, wounded very recently, has arrived safely and is at the Kent V. A. D. Hospital, No. 64 Westgate-on-the Sea, England, where he is receiving every care and attention. Our Red Cross visitor has visited him and tells us that he is wounded in the right thigh. He is getting on well, in bed of course, and says he feels a lot better already. We sincerely hope all will go on well and that he will make a good recovery. It will be some relief to you to know that he is here and that we are interested in him.

Yours truly,
D. Forrester, P.P.

WHAT HUN GENERAL SAYS

By CAPTAIN LORD DUNSANY
(Written for the United Press)

London, Oct 19. (By Mail.)—Gen. Von Hutier has been explaining to other Germans that the British are very bad people and that they drop leaflets over the German lines. These leaflets, in Gen. Von Hutier's opinion, very wicked; and secondly, they are harmless because "German soldiers are neither Negroes nor Hindus nor illiterate French, English and Americans, incapable of seeing through such machinations"; and thirdly, they are valuable, for when they are picked up by the obedient German soldier and given to his commanders "for transmission to the high command," it "may be able to make valuable deductions from them."

Now if they are as valuable as all that it would hardly seem worth while making a fuss about it, and issuing an army order signed Von Hutier, which afterwards gets captured by the Americans. And it seems hardly worth while abusing England so much over it lest they reward his ingratitude by sending him more, and what will the boche high command do then when it wants to make valuable deductions. By handing in these leaflets as he is ordered, Gen. Von Hutier tells the German soldier, "You will thus help the command and you will also help to hasten the hour of victory." Yet he abuses England in such a manner as to endanger the supply of the commodity that is as important as all that.

Can it be possible that, in spite of all he says, there are certain statements that the German soldier, so superior in intellect to Negroes Hindus, French, English and Americans, understood more readily than Gen. Von Hutier wishes? Is it possible that in spite of years of suppression of thought, instinct and action, while the German soldier was being shaped into a callous implement of destruction in order to serve his master's destructive ends, and in spite of the military terrorism that has made him dumb and obedient, and in spite of all the mind of the German soldier inquiring at last, though stiff as his silly knee on those silly paracles, begins to comprehend certain statements very simply put, and which differ greatly from the grandiloquent blasphemies they have given him hitherto? Is he beginning to learn at last some new idea? Does he wonder at last what the purport is of the desert is he made in France and retreated over, and advanced over, and retreated over again, all the while fertilizing it with his comrades' bodies? Does he set the old store by the glib and frequent promise that he shall advance over it again? Does he dare to ask at last what it is all for? Who knows? Von Hutier, like Von Hindenburg, has issued an army order that reveals him ill at ease. The false gods lay their heads together in the twilight and mutter uneasily thus, perceiving before those races of mankind who have for so long been their victims, that their doom is in the future not far off, and will soon stupendously come.

THE KINGS KICK IN.

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
(Written for the United Press).

The kings now plod their weary way
To where the daisies bloom,
For every dog must have his day,
And then his night of doom.

The kings are quite as out-of-date
As Julius Caesar's pants,
Yet, as he quits the stage of state,
Each monarch loudly rants.

The royal boobs have danced all night,
The piper seeks his pay,
Now that the East is growing light
With promise of The Day.

Nick Romanoff has paid his bill
And gently stepped aside;
Franz Josef danced right well until
He very kindly died.

The late lamented Constantine
Held tightly to his crown
Until a kick beneath his spine
The royal house brought down.

The canny, queer, unsaved Chinese
Bow down no more to kings,
And eke the doughty Portuguese
Have cut their leading-strings.

Bye-bye King Karl and Kaiser Bill,
The devil take you off,
And may you never rest until
You join Nick Romanoff!

CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOL OF COOTIE-KILLING OPENS.

(By United Press).

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Come into the cootie class!

The class holds forth in the bureau of entomology in the big building of the Department of Agriculture. There is also a course by mail for scientists unable to get the first-hand information in Washington.

American entomologists all over the country are enrolled in the class. They stand ready to answer any call the war department may issue, whether to fight the cootie overseas or at home.

Already many hitherto undiscovered facts have been discovered about the cootie, and valuable hints which should help the drive against him have been sent to France.

Many entomologists are likely to be called on for service in the army as cootie experts.

Hospital Will Accommodate 3,000

(By United Press,)

PORTSMOUTH, ENGLAND, Oct. 18. (By Mail.)—One of the largest and finest American hospitals in England is located here and will accommodate more than 3,000 American wounded from the western front. At present it has about one-third of this number.

The medical and nursing staff of the hospital is all from Albany, N.Y., towns. The Red Cross staff comes mainly from Hartford, Conn.; Cleveland, O.; and Des Moines, Ia.

"What do these Red Cross men do?" was a question put to one of the American boys at the American base hospital here the other day.

"Why, they do just everything," was the enthusiastic reply, by which he meant no reflection on the military hospital authorities, but merely that the American Red Cross representatives busied themselves in doing anything and everything that would assist in the comfort and recovery of the soldier patients.

Capt. Brooks, who comes from Cleveland, looks after the entertaining and recreation of everybody in the big hospital, officers, nurses, orderlies and patients. Dances are arranged for officers and nurses. Tennis courts croquet lawns and baseball diamonds have been provided on the big lawns in front of the hospital, and equipment for all these games provided. As for baseball, the hospital unit at Portsmouth has been kept too hard at work to get in enough practice to make up a first-class team capable of competing in the "Big League" which has been formed by teams from some of the American camps in this part of England, but a few games with other hospital units have been played, when the Red Cross has "stood" the travelling expenses and given hospitality to the visiting team.

Capt. Winsor P. Day is responsible for Red Cross supplies. Lieut. Carter of Iowa has the task of distributing the many gifts which tell the recipients that the people at home appreciate them and remember them. Every man has an opportunity daily of telling his needs in the way of toilet requisites, cigarets, stationery, reading matter, and so on, and the Red Cross men make it their business to supply these needs.

Capt. Knapp and Lieut. Goodrich, both of whom come from Hartford, Conn., are officers of the most intimately human branch of the American Red Cross—the home communications service. They write letters for the men who cannot write, and they send regular sympathetic reports on all the more serious cases to Washington, whence they are sent on to the anxious people at home.

On 4 evenings a week, the big concert hall of the hospital is transformed from its everyday use as a mess-room into a movie theatre. The machine and operators belong to the hospital, the films are provided by the Red Cross.

BERLIN PLANS BIG PORT.

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Plans for tremendous development of Berlin as a port, that are rapidly nearing completion, show that Germany is not forgetting the problems that are to come later on, even in the stress of the war.

A Swiss trade journal that has reached the department of commerce describes the work that is being done to make a great port of Berlin, which is an inland city.

Two gerat basins, close to the city, already are completed and work is going ahead on a third. Vast docks, grain elevators, cold storage plants, warehouses and all the appurtenances that go with a great port are part of the plan.

When the work is completed, Berlin will be the centre of German river transportation. The annual capacity of the port will be 1,600,000 tons.

A BUILDER OF HEALTH

Nothing can be of greater assistance in building up the system than Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for this food-cure forms new, rich blood, and nourishes and restores the feeble, wasted nerve cells. APPEAL TO FARMERS.

Minister Calls for Support of Victory Loan.

OTTAWA, Nov. 14. — Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Agriculture, has issued an urgent appeal to the agriculturists of Canada to give their full support to the Victory War Loan. The minister points to the immensity of the work yet to be done and the need for money to purchase foodstuffs to save millions of peopel in Europe from starvation.

DON'T SCOLD, MOTHER! THE CROSS CHILD IS BILIOUS, FEVERISH

LOOK AT TONGUE! IF COATED, CLEAN LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if the tongue is quoted; this is a sure sign its little stomach and liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, does not eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs,' and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative,' and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs,' which has directions for babies, children of all ages, and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

Movement on Foot to Bring Ex-Rulers to Trial

Count Hohenzollern is Practically Behind the Bars, Says a Despatch From Amsterdam—Thursday Morning Bulletins.

THURSDAY MORNING BULLETINS.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 14.—A semi-official despatch from Berlin says the Crown Prince is still at the front with his army.

Willie and Karl.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—A movement was started in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday to request the Government to demand the extradition and trial of all former rulers who were responsible for the war.

Ex-Kaiser Well Guarded.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 14.—The former Emperor is practically behind bars and guarded with drawn swords, mounted guards being behind a huge iron gateway. He is literally a prisoner.

Dardanelles Opened.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The Allied Fleet passed through the Dardanelles on Tuesday, and is now anchored off Constantinople. British and Indian troops now occupy the forts.

Peace at Versailles.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—It has not yet been definitely decided where the Peace Conference will be held, but Versailles seems to be the favourite spot. The meeting will not likely take place until about the middle of December, after the British election.

U-Boats in Sweden.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Five German U-boats arrived in Landskrona, Sweden, and requested to be interned.

WEDNESDAY EVENING BULLETINS.

BERNE, Nov. 13. — The Austro-German frontier has been cleared to travellers and traffic of all kinds, a despatch from Vienna states."

Conditions Are Stern.

BASLE, Nov. 13.—The Socialists of Berlin describe the German armistice conditions as "terrible," but adds that the treaties have been signed and must be executed by the new Government.

France Celebrates.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Demonstrations over the signing of the armistice continued throughout France all day today. Schools, factories, post offices and shops were closed, and the streets were crowded with people.

Bill Gives His Parole.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—A despatch from Amsterdam says that among those who accompanied the former Emperor were six generals, one colonel and two majors. After the arrival of the party General Ommen, of the Dutch Army, asked all members to give their parole.

GRAIN MARKET

There is a little better enquiry in the local market for oats and barley. Corn is yet too high, and dealers report very little enquiry for corn in consequence. Wheat is apparently coming out as there is not any demand for it. Millers in some instances reporting that they already have enough wheat on hand for present purposes, the demand for flour being rather quiet. The demand for oats is very good, and 80c. is offered in some places, though the Board of Trade quotes only 78 to 78 on No. 2.

Peas are quoted to-day for the first time at $2.30, according to freights. Barley is quoted 2c. hgher. Rye is a little easier.

Manitoba oats—No. 2 C.W., 82 1-4c. in store, Fort William; No. 3, 79 1-4c.; extra No. 1 feed, 81 1-4c.; No. 2 feed, 78 1-4c.

Manitoba wheat—In store, Fort William (not including 2 1-2c tax), No. 1 northern, $2.24 1-2; No. 2 northern $2.21 1-2; No. 1 northern, $2.17 1-2; No. 4 wheat, $2.11 1-2.

LEMON JUICE WHITENS SKIN

Girls! Make beauty lotion at home for few cents

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best bleaching and skin whitening lotion, and compexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how tan, redness, sallowness, sunburn and windburn disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

Coffee ground fresh every morning goes further.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts (two days), 631 cars, with 10,708 cattle, 423 calves, 8,909 hogs, and 6,458 sheep and lambs.

Unusually heavy runs of common cows and light rough cattle of poor quality has this week produced a badly congested market and prices have become completely demoralized, except for the comparatively small percentage of good quality butchers and feeders among the total receipts. Common cows in particular are off a dollar and a half from last week, and canners are off 75c. to $1.00. The sharp decline on common has a tendency to drag prices all round, and even the best quality butcher steers and heifers are not by any means steady, though some good prices were paid yesterday for one or two small bunches of choice quality. Medium quality are off 25c. to 40c.

Lambs are very weak and down $1.50 to $2.00 this week.

Hogs firm at $18.25, and $18.50 paid for a few lots.

MAKE HUNS PAY INDEMNITY

IT'S COMING TO CANADA.

Col. Denison Says Germany Should Be Made to Pay—Afraid Hun Fleet Has Been Sunk.

TORONTO, Nov. 12.—"We will soon see what the terms of the armistice are," said Col. G. T. Denison yesterday. "Ever since the war started I have felt in the long run we would thrash the enemy in the field, but I have been uneasy as to whether it would not be given away again by some stupid politician or diplomatist.

"I am afraid that the German sailors have taken the German fleet out to sea and sunk it, to keep it from the allies, which would probably be a breach of one of the terms of the armistice; but big fleets will not probably be required for many years to come.

"Above all, Canada should receive an indemnity. Australia, New Zealond and South Africa will all get colonies, but Canada will receive nothing for all the millions she has raised and lives that have been sacrificed. Germany should be made to pay Canada."

November Report on Farm Conditions Throughout Ontario

Fall Weather Has Been Remarkable for its General Mildness.

THE HOG MARKET

The following is a summary of reports made by agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The fall weather has been remarkable for its general mildness. Even late corn, taking the province over, was only lightly injured by frost, and the Essex representative states that many tomato vines, second growth tobacco, and other tender plants in that country had not yet been killed.

Not many finished steers are selling. Frontenac reports that some stockers, canners, and a few butchers' cattle are being marketed. Carleton states that the present decrease in fat cattle is being offset by the stocking up with feeders.

While some report the milk supply as about normal, others especially in Eastern Ontario, report the flow as below the ordinary.

Less hogs are going out. Prices now are from $16.50 to $17.25 per cwt. Little pigs are less in demand on account of the approaching winter, although fetching $14 a pair in some places.

Brant reports poultry as demanding good prices on the market, young cockerels for eating selling as high as $1.50.

Norfolk has been paying special attention to the market end of orcharding. About 75 per cent. of the apple crop has been shipped from that country already. The Norfolk Fruit Growers' Association has sent about seventy mixed cars of apples to the west at prices varying from $4.50 to $6.50 for No. 1's, according to variety. In Huron the evaporators were never more active.

More oats and barley have been marketed than in the previous week.

The open weather of the last week has been in favour of fall plowing, and farmers have been racing against time to turn over a large acreage. In Essex there has been a scarcity of help for husking corn, of which work a good deal yet remains to be done. There has also been a shortage of help for threshing and late silo filling.

DOMINION RAYNSTERS
"Made-in-Canada" Raincoats

Here's The Waterproof Test —MAKE IT—

If you want to be sure that the Dominion Raynster you buy is absolutely waterproof—regardless of the maker's name on guarantee label—make this practical test and satisfy yourself.

Spread the coat over a dry box or barrel and pour two or three quarts of water into the hollow made near the shoulders. If no water passes through the cloth in 24 hours, count the coat waterproof.

Our trademark takes all the doubt and disappointments out of Dominion Raynsters.

When you find it in a raincoat, you can count on getting a real tailor-made coat—as well cut as any Spring and Fall Coat—and just as smart and stylish for every-day wear.

The best stores that carry clothing for men, women and children also carry Dominion Raynsters. Ask to see the new styles, and the guarantee label of the oldest Rubber Company in Canada.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHILPS

Brian Finds Out That Ruth Wears Expensive Clothes

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

The invitation for Mrs. Curtis's dinner came just as Brian was leaving for the office. The note had said the dinner was to be informal, and Mrs. Curtis had added: "Please don't dress."

"Thank goodness for that!" he had said. Brian hated to dress for dinner. He was naturally indolent, and unless the occasion was a particularly formal one, he objected to wearing a dress suit. Ruth was exactly the opposite. She liked to dress, herself, and was very proud of her handsome husband when he was "dolled up," as he called it.

"I wonder who else will be there?" she had said as she stood in the door to bid Brian good bye.

"I thought you said Mollie King was going," he had answered quickly, then looked uncomfortable. "Good bye!" he caldled and hurried away.

"Why did he look so uncomfortable when he himself was the one to mention her?" Ruth said aloud as she closed the door. "He looked sort of guilty. I wonder"—she didn't finish the sentence, but as she dressed for the shop she looked very serious, and once or twice she sighed a little.

Occasionally there came to Ruth a feeling that perhaps she had made a mistake in marrying Brian until he had advanced further in his profession. She had also wondered once or twice if she had made a blunder in taking a position, but, as quickly dismissed the idea. Why should she do things that were disagreeable and so save thirty or forty dollars a month (which a servant cost them), when she could do something she really loved to do and earn forty a week? There was no argument at all that she could see.

No, if Brian were foolish enough to be hurt, why he would have to be, for a while, until he became more reasonable. He would come around after a while, just as he had about the moving. When he had seen that it was feasible, he had been very nice about it. She never dreamed that he had consented simply and solely because of her remark that it would give him a better standing. She had thought it might have some weight of course; but that he would have absolutely refused to move had she not put it upon that score, she had no idea.

The dinner was to be at seven o'clock. Ruth took particular pains with her dressing, and she looked very chic and lovely. She wore a dark blue chiffon with a girdle and trimming of Oriental-looking stuff, with slippers and stockings of the same shade as her dress. She also, at the last minute, slipped her pearls around her neck. She had not intended to wear them, but she would look her very best because pretty Mollie King was to be there. She had wished, while dressing that it had been a formal affair so she could have worn one of her lovely dinner dresses. She had scarcely worn them at all, she thought regretfully. They would be out of style soon.

"My, but you look nice!" Brian had said impulsively when she joined him. "That's a stunning dress."

Ruth was so pleased at the compliment that she forgot all about Mollie King, that she had really dressed to outshine her; but intrigued herself that she had made herself attractive simply for Brian.

"I am so glad you think I look nice. The Curtises are your friends and I should hate to have them call me a frump."

"No one could ever say that about you." Then, a thought striking him for the first time, he asked: "How much did that dress cost?"

"Aunt Louisa paid two hundred dollars for it. Of course that did not include the slippers and stockings."

Open-mouthed, Brian stared at her. In all the months they had been married the cost of her clothes never had been mentioned. He had not the slightest idea of the cost of such clothes as Ruth wore. He had asked the question now only from impulse.

"It's lovely, isn't it?" Ruth went on. "Aunt Louisa bought it at the same shop she has bought her own clothes for years. The one where most of my trousseau dresses were made."

"And did the rest cost as much?"

"Why—yes, most of them. Some more. Why?" Ruth never talked of clothes.

"How in the world are you going to get any more when they wear out? Any more of that kind, I mean."

Ruth laughed heartily at his frightened expression.

"Oh, I guess we'll manage to get them someway."

"Not that kind, Ruth," he said soberly. "I never dreamed women's clothes cost so much." Then, his face lighting, "You must find out where Mollie gets her clothes. She always looks pretty and she has scarcely any money. Will you need any soon?" He happened to think that she had said nothing about new clothes to him, and she hadn't been working long enough to do very much about replenishing her wardrobe.

"No, not very soon," she replied. But all the way to the dinner she was strangely quiet. Brian had known nothing about her clothes, their cost, etc., and she was his wife. How was it he was so well posted about Mollie King's affairs. How did he know that Mollie had scarcely any money. Then her lip curled. The idea that she would wear the cheap sort of things a girl like Mollie King would wear! It was ridiculous.

Sometimes Ruth forgot that she was no longer being supported by her aunt.

To-morrow—Ruth Overhears Brian Tell Mollie King Things Which Annoy Her.

THE FIGHT FOR BAKU

CHANGES IN TRANS-CAUCASIAN DISTRICT ARE NUMEROUS.

British Appeared Upon the Scene When the Turks and the Germans Were Quarrelling Over the Loot After Betraying the Inhabitants—A Little Known Phase of the War.

THE recent evacuation of Baku by the British on account of the unreliability of the Armenian army calls attention to a phase of the war about which very little is known in Canada. We heard little about the proclamation of the Georgian independence in the spring of the present year and the arrival of the British contingent at Baku. The facts are accordingly of interest.

On May 26 of this year Georgia declared herself independent as a consequence of the dissolution of the Trans-Caucasian Republic, from which the Tartars separated themselves, while the southern provinces, including Batum and Kars, were occupied by Turkey.

The influences which led to the dissolution of the Trans-Caucasian Republic had been at work since the beginning of the revolution of March, 1917, when Turkey, through her agents, penetrated into Eastern Trans-Caucasia and the Northern Caucasus, using Mohammedan priests as propagandists. Turkey was afraid that the formation of the Trans-Caucasian Republic, including the Georgians, Tartars and Armenians, would separate from her the Mohammedan Tartars, and close the doors to her penetration into Turkestan, and that in years to come the Trans-Caucasian Republic, with its resources and population, would become a formidable unit, which could not be treated as a subservient vassal.

After capturing the fortresses of Batum and Kars—a task which was not so difficult, as the population of Trans-Caucasia was demoralized by revolutionary propaganda, just as were the inhabitants of other parts of the former Russian Empire, and therefore could not offer substantial resistance, especially as there was no hint of forthcoming help from outside. Turkey occupied the strategic positions of Trans-Caucasia, from which she was able to dictate terms or to proceed to complete her occupation of Trans-Caucasia. At this stage, however, Germany interfered as she also wanted some booty in Trans-Caucasia, principally with an eye to her railway routes to Turkestan and Persia.

Georgia, after having been deprived of her fairest provinces in the south of the Batum district and her chief port of Batum, was recognized by Germany as "independent," the area concerned comprising the provinces of Tiflis, Koutais and Soukhoum. Meanwhile, the Armenians, who have been deprived of all their territory in Turkey, hold a small strip of territory in the province of Erivan as an "independent" republic, while the Tartars have been allotted the provinces of Baku, Alizavetpol and part of the Erivan province, the whole being styled the Aderbejan republic.

These three republics were then invited to go to Constantinople and after two months of blackmailing, threats and requisitions, have been forced to sign a "peace treaty" with Turkey, by which Georgia becomes a German protectorate and the Armenians are placed under Turkish "protection." Prior to the signing of these "peace treaties," however, on June 24, the day on which Dr. von Kuhlmann made his declaration in the Reichstag concerning Georgia, 3,000 German troops were landed at the Georgian port of Poti on the Black Sea, and advanced along the railway to Tiflis, the capital of Georgia. By this means Germany succeeded in obtaining control of Tiflis, which is the centre of railway lines, the chief of which radiate toward Persia and Turkestan.

From that moment competition set in between Germany and Turkey concerning the rearrangement of the territories in Trans-Caucasia. Turkey claimed special protection over the eastern part of Trans-Caucasia, which is populated by Mohammedan Tartars and including the classic oil fields of Baku. This gave rise to great dissension between Turkey and Germany, the more so as the oil wealth of the Caucasus represents several thousand million pounds.

The strategic importance of Baku is enormous, both for the control of the Caspian Sea and for that of the routes leading toward Turkestan, Afghanistan and Northern Persia, and had this action taken place in January last, both the German and the Turkish penetration of the Caucasus would have been either entirely prevented with the help of the Georgians and Armenians, or its dimensions very substantially curtailed.

A message from Constantinople now announces that, as a result of a plebiscite held in the districts of Kars, Batum and Ardahan, a decision was recorded by 85,124 votes out of 87,048 in favor of the union of these three districts with Turkey. What bitter irony it is that Turkey, which cannot call herself a civilized power, is talking about a plebiscite having been carried out after she has conscripted the able-bodied male population of these districts and has obtained the plebiscite under pressure of Turkish bayonets. The vast majority of the inhabitants of these three districts are Georgian Mohammedans, who have always wished for union with their Christian brothers. Every inch of this territory is bound up with the history of the Georgian race, and it is a cruel fate that, on this sacred soil, the young Turks should be organizing an operatic referendum in order to give to their criminal activities an appearance of formal decency.

A Chinese Amazon.

In China's history, there is something to defeat every effort to produce something original. A thousand years ago there was a Chinese girl army commander.

Chin Muh Lan's father, a great general, was too old to lead his armies to quell Turkestan. The fact that he had no son to uphold the family's military reputation embittered him against his daughter. And so, to atone for her femininity, Chin Muh Lan did her bit. She took the family sword and war horse, dressed in man's garb and sallied forth.

Returning victorious, she was summoned before the emperor. Even here her sex remained a secret. After receiving congratulations she went back to her native village, and resumed her household duties.

We find that even our pretty practice of sending letters to unknown soldiers is as old as the hills. In a quaint book of 1824 is a tale taken from the Pitchford Gazette. "The Songs of a Hundred Beautiful Women," which is a parallel to the present day custom.

Kiu-Yuen, an attendant in the palace, was one of those who worked in the harem sewing the regimental clothing to be sent to the frontier troops. Her imagination flew as fast as her needle—and one of the soldiers found in his coat-pocket a romantic poem. The affair was brought to the notice of the emperor, who found out the writer and married her off to the soldier.—World Outlook.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Wishing Well

By EDNA RUTHERFORD

"And John Gilbert?"

"Dead for over eight years."

"And his family?"

"All gone but little Viola. I call her little because I've known her since she was a baby. She's eighteen now, but as pretty, childish and innocent as ever. She's happy, for a regular fairy child is Viola. When she isn't laughing or singing she's dreaming."

The well-dressed, handsome-faced questioner looked grave and disappointed. David Willis stood studying him critically, a queer twinkle in his eye.

"I make you out now," he spoke abruptly.

"What do you mean?" inquired the stranger.

"Why, just this—you are Earl Rivers."

The other started quickly. He flushed a trifle, then he smiled upon his challenger and extended his hand. "I hope you are glad to see me," he said.

"Always that, and many a time since you went away have I thought of you. I don't forget my best friends. You're not the man to be forgotten by a fellow whose life you saved. Remember that stormy night when you found me face down in a water puddle, just about all gone? Well, that was my lesson. I haven't touched a drop since."

"Good for you, Willis!" cried Earl Rivers in a friendly, inspiring way. "I suppose I have changed a good deal in ten years, for you are the only one who has recognized me. By the way, having done so, suppose you keep it to yourself who I am for a little while."

"Surely, if that is your wish," promptly assented Willis.

Nobody in particular in Leesville had paid any especial attention to the stranger who had come quietly into town, registering as Walter Brown at the village hotel.

Willis alone through eyes of keen memory and gratitude had recognized him as one who had left the town nearly a decade previous. He recalled the mere lad who had been brought into the village in a farmer wagon, picked up on the town pike where an automobile had run him down. The motor fiend had driven on heartlessly, abandoning his victim to his fate.

"I have never forgotten the kindness, the care, the interest bestowed by the true souls who nursed me back to health—I, homeless, friendless, penniless, who put me on my feet again, found me work and gave me a heaven of a life for two years," said Earl.

"When I left here I made a solemn vow that if ever I got on in the world, I would return and make my home among these God's people. I'm going to do better than that, Willis. I am going to bestow some signal reward, for I have made a fortune."

There were half a dozen people who had been kind to the orphan stranger in those old days. Of these some had died, others had moved away. Rivers grew more and more sorrowful, as he realized that the generosity he had come back to bestow would reach only an old war veteran in another country and the daughter of John Gilbert.

"You won't recognize Viola, the little child you knew years ago," spoke Willis. "She has had to earn her living working at a farmhouse for over three years, but she is patient, willing and contented. You see, my daughter Nellie is a good deal like her. They don't care for company and excitement. When they have leisure they read poetry, and all that together. This is Friday, isn't it? I say, Mr. Rivers, if you want to see Viola just as she is, come down to my house about dark and I'll show you what she is like. She and Nellie always have Friday evenings to themselves."

It was a lovely night, and with a certain spice of mysteriousness as Rivers appeared at his home, Willis led him through a garden maze and across the lot of an abandoned mansion, gone to wreck and ruin.

"Don't talk," whispered Willis, "we are getting near the Wishing well."

"The Wishing well?" repeated Rivers vaguely.

"Yes, they call it that, the fancy of a lot of sentimental girls and boys. The moon is coming up. Keep well among the foliage. There, that is Viola, the one with her chin leaning on her hand."

Rivers peered towards a dismantled rustic bench near a moss overgrown well top. The face of the maiden designated, thoughtful and lovely, was irradiated by the clear white moonlight. Its rare charm fascinated the gazer.

"We will come here some time, Viola, just at midnight, and call down our dearest wish," Nellie Willis was saying. "Oh! what won't I ask for—a piano, an automobile, a diamond sunburst. And what will you wish for, Viola?"

"Just ordinary peace and happiness," responded the other in a mellow, longing tone, "someone to love and cherish. A good kind husband, and oh, Nellie! how my heart longs for it—a real home!"

It was not till six months later, after he had won and wed this penniless creature, that Earl Rivers told her how he had overheard her wish.

"And, oh! the fairies have more than answered it!" breathed Viola fervently, and nestled her happy face close to his own.

Edith—I'm very fond of Jack, but papa will never hear of my marrying him.

Ethel—No, dear, he never will. Jack has proposed to me.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Make Your Own Shampoo

Recent research on the part of hair specialists reveals the fact that many disagreeable and obstinate scalp diseases are caused and rendered incurable by the indiscriminate use of shampoo preparations.

Chemical analysis proves that most liquid preparations for shampooing contain an excess of alkali (a harmful irritant) which eats its way into the pores of the scalp, rots the roots of the hair, thus causing it to fall out.

The surest, safest and easiest way is to make your own liquid. Buy a carton of Velnor at any drug store. Dissolve one of the small packets into half glass of fresh water and you will have an abundance of pure non-injurious liquid that will relieve itching of the scalp, falling hair and dandruff, also improve the natural color of the hair. Velnor being in concentrated form never spoils and will keep forever.

"Oh! This Shopping"

"I certainly gets on my nerves. I come home all fagged out, and nearly always have a splitting headache.

"Yes, they say we women always like shopping. But if everybody feels as tired out afterwards as I do, it is no joke.

"I wonder if it is my nerves. I never could stand much sightseeing, anyway. The strain on the eyes seems to exhaust the whole system.

"I suppose I shall not be able to sleep to-night, and that will put me in fine condition for to-morrow.

"Why don't somebody invent a good medicine for the nerves?

"But what was that Mrs. Crary was telling me about? I believe it was Nerve Food—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I have heard so many talking about the way this Nerve Food helped them that I must give it a trial."

And this is what Mrs. Crary of 515 Cedar street, Peterboro', Ont., writes about her experience with this well-known food cure:

"I was suffering from a rundown condition of the system, nervous debility and sleeplessness. I lost a good many nights' sleep, and sometimes after going to sleep would wake up with a start, and then lie awake for hours. I also had frequent headaches and pains through my back. I got so that I could hardly do any work. I had taken doctor's medicine, but it did not seem to help me. Through reading in the newspapers of the help others had derived from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I started taking this medicine. The first box helped me, so I continued, taking about five or six boxes. I found that I was a great deal better, able to sleep well and do my work without any trouble. My headaches and nervousness are gone. My mother lives with me, and she has also found great benefit from the use of the Nerve Food. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for nervous trouble of any kind."

If you could only read the letters which come to this office from day to day telling of what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is doing for women, and men, too, in all parts of Canada, you would not be long in doubt as to the most satisfactory treatment for tired bodies and exhausted nerves.

All we can do is to pass along the good words by publishing an occasional letter. It remains for you to benefit by using this blood and nerve builder to restore energy and vitality to your exhausted system.

You can obtain Dr. Chase's Nerve Food from all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto, 6 boxes for $2.75. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

What It Is and How It Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve Force in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances

SHOULD BE PRESCRIBED BY EVERY DOCTOR AND USED IN EVERY HOSPITAL

Says Editor of "Physicians' Who's Who."

Take plain bitro-phosphate is the advice of physicians to thin, delicate nervous people who lack vim, energy and nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, if we judge from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Clinical tests made in St. Catherine's Hospital, N. Y. C., showed that two patients gained in weight 23 and 27 pounds, respectively, through the administration of this organic phosphate; both patients claim they have not felt as strong and well for the past twelve years.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

Physicians and hospitals everywhere are now recognizing its merits by its use in ever increasing quantities. Frederick Kolle, M. D. editor of New York Physician's "Who's Who," says: "Bitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital to increase strength and nerve force and to enrich the blood."

Jos. D. Harrigan, Former Visiting Specialist to North Eastern Dispensatory, says: "Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anaemic, or run-down, take a natural, unadulterated substance such as bitro-phosphate and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy, strength of body and mind and power of endurance."

Bitro-Phosphate is made entirely of the organic phosphate compound referred to in the National Standard Dispensatory as being an excellent tonic and nervine, and a preparation which has recently acquired considerable reputation in the treatment of neurasthenia. The standard of excellence, srength and purity of its substance is beyond question, for every Bitro-Phosphate tablet is manufactured in strict accordance with the U. S. Pharmacopoeia test requirements. "Bitro-Phosphate" is therefore not a patent medicine and should not be confused with any of the secret nostrums, so-called tonics, or widely advertised "cure-alls."

Caution: — Although Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its remarkable flesh growing properties it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

SEAMEN'S SONGS.

Old Time "Chantry" Is Becoming Extinct.

The introduction of steam and electricity has affected the literature of everyday life in many ways, but perhaps most noticeably in the passing of the songs of the sailors. The sea Chantry—which, by the way, the sailormen spell and pronounce Shanty—was intended to encourage the men as they pulled and hauled or hoisted the loads aboard ship. With the substitution of steam and electricity, the song of the seamen has been replaced by the less musical and far more uninteresting scream of the mechanical agency. Sometimes as one goes along the water front, that most attractive of places, one hears the "Heave Ho, Heave" from men who all their lives have worked with their hands and have lightened their labors with a song. Sometimes, too, from ships whose crews are foreigners one hears a song and chorus, but the new generation know not the many songs of their ancestors of the sea. This makes doubly interesting a little collection of songs—Sea Chantries—that have been collected and published lest these interesting relics of a by-gone day vanish forever. The word Shanty is in all probability derived from the verb Chanter and tells its own story. In the days of sails Shantyman was a recognized factor and was worth his wages, as he could, through the magic of his music, subdue the worst growler and lessen the burden of the most heart-breaking load. According to Mr. King, of St. John, N.B., who has collected the Chantries, the songs were not used indiscriminately, but each kind of work aboard ship had its own song. There are many persons in St. John who can recall the swing of the song, "Haul the Bowline, Kitty Is My Darling," as the sails of the ships were tightened or some such bit of work was done; and again and again some thirty years ago was the song found in the collection:

I wish I was in Mobile Bay,
Way-hay blow a man down,
Ahauling cotton night and day,
This is the way to blow a man down.

heard as the men worked away along the waterfront. Another equally familiar song was

Poor old man, your horse will die,
And we may so, and we hope so,
Poor old man, your horse will die,
Po-o-o-or o-o-old, ma-a-a-n.

but this was sung not to lighten the work, but to remind the captain that wages due were still unpaid, and the doleful refrain was repeated until the men were satisfied and all accounts squared. Then, too, there was the song that has often been heard while the men worked away at the pumps. This song has become familiar and has been heard on college campuses and about the camp fire, its melody being its great attraction. It is an old Chantry and will not be as readily forgotten as many others:

Oh, the times are hard and the wages low,
Leave her, Johnnie, leave her.
And there's ten feet of water in the hold below,
And it's time for us to leave her.
Oh, the beef's all black and the pork's turned green,
Leave her, Johnnie, leave her.
And the fresh grub for Sunday has never yet been seen,
And it's time for us to leave her.
Or, we've been pumping for a very long while,
Leave her, Johnnie, leave her.
And there's no drink left but Castor Ile,
And it's time for us to leave her.

The Chantry has been claimed to be almost entirely of American origin. This is true of these quoted, but the Chantry is universal, and is heard on the Seven Seas. Those sung by the French and the Italian sailors and by the Portuguese are remnants of set ballads, and are wonderfully attractive. One has but to frequent the wharves and sooner or later a burst of song will show that the Chantry is not yet passed into oblivion and that the sailor man is keeping alive the traditions of the sea-lore, although he may not realize the importance of the song he sings as a contribution to the literature of his day and generation.

The Kaiser's Change.

"The Kaiser's whining speech on the fourth anniversary of the war," said a leading public man, "declares that Germany's sole aim is to live at peace with peaceful neighbors. The Kaised started the world war in a different spirit. Four years ago the Kaiser thought himself a very bold, bad man—a world destroyer. Yes, the Kaiser thought he was a second Redface Leary. A preacher interrupted an altercation that Redface was conducting one afternoon in front of the Tin Can saloon. 'My dear Redface,' said the preacher, 'don't you know that you should love your enemies?' Redface, twirling his six-shooter round his thumb carelessly, replied: 'That's a thing I can't do, parson.' 'Why not, my dear Redface; why not?' said the parson, warmly. 'I ain't got no enemies to love,' said Redface. 'I shot the last one before dinner.'"

The Banks will advance you money to buy Victory Bonds on a Twelve Monthly-Payment Plan

How much money did you save last year—$100, $500, perhaps $1,000—and you have it in a savings account all ready, like a prudent patriot—to put into Victory Bonds.

But—just a moment:

If you saved $100 or $500 or $1,000 last year, how much do you expect to save during the coming twelve months?

You can now capitalize your ability to save and help your country at the same time.

In this way: Any Chartered Bank will give you credit for ninety per cent. of the amount you can save to put into Victory Bonds and the Bank will carry you for a year, charging just the same rate of interest as you get on your bonds—so the interest costs you nothing.

You can pay off your bonds to the bank in monthly instalments and each instalment begins to earn 5½ per cent. for you the moment it is paid.

Step in and see a Banker about it today—it costs nothing to investigate and you take no risk in any event.

The Rhine and Germany

ALTHOUGH there appears to be a general if vague belief that the Rhine river is the western boundary of Germany, a moment's reflection would suggest that if this were so the Rhine would be also the eastern boundary of other countries and that they would have as good right as Germany to sing its praises, just as Canadians and Americans take equal pride in the Great Lakes. So it is an error to speak of reaching the Rhine as though we should then for the first time look over German territory. If it is necessary for the Allies to advance as far as the Rhine before they have put out of action the German armies in the field, they will have passed over much German ground in their progress. A considerable part of Germany will be already in their grip. It is by no means necessary to cross the Rhine in order to inflict upon Germany some of the suffering she has inflicted upon France and Belgium and Serbia.

Not only is the Rhine not the boundary river of Germany, but neither its mouth nor its source is in German territory, as Chas. E. Pepper points out in the Washington Star in the course of a discussion of the Rhine as a factor in peace negotiations. This has long been a cause of mortification to Germany, and to it is partly due the rise of the pan-German movement and the dream of a Mitteleuropa. The Rhine flows into the North Sea at Rotterdam in Holland, just as the other great German river, the Scheldt, flows into the North Sea through Belgium. Even the Danube pours into the Black Sea, but this fact was not felt as a humiliation by the Pan-Germans because of the subservient relation of Austria to Germany. But for a long time it has been their custom to assert, sometimes in the most offensive language, that Germany must control the Rhine and the Scheldt to their mouths.

It is true that various treaties guaranteed Germany the use of the Rhine to its outlet, but it also guaranteed a similar use to all other nations, the river being in fact free, as established by the Treaty of Paris in 1814. In subsequent treaties this principle was upheld, but Germany, naturally, does not put much faith in treaties, and has long desired to be the sole owner of the Rhine. Almost of equal importance in her view is the control of the mouth of the Scheldt, and on this account it will be a bitter blow to her when she is obliged to move out of Belgium and surrender her grip on Antwerp. Belgium could inflict a severe blow upon Germany if she held that the German violation of her territory was sufficient reason for her withdrawing from the treaty that has practically internationalized the Scheldt, and that in the future German vessels could not use the mouth of this river. If in this decision she had the support of the Allies she could inflict tremendous economic losses upon Germany.

But should the Allies insist that the Rhine is no longer to be free to German commerce to its mouth at Rotterdam, this would be almost a deathblow to Germany. It would wipe out many of her industries and remove her, perhaps for all time to come, as an economic competitor with the rest of the world. We may be sure that in all transactions between Germany and Holland there is in the minds of the representatives of both countries possibilities concerning the mouth of the Rhine. Germany must fear that if she forced Holland into the war, the treaty of peace would rob her of the rights she has enjoyed up to now in Rotterdam. On the other hand, there is the lure of becoming master of Rotterdam, and thus securing in her own right the ownership of the mouth of her greatest river. The wonder is that earlier in the war, when the German armies were enjoying their triumphs, the Kaiser did not force Holland into the war, either as an enemy or as an ally, in order that he might become master of the mouth of the Rhine.

The Rhine is important to Germany because it is the main artery of her industrial life. The vast Westphalian coal fields are tributary to it. The iron ore which is imported from Sweden and other countries floats down it to the blast furnaces. Cologne, Mannheim and Frankfort are dependent on the Rhine. Vital as the Rhine has been in the upbuilding of the German empire in the past, it is planned to make it more so in the period of reconstruction that will follow the war. The intention is to make use of the Rhine as the source of electrical energy that will operate many of the great manufacturing plants within the empire. This will mean that the Rhine is to become a canal instead of a river, and oddly enough it is Switzerland that files a mild protest to the scheme. Switzerland has ambitions to secure free access to the North Sea, and since the Rhine is by treaty free for purposes of navigation to all the nations of the world there is nothing extraordinary in Switzerland's ambition. But since Switzerland would be sending along the Rhine manufactured goods in competition with those which Germany plans to ship to the four corners of the earth, she is not likely to get much consideration if Germany is left to decide whether the Rhine shall be canalized or not. On this account, it seems likely that the Rhine, its mouth and the use that is to be made of it, are matters that will come up for discussion when the details of peace are being arranged.

There are said to be seventy languages or dialects spoken in the ancient city of Trifis, Asiatic Russia.

Tin Plate in Rolls.

Tin plate in the shape of continuous rolls, like tar paper, instead of in the shape of flat sheets as at present, is now possible. A power-driven soldering press has recently been designed for joining and soldering the sheets into a continuous strip for roofing purposes. One man can operate the machine, hooking the sections of tin plate together and operating the solder and flux on the seam. The capacity is four seams a minute or twenty boxes of tin plate a day. It is claimed that by use of this machine a better and more durable seam can be made than by hand, and one that will be solid and uniform on both sides, the solder penetrating and welding all parts of the seam. The economy and convenience to the roofer from the tin plate roll thus produced need not be pointed out. The process of roofing with it becomes identical with that of roofing with tar paper rolls.

An Airman Never a Sailor.

A physician who makes a close study of flying men says that a pilot who has become inured to flying at high altitudes may be capable of holding his breath for fifty or sixty seconds. Another developed sense is that of being able to see considerable distances at night. Of course, only men with perfect vision are suitable for night flying, but even they could not at first see nearly so far in the pale moonlight as they can now. It is definitely accepted by American, as well as British doctors who have had charge of flying men, that the better a man becomes as an air pilot the worse he becomes as a sailor! He cannot stand the roll of the sea.

Dandruffy Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

THE EXAMINER PATTERN SERVICE

GIRL'S SET.

"Undies" for little tots are very expensive in the shops, but any mother who can sew can very easily make the necessary garments and have them as dainty as possible. An ideal set of undergarments is illustrated in No. 8905. The set consists of a simple little gertrude petticoat and a pair of closed drawers. The weight of the petticoat hangs from the shoulders, where it has tabs which button at each side of the square neck. The lower edge may be finished with a plain hem or with a gathered ruffle of embroidery. The drawers are gathered to straight bands.

The girl's set No. 8905 is cut in eight sizes, ½, 1, 2, 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. The 4 year size requires 1½ yards 36 inch material, with 1½ yards insertion, 2¾ yards edging and 2 yards 4 inch flouncing for petticoat; the drawers require ¾ yard 36 inch material.

The Patterns Are Guaranteed to Give Excellent Satisfaction This Pattern Can Be Obtained From the Examiner Office on Payment of 15 Cents.

Manners.

A young woman, her arms filled with packages, slowly entered an elevated car, followed closely by a gruff looking man, who in his rush to get the only vacant seat trod on the young woman's dress and nearly toppled her over. He received a cold stare, but it brought forth only a grunt. Flopping into the seat and leaving the heavily burdened woman standing, the man growled:

"Why don't you hold up your skirts?"

Half a Billion Will Finish The Job "Over There"

PUT A FOCH FINISH ON THE VICTORY LOAN CAMPAIGN

AMENDMENT TO ARMISTICE

Interpretation is a Little Doubtful —Hun Murderers May Go Unpunished.

INDIGNATION AROUSED

Special to the Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. — The Germans responsible for the unspeakable atrocities in Belgium and elsewhere may go scot free, under Amended Article Six of the armistice. Without having definite information of the purpose of this article, some State Department authorities so interpreted the sentence therein, reading:

"No person shall be prosecuted for offences of participation in war measures prior to the signing of the armistice."

This was thought by some to mean that if any Germans were left behind in France or Belgium, the governments or people could not take retribution upon them for crimes they committed beyond the pale of war laws. On the other hand, some interpreted the clause to mean that the peoples of the evacuated territories should not be punished in any way for participation in the war, either actively or in sympathy with either side. The clause has aroused indignation in some quarters on the theory that it means those who ravished Belgium will escape any punishment. The clause was the result of American-Allied deliberation evidently, and if the interpretation given here is correct, it means that the Versailles Conference has struck a new note in its idea of a stern, just peace.

AUSTRALIA CELEBRATED GOOD NEWS

Special to the Examiner:

MELBOURNE, Nov. 14.—Australia celebrate dthe news of victory with deep fever.

A public holiday was proclaimed in the Commonwealth on the receipt of the good news. Press despatches assert that the first Australian troops that will be sent home will be the infantry and artillery by divisions. The engineers will probably be the last. The Federal Cabinet has taken under consideration many of the post war problems, including trade between the Commonwealth and America. Recruiting has been stopped, and no more troops will be sent to France.

SPECIAL SERVICES IN MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

The Murray street Baptist church is falling in line with the proclamation from Ottawa and will make Sunday a day of special service in view of the advent of Peace. The deacons have arranged for an extra communion dispensation which will take place at the close of the morning service. Every home in connection with both church and congregation is urged to endeavour to have every member of the family present in the morning. The music will be in the hands of the choir leader, Mr. Asa Hayeke and will be of an appropriate character. All who are willing to assist in bringing others to the morning service by the use of their auto cars are requested to telephone the pastor or not later than Saturday.

The Ladies' Aid Society have undertaken the decoration of the auditorium for this day of patriotic rejoicing and thanksgiving to God.

Mr. Webb will preach both morning and evening.

HAS VOLUNTEERED TO FINISH WORK.

Photographic Work left by the Late Mr. Haynes will be Completed in the Interests of the Widow.

Mr. F. D. Lee, 374 1-2 George street, has volunteered to finish the photographic work left by the late T. E. Haynes. This work will be done free of charge by Mr. Lee in the interests of Mrs. Haynes. Will all people who have unfinished work at the Haynes Studio consult Mr. Lee and arrange for the completion of their work. The finished pictures left at the Haynes Studio can also be had at the Lee Studio.

Allied Armies Commenced March Into Germany Early This Morning

A Large Part of the Great Briery Iron District Has Been Evacuated —Cities to be Occupied by Sunday.

INHABITANTS HOSTILE

(By John Degandt—United Press).

PARIS, Nov. 14. — The Allied armies on the Western front, following the evacuation, are reported to have started forward this morning. Strassburg, Metz, Colmar and various towns in Alsace-Lorraine are expected to be occupied by Sunday. The Americans are said to be marching toward Metz and Strassburg. Marshal Foch, in behalf of the Allies, will take possession of those two cities in the presence of President Poincare, Premier Clemenceau and other French Ministers. A large part of the great Briery iron district already has been evacuated. As evacuated towns and villages in Alsace-Lorraine are taken over, the German civil administrations are replaced by French officials. The occupation of the restored provinces will be carried out precisely the same as that of Northern France, as it is considered that Alsace-Lorraine has been occupied by the enemy for forty-eight years, instead of four years. American troops are co-operating with the French in the work of repatriation. The Germans have officially complained of the hostile attitude of inhabitants of Alsace-Lorraine as they withdraw.

Colmar is only ten miles from the Allied lines, as they were at the close of hostilities. Metz is twelve miles, and Strassburg thirty miles from the lines.

On the March Into Germany.

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 14. — The Americans have begun their march to Metz and Strassburg, according to advices received here to-day. President Poincare, Premier Clemenceau and Marshal Foch will personally accompany the Americans in their re-occupation of Alsace-Lorraine, it is stated.

Would Punish the War Lords

Majority of Masse Rebel at the Prospects of Hun Murderers Majority of Masses Rebel at

(United Press.)

(By William Philip Simms.)

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Will Wilhelm lose his head, be banished or be allowed to disappear? Public opinion here is divided. High circles apparently are almost unanimously Wilsonian in attitude. The majority of the masses seemingly rebel at the escape of the former Kaiser, who is regarded as the principle artisan of the war and murdered of 20,000,000 men. These are in favour of an International High Court to pass judgment on his case. They oppose banishment as tending to Napoleonize him into a hero, of which he is not worthy. Others declare the former Kaiser and Crown Prince were marionettes in the hands of the militarists and kings of commerce, who are the ones really responsible for the war. They contend that, if possible, these ring leaders also should be haled before an International Court, so that something like justice might be achieved. Otherwise, they say, merely the surface will be scratched.

AN ERROR OF INTERPRETATION

(Special to Examiner.)

PARIS, November 13. — The newspaper Le Matin, describing the arrival of the German plenipotentiaries, explains that the night they were presented to the French lines (on Thursday) Major Bourbonbusset said to General Winterfield, on behalf of General Debeney:

"The misunderstanding must be immediately cleared up. The army received this afternoon (Thursday) three German parliamentary officers, who assured us that the armistice was signed. Now, operations are continuing."

General Winterfield replied: "Undoubtedly; but I see in that only an error of interpretation."

PRIVATE JOHN A. STOREY.

Private Storey made the supreme sacrifice for his King and Country on October 11th, when he was killed in action in France. His parents live at Hawkestone, near Orillia, but he had worked in Peterboro for four years before going overseas, having been a shell inspector at the Henry Hope factory, and a conductor on the street railway. His kind and gentle disposition won him many friends, who extend their sympathy to his parents, three brothers and two sisters.

Austria Wants Her Prisoners to Remain in Turkey for the Present.

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14:— Austria has asked President Wilson to use his good offices with the Allies to secure the carrying out of the Turkish armistice terms so as to permit several thousand former Austro-Hungarian subjects now in Ottoman territory to remain there instead of returning home to add to the already serious food problems.

Toronto Jobbing House Before-the-War Prices

Wage-earners, especially, are directed to the advertisement of the New Toronto Jobbing House, 301 George street, announcing a mark down of prices closer than ever of all goods in the store. People with "Pay days" will help home expense accounts by taking advantage of these lower prices while they last.

Canadian Railways Plan Expansion

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—The Canadian Northern board of directors meet tomorrow at Toronto to consider further plans of construction, maintenance, replacement and extension of lines. From present indications a very considerable programme of after-the-war construction, is in contemplation. It is stated that a large number of branch lines are planned for western Canada, and that the employment of much additional labour will be involved.

The Peterborough Branch, G.W.V.A. will meet Monday night, Nov. 18th, in the club rooms, George Street, for the nomination and election of officers. Every member is requested to attend.

The G.W.V.A. will attend the National Thanksgiving Service in St. John's Church on Sunday evening next in a body, headed by the G.W.V.A. Band. All members are asked to be on hand at the Armouries at 6:30 o'clock on Sunday evening in uniform if possible.

GOVERNMENT ORGANIZED

The New German Cabinet is Composed Entirely of Socialists.

NAMES OF MEMBERS

(Special to The Examiner.)

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 14. — The new government has been organized with the following cabinet members: Premier and Interior and Military Affairs, Friedrich Ebert; Foreign Affairs, Hugo Haase; Finance and Colonies, Philip H. Scheidemann; Demobilization, Transport, Justice and Health, Wilhelm Dittmann; Publicity, Art and Literature, Herr Landsberg; Social Policy, Richard Barth.

Announcement of members of new German government confirms previous reports that the cabinet would be composed entirely of Socialists. The Majority Socialists who supported the Imperial Government during the war are represented by Ebert, Scheidemann and Lanndsberg, while Independent Socialists are Haase, Dittmann and Barth. Herr Dittmann, who hits in the Reichstag as Deputy from Hamburg, was sentenced to imprisonment last Friday in connection with labour trouble in Berlin. He was released by the Imperial government a few days before its downfall.

Richard Barth formerly was editor of the Socialist "Vorwaerts" and is a member of the Spartacus or Bolshevik element of the Independent Socialists. It was reported through Copenhagen under date of Monday that he had resigned from the government after a stormy meeting of the cabinet.

This Many Men Can Be Spared From the Navy.

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The Navy Department estimated to-day that 50,000 men could be spared from the navy within the next month as one means of releasing men. Students of schools and colleges can apply for release to their commanding officers and the department policy will be to grant it.

DEMAND EXTRADITION OF WILHELM

(Special to Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. — German factions may demand the extradition of the former Kaiser and his trial before a Socialist court, at Berlin, diplomatic cables received here to-day suggested.

The feeling against Wilhelm is declared to be increasing in Berlin and throughout Prussia. Strong Bavarian factions are demanding punishment.

Canada Must Face Need for Supplies

INCREASED PRODUCTION STILL NECESSARY; EUROPE MUST BE HELPED.

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—Mr. H. B. Thomson, Chairman of the Canada Food Board, is in communication with the allied food council as to the needs of Europe and what Canada will be expected to supply. With this council having undertaken to feed the conquered countries and with some of the neutral nations on dangerously short rations, the Food Board expects the need for supplies from Canada this winter and the urgency of production next year will be as great as ever. In the meantime the food regulations in Canada are still in effect, although, there will be a revision shortly.

It is the present intention to retain the Canada Food Board at least over the reconstruction period and until the world food situation improves. However, the Board will be reorganized at the coming session of Parliament as the Board was formed under the War Measures Act and its powers cease automaticallp when the authority of this act ceases.

Deutschland Responsible for Loss of United States Cruiser American Officials Believe

The Deutschland Was Originally a Cargo Submarine Cruiser But Was Converted Into War Vessel.

PROOF NOT POSITIVE

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. — The German submarine "Deutschland" is charged with the responsibility for the sinking of the United States cruiser San Diego a short distance out of New York a few months ago. The information is the best available that the Navy Department has as to the cause, it was stated by an official to-day. The "Deutschland, originally a cargo submarine cruiser, was converted to lay mines and was also fitted with torpedo tubes. She was known to have operated for a while off the Azores, it was stated. As far as the navy has been able to ascertain, she was the vessel that crept into American waters and discharged the torpedo which wrecked the old cruiser San Diego. It was indicated that the navy's proof so far is not positive, but its evidence is regarded as rather conclusive.

Initial Trips.

The "Deutschland," under Captain Koenig, first came to Baltimore Harbour with a cargo of dyes, after about four weeks she went out with a cargo of nickel, and when she made her second trip, she docked at New London, Conn. In her outward voyage there was a collision in which a tug was sunk. What happened to her sister ship, the Breman, is still a mystery as far as the world is concerned. The British Admiralty probably knows, and there may be some American naval officials in on the secret. Stories current in naval quarters are that she was captured and interned by the British. Germany is understood to have built seven or eight vessels of the Deutschland type, which she later converted into submarine cruisers.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, NOV. 14TH, 1918

UP TO THE CITY.

It is apparently up to the City of Peterborough to see that the objective for the country in the Victory Loan campaign is reached. The city up to Tuesday night had secured 80 per cent. of its total—that is, the canvassing committees had succeeded in making this fine showing, while as the specials were all obtained in Peterborough as well, the city had subscribed no less than $1,064,200, the rest of the county taking only $439,800 of the loan, or just a little more than half of the amount the townships were expected to raise. With $300,000 announced yesterday as the amount needed to put Peterborough county over the top, it looks as if the people of the city will have to contribute the greater part of the balance required.

Peterborough is prepared to accept the task. The city has never failed to make good in any patriotic campaign undertaken, and with everybody working for the Loan for the rest of the week, the end of the campaign will find that Peterborough has not only won her own honour flag, but has pulled the county offering over the top as well. Peterborough intends to finish as Foch did, and although the lack of response in some parts of the county is disheartening, with the townships of Burleigh and Anstruther and of Ennismore with only one subscriber each, and with North Monaghan only subscribing about one-fourth of her objective, yet the city organization is full of fight and enthusiasm, and with the help of the citizens who have never failed to back up the boys at the front, and are not going to do so now in the moment of victory, old Peterborough is going to triumphantly complete her share of the Victory Loan, upon the fate of which the prosperity of Canada depends.

DON'T WAIT—INVEST.

If you have never been visited by a canvasser for the Victory Loan, don't wait any longer.

The time is short.

The campaign ends on Saturday.

If you are in a position to invest or to arrange your affairs so you can buy a Victory Bond by paying for it in instalments, don't hesitate.

Victory Loan headquarters are at 174 Hunter street. Your application there will be quickly attended to.

You might not have been able to fight. There is no medical examination for the Victory Loan. It opens the door of service to many who were barred from participation in the war.

By buying Bonds you not only secure a safe, profitable investment for yourself, but you also help to bring the boys home.

You help to look after them when they get back.

You help to provide the finances that are needed to keep the factories running.

You help Canada to get a share of the business in connection with the rebuilding of devastated Europe.

Great quantities of material will be needed by France and Belgium when reconstruction begins.

Canada can supply much of this material, and Mr. Lloyd Harris is already on his way overseas to secure as many contracts as possible for the Dominion.

Here is where the Victory Loan comes in.

France and Belgium will not be able to pay cash for the material she secures in Canada.

It will be necessary for Canada to loan her the money, as she has financed Great Britain's purchases in this country.

The Victory Loan will make it possible to extend these credits.

Without it there would be little chance of Canada getting these all important contracts.

And if Canada fails to secure this business there will be a period of industrial depression in the Dominion.

Investment in the Victory Loan is a paramount duty under these conditions.

It is insurance against hard times.

Peterborough showed that her heart was right on Monday.

Cheers are cheap, however.

What is needed to show a real spirit of Thanksgiving is a more liberal response to the Victory Appeal.

Remember there is no time to be lost.

After Saturday you will probably never have another chance to invest in Canadian government bonds at such a high rate of interest as 5 1-2 per cent.

We must put the loan far over the top.

Once again, don't wait any longer to be canvassed.

Get in touch with headquarters, 174 Hunter street.

The money is needed as never before.

Every subscriber counts.

Lend all you can spare—it is the chance of a life time.

RECONSTRUCTION SUGGESTIONS

The suggestions made in the important memorandum presented by the Labour Committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, to the Labour Sub-Committee of the Reconstruction and Development Committee of the Dominion Government last month, are of most vital interest at the present time. The manufacturers have realized that the most pressing problem at the close of the war for Canada will be to find employment for all available labour. The closing of munition plants, some of which will shut down almost at once, will throw out of employment a large number of munition maners, some of which of course will be absorbed by industries who have been unable hitherto to secure full staffs. Then the demobilization of Canada's army will release several hundred thousand men from military service, for which positions will have to be found.

The manufacturers consider it the duty of the government to take immediate steps to increase the demand for manufactured products, in order that the situation may be met.

Here are the twelve suggestions submitted to the Government, as set forth in Industrial Canada:

1. That the plan for building up an export trade, to be submitted to the Reconstruction and Development Committee of the Cabinet by the Export Committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, be adopted.

2. That a commission be appointed to take a survey of imports with a view to ascertaining what part of such imports could be made to better advantage in Canada.

3. The Government's Publicity Department should be instructed to start immediately a nation-wide campaign to educate the people on the importance of buying Canadian products, and we respectfully suggest that the policy herein advocated be adopted by the government as a fixed and permanent practice for the conduct of Government departments.

4. The Dominion Government, the Provicial Governments and municipalities be prepared to start immediately after the close of the war, all necessary construction work.

5. That immediate steps be taken to ascertain what use can be made after the war, of plants employed during the war for the production of munitions and war supplies.

6. That it would be in the national interests if, as far as practicable, our soldiers were returned to the provinces from which they came, and that in determining the order in which soldiers will be returned, the military authorities be requested to govern themselves in conformity with information to be periodically supplied them by the Government Employment Bureaus as hereinafter described.

7. That Government Employment Bureaus be started immediately, and that one of the principal duties to be assigned them be that of surveying the labor market with a view to furnishing the military authorities with monthly reports, showing both by location and occupations the number of men for whom immediate employment can be found.

8. That a practical land settlement plan be worked out at once, and in connection with the same, the Publicity Department should start a campaign to educate our soldiers in the advantages of farming.

An interesting series of booklets should be supplied to our soldiers particularly designed to show that community farm life can be made not only profitable, but socially attractive in the older as well as in the newer provinces.

9. The Publicity Department of the Government should start at once an "Optimism after the war" campaign, and in this way they should ask the press of the country to co-operate.

The country is drifting into a pessimistic frame of mind as regards "After the war" conditions; this might easily bring about far-reaching depression unless it is quickly checked.

10. When the time comes for demobilization, the Militia Departments and the Government Employment Bureaus should co-operate in order that the lapse of time between discharge and employment be as short as possible. Congenial work is not only an antidote for discontent, but it will be a pleasant relief for the soldier after the ordeals of war.

11. Having regard to the important part which research must necessarily play in Canada's industrial reconstruction, the appropriation for that purpose should be increased to not less than one million dollars annually, and that the administration should be entrusted to a Board of business men.

12. That the Government, in shaping its policy with regard to the problems of standardization and the cost of living, should follow the practice that has grown up at Washington of calling the manufacturers and the representatives of their employees into consultation; that price agreements rather than governmental fixed prices be the governing principle so long as such agreements can be arrived at that will accord with the Government's own sense of what is right and fair.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Buy Victory Bonds — this week is your last chance.

Let us make it a whirlwind finish.

Peterborough must earn its honour flag. We could not hold up our heads if the city failed to make good.

Don't quit because the Germans did. Buy Victory Bonds to the limit.

The township have still a chance to redeem themselves. All together for a Foch-like finish.

The ex-Kaiser is in Dutch amongst the Dutch.

Victory Bonds will bring the boys back and keep the factories running.

Let your money work for Canada as well as for yourself.

Real thanksgiving is expressed best in the purchase of Victory Bonds.

and get ahead of Lord Shaughnessy, by learning How to Save in a Better Way than he did, as follows:

SHAUGHNESSY'S FIRST $100.00.

Let us repeat Lord Shaughnessy's own story of how he saved his first hundred dollars. When a young man in Milwaukee, the future C.P.R. president found that he could not save money no matter how hard he tried, so after taking stock of his position he decided upon a plan that would make him save.

He went to a friend who was the cashier of the First National Bank, and asked if the bank would loan him $100.00.

"If you let me have the money," said young Shaughnessy, "I will deposit it in your bank in a savings account.

The cashier had to scratch his head over this proposition, as it was the most peculiar one he had ever heard of. He asked for an explanation.

"Well," said the future C.P.R. man, "if I owe the bank a hundred dollars I have got to pay it back. I want to get into debt so that I can save and pay the money back out of my earnings. Then the $100 I have on deposit will be mine."

The cashier saw the point and advanced the money and the future Lord Shaughnessy paid off the loan as quickly as he could.

Lord Shaughnessy is very proud of that first hundred dollars he saved, and he still has it. And he tells this story to inspire us to save.

Reach your Victory Bond objective

Ontario Must Not Fail!

TO THE PEOPLE OF ONTARIO:

We are now in the closing days of our great effort to reach the $250,000,000 Victory Loan objective undertaken by the Province. While subscriptions up-to-date have been most gratifying and indicate a keen appreciation, both of the urgency of the situation requiring this Loan and of its unusual attractiveness from the investment standpoint, we have still a great many millions to raise if the Province is to fly its Honor Flag on Saturday night. Having shouldered the burden of one-half of the national quota, the people of Ontario to-day carry a tremendous responsibility.

WE MUST NOT FAIL. Our boys at the front have finished their job. They will expect us to finish ours. The money being raised in the Victory Loan is needed to maintain them in their occupation of the Rhineland, and to finance their glorious home-coming. We would be unworthy of their unstinted sacrifices were we to fail in any respect in this solemn obligation.

WE MUST NOT FAIL, for the immediate future prosperity of Ontario and the nation absolutely depend upon our having achieved the full quota when the campaign closes Saturday night. Should we fail to lend the money asked for, Ontario would be faced with a trying economic situation in which unemployment and distress might become general. Our extraordinary prosperity of the past four years was due almost wholly to the stimulation of industry through previous war loans. If our great army of workers is to be maintained in steady employment, and work found for our soldiers as they return, we must launch at once upon a large reconstruction programme in the financing of which the proceeds of the Victory Loan will play a vital part.

WE WILL NOT FAIL. Ontario has carried through successfully every war effort undertaken by her since August, 1914. If every man, woman and child in the Province, realizing the seriousness of the situation, resolves to do his or her utmost and puts every spare dollar into Victory Bonds before the end of the week, Ontario will not fail in this, her final effort.

It may not be possible for our canvassers to call upon every citizen. The Ontario Executive of the Victory Loan Committee therefore appeals to every one in the Province who has not yet subscribed to the limit of his or her ability to go to the local campaign headquarters and volunteer the loan of their last available dollar.

Ontario has occupied a premier position in Canada's contribution to the cause of civilization. Help maintain her proud place. Lend to your Limit—and we shall not fail.

G. H. Wood

Chairman Ontario Executive, Victory Loan, 1918.

To-night's Show at the Grand

Complete Change of Vaudeville and Pictures—"House of Gold."

There will be a complete change of vaudeville and pictures at "The Grand" to-night. The feature picture will be a five part "Metro" feature, entitled, "The House of Gold," and in addition to this the Pathe News, a Judge Brown Story and a good comedy will also be shown. Moss & Moss, comedy jugglers and dancers, will take care of the vaudeville end of the performance, coming here direct from Ottawa.

The theatre-going public are once again reminded that they may reserve their seats for these popular price entertainments just the same as for the regular road attractions.

Nowhere in Canada will you see such a big show for such small prices. General admission 10c. Reserved seats 5c. extra.

CITY LEAVES WOOD TO FUEL DEALERS; WANTS MORE COAL

"Let us confine our efforts to getting coal," was the counsel Alderman Worth offered to the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night. The committee had under consideration government timber lots in the north country. They offered quite a problem to cut and haul the wood to Peterboro, and while Ald. Saunders was loth to relinquish them, the committee agreed with Ald. Worth.

Ald. Dobbin stated that the dealers had plenty of wood. Some of the yards were piled high with countless cords, and apart from the price the situation was regarded as satisfactory. Hence the city's coal drive will push on for the main reason that the committee was satisfied that at the present prices a ton of coal represents more fuel value than a cord of wood

FIREWORKS CAME TOO LATE FOR THE BIG CELEBRATION

The fireworks ordered through C. B. Routley by Mayor Duncan, arrived yesterday morning, and although the city was under no obligation to purchase any part of the shipment the Fire, Water & Light Committee last night anticipated a celebration, perhaps, during the winter when peace is at last arranged. By that time the talcum powder factories may have restocked the drug stores, and the crowd has probably not satisfied its long dumbness with one day's celebration.

It was decided to buy $50 worth of fireworks, providing Mr. Routley will store them. There were some doubts about the atmosphere in the powder magazine. Some of the aldermen had heard that it was quite damp, and under that condition the fireworks would quickly deteriorate. Another problem arose out of the high insurance rates imposed on any building and buildings adjacent to it that stored fireworks. It was felt that Mr. Routley could make the necessary arrangements more readily than the city.

May Buy Torches.

The Committee will also obtain prices on fifty torches to be used in the parades and demonstrations when "the boys come home."

The aldermen, who have voted moneys for the prosecution of the war in so far as Peterboro's contributions could help, are now preparing for the happier features of returning peace. The De Laval Company will be asked to quote a price on the torches, which, as Alderman Dobbin might say, were requisite to processions in the old days, and will be useful in the celebrations of which Monday night's was probably only a forerunner.

HER FIVE CHILDREN

Had Whooping Cough At the Same Time

Whooping cough is one of the most dangerous diseases of children, especially to those under five years of age. It first starts with a fever and cough, sneezing, watering of the eyes and an irritation of the throat. Later the coughing increases, the child becomes livid in the face, the eyes appear as if they would burst from their sockets and suffocations seems imminent till relief is brought by the "whoop."

On the first sign of whooping cough we would advise the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. This famous remedy will clear the bronchial tubes of the collected mucous and phlegm, and in this way ease the racking cough and in a short time make it disappear entirely.

Mrs. Walter McGaughey, North Battleford, Sask., writes:—"I have five children, the eldest thirteen and the baby two years old. They all had the whooping cough at the same time. I tried two or three cough remedies but none gave the same satisfaction as Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. A home where there are young children should never be without it. I will highly recommend it to those who want a quick cure."

There are many imitations of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, so be sure you get the genuine by insisting that the package is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. and manufactured by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Friday & Saturday Dollar Saving Sale

A Small Shipment of New Velour Coats at $19.50

We need not tell you about wool velour because every woman who wears a wool velour coat praises its qualities to the sky, it is so very warm and soft. This style is quite novel with something new in a pocket, quite a novel belt arrangement and an adjustable collar. May be had in prune, taupe, black and other shades.

Exceptional New Coats at $39.50

Exceptionally desirable—in style, in material, in price. While the styles are strictly 1918-19 in every detail, the cost is based on the manufacturer's 1917 purchases of wool velours, cheviots, Whitneys and plushes. Plush and fur are used as trimming.

Sizes for women, misses and juniors, in belted models with pleated or gathered back. All the new colors are represented.

Early inspection is advisable, as re-orders at our purchase price are out of the question.

The School Girl Can Find Smart, Becoming Hats 98c

The models are not only desirable for school wear but can also be used for dress occasions. The very newest models are included, including the newest and most favored Fall colors. These embrace not only the large but small shapes as well and include the popular tams. While many are elaborately trimmed, quite a number are very simply trimmed, but very effective.

New Fall Hats at $3.98 That Solve The Style Economy Problem

It is not an easy task to maintain the high standard quality of such hats as these at the price now in force under the present conditions.

What is especially desirable is that they are fashioned in the very newest models and along the most becoming lines. Tailored and semi-dress styles. Made of velvet and may be had in various colors, and various trimmed effects.

Warm Sweaters for the Children to Trot Off to School With

Those of you whose children have a long distance to go to school must take especial care that they be warmly clad. A sweater serves this purpose. May be had in several styles including belted shapes and pockets. Sweaters for children are carefully selected with a view to service and measurements. $1.89, $2.00, $3.50, $4.00 and $4.50.

For boys and girls.

Dresses at $20.00

The value giving of a store is not determined by a special sale price here and there, but rather by the kind of values you can secure at all times.

These new Fall Serge dresses at $20.00 will help convince you of the type of value giving characteristic of this store, and particularly in reference to our ready-to-wear department.

The dresses are made of serge, tricolette, poplin and georgette. Fashioned in the new smart designs, dressmaker made, so as to assure longer service and good fitting quality.

Surrendering the Supplies to the French Army

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The French military officials have asked the German Seventh Army to send an officer to Chimay at two o'clock this afternoon to arrange for the handing over of that army's guns and material, it was announced in a wireless despatch from Paris.

Chimay is in Belgium, fourteen miles north-east of Hirson, and only six miles from the Allied lines, as established on Nov. 11.

The Krupps Have Fled to Holland

Special to the Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 14.—Count Krupp Von Boehen, the titular head of the great Krupp munitions works, fled to Holland with the former Kaiser, according to reports received here to-day.

Previous reports said that both the Count and his wife, Bertha Krupp, had been arrested by the revolutionists.

Gunner H. Boyle Reported Wounded

Peterborough Soldier Has Been in France Fifteen Months.

Word was received from Ottawa by Mrs. R. Boyle, of St. Catharines, formerly of Peterborough, that her son, Gunner Herbert R. Boyle, No. 320904, of the 52nd Battery, had been admitted on Nov. 3rd to the Canadian General Hospital at Letreport, with a gunshot wound in the hip. He had been in France fifteen months.

His parents and sister live at 4 Lyman street, St. Catharines, Ont.

Reduce Substitutes Wheat Supplies More

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Reduction of the percentage of substitutes used in the making of wheat bread in all Allied countries by January 1 is a possibility. The Food Administration has announced that it is being discussed by the Inter-Allied Food Council in London. This possibility has arisen, it was said, as a result of the new foodstuffs situation of the Allies, brought about as a result of the collapse of Austria, thereby making accessible for the Allies the wheat supplies of Australia and India.

"The Austrian armistice," the Food Administration declared, "must result in greater safety of the Mediterranean Sea routes and the increased accessibility of the Indian-Australian wheat supplies, even if Germany does not quit the war. This, it is hoped, should make sufficient wheat from these countries available during the winter to reduce the amount of substitution in the bread of Allied countries and allow the substitutes now being imported to the Allies to be used for dairy feeds, of which there is a great shortage. The same situation in feeds exists in the United States, and would also be indirectly relieved by relaxing the use of substitutes in bread.

Thanksgiving Service Held in Trinity Methodist Church

Rev. F. E. Malott Refers to the "Armies That Served Civilization"—Other Speakers Were Judge Huycke, Rev. J. P. Wilson, D.D., and Rev. H. M. Manning.

SPECIAL MUSIC

The congregation of Trinity Methodist Church met together last evening to give thanks to the Almighty for the great victory which He has seen fit to give us in this the fifth year of the war. Mr. R. F. Downie, the Recording Steward, made a brief resume of the war. On the platform were His Honour Judge E. C. S. Huycke, Dr. F. E. Malott, B. A., D.D., Dr. J. P. Wilson former pastor of Trinity Church, Rev Mr. Melville, and Rev. H. M. Manning, a former minister of the Church.

"Sometimes I wondered how it would all come out," said Mr. Malott in opening the service.

SAVED CIVILIZATION

And now that our armies have triumphed we can hardly express our feelings. I have the greatest admiration for our land, sea and air leaders. In the hearts of the people they have immortalized themselves. We feel that they have saved civilization. I wonder how we could live under the German flag. But praise God such a thing will not and cannot be Let us praise the Lord with our whole heart.

REV. DR. WILSON

Dr. Wilson, the next speaker, referred to the magnitude of this great war.

The most stupendous tragedy in all history has been enacted before our eyes. Never did we see the hand of the Lord more clearly than we did in this great war. In the battle of Agincourt King Henry V and his whole army prayed, thanking God for the great victory they had won. And so we come down in history to the present gigantic conflict. Wasn't it a wonderful scene in the House of Commons, the other day? Lloyd George stood out in that great house of so many historic associations and moved that the House adjourn to St. Margaret's Chapel for Thanksgiving and Herbert Henry Asquith, the former premier, seconded it. If Brusiloff's and the Grand Duke Nicholas' big steamroller had not rolled the enemy back on the eastern front we on the western front, almost to a certainty would have been beaten. And may be if the Belgians had not stopped the German onrush at Liege for a time France would have been conquered. If Italy had not broken from the Triple Alliance and United States not come in we might have been beaten for the time but we still would have fought on even for 20 years like Napoleon but in the end we would have won.

The spirit of Christianity pervades the Allied Armies Admiral Sir David Beatty, Marshal Foch, Sir Douglas Haig, they all are devout Christians. Once a soldier was asked what religion was.

"It is betting your life that there is a God." That is what John Huss and many other leaders did.

KEPT BREAD LINE OPEN

To-day Germany stands out like Babylon, like Rome, like Greece, old nations which tell that truth exalteth a nation but unrighteousness degradeth. Our navy in a few weeks swept the seven seas of enemy commerce and kept the bread line open in spite of the U-boat. All great blessings come from sacrifice and our own boys made the sacrifice for us.

The kings and knights are going but we must maintain our own king. I don't think we could hold our Empire together without a king. A republic would not do. I am not afraid of excesses but to hold this great Empire together we need the throne.

We're thankful to Almighty God for these great blessings.

JUDGE HUYCKE

His Honour, Judge Huycke touched on the sorrow which this great war has brought to many homes.

Although Monday was a day of great rejoicing it brougt the tears to many a mother's eyes. Alhough this is a time of thanksgiving it is also a time of sorrow. I would like the Trinity Church choir to sing the "Te Deum" next Sunday, because it is the greatest of all Thanksgiving hymns. Thepast 4 or 5 years have been an awful nightmare. I hope that the United States will be like the British Empire in many respects. The Earl of Roseberry said that next to the Christian religion the British Empire was the greatest force for good in the world. Let us hope that our late enemies have cast aside the Kaiser's and princes for good and I hope that they may enjoy the civil and religious liberties which we have enjoyed so long I am proud of the British Empire. I am proud of the young men of Canada and of Peterboro. Who wouldn't be proud? Do you remember how in 1914 the Allied soldiers before Mons saw visions in the louds, Joan of Arc and St. George. So astute a man as Harold Begbie believes these mysteries which so heartened our men. The last stroke of the war was struck by the Canadians when they took Mons. These boys who have fought so bravely for you and for me are angels because they have also fought for Him.

REV. MR. MANNING

The Rev. Mr. Manning told how many lost their faith when the war started. "God had forsaken them."

But the Germans were stopped before Paris, before Calais. The battle was the Lord's. Surely we ought to give praise to God for a victory that so much surpasses our expectations. But let us not forget those whose hearts will no stop aching or bleeding

Special music was provided by the choir under the leadership of Mr. George Xing.

Ministers Leave For France

Preliminary Arrangements for the Peace Conference.

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, Nov. 14.—(Havas News Agency)—A. J. Balfour, British Foreign Secretary, and Baron Sonnino, Italian Foreign Minister, will arrive in Paris to-day, the Journal says.

Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain, and Premier Orlando will follow the Foreign Secretaries shortly. On their arrival it is added, discussions will begin to prepare the preliminaries for peace.

Business Steady and Confident is Travellers' Report

Few travelling salesmen were on the road on Monday. Some of those who set out from Toronto on Sunday night found themselves in the midst of rejoicing that hadn't a thought of business. They were uncertain of what the week would bring forth but they decided to face the morning after spirit of the retailers and on Tuesday were joined by the travelers who had heard the big news on Monday morning before starting out.

The general report at the Empress from the men who have been working during the past three days is highly satisfactory. They state that there is a feeling of confidence that refuses to countenance any suggestions that business is going to suffer a revolutioon made in Germany. They are through with the German idea, and everywhere there is a unity of purpose that is gladly recognizing the approach of peace and preparing boldly to meet the new opportunities the happier future should bring. In other words the retail trade has not been affected by the prospective termination of the war, except to reveal a confidence, a morale as it were, that is coolly looking the facts in the face and finding them more encouraging than they had hoped in the latter days of the war.

"I wonder what he thinks of me?"

Another wounded soldier!

Never have I noticed so many on the streets as there seems to be to-day.

I wonder why that chap gave me such a searching look? If he thinks I am a slacker he's wrong. I'm not able to fight; but I have done my duty. Here's my honor-button on my coat to prove it.

I've bought ten Victory Bonds—put nearly all my savings into them. Not quite all—that hundred I have left must be kept to buy Christmas presents.

Christmas presents? I wonder if this would be the best way to spend that money?

Let's see; I could take that hundred dollars and pay it as a deposit on four $100 bonds—then pay the other $300 in instalments.

But that would leave me nothing to buy Christmas presents.

I have it!

This year I'll give Victory Bonds as presents.

But would the wife like that? Would she like a Bond as well as the gift I was going to buy her?

Why she'd rather have a Bond, if she knew it might save one poor boy from being crippled like that lad there.

And the three children, every one of them has been at me to buy a bond.

I could pay the other $300 in instalments—by being a little more careful of my expenditures. And the wife will gladly help.

I'll do it.

I'll take that hundred dollars to buy four more bonds. I wonder why I didn't think of that way before.

Let every Canadian do some serious thinking along these lines to-day.

You have only three days left to set yourself right with the boys who fight and toil, suffer and die—for you.

To-day may be the biggest day in your life.

You've never known a day that compares with it in opportunity to serve your country; for this loan must be overscribed.

Canada must show both friend and foe that she is in this fight to win.

OBITUARY

FRANCIS JAMES FRY

November fifth, nineteen eighteen, saw the passing of Francis James Fry, for some years Chairman of the House of J. S. Fry & Sons, Limited, of Bristol, England.

For nearly seventy years Mr. Fry held a leading position in the development of the House of Fry, and to his commercial genius, unfailing tact, and gracious courtesy the worldwide success of the House was very largely attributable.

It may be stated with confidence that Mr. Fry was a man who, while he had hosts of friends, never made an enemy in business, politics or religion—yet he consistently maintained independence of thought. His sterling honesty and his courteous tolerance of opposing views had always ensured him respect.

At the ripe age of eighty-four years, and after a long life of active usefulness, the Empire loses one of its Merchant Princes, and the World is today poorer by the loss of one of her finest Citizens.

Our deepest sympathy goes out to the bereaved family, and our hope that the sadness will be brightened by the memory of many kindly acts during the long life so nobly spent.

Fourteen Deaths From Pneumonia

DEATH STATISTICS IN PETERBORO FOR PRESENT MONTH.

Since November the first, fourteen deaths from pneumonia, influenza, or complications of either, have been registered. Five had been registered from the same cause in the same time last month.

Of the fourteen, two died from straight influenza, two from heart failure following pneumonia, five from pneumonia following influenza; three of straight bronco-pneumonia, one from old age following bronopneumonia, one from straight pneumonia.

GOVERNMENT WILL KEEP ITS PLEDGES TO LABOUR MEN

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 14. — Premier Lloyd George, addressing representatives of the Employers' Association and Trades Unions, said the Government intends to carry out its pledges of 1915, but that wages will remain at their present level for at least six months, unless otherwise agreed.

CONFLICTING RUMOURS REGARDING BRUSSELS

German Soldiers Reported to Have Mutinied in Belgian Capital.

(Special to The Examiner.)

GHENT, Nov. 14.—Conflicting rumours as to the situation in Brussels reached this city. Reports are current that German soldiers there mutinied and shot their officers and are burning and pillaging the city. Belgian and French scouts are now half way from Ghent to Brussels. Should reports of the mutiny be confirmed, a flying column will be sent to restore order at the Belgian capital.

Town Threatened With Destruction

(Special to The Examiner.)

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 14.—Upper Sandusky, a town of about 15,000 inhabitants, is being swept by flames and threatened with destruction. Eight firemen are reported injured by falling walls of a burning hotel.

Several Orders Are Amended

Anti-Strike Order Repealed This Afternoon.

Special to The Examiner:

TORONTO, Nov. 14.—President Thomas Moore of the Trades and Labour Congress, sent the following telegram to Secretary T. A. Stevenson of the Trades and Labour Council of Toronto. The wire came from Ottawa and reads:

"Anti-strike order repealed this afternoon. Two other orders amended, making use of prohibitive language now possible under certain regulations. Ban also removed from social democratic party. Will send more details after seeing full text of amendments.

HINDENBURG'S ORDERS TO ARMY COMMAND

German Troops to be Led Home in Order and Discipline.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 14.— Field Marshal Von Hindenburg remains as head of the Supreme German Army Command, according to a German wireless message received here, which gives the text of the message he has sent to army commanders on all fronts, ordering them to lead their troops home in order and discipline.

MILLBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS.

Act as a stimulant to the sluggish liver, clean the furred tongue, sweeten the foul, obnoxious breath, and clear away all the poisonous accumulations from the system by causing the bowels to move regularly and naturally every day, thus preventing as well as curing constipation, sick headaches, bilious headaches, water brash, heartburn, and all diseases arising from a lazy, slow or torpid liver.

They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take, and there is nothing of the griping, weakening and sickening effects of the old-fashioned purgatives.

Mrs. John Kadey, Chipman, N.B., writes: "I have been using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for some time and can recommend them to anyone suffering from heartburn and liver trouble. I tried other remedies, but they only relieved me for a short time. I always recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to all sufferers, as I think they are a valuable remedy."

When you go to your dealer and ask for Laxa-Liver Pills, see that you get the genuine "Milburn's." Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Were Fined for Being Drunk

BLOOD TONIC HAD A DISASTROUS EFFECT

George Davidson of Havelock, and John Little pleaded not guilty in police court this morning to the charge o. being intoxicated. Both men were arrested on Saturday evening at 10.30 at the C.P.R. station in a seemingly intoxicated condition.

"Were you drunk?" asked the magistrate.

"Sure I was not drunk," positively stated Davidson.

He had on his person a bottle of a well-known blood tonic.

A local druggist sold the "wash" to them and after adding 3 ounces of essence of peppermint which they bought from two different drug stores the police allege the two men were gloriously drunk. Davidson states that he had just recovered from the "flu" and was taking some invigorating tonic.

Magistrate Dumble gave each of the men a tonic in the form of a fine amounting in each case to $14.10.

Music & Drama

"IN OLD KENTUCKY."

Melodramas of the old school are becoming as scarce as crowned heads in Germany, so that "Old Kentucky," at the Grand last night proved almost a novelty, inasmuch as it represented the "Blue Jeans" type now scarcely ever seen before the footlights. All the ingredients of the old time melodrama were used in this production with a pretty young heroine who nonchalantly swung across a "yawning chasm' on a rope, rescued a race horse from a burning stable, and then rode the same animal to victory in the big race on which the fortunes of her lover depended, and a villain who carried his blood thirsty tendencies to such a length that he almost succeeded in ending the earthly career of the hero by means of a stick of dynamite. There was the usual comic relief in the person of a garralous darky, and the old characters were there to type, while local colour was provided by a group of colored entertainers who resolved themselves into a choir or a jazz with equal readiness. Several of the scenic effects were good, especially the finish of the big horse race.

The Allies Will Shoot Bread Into Germany Instead of Bullets

Herbert Hoover is Now Enroute to Europe—May Become World's Food Dictator.

SERIOUS SITUATION

(United Press.)
(By Fred S. Ferguson.)

PARIS, November 13. — While the civilized world is celebrating victory the allied diplomats are working tirelessly that sacrifices may not be in vain.

Food is now a world problem. Herbert Hoover, en route to Europe, is likely to become the world's food dictator. Upon that one question — food—depends whether Germany and other portions of Europe are to become chaotic or organized. Statements from Chancellor Ebert and Minister Scheidemann reveal that food is the most serious problem in Germany.

The allies probably will assume the position of shooting bread instead of bullets into that country. The wreckdomain of the former Kaiser not only is at the feet of the world, but at its mercy.

Faith is Lacking.

No great faith is placed in Ebert and Scheidemann as "revolutionists." Both have been strong supporters of the Kaiser throughout the war. The question is frequently asked in Paris "Where is Leibknecht?" Then the important question of food arises and realization comes that the German people must be fed if a semblance of government is to be maintained.

Hoover will study the entire situation and take up the probelm of feeding the world. The cessation of troop transportation will enable tonnage hitherto carrying Americans to Europe to bring food. The stipulation in the armistice that the Germans feed the armies of occupation, does not necessarily mean that they will furnish the food, but that they will pay for it. The stipulation that the armistice will last 30 days is flexible and can be extended by the inter-allied conference, and probably will last much longer than that.

Colonel House and his party are deeply engrossed with the food situation and other vast economic questions and are arranging the details for the coming resumption of the conferences. All diplomatic and political circles are extremely busy in conjunction with the military authorities over plans for demobilization.

Mayor Hesitates to Buy Coal From Municipal Yard

If you were Mayor would you buy coal from the municipal fuel depot?

This was a question that perplexed Mayor Duncan yesterday. His dealer had promised him an order but had failed to deliver it.

"I don't think you should take it," City Treasurer Adams advised. "It might place you in an invidious position with some of the ratepayers."

"The coal is for any citizen," Ald. Dobbin remarked, telling the Mayor to get a supply from the city.

At last night's meeting of the Fire, Water and Light committee, the Mayor propounded his question again. He could get neither coal nor wood.

"Sure, go ahead and get it," Ald. Dobbin suggested.

"I believe it would be alright," Ald. M. McIntyre said.

"I have my doubts," mused the Mayor, who had nothing to burn in his range unless he broke up some of the furniture or pulled a few boards off a west end fence.

MAY PURCHASE TWO TONS OF COAL IF YOU HAVE LESS THAN ONE

Citizens who have less than one ton of coal, may now purchase two tons, instead of one as heretofore, the Fuel Commission decided last night, and the fuel dealers will be instructed that they may now sell on that basis.

The public is again urged to conserve coal as much as possible. Fortunately the mild weather has lightened the demand, but cold weather is bound to follow even the most "open fall," and a time of reckoning will then be felt if there is not an economical use of coal in these mild days.

A letter was read from Rev. J. C. Davidson saying that he had two tons of egg and one ton of stove coal, except a small amount for the kitchen, and asked permission to purchase three tons of broken coal.

The secretary was instructed to inform Rev. Canon Davidson that he may purchase now one ton of "broken" coal, and to suggest to him that he might get some mine run coal; also to say that this order is for the present, and that further regulations will be according as circumstances develop.

G. H. Thompson, secretary of the Board of Education, wrote that soft coal is burned in all the schools except the South Central, which is heated by hot air.

Soft or steam coal is used in the Separate Schools, Mr. James Drain wrote.

The Peterboro Examiner and A. W. Cressman Company, Limited, also heat their premises with soft coal.

J. W. Morrison of South Monaghan was given permission to buy three tons of coal in Peterboro, because there is no wood on his farm nor available in his locality.

J. B. Doran told the Commission that the G. N. W. Tel. Co., and the G. T. R. uptown office, had less than two tons of coal and needed seven tons more. He feared the freezing of the telegraph batteries. The commission authorized him to purchase two tons at the present time.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, November 19th.

Talk No. 6

More Business More Traffic!

WAR-time conditions have given the telephone a larger and more important job.

During the period 1914-1917 the number of telephone calls has increased 35 per cent., the number of telephones increased 28 per cent., and the number of calls per telephone has appreciably increased.

Telephone facilities have been more widely used and used to better advantage, and this required more skilful operation and a larger force of telephone workers.

The telephone subscriber has made more intensive use of his telephone, partly because he has more important uses for it, and partly because he has been able to reach a greater number of people.

The rush of traffic has sometimes caused temporary delay, but on the whole the subscriber has been getting more telephone service for his money. Moreover, his money has been less valuable to us because it would not buy as much material or labor as in peace time.

We want merely to earn enough so that with strict economy we can pay our bills and properly take care of both workers and shareholders.

Visit the Carpet Department Friday or Saturday and have a talk with Mr. Thomas, the representative of the makers of "NEPONSET" the Famous Floor Covering

It is entirely waterproof, not effected by dampness or wet, which makes it much superior to Linoleum. It will not buckle or crack and on account of its solid texture is a splendid covering for old or open floors, as it prevents the drafts which creep through an ordinary board floor from being felt. This makes your house more comfortable, healthier and is easier on your fuel supply.

"NEPONSET" comes in a multitude of pleasing designs in rich color combinations and there is a "Neponset" pattern suitable for practically every room in the house.

"NEPONSET" is easily kept clean with luke warm water and any good soap.

"NEPONSET" is made 2 yards wide, and our Special Introductory Price is .....per square yard 95c

It is a little more expensive than imitations or inferior articles, but it is worth the little difference for it is sold with the makers guarantee. As examples of the wearing quality of "NEPONSET" there are strips on exhibition at the Empire and Grand Theatres, on the sidewalk from our own entrance to the curb, and down the centre of the store.

"NEPONSET" will get more wear at these places in a day than in an ordinary home in a year. If the makers were not absolutely sure of its wearing qualities, they would not put it to a test like this.

Other stores may have imitations. Turnbulls have the real thing. Turnbulls is the only store in Peterboro that sells "NEPONSET."

HAVELOCK OBTAINED HER HONOUR FLAG.

The above figures are up to the evening of the 13th inst., and since that time Mr. T. P. Lancaster of Havelock, has wired that they have gone over the top and won the coveted Honour Flag. This is the second flag to be won in the County of Peterborough, the first honour going to Norwood and Asphodel.

Remember that there are only two more days in which to buy Victory Bonds at 5 1-2 per cent. free from federal taxation, so call at County Headquarters, 174 Hunter Street, and leave your application, as no application will be accepted after the 16th.

De Laval Get Flag.

The De Laval Separator Company have won their flag. The employees have the honour of subscribing the largest amount per capita so far of any of the industries in Peterborough. The organization was in charge of E. F. Lawrence, J. H. French, and E. J. Ruiter. These gentlemen deserve special mention for their excellent organization.

Farmers Buying More.

Peterborough has drawn a little closer to her objective as the result of yesterday's subscriptions, and the total is practically assured. It is gratifying to see the growing interest of the townships. The tabulated returns given herewith show that Asphodel, with the village of Norwood, has surpassed its objective. Otonabee, Smith and Dummer are within reach of their allotments, and the other townships have made a decided improvement in their percentages. In the few days that are left for the campaign it is likely that the township will boost their objectives to their respective objectives if they do not quite attain them. It is generally felt that if they could be reached as easily as the city people they would quickly improve their standing, for the farmer usually perceives a financial opportunity as quickly as the monied citizens. There are exceptions of course. Last year one man in the country who could have taken a handsome bite out of the Peterborough allotment promised the canvassers that he would subscribe, apparently realized that his money was better earning 6½ per cent. from the Government than 5 per cent. from the bank, but in the last minute he declined to use even part of the capital, but promised that he would "be in on" the next loan. Apparently he cannot bring himself to realize that the Government's security is as good if not stronger than the banks, and he apparently cannot bring himself to the point of acting on the impulse which his common sense must excite. There may be some other farmers and citizens in this category, and if they have any doubts about the Victory Bonds they owe it to themselves and to the country to visit the Loan Office and interview the salesmen on the details that give them difficulty.

AN ENGLISH FATHER SEEKS INFORMATION OF SON'S INSURANCE

William Watterson, of Norwich, Eng., has written to the Mayor for information regarding the supposed insurance of his son, William Watterson, who enlisted in the 93rd Battalion and was killed on August 10th of this year. The young man was working for James Drain, a farmer near Dartford in Percy Township, Northumberland. He came to Peterborough and joined the 93rd Battalion. Overseas he was transferred to the 2nd Battalion with which unit he carried on until he was killed in action. In his will, he left his possessions to his father, and mentioned some insurance in regard to which the father was advised to apply to the Mayor of Peterborough. The letter was addressed to the Mayor of Dartford, but the Postmaster of that hamlet sent it on to Mayor Duncan.

If any of the insurance companies can give the information required by this bereaved English father, Mayor Duncan will be glad to receive and forward it at once.

Great Introductory Offering of "NEPONSET" continues until Saturday Night

Come in and let Mr. Thomas tell you why "Neponset" is better than ordinary floor covering

Visit the Carpet Department Friday or Saturday and have a talk with Mr. Thomas, the representative of the makers of "NEPONSET" the Famous Floor Covering

It is entirely waterproof, not effected by dampness or wet, which makes it much superior to Linoleum. It will not buckle or crack and on account of its solid texture is a splendid covering for old or open floors, as it prevents the drafts which creep through an ordinary board floor from being felt. This makes your house more comfortable, healthier and is easier on your fuel supply.

"NEPONSET" comes in a multitude of pleasing designs in rich color combinations and there is a "Neponset" pattern suitable for practically every room in the house.

"NEPONSET" is easily kept clean with luke warm water and any good soap.

"NEPONSET" is made 2 yards wide, and our Special Introductory Price is .....per square yard 95c

It is a little more expensive than imitations or inferior articles, but it is worth the little difference for it is sold with the makers guarantee. Demobilization Plans Were Discussed by Cabinet To-day

Canadian Women and Children Will be Brought Back First.

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—Demobilization plans are under discussion by the full Cabinet to-day, and it is not expected to really commence for some months yet, pending the conclusion of peace.

However, steps will be taken in the meantime to bring back the Canadian women and children now in the old land, while the return of invalided men will continue as in the past. As at present contemplated, the overseas men will be demobilized territorially. There has been some agitation to have them come home by units, but this plan would have serious drawbacks. For instance there are battalions which contain in their ranks men resident formerly in all parts of the Dominion. Moreover, the demobilization by units would bring back in many cases recent draftees in advance of veterans and "original firsts." These latter must be given preference over the others. The plan which it is expected will be followed contemplates the bringing back of all the men of the first contingent from Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver, or other cities first, taking the second contingent men on the same plan next.

Canadians in Hospitals.

There are at present 33,000 Canadian soldiers in hospitals in England and 10,000 in France. These, it is proposed, will be returned as their conditions permit and as accommodation is provided in Canada to receive them. In the meantime they are well cared for in Canadian hospitals overseas. Their return will be made not on transports, but on hospital ships and hospital trains. As a matter of fact, there is a considerable body of opinion in favour of retaining the invalided men in England until such cure as can be affected has been accomplished. In the matter of the disposition of the men on their return preference will be given to those formerly engaged in "pivotal" industries, such as the railways, which are clamoring, on account of freight congestion, for the speedy return to civil life of men who were railroad employees before they doned the khaki.

RAILWAYMEN FIRST

In point of preference railway men come first, telegraph operators second, shipbuilders and mechanics third and agriculturalists fourth. An attempt will be made to return the men to civil life on these orders. But demobilization is to start at home first. There are in Canada a present 71,000 men in khaki and of these 10,000 are returned men in hospitals and 16,000 are men on harvest leave from the draft. These latter will simply be called upon to report and secure their medical examination so that they may be discharged without the danger of subsequent claims for pension being made on the government. It is expected that the demobilization of those in camps at present will take but a few days and may start soon. Little dislocation will follow their absorption back to civil life as there is at present a demand for labor in most branches of industry and business. It is possible that four or five thousand of them will be retained in khaki for some time.

CAPTAIN MACLAREN WON MILITARY CROSS.

Miss Helen MacLaren of the Conservatory staff, received word this week that her brother, Captain Jas. F. MacLaren, won the Military Cross at the Battle of Amiens. No word of how it was won was furnished, the cable merely stating for distinguished services. He enlisted with the 1st Battalion in Toronto. Aonther brother, Lieut Gordon MacLaren, wounded in September, is at present in hospital in England and is expected home in Toronto soon.

ARE YOU A SHAREHOLDER IN YOUR COUNTRY?

CANADA offers you shares in Canada! These are Canada's Victory Bonds 1918, $50, $100, $500 or $1,000, as you can afford to buy them. These bonds with a fixed period to run, will be repaid in full at maturity, just as surely as you can get the change for a dollar bill. But unlike the dollar, they will pay you interest at 5½ per cent. all the time you hold them.

Splendid as the investment is, this is only one side of the matter. The money paid for these Bonds is used to bring the war to a successful ending, and every day we approach nearer Victory, for which we have fought so long, for which so many gallant men have died. This Money is loaned by us to Canada to bring us both Victory and Peace.

Peterborough has been asked to subscribe $1,000,000 in the purchase of Victory Bonds, but we should not be content with that. Every time we add twenty-five per cent. to that amount we shall get a crown on our Honor Flag, the flag which shall fly in Peterborough as a sign that we have met this call with honor.

Let every purse in Peterborough be opened wide, let us act quickly, and to the extreme limit of our ability that Peterborough may have a place of honor on the list.

The Victory Loan Honor Button will show that YOU are a buyer of Victory Bonds. Get it early. Your name on the Honor List of your place of bu siness will be an inspiration to others. Get it there early.

How Many Crowns Shall We Have on Our Honor Flag?

WEDDING BELLS

BELL—PROPHET

A quiet wedding was solemnized at Trinity Methodist parsonage by the Rev. F. E. Malott on November 12th when Miss Olive E. Prophet became the bride of Mr. Bruce Bell. After the ceremony was performed they drove to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Prophet, Jackson Park, where supper was served after which they left for their future home on the Chemong Road.

OBITUARY

MR. JOSEPH A. PRITCHARD

Joseph A. Pritchard died at Sorrento, Idaho, U.S. on Oct. 26, late of the Pritchard, and Harrison Carpet Company of Buttle, Montana. There are left to mourn his loss, his wife, two sons and two daughters; sons are, Sgt. Gordon Pritchard of Camp Lewis and Dr. Donald Pritchard of Portland Oregan, Miss Grace Pritchard training in Red Cross Hospital, New York, and Betty at home also five brothers and two sisters, Mrs. Alex. Rose of this city and Mrs. Thos. Reeds of Reaboro.

MR. S. FLAHERTY.

Mr. S. Flaherty, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Flaherty, Emily Township, died last evening after a short illness. Mr. Flaherty, who was in his 26th year, is survived by his parents.

The funeral takes place to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock from his late residence to St. Martin's Church and Cemetery, Ennismore.

MRS. WILLIAM LAURIN WOOD.

The death took place yesterday of Mrs. William L. Wood, who is survived by two children. Her husband died some weeks ago of Spanish influenza.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

MRS. JAMES SMITH.

The death occurred at Nicholls Hospital of Mrs. James Smith, wife of James Smith, Mount Pleasant, aged 85 years. She leaves, besides her sorrowing husband, two sons and one daughter, William and Bert, of Mount Pleasant, and Mrs. W. Brown, 317 Dalhousie Street, Peterborough.

Funeral from the home of her niece, Mrs. Shadgett, 309 Reid Street, on Friday at 1 o'clock. Rev. F. E. Malott will officiate.

MRS. A. E. THOMPSON.

The death occurred in Vancouver Hospital last evening of a former well-known Peterborough girl in the person of Mrs. A. E. Thompson, formerly Miss May Jones. She was employed in the Richard Hall store while in the city. Mr. Thompson's mother died only two days ago, and was buried yesterday. The deceased is a sister of Mrs. C. F. Browne, 473 Water Street.

JOHN LIGHTFOOT.

The death of John Lightfoot, at Hemlock, N.Y., on October 13th, in his 74th year, recalls one of the old families who were pioneers of the township of South Monaghan. He was born near Centreville on the old homestead that had been built up by his father, one of the first settlers of South Monaghan. He was a progressive farmer and took a lively interest in public affairs, especially in the council of his municipality. He was a member of the Monaghan council for a number of years, during which he showed his capacity as an administrator. Some years ago he moved to the Northwest, and later returning east, visited his sister at Hemlock, where he became ill and died. He is survived by his wife and one daughter in the west, another daughter at St. Catharines, and one son, Herbert, in the west, and his sister, Mrs. W. O'Brien, of Millbrook. His son John died in Winnipeg while on military service, early in the war, and was buried with military honours in Peterborough. The late Mr. Lightfoot had many warm friends in Peterborough who will regret his demise.

Defaulters Will be Allowed to Escape Punishment

Order Issued To-day Prohibits Further Arrests Under the Military Service Act—New Order Applies to Peterboro District.

CAUSES SURPRISE

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, Nov. 14.—Military defaulters, men who have defied the military authorities and registrars of the Military Service Act since the inception of conscription, are free men to-day. They are free to return to their homes, and immune from punishment. Orders from the Adjutant-General at Ottawa was received at military headquarters to-day, stating that no further arrests of defaulters under the Military Service Act are to be made, and all proceedings against defaulters are to be stopped, except in a case where bribery has been committed to obtain exemption, every effort will be made to obtain a conviction. This order will affect over 2,000 defaulters in Toronto Military District who have "beaten" the Military Service Act, the military authorities and ignored instructions to report for service from the registrar.

Hundreds Escaped.

Hundreds of defaulters in the Toronto district escaped to the United States and went into the woods when the Military Service Act became law, and, despite the efforts of the military authorities, they were never apprehended. This new order has caused much surprise among military men, who have been doing everything in their power to bring the defaulters to justice. "Defaulters are worse than conscientious objectors," stated one military officer. "They are 'flunkers' of the worst type. The objector has to serve his term in a penitentiary but the man who failed to report when ordered to do is permitted to return home and escape punishment.

When nature begins to assist a man by parting his hair in the middle he gets contrary and tries to part it on the side.

THEY CHEERED FOR FRANCE.

Alsatians Declare Their Desire to Go Back to Mother Country.

ZURICH, Nov. 12.—Enthusiastic demonstrations were held in Strassburg on Saturday night. France was cheered, notwithstanding the intervention of the mounted police.

Great processions filed through the streets until far into the night, carrying banners on which were inscribed:

"We want to be reattached to France, our mother country."

Alsatian soldiers on leave joined in the demonstration. The Mayor and the German military commander appealed to the people to keep calm and avoid excesses.

A GRUESOME CURIOSITY.

RENFREW, Nov. 14.—James Irving, Renfrew, who is now up at Magnisippi Depot as a foreman for the Colonial Lumber Company, recently came across a rather gruesome curiosity. He was out looking up some timber and came upon a small lake. On the shores of this he found an old-fashioned shoemaker's boot with a man's foot and part of his leg in it. At first he could hardly believe his eyes, but when he split the boot open with his knife he further found that the sock was still on the foot but badly decayed. He took it to the camp and showed the men, and still has the boot in his possession.

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES.

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. In England the scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages towards the lungs, which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used extensively in the damp English climate is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers here who live under more favorable climate conditions.

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength). Take this home and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parmint used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrah or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Ruth Overhears Brian Tell Mollie King Things Which Annoy Her

CHAPTER XXXIX

If Ruth thought of Mollie King during the short time they spent going from their home to that of Mrs. Curtis', Brain was also busily engaged.

He wondered if Ruth had expected him to buy $200 dresses when she married him? If she expected to keep right on doing the same things and wearing the same clothes she had been in the habit of doing and wearing, when she lived with her wealthy aunt? She would find she "had another think coming." Then for the first time he, too, wondered if he had made a mistake. If he would better have married a girl like Mollie, one who had not been accustomed to luxuries, and who would be satisfied with what he could do for her.

Mrs. Curtis welcomed them warmly. Scarcely had Ruth laid aside her wraps before Mollie and a young man appeared. He was the sort of man Mollie affected, and Ruth had never known.

"Why didn't he get his hair cut?" Ruth wondered when they were introduced; that it was part of a pose she had no way of knowing, as men as Claude Beckley's character, rather his kind, were unknown to her.

He was an artist, Mrs. Curtis had explained. And he, like Mollie King, lived in that delightful place known as "The Village," where most of the artists and writers congregated, and she added:

"Your husband used to spend most of his time down there, as I know you are aware. A charming place. I just love to go down there and dine. Altho Mr. Curtis says it's not dining—that it's just eating. But he always will have his joke."

Ruth had been furtively watching Claude Beckley while Mrs. Curtis talked. She concluded she didn't like him. His manners were too free and easy, and he didn't look, well—clean. His tie was greasy, and he was in such contrast to the few men she knew—Brian, Mr. Mandel, and those she had met in her new business relation—that Ruth felt uncomfortably conscious of it when she tried to talk to him.

Mollie King was in a gay mood, and altho her dress was just a cheap voile, costing perhaps ten dollars, Ruth had to admit she looked very sweet; and that she was really well groomed, if her escort was not. But then she recalled that Mrs. Curtis had told her that Mollie was different; that she liked her better than any of the Bohemian class to which she—Mollie—belonged.

The dinner was a very gay one. It seemed to Ruth that everyone talked at once. Especially Claude Beckley. Ruth was seated between him and Mr. Curite, and she could scarcely get a word with her host, for whom she had taken quite a liking. Then, too, Mr. Beckley talked so loud that, listen as closely as she could, she missed what Brian and Mollie King were talking about. Brian sat between Mollie and Mrs. Curtis, and as the hostess was busy looking after the comfort of her guests, it gave Brian the opportunity to be confidential with Mollie. At least he looked confidential.

She had to confess that Mr. Beckly had a certain ability in conversation. He seemed to have a superficial knowledge of almost every subject. Occasionally he would say something which might have interested her had she not been listening so closely to catch what Brian was saying.

"I haven't had such a good time in a year," she heard Mollie declare with emphasis. Ruth wondered if it was a reference to the dinners she had shared with Brian when she was in Philadelphia.

"Neither have I! It was like old times." Brian had lowered his voice but either because his mouth was full, or for some other reason, Beckly had stopped talking for a moment, and Ruth heard her husband's reply distinctly.

She was shocked. Why, they hadn't been married quite a year yet. And Brian was telling another woman that he had had a better time with her than he had his with his wife in all the time they had been married. Of course he didn't mean it! He was only trying to be polite and had spoken extravagantly. But—it hurt just the same.

All through the remainder of dinner, Ruth was so quiet that Mr. Curtis asked her if she were ill, and Mrs. Curtis gave her a sharp look, while coming to her help by declaring no one had a chance to get in a word edgewise when Claude Beckley was around.

"I'd ask you oftener, Claude," she said in a bantering way, "if you weren't such a monopolist."

"I'll promise not to say another word if Hackett will stop making love to Mollie. That's fair, isn't it, Mrs. Hackett?"

"Of course it is!" Ruth answered, her cheeks flushing at the innocuous youth's idea of a pleasantry. "He should be ashamed of himself," she added with an effort to hide her embarrassment under the light persiflage in which her neighbor seemed a past master, and to which she was such a stranger.

After dinner they were to dance. "Just six of us and a victrola," Mrs. Curtis had laughingly remarked. Of course Brian would dance first with her, Ruth thought. But Brian immediately commenced to dance with Mollie, and Ruth accepted the arm of her host.

Tomorrow—Ruth Explains That Brian Has Not Yet Bought Clothes For Her.

PAINS AND ACHES YIELD QUICKLY TO SLOAN'S LINIMENT

Are you tormented by Neuralgia, Lumbago, Sciatica or any of those aches that require a counter-irritant? Then let the soothing, warming application of Sloan's Liniment stop the pain by drawing the blood away from the congested part.

It is the pressure on the nerves by the blood rushing to the inflamed muscle or joint that makes you ache. So when Sloan's Liniment relieves the swollen blood vessels by setting up a counter-irritant on the surface, the circulation is equalized, sympathetic nerves all soothed, and soreness or lameness disappears.

Sloan's Liniment is probably the counter-irritant most widely used to overcome painful inflammation in cases of neuralgia, sore muscles, wrenched joints, strains, bruises, gout. Rubbing is not required. This clear, clean liquid is easily applied as it does not stain the skin. Made in Canada.

A MAN OF DESTINY.

Last of Russian Czars Was a Tragic Figure.

Nicholas II., ex-czar of Russia, reported slain by the Bolsheviki, was a man of destiny in the most tragic sense of the word. He symbolized a political system, closed an historic epoch, and contributed to destroy a vast empire. It is not possible to understand that most momentous phase of European history which culminated in the war of nations without taking full account of the last czar's ambitions and aims and of the measures by which he sought to achieve them.

His reign focused the most corrosive forces inherent in a corrupt bureaucracy, and brought them to bear with blighting effect upon the nethermost roots of the dynasty, the regime, and the empire. The son of a narrow-minded, well-meaning potentate, who had earnestly striven to consolidate the political system, to Russianize the alien elements of the population, to turn the policy of his Government into a national channel, and to deserve the epithet of the peace preserver of the world, Nicholas II., while endeavoring to continue his father's work, merely kept all the peoples, parties and religious creeds of his empire in a continuous ferment of revolt against his person, his dynasty, and the regime, and he ended by making reform by evolution impossible.

Like other monarchs of his type, he had a defective sense of the relation between cause and effect, possessed no trustworthy knowledge of the peoples he was governing, nor of the problems he was tackling, and was deficient in that moral strength which enters so largely into the fibre of a ruler of men. Nicholas II. knew nothing of the realities of life, drew inferences from the accounts about them which he read in official papers, lived in an atmosphere of artificiality and make-believe, and displayed in most of his public acts a startling lack of political foresight or loftiness of moral ideals. Outside his family circle he had no friends, and seemingly felt the need of none.

For what he lacked most was that fellow feeling for others which is an indispensable condition of genuine friendship. This failing escaped the notice of the many whose relations with him were casual and transient, and startled the few who, being in close and continuous touch with him, perceived some of its worst manifestations during the famine that carried away tens of thousands of his subjects, and at other times of public calamities. In part, no doubt, it was due to a certain lack of imagination, which makes it to me quite credible that at the close of his reign he felt vaguely the catastrophe that was coming, but, like the bird fascinated by the basilisk, could do nothing but gaze, and wait helplessly for the stroke of destiny.

Before Nicholas II. had done anything from which the nation could learn his character or assess his worth an absurdly flattering portrait of him was drawn by courtiers and publicists, and reproduced throughout the world. He was depicted as a wise and benign leader of men. This official picture was everywhere accepted as true to nature, and for 10 years all the discordant facts that belied it were generously distorted in order to bring them into harmony with this deceptive fiction.

Music Was Not Soothing.

There is an amusing story told about Sir Frederick Bridge, the famous organist of Westminster Abbey, and of how he was once guilty of making a row within the edifice. It was at the time of the coronation of King George V. One of the rehearsals to take place was that of the state trumpeters, who practiced their fanfares within the building. During their temporary absence Sir Frederick Bridge thought he would see what kind of a fanfare he could produce, and, borrowing one of the trumpets, set about making such discordant sounds that the clerk of the works came up and expostulated. "If that row continues," he said, "my workmen threaten to go on strike, and if they do the coronation will have to be postponed." Sir Frederick hurriedly put down the trumpet, and soothed the workmen by playing a selection on the organ.

Threw Rice at Bride.

Two women were fined at Wimborne, England, for having wasted rice by throwing it over the bride and bridegroom at a gypsy wedding at Wallis Down, Dorset. It was stated that two pounds of rice was distributed among those present.

Of the 650 tons of ivory brought annually into England, Sheffield consumes a third.

Tired Nervous Mothers

Should Profit by the Experience of These Two Women

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I am the mother of four children, and for nearly three years I suffered from a female trouble with pains in my back and side, and a general weakness. I had professional attendance most of that time but did not seem to get well. As a last resort I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which I had seen advertised in the newspapers, and in two weeks noticed a marked improvement. I continued its use and am now free from pain and able to do all my housework."—Mrs. B. B. Zielinska, 202 Weiss Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Portland, Ind.—"I had a displacement and suffered so badly from it at times I could not be on my feet at all. I was all run down and so weak I could not do my housework, was nervous and could not lie down at night. I took treatments from a physician but they did not help me. My Aunt recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried it and now I am strong and well again and do my own work and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound the credit."—Mrs. Josephine Kimble, 935 West Race Street, Portland, Ind.

Brantford, Nov. 14.—A sad case is reported from the Six Nations Reserve, where the body of Thomas Dixon was found dead in bed, from heart failure, by a party of friends who were bringing the body of his wife from Burford, where she had died of Spanish influenza. Both were buried in the one grave.

SPECIFIC FOR BRONCHITIS.

The turpentine used in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is not the ordinary commercial article, which is little used because of the unpleasantness of taste, but is specially extracted from tamarac and spruce gum and so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be at the same time pleasant to use and wonderfully effective in the cure of affections of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs

NO DEMOBILIZATION YET.

Canadians Are Now Advancing Into Enemy Territory—Discussion of Demobilization is Premature.

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—In view of numerous requests received respecting demobilization of the Canadian forces, the Department of Militia and Defence makes the following announcement:

"The general scheme for demobilization has been the subject of exhaustive study for some months past, and definite conclusions have been reached. In the meantime discussion of the subject is premature, in view of the fact that the country is still at war and Canadian troops are at this moment advancing into enemy territory. Demobilization of troops, whether in Canada or overseas, cannot be undertaken until specific information warranting such action has been received from the overseas Minister.

BIG LOCOMOTIVE ORDERS

To Be Placed in Canada by Government and Private Owners.

OTTAWA, Nov. 13.—Orders approximating many millions of dollars for locomotives, cars and rails for Canadian roads are about to be placed in Canada both by privately-owned and the Government railways. Heads of the systems conferred to-day with representatives of steel companies about it. An extensive construction programme is also proposed as a factor in absorbing labour.

The Minister of Agriculture is now developing plans for a campaign for increased agricultural production next year, in which returned soldiers' labour will be a material contributing element.

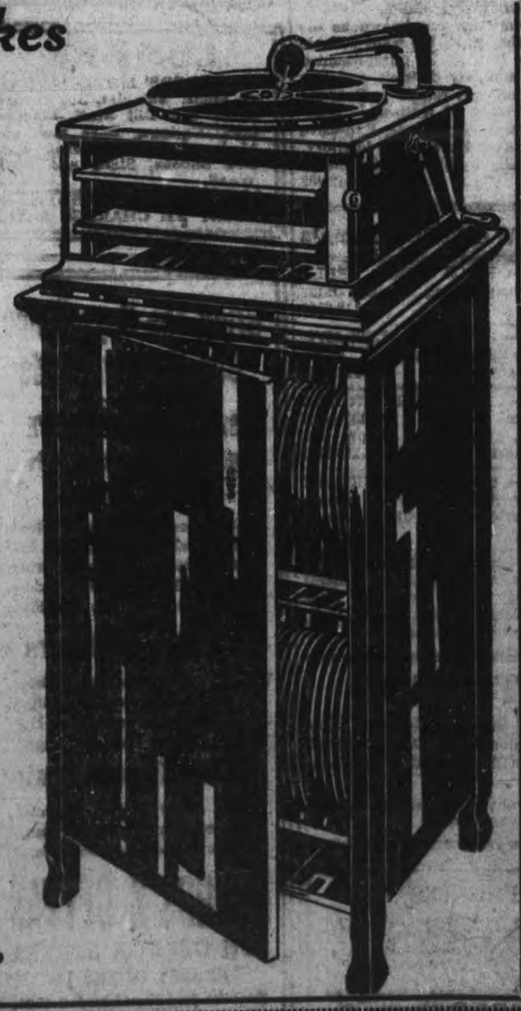
See How Little It Takes to Put a Grafonola in Your Home at Once

Little excuse for any home being without a Grafonola when such an offer as we are making for to-morrow is available. Had to disappoint quite a number last time we presented this outfit, but we've secured another lot, and we should be busy to-morrow taking orders, for the offer is an unusually attractive one—as you see:



If You Will Buy Six Records, To-morrow we will Send This Grafonola and Record Cabinet Home and you can Pay for it in Small Sums after You Get it.

As a home entertainer the Grafonola stands supreme, and the instrument here illustrated is a Grafonola of unusual merit, having all the features of instruments of two and three times the price, such as New Bayonet-Joint Tone Arm, Columbia Tone Control Leaves, Columbia Reproducer, Graduated Dial, Speed Regulator, Start and Stop Device, etc., etc. This Grafonola has powerful motor, plays two selections with one winding, beautiful oak case, with handsome panel door. Record Cabinet to match for holding records.

Grafonola and Record Cabinet, Just as Illustrated $45

As stated above, you only need to purchase six records, costing only $5.40—and giving you 12 selections—and we will deliver the outfit to you at once, and you can pay for it in small weekly sums after.

This is a one-day offer only, so don't let it pass to-morrow unheeded.

Items of Interest From Hastings

Big Celebration on Monday Last—Visitors in Town.

HASTINGS, Nov. 13.—The entire populace was stirred to its very depth when the glad news was announced on Monday morning that Germany had accepted the allies' armistice terms and that the end was in sight. At once a civic holiday was announced and all work was suspended, while preparations were made for a celebration. Flags were hoisted, bells rung, school dismissed and everyone entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion. Car loads of children paraded the streets waving flags and singing "God Save the King." At 1.30 p.m. a procession started from the Town Hall in the following order, principal of the Public Schol carrying a large flag, Hastings Band, resident ministers, School children, members of the I.O.D.E. followed by cars carrying many of the citizens. After parading the principal streets, they gathered in the Town Hall, where a suitable celebration was held. Addresses were given by the local clergy and others while several patriotic airs were sung with Miss Murphy presiding at the piano and Miss Lizzie Foulds leading. At the close of the meeting a large delegation appeared from Norwood and headed by Norwood Band formed a procession along with the citizens all in gaily decorated cars and paraded the principle streets. A novel feature in the procession which attracted much attention was an effigy of the Kaiser, drawn along behind a car and surmounted by the words "The End of the Kaiser." After the procession the locals escorted the people of Norwood part way home, several motoring over in the evening to take part in the celebration in the Town Hall there. The day surely was one which will live in the memory of even the youngest of our citizens.

HAD SUFFERED 30 YEARS, SHE SAYS

"I'll Praise Tanlac the Longest Day I Live," Says Mrs Robbins.

"Talking about things that help people," said Mrs. P. H. Robbins, of 1449 South 14th street, Omaha, Neb., in an interview, recently, "Tanlac is doing more good than any medicine I have ever known in my time, and I'm now past sixty years of age.

"In 1889, nearly thirty years ago, now," she continued, "when la grippe first came along and so many people were having it, I had an attack of it myself and have had it in some form or other from once to twice a year ever since. The first spell left me in a badly weakened condition and I would no sooner recover from one attack than I would be pulled down again. The doctors at that time called it 'rheumatic grippe' and I had aches and pains all through my body, in all my limbs and muscles. Three years ago I had one of these spells, which was so severe that they took me to the hospital, and I nearly died. I had the worst headaches it seems anyone could have and I was badly run-down and frightfully weak. I couldn't sleep well for all those thirty years. My appeite was poor. I lost twenty pounds in weight and just had to drag myself around. I was hardly ever without some kind of an ache or pain, and the past spring I was in such a bad fix that we couldn't keep house, so I went to my daughter's. My husband went to boarding and where he boarded he heard of a remarkable case like mine, that had been relieved by Tanlac.

"Then we went straight to Sherman & McConnell's drug store and got two bottles, one for me and one for himself, as he was in very bad health, too. Well, I showed some improvement on the first bottle and kept on getting better slowly. My appetite came gradually, and my strength came back a little each day. My aches and pains wore away and I got to sleeping better. When we would see one bottle getting low we would hurry to get another and since I finished my sixth bottle I'm feeling better and more like myself than I have in years. With all the sickness and 'Flu' epidemic that's going over the country I'm feeling stronger and better than I ever did. We are keeping house again now, and I eat well, sleep well, do all my housework and feel fine all the time. I am taking Tanlac with the Tanlac Tablets again now to keep in shape for the winter. It certainly is a blessing to humanity and has done so much for my husband and me that I will praise it the longest day I live."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

Jericho, the Dump of Things Evil, Say British Soldiers

EVEN THE TURK, INURED AS HE IS TO HORRORS, REFUSES TO CROSS THE LINE.

JERUSALEM.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Allied soldiers in the valley of the Jordan know now how really unkind were persons who, in pre-war days, "wished them in Jericho." To these fighting men, Jericho and its dust-covered environs mean flies, mosquitoes and snakes, mildly advertised by the Turks in this message set up opposite the British lines: "Don't fear an offensive from us; we will come over later when you are all dead."

This summer, day after day, army thermometers along the Jordan registered from 105 to 125. Yet with scarcely a breeze, and these dust-laden, the Australian and New Zealand horsemen holding these lines, bringing from a temperate climate a reserve of health and vigor lacking in the natives, withstood the ordeal. It is the second or third summer that tells.

The flies and mosquitoes of the valley know no pity. In the early days of the fighting, when it was impossible to take the necessary sanitary precautions, they bred in myriads, but now pools of stagnant water have been eliminated, and large tracts of scrub burned. As a result, the number of malaria cases has been surprisingly low.

Of the minor evils, the snakes are the worst, but due to the precautions taken by officers and men, casualties from snake-bites have been comparatively insignificant, despite the number of the reptiles and their venomous species.

One captured Turk had been attacked and bitten by a serpent, four feet long, and as he lay on his cot in a British hospital, he told how he had strangled the repile and then fainted His nerves were shattered by the incident, and medical officers said it would be years before they were again on normal.

BROWN BROTHERS HELP BUILD MERCHANT FLEET

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.— Out in the Philippine Islands the natives are busy adding ships to the mighty Allied merchant fleet that is doing so much to beat the Hun.

The department of commerce has announced that splendid work in shipbuilding is being accomplished in the islands. Most of the vessels are designed for inter-island trade. They have relieved many vessels that have been withdrawn for oversea service.

Shipbuilding in the Philippines is the revival of an art that had become almost extinct in these possessions. Back in the old days, however, when Spain's armada was the mightiest afloat, many a splendid galleon was launched in Philippine waters.

BOLSHEVIK MENACE FEARED IN HOLLAND; UNREST ELSEWHERE

Revolutionary Socialists Advocate Russian Methods—New Party Rises.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 12.—Popular joy in Holland over the end of the war is overshadowed by indefinite apprehensions of Bolshevik troubles and doubts whether a partial demobilization of the army, with an increased bread ration, will suffice to stave off subversive infection.

The revolutionary Socialist party has already issued a manifesto advocating Russian methods. Moreover, a new Republican party has arisen, aiming at the abolition of the court, army, navy and diplomacy. While there are no immediate prospects of trouble, there is plenty of combustible material. For the moment, however, joy reigns supreme, especially at The Hague.

Impression in Sweden.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The revolution in Germany has made an impression in Sweden, where organs of the Independent Socialists publish a manifesto urging the establishment of Soldiers' and Workmen's Councils everywhere in order to establish a Socialist Government and republic, according to Copenhagen advices to the Exchange Telegraph Company. General demobilization of the army and an eight-hour working day are also demanded.

Want Election in France.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—French Socialists are demanding that the administration of affairs under military law be ended immediately and that a general election be held at once to take action on the problems arising out of the economic and political reorganization of the country. The party leaders declare that measures of reorganization must be taken up with the general labour federation and that representatives of the working classes be present at the peace conference. They say that an International Labour Socialist Conference should be held during the progress of the peace negotiations.

A resolution embodying these demands was passed by the Socialist group of the Chamber of Deputies last Saturday.

Felt in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Soldiers, sailors and marines engaged last night in a fight with several hundred members of the Socialist party of greater New York, with red flags pinned to their lapels, had paraded up Fifth Avenue on their way to attend a meeting in Carnegie Hall at which funs were to be raised for the defence of Thomas J. Mooney, the Labour leader, under death sentence in California. More then 100 police reserves had to use their night sticks freely before the disturbance was quelled.

A lump of loaf sugar put into a quart of olive oil will prevent its getting rancid.

If washing powders are used in the washing of linen, it will go to pieces in no time.

Was Troubled With BOILS FOR SIX MONTHS.

From the days of Job to the present time, boils have been one of the greatest afflictions of the human race.

Very few people escape from having them at some time.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do won't cure them and stop more coming.

Boils are caused by bad blood bursting out, and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the greatest blood purifier known. It cleanses the system, and purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul material from the system, and when this is done, never another boil comes and health and strength are permanently restored.

Mr. C. H. Bridges, 470 Barton St. E., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with boils for about six months and tried several remedies without any relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and the effect has been wonderful. After using two bottles, I was rid of them all. I feel like a new man; my appetite is better, and I sleep better than I have for years. I can highly recommend B. B. B. to all who are troubled as I was."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for the past 40 years, and manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomain-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

NO INTEREST SHOWN IN ARMISTICE TERMS

Berlin Read Them on Downtown Corners and Then Went to Bed.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.— The armistice conditions posted on the downtown corners of Berlin Sunday afternoon attracted only slight attention. Berlin, the advices say, never retired before at such an early hour, and was sleeping Sunday night under the red flag.

THIN, IRRITABLE CHILD

Gained Flesh, Strength and Good Nature by Taking Vinol.

Middleton, Conn.—"I used Vinol for my little girl 5 years old for a run-down, nervous condition. She was thin, irritable all the time and had no appetite. In a week I noticed an improvement and now she has a good appetite, has gained in flesh and strength and is much pleasanter to live with."—Mrs. C. B. Wilkinson.

There is no secret about Vinol.—It owes its success in such cases to beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates, the oldest and most famous body-building tonics known.

HONOUR CLEMENCEAU IN FRENCH SENATE

Ovation Follows Declaration That He Has "Deserved Well of His Country."

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Premier Clemenceau appeared for a moment in the lobby of the Senate after a sitting of that body which had declared him, in traditional phrase, to have "deserved well of his country." The Premier's approach to the group of Senators lingering after the adjournment was the signal for an ovation to him. He was speedily surrounded by numbers of the Senate who pressed forward to shake his hand.

"You are the saviour of France!" cried one.

"No, no," replied the Premier, shrugging his shoulders. "It is the country which has done everything itself."

"Thanks to you," the Senators rejoined.

"No, I assure you," returned the Premier. "I have done but my simple duty. Any one of you who loves France would have done as much. There are moments when the spirit of itself, rises within one."

Here the Premier's voice failed him. He was overcome with emotion, and the tears coursed down his rugged countenance which so many violent storms in the past had left impassive. Recovering himself, he said:

"Gentlemen, I thank you. I did not deserve so much honor as you have done me. Let me tell you that I am proudest that you have associated my name with that of Marshal Foch, that great soldier who in the darkest hours never doubted the destiny of his country. He has inspired every one with courage, and we owe him an infinite debt."

Fully master of himself now, the Premier went on:

"Gentlemen, we are now coming to a difficult time. It is harder to win peace than to win the war. We must so act that France will resume the place in the world of which she is worthy. More than ever must she gather herself up; more than ever must she be disciplined and strong. I have confidence in her."

Then, pushing his way through the circle, the Premier said:

"Will you allow me to return to my task?"

ITALY TAKES OVER AUSTRIAN RAILWAYS

ROME, Nov. 14.—The Italian authorities, in accordance with the terms of the armistice, have taken possession of the Austrian railways in the territory ceded to Italy. Italians are directing the traffic on the railway in the liberated territory.

It is announced that deputies from Trieste and Trent would be present when the Chamber of Deputies resumes its sessions soon.

and get ahead of Lord Shaughnessy, by learning How to Save in a Better Way than he did, as follows:

SHAUGHNESSY'S FIRST $100.00.

Let us repeat Lord Shaughnessy's own story of how he saved his first hundred dollars. When a young man in Milwaukee, the future C.P.R. president found that he could not save money no matter how hard he tried, so after taking stock of his positi m he decided upon a plan that would make him save.

He went to a friend who was the cashier of the First National Bank, and asked if the bank would loan him $100.00.

"If you let me have the money," said young Shaughnessy, "I will deposit it in your bank in a savings account."

The cashier had to scratch his head over this proposition, as it was the most peculiar one he had ever heard of. He asked for an explanation.

"Well,' said the future C.P.R. man, 'if I owe the bank a hundred dollars I have got to pay it back. I want to get into debt so that I can save and pay the money back out of my earnings. Then the $100 I have on deposit will be mine."

The cashier saw the point and advanced the money and the future Lord Shaughnessy paid off the loan as quickly as he could.

Lord Shaughnessy is very proud of that first hundred dollars he saved, and he still has it. And he tells this story to inspire us to save.

How Keene Heard the Big News on Monday Morning.

KEENE, November 13. — Miss Macfarlane ,operator for the Rural Phone Co., received the news of the signing of the armistice on Monday morning at 3 a.m. Within a short time all having telephones were informed of the news. Immediately after the bell of the Presbyterian church rang out the good news to all. A half holiday was granted by the stores and in the evening a large crowd gathered and a torch light parade was indulged in ,and all then marched to the fair grounds where a big bonfire had been planned for, and the Kaiser burned in effigy. After which the crowd gathered in the town hall where a thanksgiving service had been arranged by the pastors of the Methodist and the Presbyterian churches and a programme carried out.

WAS MOBILIZED TOO LATE TO PARTICIPATE IN FIGHTING

PARIS, Nov. 14.—An official communication referring to recent operations in the eastern theatre may indicate that the formation of a new government composed entirely of generals and the declaration of war on Germany preceded the signing of the armistice and that there will be no fighting. The official report reads: "At the same time that the Roumanian army mobilized, hostilities ceased on the eastern front—11 o'clock, November 11.

Canadian women are right behind the Canadian troops in the trenches. Women nurses are now installed in hospitals 8 miles in the rear of the actual fighting line.

Many of our Canadian women are unable to take up the duties of nursing at the front, but they should know how to take care of their own at home and for this purpose no better book was ever printed than the Medical Adviser—a book containing 1,008 pages, and bound in cloth, with chapters on First Aid, Bandaging and care of Fractures, Taking care of the Sick, Physiology, Hygiene, Mother and Babe, which can be had at most drug stores, or send 50 cents to Dr. Pierce, Courtwright St., Bridgeburg, Ont.

The women at home, who are worn out, should take that reliable temperance, herbal tonic, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Woodstock, Ont.—"For womanly ailments I have found Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to be excellent. It strengthened and built me up several years ago when I was suffering with a chronic trouble and it also proved to be a splendid tonic during expectancy. I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to all sufferers from woman's weakness."

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

A small bottle of "Danderine" makes hair thick, glossy and wavy.

Removes all dandruff, stops itching scalp and falling hair.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—it costs but a few cents—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you can not find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small stand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries it little Danderine.

Sunday School Lesson Questions

Nov. 17, 1918.

Jacob fleeing from his angry brother. Gen. 28:10-22.

Golden Text: He hath not dealt with us after our sins, nor rewarded us after our iniquities. Ps. 103:10.

1. Verse 10. What in all probability would be Jacob's state of mind when leaving home

2. Verse 11. Why did God make day and night, and also sleep a necessity for both man and beast?

3. Verse 12. Was Jacob's ladder anything more than a dream? Why?

4. Would you say or not, and why, that the ladder and the angels could could have been just as real and helpful to Jacob even if only a dream?

5. Verse 12. What reason if any, is there to believe that angels are always going and coming between every sleeper's pillow and Heaven? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by the members of the Club.)

6. Where is heaven?

7. Verse 13. God clothed himself in the body of Jesus; would that indicate that God may have taken a body in his appearance to Jacob and to others in the olden times? Give your reasons.

8. Explain how and when the land on which Jacob then slept was given to him and his descendants.

9. Verse 14. What is the estimated Jewish population of the earth today?

10. What has been the benefit to the world at large of the Israelitish people?

11. Verse 15. When did Jacob come back again to that place, and what was his worldly condition on his return?

12. Verse 15. To whom does God promise to be a companion and a protector in these days, and how much practical dependence may we place upon the promise?

13. Does God give sinners as well as saints necessary things, so far as they will permit him to do so? Why or why not?

14. Verses 16, 17. Are there places and times when God is not with us? Give your reasons.

16. Seeing God is necessarily in every place where we are, how is it that he does not always reveal himself, or that we are unconscious of his presence?

17. Verses 18, 19. Why is every place where we consciously meet God so sacred and such a glorious memory?

18. Verses 18, 19. Is it possible or not for every traveller remaining only one night in the same bedroom, to joyously remember each room as a Bethel Give your reasons.

19. Verses 20-22. Why did Jacob make the vow to give to God one-tenth of his earnings?

20. What effect would you say this tithe vow had upon his after phenomenal material prosperity?

Lesson for Sunday, November 24, 1918. Jacob wins Esau. Gen. 33:1-11.

Kinmount Personals

KINMOUNT, Nov. 13.—Captain Williams, of Woodstock, arrived here last week to visit his brother, Rev. McWilliams, of town. He is now away hunting.

Miss Minnie Moore, who has been for some time in Toronto, returned home last week.

A message was received here that the armistice was signed between the Allies and Germany, and a celebration was held in the village and elsewhere. Bells were ringing, flags were flying, shots were fired, and bonfires blazed.

When Mr. Williams returned from the hunt on Saturday, he was pleasantly surprised to find that his father had arrived from Woodstock to make him a visit.

Mr. Clifford Bain is suffering from pneumonia following an attack of influenza. His father, Mr. D. Bain, is also laid up with influenza.

Initial Ceremony.

On Wednesday last Rev. McWilliams performed his first marriage ceremony when he united in marriage Miss Greta Hughes and Mr. Carl Henderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henderson.

Mr. Percy Hopkins, of Toronto, has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hopkins.

Mr. Fred Moore, who has been in the West since last spring, arrived home last week.

Miss Irene Ferren, daughter of Mrs. Ferren, has been very ill of typhoid fever. Mrs. Ferren was ill with the same trouble a short time ago.

On Saturday evening last sorrow came to the home of John and Margaret Sherman, when death took their daughter, Ella. She had been ill with influenza and pneumonia followed. She was seventeen years of age. On Monday she was buried in the Kinmount cemetery. Another member of the family was threatened with the disease, but is recovering.

The camp of Mr. Fred Dettman is closed for a while on account of the present epidemic.

Lived Like Cave Men in Trieste

People Ate Bread Made of Bark —$2 For Shoe Strings and 25c. Each For Cigarets.

TRIESTE, Tues., Nov. 6.—The only American in Trieste when the Italian forces landed, was Arthur Baker, of Pittsburg.

"We have been living like cave-men for four years," he said to the correspondent, "never seeing a friendly face and spending our entire income on food. It required $15,000 to live, even indecently. It was a common thing for rich men to beg a pair of pants from acquaintances. There was so much paper money that it was valueless. The only way to obtain a thing was to find something the other fellow wanted and then trade. Farmers gave up food on this basis. Shoe strings sold for $2 a pair and cigarettes for a quarter of a dollar each. Flour was $5 a pound. Horse meat was the same price, as also was butter. The poor people of the city ate bread made of the bark of trees. In Dalmatia they ate grass."

Prof. Slaughter, of the American red cross, has arrived here on board a destroyer loaded with provisions.

ITALIAN FOR 500 YEARS

TRIESTE, UNDER AUSTRIAN RULE, NEVER RELINQUISHED HOPES OF FREEDOM.

Trieste for the Italians has been the symbol of "irredentism," of land unination by Austria the city has steadand throughout its 500 years of domination by Austria thecity has steadfastly refused to abandon its Italian nativity. According to Admiral Thaon di Revel, Commander in Chief of the Italian Navy, possession of the strip of Adriatic coast which the city carries with it gives Italy full domination over the Adriatic and represents to her the key of the great route to the Orient.

The rival of Venice in the middle ages, Trieste came for the first time under the power of that republic in the second half of the fourteenth century. She recovered her liberty later, and affiliated herself with the Church of Aquileia, but in 1382 fell into the clutches of Austria. Trieste, however, by dint of her freely expressed antagonism to the Austrians, succeeded in obtaining certain freedome, and in 1719 received the rights of a free city from the Austrian Emperor Charles VI. During the whole of this period the city struggled constantly to preserve its Italian language and its Latin civilization but in the midst of the efforts came the Napoleonic wars, and finally the Congress of Vienna gave Trieste back to Austria in 1815.

Despite the efforts of the Austrian Government to uproot everything Italian in Trieste, expressed by the burning of Italian societies, the city throughout its captivity remained flourishingly Italian. The latest available census that of 1910, disclosed that its population included 118,939 Italian and an additional 29,439 who had become Italian through naturalization, as against 11,856 Germans, 5,916 Slovenes, and 2,403 Serbo-Croats.

A year ago Admiral Thaon di Revel declared that to all Italians there were "five magic names—Trent, Trieste, Istria, Dalmatia, and Adriatic." continuing, he added:

"These places justify to Italians, no matter where they may be, the life and action of the new Italy. Italy after centuries of servitude, has been able to gather together most of the scattered fragments of her territory, to wrest them by successive bloody wars from foreign usurpers. But Italy is not yet fully united, nor can she ever be or ever feel secure at home, as long as the doors of Italy remain open. These doors are Trieste and Trent."

"please bring my daddy home soon"

"Daddy is in France---he fought in the war. He risked life and limb. He toiled and battled for years in the reeking filth and perilous hell of war---away from home and wife and child."

Now, he wants to come home, and his dear ones want him too.

Let us all help to bring him home.

Omemee Put Up a Grand Little Celebration Monday

Every Industry in the Village Was Closed Down During the Day —The Parade.

OMEMEE, Nov. 14.—Omemee was in no way behind in her celebration when the message arrived on Monday that the war was over. Immediately after the news reached here, church bells began to ring, whistles to blow and flags were hoisted from nearly all the residences as well as business places. The small boy and girl were to be heard blowing their horns and whistles and many cheers ascended. Flag-draped baby carriages and vehicles were seen on the street and our town was much alive.

Factories Closed.

The Leather Co. closed their shop and shut down for the remainder of the day and marched in a body with their manager, Mr. Harry Lamb, as leader, carrying the Union Jack, and a small boy beside him with a buzzie. Needless to say, this was an attraction, and faces were to be seen peaking out from every window. A bon-fire had been partly arranged for in the evening, but was called off when word came that the report was not confirmed. We were a little ahead with our celebration, but we need a little excitement in our town once in a while and we were not the only town or city on the map.

On Monday when the news reached here by phone there was very little excitement, although everybody seemed happy. Our town showed the highest respect for the Rev. J. P. Lewis when he asked that no fireworks or the cannon be fired off on account of his son, who had just came home on Saturday evening suffering from shell-shock. Apart from a bon-fire at night and a few boys dressed up in outfits not their own, our town remained very quiet all day.

On Tuesday afternoon a mass meeting was held in Coronation Hall and a thanksgiving service was offered up.

For the sports suit one does well to choose blue Hawaiian cloth.

GENERAL RULES FOR ALL COAL HEATERS

The check-draft damper is as important in controlling the rate at which the fire burns as is the throttle of an engine in controlling its speed. Open it to check the fire; close it to make the fire burn more rapidly. Work it. Experiment with it in the daily regulation of your fire. It is located at the back, or on top, of the furnace.

Just enough draft, and that from below (through the lift or slide damper in the ashpit door), is one of the best general rules. This checks the draft by letting more air into the smoke pipe and furnishes oxygen necessary for the consumption of gases —the more you open it and the more you keep it open the more the fire will burn.

A loose-fitting key or turn damper located in the smoke-pipe, between the furnace proper and the check-damper, will help hold the fire in many cases, particularly where there is a strong draft, partly closing in mild weather.

Never open the ash-pit door to make the fire burn more briskly; just raise the draft door or open the slide. The ash-pit door is intended to be opened only when taking out ashes. Opening the ash-pit door allows more air to enter than is necessary for combustion, and this is wasteful. It also helps form clinkers in many cases.

Never open the coaling door to check the fire. If you cannot check the fire without opening the coaling door, you need proper dampers. Make use of the lift or slide damper in the coaling door only to let oxygen in to consume gases.

Do not poke or slice a hard coal (anthracite) fire on the top. Disturb fire as little as possible.

When putting on coal or shaking the fire see that the check damper in the smoke pipe is closed.

If the fire is low, put on the draft by closing the check damper, opening the draft door at the bottom, and let the fire burn for a few minutes, then add a little fresh coal. When this is burning, and not before, the grates may be shaken.

Don't shake the grates too much. In moderate weather leave some ashes on top of grates; in severe weather shake until you see a glow in the ash pit. The more and the oftener you shake the fire, the more it will burn.

Remove the ashes daily, and do not allow them to accumulate in the ash-pit; neglect of this interferes with the proper distribution of air, and will also cause the grates to warp or burn out.

The most economical results will be had from running a deep fire. Always have the firepot filled with coal to the bottom of the feeder door.

It is not economy to allow the house temperature to drop way down at night. It takes just twice as much coal to heat it up again next morning.

See that the gates work freely and are left in proper position (flat).

To leave fire for night, after burning off gases, partly close pipe-damper, close ash-pit damper, open check-damper.

In the morning if the fire has received fair attention the night before, 10 to 20 minutes should be plenty of time for leaving the draft door open, and the balance of the day until fixing the fire for the night, there should rarely be need for opening again.

When burning soft coal have slide, or lift damper in firing door partly open. Soft coal requires air over the fire for proper consumption of gases.

These are general rules for operating your heating apparatus applying to all, but you should study the rules regarding the particular kind of heater you have — hot air, hot water or steam.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR BLACK

Try Grandmother's old Favourite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of his famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

"We Want Candy Cascarets"

Resolved: That when our tongues turn white, breath feverish, stomach sour and bowels constipated, that our mothers give us Cascarets, the nice candy cathartic, and not nasty castor oil, mineral oil, calomel or pills. Cascarets "work" without griping and never hurt us kids. Cost only 10 cents.

TO MOTHERS! Learn to give harmless Cascarets to your cross, sick, bilious, constipated pets and save coaxing, worry and money. Children love this candy cathartic. Nothing else cleanses the little liver and bowels so effectively. Each 10 cent box of Cascarets contains directions for dosage for children aged one year old and upwards.

Mrs. Johnston has returned home, after a pleasant visit with friends in Lindsay.

Miss Alta Sanderson has sufficiently recovered after her operation for appendicitis to be removed to her home on Monday.

Are you a Victory Bond investor?

Keep Your Money Earning Interest

If you have money coming in during the next twelve months,

—if you have promissory notes coming due, a mortgage maturing, an estate to be settled, dividends or interest accruing to you,

—money from any source which is reasonably certain;

—You can buy Victory bonds in anticipation by arranging with any chartered bank to carry you until your money comes in.

—And it won't cost you a cent to do it,

—because the bank will lend you the money at the same rate of interest which the bonds will be earning.

It means that from the moment you get your money and repay the bank, your money begins to earn interest at 5½ per cent —your money is not idle for a minute.

Canada's Chartered Banks have offered to assist investors to buy Victory Bonds with money they expect to get during the year.

This is your opportunity to help your country and to keep your money invested in an absolutely safe security bearing good interest.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

WHAT A PEDDLER DID

By M. QUAD

Copyright, by Associated Literary Press.

Abraham Barnes and his sister, Cynthia, were quarreling.

A little farm had been left the two children by will, and, while they almost hated each other, neither would sell to the other. Both wanted the best of the bargain, and both feared to be cheated.

It had been a cat and dog business for years, and Abraham had come to be thirty years old and Cynthia twenty-eight. She was a strapping, healthy young woman, and she not only acted as housekeeper, but worked in the fields a part of the time.

Nature had wanted to spite the state of Indiana when she created them—cross eyed, lop shouldered, big ears, big mouths, overhanging teeth and bow legs! The pair had once been offered $75 per week to go as freaks in a dime museum. They would have accepted only they could not agree as to the division of the salary.

What a tin peddler heard as he stood in the open door of a summer's morning was:

"You are a liar!"

"And so are you!"

"Oh, how I hate you!"

"And I'd like to kill you!"

"And what kind of talk is this between brother and sister?" demanded the peddler as he stepped inside the house.

"There: I'm glad somebody has listened and knows just how mean you are!" exclaimed Cynthia to Abe.

"But what's it all about" asked the peddler.

"He wants to get married, but no woman will have him," explained Cynthia.

"No woman will have me as long as she is around, and you can't blame her," added Abe. "Just take a square look at her, will you?"

"And then take a square look at him, will you?"

The peddler helped himself to a chair and sat down, with his hands on his knees, and took a long look at both in turn. Then he uttered a whistling "w-h-e-w!" and added:

"It's awful—just awful!"

"You mean her!" said Abe.

"You mean him!" added Cynthia.

"Um, um! It's which and t'other, I guess. So you quarrel about getting married?"

They both nodded their heads.

"You are right when you see no chances."

No response.

"Unless you make it an object for me to help you out," finished the peddler.

"What do you mean?" was chorused.

"Sit down and let's talk. Now, then, the first thing is to recognize the fact that neither man nor woman is going to fall in love with you and marry you out of affection."

Brother and sister sighed drearily.

"But one of you can get a wife and the other a husband, just the same, if the scheme is worked right. Just about one marriage out of seven is a love affair. In the other cases it's money that talks."

"You have a scheme. Let's hear it."

"Not so fast. If I can marry you both off I want $50 each."

"You shall have it."

"And you must do exactly as I tell you to."

For an hour the peddler's scheme was discussed, and he then resumed his way.

The Barnes farm was on a main highway, and somebody was passing every few minutes. One morning farmers driving to the village two miles beyond pulled their teams up short at an unwonted sight. Abe and his sister were digging with pick and spade in a grove near the road. They had evidently been at work since mid-night, for there were several holes in which a calf could have been buried.

"Hey, Abe, are you digging a well there?" was called, but neither Abe nor his sister pretended to hear.

What one farmer said to himself as he drove on half a dozen did, and that was:

"By thunder, but I thought that tin peddler was gassing when he told of buried treasure on the Barnes farm. Abe and his sister must have got a pinter and are digging fur it. Consarn 'em! If they find it they orter be made to divide."

That peddler did his work well over three counties. On the fifth day of the digging a widower came twenty miles to look Cynthia over. He shook his head and backed off, but heard some one whisper that the treasure amounted to $1,000,000 in gold. He therefore drew a long breath, braced up and said to Cynthia:

"It is love at first sight with me."

"But we may not find the money," she replied.

"It is a wife to love me and no money," he gallantly lied. And inside of four days they were married.

It was the day after Cynthia's wedding that a widow with an eye to business came driving up in a one horse wagon and got audience with Abe to say:

"I'm hunting for the right kind of a man."

"But I am as homely as a thistle patch," he replied.

"Not in my eyes."

"If we find the treasure it will be near $1,000,000, but we may not find it."

"Do me the justice, sir, to believe that I don't care whether you find it or not."

Abe and Cynthia got their mates, all right, and the peddler got his commission, and the treasure was never found.

Were they happy marriages? Echo answers nothing!

QUININE AS A PREVENTIVE.

Has Cut Down Malaria Cases to a Small Fraction.

Quinine, though so long recognized as a cure for malaria, has been extensively used as a preventive only with the last very few years.

In Italy its employment in this way has been developed on a large scale by the Government, quinine pills being sold at cost to communes and towns, which are required to distribute them gratis among all the people who are too poor to pay for them.

By this means—the pills being recommended to be taken regularly as soon as warm weather arrives—malarial conditions in Italy have been vastly improved, relatively, few cases occurring, while the death rate from the malady has been reduced to one-fourth or one-fifth of what it used to be.

This, too, although many of the people do not take the quinine before the disease strikes them. In the Italian army, where men are under discipline and obliged to take the stuff, malaria cases have been cut down to a small fraction of the old-time 28 per cent. Similar results are reported from Greece and Algeria.

The preventive dose is seven grains daily for adults and half that quantity for children under ten years. One important effect of the treatment is to render cases milder and more easily curable when they do arrive.

Quinine is a deadly poison to malaria germs. The supposition is that, when used in advance, it interferes with their multiplication in the blood, keeping them below the number necessary to produce an attack.

The public health service advises that this method be widely adopted in the United States. A farmer may not be able to drain and clear his land so as to get rid of mosquitoes. He may find it difficult to make his house mosquito proof with screens. But he can always buy enough quinine to protect his family from an onset of "chills and fever."

MUSIC?—Why it is the actual voice of Anna Case—just as I heard the great soprano at the Metropolitan, New York.

The New Edison is going to be a wonderful help to me with my studies at the Conservatory. It brings right to my very room the voices of the great artists of to-day as they actually interprete the enduring gems of Music. This is not a flimsy shadow, not a mere approximation of Music. It is Music "Re-Created" in all its original beauty. There is no shade of difference between the living artists' voice and the New Edisons' "Re-Creation" of it. This—ah, this is Music!

Wouldn't you like to hear this really marvelous invention of the world's greatest inventor? With the New Edison there are no needles to change. Plays all makes of records. Easy terms if you wish.

Brantford Girl Poisoned Herself

Committed Rash Act in Kitchener Hotel While Despondent.

KITCHENER, Nov. 14. — Miss Phyllis Thomas, of Brantford, died at the K. W. Hospital here yesterday, after she had taken bichloride of mercury while in her room at the Walper House on Tuesday afternoon. Miss Thomas came to this city on Sunday afternoon with her employer, W. Grant Merrill, who is a Brantford coal and hay merchant.

According to evidence given at the inquest here, the girl came to this city to assist Merrill in collecting accounts. For some unknown reason she poisoned herself shortly after the noon hour on Tuesday.

She gave no . . . reason for her act while at the hospital, evading questions by her mother and father, who reached her bedside shortly before she died.

The girl was of a nervous temperament, and it is believed she took the tablets while in a fit of despondency. Every attempt to learn where she obtained the poison here so far failed.

SCALES & ROBERTS LIMITED, TORONTO.

THE LONG-HAIRED ONE.

The colonel of the Blankshires was notified that his unit was about to be inspected by the Secretary of War. The captain was ordered to make a preliminary inspection, to see that all was in readiness. In one of the huts a mop had been standing, head uppermost, against the wall.

The captain (who, by the by, is said to be very short-sighted), on entering the room, pointed to the head of the mop, and exclaimed, in a loud, sharp tone:

"Sergeant, see that man gets his hair cut at once."

The sergeant, taking in the situation, remarked: "Very good, sir." And, smartly calling out "Attention!" he succeeded in checking the tittering and laughter which was on the point of breaking out.

The Pig's Share in the War

(By Lieutenant K. N. Colville).

Nobody has ever called the pig a noble animal. He is popularly supposed to pay the Irishman's "rint," and in the nursery rhyme books we read of a lady who "loved a swine," but the swine was an unmannerly brute and only answered "hunk." The pig is more generally associated with an exceedingly dirty mode of life and a power of emitting the most earsplitting squeals.

But the war has made us all appreciate piggy, or at any rate his material qualities, more highly. He is not, we have been told, dirty by choice, or a devourer of garbage from a pervasion of task. His merits are that he can do with very little attention (which is therefore all he gets) and, though he likes good grain, he can thrive on mere garbage.

It is here that his wartime value comes in. He will eat potatoes that are unfit for humon consumption and the contents of the swill tub and convert all into succulent and nutritive flesh, a flesh, moreover, that particularly lends itself to the pickler's and preserver's economic acts. Rightly, therefore, has every Englishman been adjured to keep a pig.

But the German needed no such adjuration. The pig has long been an object of the deepest affection in Germany, and a semi-official pamphlet published last year, emphasises both the importance of the pig as an article of food in peace-time Germany, and his lamentable diminution to-day.

In peace time, we learn, the German pig supplied about two thirds of the total meat stocks in the country. There was no import and virtually no export of pigs, and the normal stocks in the country were twice as large as those of England and France combined. For his sustenance a good deal of fodder (mainly barley) was imported, the tariff wall being lowered for this purpose.

Right royally was the German pig fed. His life was not a long one, but he consumed in the course of it enough potatoes to feed a man for six and a half years and enough grain to feed him for two years, and as the pork or bacon thus obtained would not provide anything like an equivalent ration, many people in Germany advocated, as a war measure, the slaughtering of the innumerable herds.

But man, and particularly German man, must have fat. Therefore the pig has been retained, though in greatly reduced numbers. He is now fed, in theory, only on surplus potatoes and grain, after allowing for the ration of the human population in those foods. But in practice it has been found impossible to control the adjustment of pigs to fodder in the case of the small breeder, who probably produced both himself. On the one hand the farmer would feed good potatoes to pigs, instead of sending that all important tuber to market; on the other he would slaughter his pigs, and either devour them himself or sell illicitly rather than buy food. It is estimated that in the season 1916-7 the number of pigs illicitly slaughtered was from 2½ to 5 millions.

The pig is in a sense an indication of the level of food stocks in the country, and it is interesting to observe that the stock on June 1, 1917, was just over half what it was on the same date of 1914. On that date it numbered 25,300,000. In December of that year the figure was the same, but it fell to 16,600,000 in April, 1915, rose again to 19,200,000 in October of that year, but fell a million a month throughout that winter. The decrease was then checked and had fallen no less than 12,800,000 by June, 1917. But a that date a further considerable reduction was expected in the near future (we know from other sources that on December 1 of that year the stock had fallen to 11 millions), and with the potato stocks at their present low ebb it looks as though the German pig's days were numbered.

INFLUENZA ABATING.

Fewer Cases Reported in Saskatchewan Cities.

SASKATOON, Nov. 13.—Another big drop in the number of new cases of influenza was reported yesterday, when the emergency committee received 35 new calls. This is a drop of 30 calls from Monday and one-fifth of the number a week ago. Five deaths were reported yesterday.

AGED LADY SHOOTS HAWKS.

That Had Been Looting Her Chicken Coop in Mantioba.

EMERSON, Manitoba, Nov. 13. — Last week Mrs. A. W. Henderson, of Emerson, with two well-directed shots brought down two large hawks, each with a wing spread of over three and a half feet, that had been looting her chicken coop. The rumpus in the yard drew her attention, and when she discovered it was a hawk she got her gun from the house and followed the bird to the bush, where she winged him with the first shot. The weapon administered a "kick" of considerable proportions, and Mrs. Henderson and the bird tumbled about the same time. It was a fine specimen of the blue hawk, and has been taken to Winnipeg to be mounted. The second bird was hardly dead when being trailed home, and put up quite a scrap, leaving its claw marks on Mrs. Henderson's face and arm, but she pluckily hung on and landed her game. Considering her age of eighty-two years, Mrs. Henderson as a sure shot has few equals.

KEEP MILK AT 12 CENTS.

Kingston Milk Vendors Ordered to Reduce Price From 14 Cents to 12 Cents Per Quart.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 14.—Under Order-in-Council received here yesterday, Milk Inspector G. W. Bell, V.S., has ordered that all milk vendors must sell milk at not more than twelve cents a quart. Most of the dealers have been charging fourteen cents for it. The new price allows a margin of five cents a quart over cost.

DID NOT ELECT OFFICERS

CIVIL SERVANTS WERE TOO BUSY AMENDING CONSTITUTION

OTTAWA, Nov. 13.—So animated and extensive was the discussion on the proposed amendments to the constitution, that it was found impossible to elect the officers at the annual meeting of the Civil Service Association of Ottawa last night. The amendments tend towards a more democratization of the association and as a consequence they resulted in prolonged discussion. The meeting got out of the hands of Chairman Drake long before an adjournment was called for some time next week.

The Allies Will See That Rolling Stock Provisions of the Armistice Do Not Work Undue Hardship on the German People

German Women Send a Wireless Appeal to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Miss Jane Adams—Will Not Relax Armistice Terms.

MAY BE PROPAGANDA

By Carl D. Groat
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The United States and the Allies will see to it that rolling stock provisions of the armistice do not work an undue hardship on Germany, provided that nation does its utmost to maintain order. This, unofficially, is the government atttiude toward the German women's wireless appeal to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and to Miss Jane Adams of Hull House, Chicago, and received by the War Department over night. The appeal declared that German women had been starving for years and would now die from hunger. "By millions" if the associated governments did not relax the stipulations as to seizure of railway material. It was indicated that the governments have no intention of modifying the armistice terms.

Spectre of Anarchy.

But at the same time there were indications that the rolling stock seized could be placed to aid the Germans if they smother the spectre of Bolshevism now stalking their land. There is a disposition in many quarters to believe that Germany is overplaying the "sympathy game." Some see in the numerous appeals to the United States a distinct propaganda effort to get President Wilson to use his influence in modifying the terms; others believe there is a touch of effort to create jealousy by making the United States the only source to which the Germans look for help. The recent ravages of the German soldiers in Belgium, in open violation to the armistice conditions, and the surly tone of some recent utterances in Germany do not square with the rest of the picture; and they are dulling sympathy for the starving ones. Early today the government had heard nothing of a reply from Germany to Marshal Foch's protest against the violation of the armistice terms.

Where the armistice was signed. Senlist, to the north of Paris, shown on the above map, will be historical from now on.

Peace Sessions at Versailles

The Same Historic Hall May Be Used.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Nov. 15. — Versailles, although not formally chosen as the meeting place for the peace negotiations is regarded as almost certain to be the place selected for the peace conference when the Inter-Allied Council re-assembles to-day.

The real work of the negotiations will be carried on in Paris, where it is probable that delegations from all the countries will reside temporarily, members going out to Versailles now and then for plenary sections of the conference. There is also little doubt that the supreme act of signing the peace agreement will take place at Versailles in the same historic hall where the German Empire was proclaimed in 1871.

The Peterborough Branch, G.W.V.A. will meet Monday night, Nov. 18th, in the club rooms, George Street, for the nomination and election of officers. Every member is requested to attend.

The G.W.V.A. will attend the National Thanksgiving Service in St. John's Church on Sunday evening next in a body, headed by the G.W.V.A. Band. All members are asked to be on hand at the Armouries at 6:30 o'clock on Sunday evening in uniform if possible.

Will Open Proceedings

French Deputies Want Count Hohenzollern and His Gang Brought to Justice.

Special to the Examiner:

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Three deputies to-day served notice that they will move that the Allied Governments open legal proceedings against those responsible for the war, through the establishment of a tribunal, composed of representatives of all the countries which have suffered from the machinations of those men. They declared in a memorandum that even if Holland should refuse extradition, "the fact that the Kaiser, the Crown Prince and their advisers had been condemned by such a tribunal would place them in such a position that their only refuge would be death." It is now expected that the Peace Conference will be held in Versailles early in 1919.

Peace Conference.

Foreign Secretary Balfour and Foreign Minister Sonnino already have arrived here. Premier Lloyd George and Premier Orlando are expected soon. Colonel House is working overtime. France has plunged into the task of reconstruction and demobilization. The oldest classes probably will be the first to be mustered out. Next will come the farmers, miners and men of similar qualifications for much needed labour, and those whose old jobs are waiting for them. The Ministry of Labour is working on a scheme for jobs for the jobless, and will start up peace time enterprises. The new civil administration of Alsace Lorraine is rapidly taking over the local government of the restored provinces. Marshal Foch and Premier Clemenceau are expected to enter Strassburg early next week. The French and Americans are advancing toward Metz, which they are expected to occupy Sunday or Monday.

Extremists Cause Anxiety in Holland.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 15.— The threatening attitude of the extremists in Holland, who have demanded the abdication of Queen Wilhelmina, is causing anxiety at The Hague.

Jenkheer Colyn, former Minister of War, who has been in London since July, returned to Holland Thursday. He was recalled, the Daily Express believes, to take charge of the government. The former minister has great influence in Holland and several times has refused the request of the Queen to form a new government.

WILL OPPOSE THE REVOLUTIONISTS

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 15.— The crews of German U-boats at a mass meeting at Bruns-Buttel, according to a Copenhagen despatch, resolved to oppose the revolution and reinstate officers and fly the national flag.

FRANK JENNE says:

Shop Early for Christmas

Several Good Reasons for Doing Your Christmas Shopping Early.

"Avoid crowds and keep well" during the recent epidemic. The durning the recent epidemic. The same holds good for the Christmas shopper. Dr. Amys has stated that influenza is bound to linger in isolated cases during the winter, therefore it is common sense for the public to avoid such a danger and shop early.

Every shopper wants an assortment to choose their Christmas presents from, and the store keepers have just opened unusually tempting stocks of every known need or fancy. Stocks drawn from Japan, Europe, United States and the best the big Canadian stores can produce. By the last week before Christmas these will be pulled over and the best selected.

Again the Christmas shopper is generally the housekeeper or is engaged in some work which will not permit loss of time. To shop at any time is tedious, but how much more so when the clerk is too busy to wait immediately upon the customer. In the Christmas season when the big rush comes at once every one knows what it means to stand for hours waiting for the one ahead, and yet year after year the shopping is put off. This year when attractions such as the return of the heroes from overseas is likely to be a daily occurrence towards Christmas, the lucky person will be the one who has his stock of presents in hand and will need to miss no celebration because "they simply haven't time to go anywhere with all the shopping they have on hand."

More American Traffic This Year

The Lift-Lock closed for 1918 on Wednesday, November 6th, three days later than last year, when it closed on November 3rd. The date of closing depends upon the weather and the mild atmosphere of this year prolonged the season.

The river locks will be open until they freeze up.

American Traffic.

While there was no really important traffic through the local locks, the number of boats which passed through was somewhat larger than in former years. The increase principally came from the small American pleasure launches, of which a large number went through to the upper lakes.

Carry Grain.

The local locks are in daily use by the Rice Lake boats, which carry up grain and considerable quantities of freight. Captain Burnet and Captain Harris will probably ply up and down until ice forbids further trips.

Naval Terms Carried Out

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Nov. 15.—The naval terms of German and Austrian armistice are being carried out rapidly. The German cruiser Koenigsberg, which is carrying German delegates to arrange naval terms of the armistice it is understood here will be met by British warships this afternoon and will be escorted to a point at sea, where German delegates will meet Admiral Sir David Beatty, commander of the British grand fleet.

A SERIOUS SITUATION

Violence and Disorder Threatens Thousands of Lives in Russia.

A MASSACRE

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 15. — The British Foreign Office has issued a statement saying:

Reports of a massacre at Warsaw have reached the government. Should these reports prove true it would point to a serious situation because the forces of violence and disorder already threatening the life of every population between the Rhine and the Volga would be encouraged. The statement points out that the Allies and the United States are ready to lend their whole resources to the task of restoring the economic basis of orderly civilized life in those countries, and are showing by their acts that they desire order and civilization.

KILLED IN ACTION

PTE. W. V. McILMOYLE.

The following particulars of the death and burial of the late Pte. Walter V. McIlmoyle, who enlisted with the depot battalion, and was killed on September 29th, have been received by his mother, Mrs. Mary McIlmoyle, 217 Charlotte Street. The letter follows:

Dear Mrs. McIlmoyle,—I only wish there was something to say which could be of any comfort to you, and if the heartfelt sympathy of the officers and men of the battalion, and especially his company are of any use, you have them all.

He was killed on September 29th on the Cambrai-Douai Road by a machine gun bullet, and though he didn't die instantly he was unconscious, and did not suffer. He was buried in Burlon Cemetery, near Burlon Village, in Plot 2, Row B, Grave 4, with the rest of his company who fell that day.

The Battalion Chaplain attended the service, and he was buried with full military honours.

With deepest sympathy, yours sincerely,

H. T. Nelson, Lieut.

The late Pte. McIlmoyle was a member of "A" Company, No. 4 Platoon, 38th Battalion, C.E.F.

CANADIAN CASUALTIES

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, Nov. 15. — Over 55,000 Canadian soldiers have laid down their lives in the war. The total casualties received here to November 13 are given at 213,268, an aggregate which will likely be increased owing to the fact that troops of the Dominion were engaged in heavy fighting at Mons up to the last minute of the fighting, and reports of latest casualties are still being received at Ottawa.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

The Allies Are Working on the Details—The Advance Guard.

CHANGES IN GERMANY

By Robert J. Bender
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Preliminaries for the great peace conference are now well under way. It was indicated to-day that the conclave might be held before or shortly after the first of the year.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—While the peace conference will be delayed beyond another month, according to the best information here to-day, this Government and the Allies are working on details, both at the home capitals and through the Supreme War Council at Versailles. Probably within the next ten days, the advance guard of the American delegation will go over to arrange wire and cable facilities for handling the news of the great session.. However, it seems likely from press despatches that constitutional changes are in effect in Germany now and that steps are under way for forming a stable government. The main question is as to whether any particular government will stand at this time, with unrest and revolution underlying the whole Teuton situation. More than twenty-five nations have a right to places at the peace tables as belligerents against Germany. These countries will not have equal voice in the session, even though technically entitled to it. Instead, France, Britain, the United States and Italy will have the main power. Belgium's claims will be carefully followed, as will the claims of the Balkan nations.

GERMAN ARMIES HAVE RETIRED BEYOND BORDERS

Special to The Examiner:

PARIS, Nov. 15.— The last of the German armies has retired beyond the borders of France, it was unofficially announced this afternoon.

German civil and military authorities were in conference at Nancy today with Albert Tirman, State Councillor for the Metz district, relative to the assumption of the administration of Alsace-Lorraine by French officials.

The present schedule calls for the French to enter Metz on Monday, strictly for the purpose of military occupation. Strassburg will be occupied about November 25.

The official ceremonies in connection with the restoration of the "lost provinces" will be held the first of December.

Four hundred and twenty thousand French war prisoners, including those interned in neutral countries, will be repatriated, it was officially announced to-day.

Hunting News From Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 15.—Mr. D. B. Miller has arrived home from the hunt. His party secured seven deer.

Mr. Roland Montgomery, of Smith, went to Cavendish one day last week and was lucky enough to get two deer.

Pte. B. T. Watley and Mr. Alvin Graham hunted above Apsley and shot three deer near Loon Lake.

Mr. Arthur Payne secured a nice buck.

The Kidd-Gibson party brought in twelve deer, having excellent luck.

Mr. W. A. Nixon secured one deer.

The Gordon, Spence, Stabler party shot five deer and a fox.

Mr. Russell Ball has returned home with a deer.

Mr. C. S. Tanner has returned home with a fine deer.

WILL LOOK AFTER SHIPPERS' NEEDS

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—Immediate efforts will be made by the Government to meet the need of certain Canadian shippers for tonnage to convey the products to their markets. Many shippers have been complaining of the lack of vessels for voyages, particularly to South Africa, Australia and New Zealand. Considerable quantities of goods consigned to those countries have been in store for several months awaiting shipment. The Government therefore, will take up this situation at once and will, it is understood, approach the British authorities with a view to securing the release of ships requisitioned by them for war purposes.

Great Britain Faces the Prospect of Early Election

British Political Conditions Are in Chaotic State—Life of Present House Expired.

SINN FEINERS

(Associated Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 15. —The issue in the coming elections is whether the country will endorse Lloyd George's proposal that the present coalition government, with himself as Premier, shall be continued after the war for work of making peace and carrying on the labour of construction. Never before were the British political conditions as chaotic as they are to-day. The war has shattered old party lines. The electoral reform bill adopted by Parliament during the summer virtually doubled the number of voters. It gave the ballot to all women over 30 and men over 21 and soldiers under 21. This added six million females and two million males to the voting list. How women will vote and what part the soldiers will support none can predict.

The prospect of plunging the country into excitement and expense of an election at such a time as the present has created strong opposition. On the other hand the legal life of the present House expired three years ago and it has extended its own tenure of office from term to term by resolutions.

Herbert H. Asquith remains official leader of the Liberal party, while Lloyd George is a free lance without any party organization or party funds behind him. His wish to continue the political truce which all parties declared at the beginning of war, and trusts to the slogan that he is the "leader who won the war" to attract votes. So far as Ireland is concerned, the election probably means the almost total disappearance of the old Nationalist party of Redmond and Dillon from Westminster. The Sinn Feiners are expected to sweep Southern Ireland, but members elected by Sinn Feiners always refuse to take their seats.

In addition to trying to hold together his Conservative and Liberal supporters, Mr. Lloyd George is trying to reconcile the Asquith faction.

Thanksgiving Postponed

Government Has Changed the Date to December 1st.

OTTAWA, Nov. 15.— Advices from the Provincial Governments of the four western Provinces show that influenza conditions are such that the churches will not be open next Sunday, and it is urged that the day of national thanksgiving be postponed. The Government has therefore decided that the date should be fixed for Sunday, December 1.

Auburn Mills Elect Officers

A meeting of the directors of the Auburn Woollen Co., Ltd., was held at the office of the company yesterday and the following officers were elected:

President—Mrs. James Kendrey.
Vice-Pres. and General Manager—Mr. Herbert Kendrey.
Directors—Mr. J. Hilliard Carnegie, Mr. W. H. Meldrum, and Mr. J. E. L. Goodwill.
Secretary—Miss Ethel Miller.

Peterboro Hunters Have Returned

Did Not Hear of War's Close Until Wednesday.

A hunting party of ten, comprising some Peterborough men, returned to Lindsay with the spoils of the hunt. The party consisted of Messrs. T. A. Fisher, Dr. Irvine, Geo. Beall, Oswald McGill of Janetville, Robert Neill, R. J. Soden, W. R. Widdess of Peterborough, J. N. Shannon, Toronto, Joe Robertson, guide, Paul Guerin, cook, of Peterborough.

The party left Lindsay just at the beginning of the season, going to Coldwater and thence to Pakasley per C.P.R. From Pakasley they took the Key Valley Lumber Railway to its terminus, then took the steamboat for thirty-two miles up Pickeral River to Wilson Lake. Then the party drove seven miles in a waggon and paddled the last three miles into camp.

The weather was excellent, much better than here, and it was with great vigor that the huntsmen, together with their three dogs, entered into the fray. The ten men were responsible for fourteen deer during their stay in the Parry Sound district. An excellent cook accompanied the party and to say the repasts served were toothsome is putting it mildly

One morning just after the day's hunt had begun and when the dogs had been loosed through the woods, they rounded up a great shaggy bruin. One hunter took aim and shot, but did not get him, being a considerable distance away. The bear escaped.

When asked if the party heard of the end of the world war while in camp, Mr. Fisher said that they knew nothing of the situation until Wednesday morning, when they arrived in Pakasley.

STILL UP TO THE CITY

Yesterday the Examiner speaking of the Victory Loan campaign remarked that it was up to the city, not only to subscribe its own allotment of the Loan, but to make up for the deficiency in the county. The statement seems to have been a little premature, for since that article was written, the different sections of the county have shown a tendency to finish the great drive in whirlwind fashion and the returns yesterday indicated that several outside districts are setting the pace. Norwood and Asphodel asked for $100,000, have flashed past the mark, won an honor flag, and are now after a crown or two and Havelock has also gone over the top, while the city of Peterboro, according to yesterday's figures had failed to reach its objective of $800,000. Otonabee is right behind the city in the race and Dummer and Smith are coming strong. It is still up to the city—but in a different manner. The people of Peterboro, it is evident, need not worry about the townships. The latter are finishing like thoroughbreds and are going to do their duty. It is up to Peterboro to see that she maintains the effort until the finish. The objective of $800,000 should not satisfy us. 2841 residents of Peterboro have subscribed, about one for every Peterboro man who went forth to fight for the Empire. The city can do better than that, but the time is short. Every one who has not invested should get busy to-morrow. Peterboro cannot afford to fall down.

A LAST WORD

The time for talking about the Victory Loan has nearly gone.

To-morrow night the campaign closes.

The world will know then whether Canada is made of the same stuff as Canada's soldiers overseas.

The world will know, too, whether or not the people of Canada are prepared for the problem that will follow the war.

Just now your thoughts are all with the boys over there. You are wondering how soon they will be home, and hoping that they will be back quickly.

Of course you are. Everybody in Canada is.

But have you ever stopped to think of what is to become of them when they do get back?

Have you realized what it would mean to them to come back to a country suffering from industrial depression and hard times?

Does it ever cross your mind that the heroes who took Vimy Ridge and Cambrai and Valenciennes and Mons might have to sell shoe laces or pencils on a street corner to make a living?

Impossible, you say.

But it is not impossible. It has happened after other wars.

It happened in England after the South African war.

It might happen in Canada in the next year.

It will happen unless industries are kept running and important new works are undertaken.

These things require financing.

The Victory Loan will help to solve the problem.

If the Canadian people roll up five or six hundred million dollars in the campaign, the danger of a serious depression is very materially lessened.

Victory Bonds are not only an investment. They are hard times insurance.

The question that you should ask yourself is "Have I gone the limit?"

A $50 Victory Bond when you could have taken a $100 one is not enough.

The man who takes $1000 worth when he could have invested $5000 is a slacker.

Think it over to-night and try to find a way of lending more.

"Double up" is a slogan that has been used effectively in Toronto and is applicable in Peterboro.

You have one more day left—double up if you can.

Take another Bond.

No investment on the market brings such good returns, either directly or indirectly.

To-morrow is your last chance.

Don't hesitate, double up.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A whirlwind finish.

Put Peterboro way over the top.

To-morrow is your last chance to lend your money to Canada.

Victory Bonds will bring the boys back and give them something to come back to.

The first Canadian soldiers in action should be the first home. No other arrangement would be fair.

There is still time for Peterboro to win a crown with her honor flag.

How about that two million from the city and country? A Foch-like finish would do the trick.

The objective is $1,850,000, but the two million mark sounds and looks better.

After to-morrow it will be too late to take out Victory Bonds, insurance against hard times.

The De Laval Company employees not only make separators, but seem to be pretty good separators themselves, judging from the manner in which they have separated themselves from their earnings to buy Victory Bonds.

The highest per capita subscription of any industry in the city is the De Laval employees' proud record in the Victory Loan campaign.

FIRST TO EIGHT, FIRST HOME

The announcement from Ottawa that in the demobilization of Canada's overseas army, the men who went over first will be the first to return, will be generally acclaimed as simple justice. There was an impression that the army would be brought back by units—that is, that the battalions and batteries as they are at present constituted in France would be returned to Canada in their present form. There are several advantages in such a plan, the principal one being of course, that the homecoming demonstrations would be more spectacular if the now famous fighting units came back in a body, but these advantages are more than counter-balanced by the fact that, by such a system, many recently drafted men and recruits joining comparatively a short time ago and lately incorporated in units at the front might get home ahead of men who have been overseas three or four years—a most unfair arrangement. It is thought probable that the original members of the 1st contingent will be the first troops to be transported back to Canada, followed by the original members of the second contingent and so on until all the soldiers are back. There will be objections to such a method, of course, and it might with justice be pointed out that men of the second and third contingents who have actually been fighting in France, might have preference over such members of the first contingent who did not reach France, but have been on duty in England.

It would be impossible, however, to hit upon demobilization scheme that would be fair to everyone, and the arrangement announced seems to be about as satisfactory as could be decided upon under the circumstances.

BURN MORE AIR

SAVE COAL

BY INSTALLING IN YOUR FURNACE

Economy Air Burner

THE ECONOMY AIR BURNER is a patented device which can be placed in the fire-box of any Hot Air, Hot Water, Marine or Upright Boiler and is attached to a pipe on the outside of the furnace into which the air is drawn and becomes heated in the centre ring to a high degree before coming into contact with the unconsumed gases.

Why not reduce your coal bills by scientifically feeding the fire with this Air, taken in, PRE-HEATED and sprayed over the surface, and thus assist in completing combustion and consuming all your gases that would otherwise escape out of your chimney.

Just read one out of many.

TESTIMONIAL

138 Avenue Road, Toronto, July 30, 1918.

The Economy Sales Company, Ltd., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—I have pleasure in heartily endorsing the Economy Air Burner because of the actual results I derived from it. We heated an eight-roomed house with five tons of coal per winter and the house was very comfortable even in the severest weather. Before the Burner was put in it required nine tons to heat the house. We also had trouble with escaping coal gas, but after installing the Burner we never detected the odor of gas at all.

Yours truly, R. L. SHRINER.

We are the Sole Agents in Peterborough for the Economy Air Burner. Come in and let us show you.

BUY VICTORY BONDS

The Capture of Mons by the Canadian Corps on the very morning of the signing of the Armistic was a fitting climax to a long string of notable achievements.

The Canadian Corps have, by notable deeds, brought honour to Canada. They are practically through. Now it's Canada's Army of Citizens who must take up the task—if it might be called a task to lend to the Government Funds, so that these men may pass from the labours of war to the industry of peace with honour and dispatch.

Captain James Rollins Finds Comfort in a Big Cellar

Peterboro Minister Writes Interesting Letter—Was Ordered to Advanced Dressing Station With Two Days' Rations.

LONGS FOR END

Captain James Rollins, formerly of the 23rd Battalion and now of the Canadian Chaplain Service wrote the following interesting letter to Mr. Alex. Richardson of the Lift Lock.

October, 7, 1918
27th Bn, Canadians,
France.

My dear friends,—I just want to tell you that last Thursday I was following a light railway, taking a short cut to the battalion headquarters then at the front, when I met a soldier boy whom you would love to see, "the Boy of the Family", Capt. Richardson. He certainly is good to look at. As fit as men are made out here, and that isfit enough. We certainly were glad is fit enough. We certainly were glad to write you and tell you about it and he said he wished I would because he hadn't written home for a month. I held up a reproving finger at that so you may have a letter from him by the time this reaches you. He looked as if he were enjoying his work and I have no doubt he finds enough danger to make it exhilirating. Everything is going well for us on all fronts and it looks as if we will really get the job finished right, in the end. About four hours ago I got a wire from the Senior Chaplain of the Division ordering men to report for duty at a certain dressing station and here I am. Evidently we go into action tonight and when I get up in the morning the wounded will be arriving. I was ordered to take with me the unexpended portion of two day's rations and 24 hours rations in addition. Have just looked them over, 6 bread and meat sandwiches and a piece of unfried bacon. I have no doubt it is quite sufficient and my batman who was a horse trader in the north-west will cook the bacon very nicely but it is not quite up to the variety that the St. Andrew's people have educated their minister up to.

SOLE OCCUPANTS

My batman and myself are the sole occupants of the cellars of quite a large house, the upper stories of which for a wonder are standing but upper stories have no claims in this country where one is really never immune from bombs and shells. These cellars have great arched stone ceilings and would be safe except from the heaviest bombs. The house was evidently last occupied by a Y.M.C.A. as their counter of boxes still stands in one of the rooms on the ground floor. We found it empty and took possession for the night no one saying us nay. There are four single beds in this cellar. The frames are made of ordinary 2 x 4 scantling and a piece of wire nailed across and behold the thing complete. All the rest you bring with you (carry yourself) What you can't carry on these trips you do without So I have two rubber sheets, a light sleeping bag, a towel, an extra pair of socks, soap, razor etc. A packing case makes a good chair, another a table, and with a match and candle and some writing paper and a lead pencil, and what more is there in all this world to be desired except home and one's friends and the thousand things they represent. It is all wonderful beyond words, sometimes terrible too, and the Canadians are the best men in the Allied armies. Since I came over my battalion has been in rest only twice—once for six days, the other time for seven days. I have been having a very active time and am glad to say that is has not proved a tax so far. Mrs. Rollins and Jessie are well. Haven't seen them since December 3 of last year and do not expect leave for 3 or 4 months when I will go to Nice where they are for 14 days. We will be very glad when we are all back in good old St. Andrew's Manse. Did they know I am writing they would wish to send their love to all.

With every good wish to everyone of you.

Faithfully yours,
JAMES ROLLINS

Reduce Pay Schedule of Military Police

Reduction of $1 Per Day Contemplated—Men Make Protest.

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—The pay of the military police is to be reduced. The authorities are considering cutting $1 day from the men's pay. At present the men earn $3 a day, which averages $85 for single men and $112 a month for married men, which includes separation and patriotic allowances.

Orders are now going through to revise the wage schedule, and the men are up in arms over the proposal. They claim they cannot live on less than $3 a day, and state that over 95 per cent. of the men attached to the military police are returned soldiers who have done their "bit" in France. The men also state they are not on rations, and have to buy their own meals. The reduction if it goes through will give the single men $55 a month and married men $82 a month.

EUROPEAN DIGNITARIES URGING WILSON TO BE AT PEACE BOARD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. — Messages from high sources in Europe are reaching President Wilson, urging that he personally attend the great peace conference that will settle finally the issues growing out of the war.

The president has given no indication as to how he regards the suggestion, though some of those usually well-informed believe he has an open mind on the subject and may give it consideration.

Germans Omitted Several Clauses

Canadian Press:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 15. — The "Politiken" quotes the British Military Attache there, Colonel Wade, as saying in an interview that the Germans, in publishing the terms of the armistice, omitted six or seven articles, including that relating to the Allies providing food if necessary.

KILLED IN ATTACK AT CAMBRAI.

Captain Tells How Pte. Albert Peters Met His Death.

Mr. Ezra Peters, whose brother, Pte. Albert Peters, formerly of the 38th Battalion, C.E.F., has made the supreme sacrifice in France, has received the following letter in regard to his death:

38th Batt., France, Oct 29, 1918.

Dear Mr. Peters,—Long ere this the news of the very sad death of your brother, Pte. A. R. Peters, of this battalion, will doubtless have been officially announced to you, and as a Captain of this company, please allow me to convey my sincere sympathy.

Pte. Peters had only been with this battalion a few months, but, nevertheless, had succeeded in gaining both the respect and goodwill of all with whom he came in contact.

In the recent severe fighting at Cambrai in September, when the Canadians made laurels for themselves, Pte. Peters was killed by a machine gun bullet. Death was almost instantaneous, and your brother gave up his life while bravely assisting in an attack on a strongly held enemy machine gun position.

His body was later conveyed to a British military cemetery at Bourlom. It was interred with military honours.

Do accept the very deepest sympathy of the 38th Battalion.

Believe me, very sincerely,
F. J. Burke, Captain.

MAJOR F. SMITH ADDRESSED CORPS LAST EVENING.

Major Fred. Smith will address the Y.M.C.A. workers of the membership campaign which will be launched tonight. His subject will be "Overseas Sports." Major Smith has been overseas for 27 months, and only returned last August.

Last evening Major Smith addressed the Leaders' Corps on "Leaders' Work," which proved very instructive.

Twenty Major Battles Fought By Canadians

OTTAWA, Nov. 15. — Canada's glorious part in the world-conflict will be indelibly written in the history of twenty major battles, apart from a great number of minor engagements. The following is a semi-official list of the principal victorious struggles:

1915—Second battle of Ypres in April and May (St. Julien and Langemarck).

1916—Battle of St. Eloi, 3rd to 19th April.

Battle of Sanctuary Wood and Hill 62, June 2nd, 3rd.

Battle of Somme, October and November.

1917—Battle of Vimy Ridge, April 9th to 13th.

Battle of Arleux and Fresnoy, April 28, 29, and May 3.

Battle of Hill 70, August 15th.

Battle of Passchendaele, October 25th to Nov. 10th.

1918—Battle of Amiens, August 12.

Capture of Monchy-le-Preux, Aug. 26, 28.

Capture of Boiry and Cherisy, Aug. 30, Sept. 2.

Breaking of Queant-Drocourt line, Sept. 3, 4.

Crossing Canal Du Nord, capture of Bourlon Wood, Sept. 27, 29.

Battle around Cambrai, Oct. 1, 9.

Battle of Douai, October 19.

Battle of Denain, October 20.

Battle leading to capture of Valenciennes, October 25, Nov. 2.

Advance leading to capture of Mons Nov. 7, 12.

Of a total of 211,000 casualties in the war, fifty thousand were sustained in operations since last summer.

The AEOLIAN-VOCALION

A PHONOGRAPH so highly perfected as this one is a necessity in my home and yours.

"Many of my friends at one time or another have been interested in the talking machine. But I have noted that almost without exception their interest has been inclined to wane, somewhat, after the initial enthusiasm.

"The reason was not clearly apparent to me until I heard the Aeolian-Vocalion. The wonderful full rich tone of this instrument afforded the clarifying comparison.

"When I heard the Vocalion I realized that here was inspiring, thrilling music. Here was music that would compel attention, that would be as fresh, as full of interest at the tenth playing of the record as at the first.

"A phonograph so highly perfected as this one is a necessity in my home and yours. For it has a permanent interest and value for all."

THE AEOLIAN-VOCALION

We invite you to come in and test the perfection of the Vocalion musical reproductions personally. You must try also the remarkable Vocalion tone control device—the Graduola. This device brings you all the enjoyment of musicianship—gives you the power to play with the tones of all instruments and voices

Evacuation is Near Completion

German Armies May be Out of Belgium by End of the Week.

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 15.—Evacuation of Belgium is expected to be completed by the end of the week. Antwerp is said to be in control of the Workmen's and Soldiers' administration. Food conditions in Berlin are reported to be bad, according to information sent out by the Germans. The distribution of meat is said to have been stopped. A Frankfort despatch says the Grand Duke of Saxe Weimar has announced his willingness to abdicate, providing the safety of himself and his family is guaranteed.

Must Remain Prepared for Hostile Action

Allied Forces Will Have to Sleep With One Eye Open.

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 15.—(British Admiralty wireless).—"It is evident that we must remain prepared for possible hostile action on the part of certain elements of the enemy's forces," writes the military correspondent of the British wireless service.

"Revolutionary councils have been set up which may refuse to acquiesce in the terms of the armistice, and the mere fact that the armistice can be terminated by either side at forty-eight hours' notice necessitates our being fully prepared for all eventualities."

Coal at Mine Advances $1 a Ton, City's Price Unchanged

Miners' Wages Increased on All Coal Shipped After November 1st—Council Decides to Hold Local Prices at Present Level—Outlook Here is Improved.

ECONOMY IS NEEDED

In the Coal Trade Journal during the last two weeks, has appeared paragraphs, more or less definite, saying that the United States Fuel Controller was about to announce another advance in the price of coal. During the last month shippers of coal sent out warning letters to those in the coal business that the advance might be looked for any day.

Early this week the city supply received a notification from its agents at Scranton, Pa., that an advance of one dollar per ton had been authorized. In order to verify the statement the Fuel Controller at Ottawa, and the Assistant Fuel Controller for Ontario, at Toronto, were asked to settle the point. On Wednesday telegrams were received that the fact was only too true, that an advance of wages of $1.00 per day had been made to the miners, and that all coal shipped after November 1st would be subject to the increase. This was held to cover all coal mined after 1st November.

Invites Higher Prices.

This will impose another burden on the people. And just at a time when the expense of the winter is setting in. There can be no recourse as we do not mine hard coal in Canada. So far as the coal trade in Ontario is concerned, the retail price has been fixed by the Fuel Controller for Canada as at $2.50 per ton over and above of the cost of the coal on the track at destination. That is, for instance, in this city. It is possible that this $2.50 be not always charged, but the dealer is quite within his rights if he make the charge.

Miners Get Big Wages.

Recent issues of the Coal Trade Journals point out that the recent advance in wages of one dollar per day is the largest yet made in the history of the mining operations at one time. It is current that miners are already getting $300.00 per month, and will receive from $26.00 to $30.00 per month, in addition, depending on the days worked. But this has intervened, that miners will not stay steadily at work, feeling that so much money is earned that steady work is not necessary. The output from the mines fell off over 1,320,000 tons of hard coal during the month of October, due to lessened work and the effects of the "flu," which worked havoc in the Scranton coal fields.

City's Prices Unchanged.

The Fuel Committee of the Council, at a meeting on Wednesday night, decided that the coal from the city yard should not be advanced in price, even in the face of the recent wage and expense addition. It is felt that the public, now buying coal, should be protected to as great an extent as possible, and the price will remain the same, although it is foreshadowed that a further advance in the freight rates is not unexpected. The regrettable fact in all this is that at the time when coal fuel is greatest needed the price is likely to be highest.

Outlook Here Improves.

Given fair weather, for the fall, and with the efforts of the local dealers and city supply, the outlook will be much better for December 1st than was at one time looked for. A month ago the records in the City Clerk's office showed that over 1,000 homes in the city were without coal. To-day all have been supplied, practically, and if any are without some coal, it is their own fault.

It is reassuring to know that the bins at the city supply are full, and will be kept so. The supply hopes to have in stock, at all times, over 1,000 tons of coal as a reserve against the threatened shortage of the first months of the coming year. The new coal sheds, equipped during September, are filled, and it is quite possible that additional room will have to be found for more. In the meantime coal will be sold from the cars, and notice to that effect is given in the papers. The City Treasurer will take orders, the local regulations having been eased to permit of further sales. No doubt local dealers will also be ready to dispense. It will be fully the middle of December before the effect of the closing down of active military operations on the coal requirements will be known. Possibly less will be required. Certainly the cessation of munition making, where hard coal is used, will release some considerable quantity.—F.H.D.

Saturday the Last Day of "Neponset" Demonstration

The special demonstration of "NEPONSET," the wonderful new floor covering, comes to an end on Saturday night.

"NEPONSET" is a fabric similar to printed linoleum in appearance. Its base is a waterproof felt scientifically treated, making it tough and pliable. Moisture and water do not effect it, thus preventing any buckling, for it lies perfectly flat on the floor. Any floor where there is likely to be any dampness, or for cement floors, it is particularly suitable as it clings close to the floor and requires no tacking.

To show you the confidence the makers have in "NEPONSET" they put a piece down on the sidewalk of St. Catherine street, the busiest street in Montreal and left it there for one week. Thousands of people passed over it every day, and when the demonstration was over it was in good enough condition for a man to put it down in his own store. Because they know it will wear, they back it with their guarantee.

We have twelve patterns of "NEPONSET" and there is one to suit any room for which this style of floor-covering in adapted.

Million Persons Doomed to Death

Horrible Food Conditions Mean Famine for Austria, Says ex-Prisoner.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 15.—G. D. McLeod, of Montreal, an aviator, and C. M. Young, of Des Moines, Iowa, who were taken prisoner by the Austrians during the Italian campaign, have been released and have reached the Italian lines. They bring direct news of conditions in the interior of Austria, having travelled from Salzerbad, near Vienna, after being liberated.

"Horrible food conditions prevail in Austria," said McLeod to-day, "and it is quite possible that a million persons will die there this winter from lack of food, weakness and disease. The country is quiet now, but another Russia may grow out of the situation as soon as the troops returning from the front discover that the end of the war has not brought relief.

"Scenes along the railways are like those on the battlefield. We saw bodies scattered here and there as a result of men crowding on the tops of cars and being swept off by tunnels. There were also bodies of wounded men who have been taken from Red Cross cars and left to die. Terrible sanitary conditions prevail in little towns filled with returning soldiers.

"What Austria needs is food. I and other prisoners are alive only because of food received from outside of Austria. For three days and three nights myself and a friend had between us only a little bad bread. It was about as big as a man's hand. Five hundred newly arrived Serbian troops are keeping order at Laibach."

Soldiers Greeted the Announcement of the Abdication

Special to The Examiner:

BERNE, Nov. 15.—When Field Marshal Von Mackensen and his advance guard of 2,000 men arrived Wednesday at Grosswardein, on their way home from Roumania, they were informed of the recent revolutionary events in Germany. The soldiers greeted the announcement of the Kaiser's abdication with loud cheers.

Germans Send a Brotherly Greeting

Appeal to Soldiers Not To Ill-Treat Officers

Canadian Press:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 15.— The new Soldiers' Council in Brussels, says the "Nieuwe Warrent," of Rotterdam, have posted up a number of proclamations arranging for the orderly evacuation of German troops, appealing to the soldiers not to ill-treat their officers, and sending a brotherly greeting to the Belgian population.

World Happenings

Special to The Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 15.—German evacuation of Poland, which is in the throes of revolution, has begun, it was reported from Berlin to-day. German troops and civilians who were rioting in Warsaw, are said to have been disarmed and arrested.

BELGIANS IN POSSESSION.

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, Nov. 15. —The Belgians are in possession of Antwerp to-day, according to reports received here.

CIVILIANS KILLED.

Special to The Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 15. —During the revolution in Berlin one hundred persons were killed and buried in the Friedrichstrasse churchyard, according to reports received here to-day.

BALTIC STATE.

Special to The Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 15.—Esthenia, Livonia, Courland and Oesel Island have decided to join in the formation of an independent Baltic State, according to advices received here to-day.

Voice of The People

LEST WE FORGET.

While I see the Allies have now got to shoot bread into Germany instead of shells, we must not forget the celebration the German public held when the Lusitania was sunk, also when the airships flew over unfortified towns and killed old women and little children. Last but not least, our poor prisoners who have been starved to death and tortured with bayonets. These are only a few of the atrocities we have read about. The premier of France said we were fighting for humanity, not against it, but any people who would rejoice at any of the above are not human.

Thanking you for this space, I am,
Yours truly,
An Old Soldier.

Germans Arrange to Hand Over War Material to Allies

Marshal Foch Will Enter Metz on Sunday With Clemenceau and Poincare—Mines With Time Fuses are Uncovered.

JOY IN ALSACE-LORRAINE

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Germany's troops began to evacuate France and Belgium on Tuesday. The allied troops then moved forward, the Americans advancing in the direction of Metz and Strassburg.

Marshal Foch, commander-in-chief of the allied armies, will make solemn entry into those German fortresses on Sunday in the presence of President Poincare and Premier Clemenceau. The Marshall will ride into the cities on Croesus, his favourite charger.

It is probable that the departments in the re-won territory will resume their old names, namely, Bas Rhin prefecture of Strassburg; Haut Rhin, prefecture of Colmar, and Moselle, prefecture of Metz. The Government already is considering the establishment of provisional administrative arrangements.

The occupation of the territory on the left bank of the Rhine and the bridgeheads will not be undertaken by the allied forces until later.

The liberation of Belgium promises to be rapidly accomplished. On the occasion of the re-entry of the Belgian sovereigns into Brussels, the French Government has decided to present to the Queen the Grand Cordon of the Legion of Honour, and to the heir aparent the Chevalier's Cross and the Cross of War.

In conformity with the agreement reached between Marshal Foch and the German delegates, a period of five days has been allowed to the enemy in which to hand over all the armament material stipulated in the armistice.

MINES TIMED TO EXPLODE WEDNESDAY

The French command asked the Germans for information as to where mines had been laid, and was informed that some had been placed in the Ostend station and timed to explode yesterday. The German command accordingly was asked to send officials to locate the explosives.

An additional day, making 15 days in all form the date of the armistice has been granted to the enemy to evacuate Belguim, Luxemburg, Alsace-Lofraine.

Marshal Foch has directed the Germans to send officers to the King of the Belgians at Bruges to give information regarding the German and Luxemburg railroad and canal systems and the navigation of the Rhine.

Food Board Flashes

"I believe that beekeeping is a profitable and pleasant occupation for girls and one which, even on a small scale, could do much to help in the conservation of food."

So writes a college girl to the Food Board—one who has kept bees since 1915 and is enthusiastic about them. She has discovered already how profitable and pleasant it is to have a few colonies of bees to look after in one's spare time. During her summer vacation last year she took a course at an apiary and she now has about twenty colonies to care for. She is keen to give other girls the benefit of her experiences and to see bee-keeping more generally taken up among women.

MORE THAN 2,000,000 PETERBORO'S TOTAL IN VICTORY LOAN DRIVE

Peterborough County to-day pushed a big salient into the honour area of the Victory Loan campaign with the splendid financial force of more than $2,000,000. The city and county united have played their part in the past three weeks of rolling up totals day after day that gradually brought the allotment of $1,850,000 within easy reach, and then pushed over the goal line for a very considerable surplus.

The city has won its honour flag with a total that exceeds $800,000, exclusive of the $500,000 special subscriptions. All this is deeply gratifying to the local committee, and will be a source of great pride to all the citizens.

Have Won Flags.

The Peterborough Lock Co. and the Bell Telephone Office here have won their honour flags.

The spirit of the C.G.E. employees has broken out again, unsatisfied with simply winning a flag. A new campaign is under way, and each purchaser of additional bonds is given a "plus ribbon" to wear with his button. From this company 915 applications are reported for a total of $90,000. In other words, there have been more applications than there are employees, proving that some of the men are coming back for more.

To-morrow is the last day of the campaign, and perhaps the last day of the last Victory Loan Canada will require.

The Henry Hope Co. employees landed a flag to-day after a spirited campaign, in which Mr. Jack Costain and his assistants led the men to the honour gonfalon.

THE SALVATION ARMY RED SHIELD DRIVE.

Owing to the many conflicts which have arisen and which will continue to take place in December, it has been decided to postpone the Salvation Army Red Shield drive for one million dollars to the week beginning with January 19th, 1919. This is the date that the Patriotic Fund was usually put on, but since the Government has taken over this fund and there is no further appeal made for it upon the public, the Salvation Army has taken this date and thus will have a clear field for their canvass.

The Red Shield Committee in conference at Toronto the other day decided upon this change, and it was felt that that change will be most agreeable to all concerned, especially the committees which are going to put on the canvass. Men of these committees will be engaged in holiday business in December, but that will be over in January.

TAKEN TO A PLACE OF SAFETY

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 15.—The former Crown Prince's adjutant has taken Frederick Williams, eldest son, by airplane, to an unnamed place of safety, it was reported here to-day.

OBITUARY

T. A. NICHOLSON.

Mr. Robert Cotton went to Gananoque last night to attend the funeral to-day of his brother, Mr. T. A. Nicholson, who died in Toronto on Wednesday. He met the remains at Port Hope, and accompanied them to Gananoque. Mr. Nicholson is survived by his wife and two boys overseas.

MRS. FRED. ARCHAMBAULT.

The death occurred after a short illness of Mrs. Fred. Archambault, Lafayette Avenue. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and four small children, also five sisters, Mrs. S. Crouter, Townsend Street; Mrs. R. Butcher, Chambers Street; Mrs. Wesley Croater, Montreal Hotel; Miss Madeline Brough, Belmont Avenue; Mrs. L. Scriber, of Hastings, and one brother, Pte. W. H. Brough, now overseas.

The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

MR. THOMAS HALL.

Mr. Thomas Hall, 772 Water street, a prominent resident of this city, passed away to-day at 12:15.

Mr. Hall, a patient sufferer for many months, was 78 years of age. He was a farmer on the fifth line of Smith Township until four years ago. His brothers residing in the city are: Adam, Robert and Andrew, also William of Fenelon Falls, and one sister, Mrs. W. G. Fergusson of this city, and Miss Isabel Hall. Mr. Richard Hall is a cousin. He leaves one son, Adam, in the northwest, and one daughter, Margaret, at home.

The funeral takes place on Monday at 2:30, service at 2 o'clock, to Little Lake cemetery. Rev. Robert G. Pogue, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, will officiate.

H. J. MacLEAN.

The funeral of the late Herbert J. MacLean, Mount Pleasant, who died on Wednesday from double pneumonia, took place yesterday to the Presbyterian cemetery, Mount Pleasant.

The late Mr. MacLean, who conducted a general store, the post office and telephone exchange at Mount Pleasant, was well known in Peterborough, where he visited frequently.

He leaves his wife, three sons and one daughter, residing at Mount Pleasant. His mother predeceased him three weeks ago, also from double pneumonia.

Spanish Cabinet By Vote of 79 to 56 Refuses to Congratulate Allies.

MADRID, Nov. 14.—The Spanish Chamber of Deputies yesterday, after an exciting debate, adopted by 169 votes to 2 a resolution to express in the official report of the sitting the satisfaction of the Chamber over the happy ending of the war. The proposition was accepted by the Government. The Chamber previously had rejected by 79 to 56 a proposition to send congratulations to the Allied countries on their victory.

PRICE OF WOOL GOODS NOT AFFECTED BY END OF WAR

This is the Information Received by Peterboro Merchants—Government Urging Mills to Work to 100 Per Cent. Capacity.

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT

Peterborough dry goods merchants have been advised that the end of the war will not in any way affect the present scarcity of woollens.

The Dry Goods Review of this week has the following to say:

"Everyone hopes the war will soon be over, the sooner the better, but that this will release immediately lots of goods and result in sharp price declines is not considered probable. A distinct shortage of raw materials is evident—the Allied Governments are urging mills to work 100 per cent. war work, and there will be a long period of time elapse before the enormous armies now in the field can be disbanded and return to pre-war activities. For twelve to eighteen months at least these armies must be clothed and fed—in decreasing numbers, it is true, but to a sufficient extent to assure heavy governmental orders for their requirements.

In Canada.

"Conditions in Canada to-day as affecting civilian clothing reveal the fact that there are still balances of fall and winter underwear and hosiery to be shipped from the mills. Deliveries of these have been further delayed owing to the epidemic of influenza which has been raging for about three weeks and is still serious. One manufacturer stated that two of their mills were completely shut down and others operating less than half time. Other manufacturers are undoubtedly similarly affected, so deliveries are bound to be late on goods not yet in transit.

"The situation in regard to cloth for civilian clothing shows no easing away. It is indicated that despite all efforts of the War Industries Board to apportion part of the wool supply for the manufacture of civilian clothes and other uses, Government requirements have assumed such proportions that it is doubtful if these can be fully met by the stock now on hand and coming in. The result is obvious—there will be no wool for civilian use allotted by the Government for the next few months, and not even then if it is seen that a discrepancy still exists between Government requirements and the available supply."

Conferences Held.

Conferences by the dozen have been held by the various trades affected in an effort to secure some promise of wool for civilian clothing. About the only result is that the war service committee of the wool manufacturing industry has sent out the following announcement:

"Due to negotiations between the War Industries Board at Washington and the War Service Committee of the wool manufacturing industry, we are authorized to say that the Quartermaster's Department will enter the market early this week for shirtings, suitings, overcoatings, blankets, jerkins, linings and cap clothes."

This statement closes with the significant words, "This action by the Quartermaster's Department does not involve the distribution of wool for civilian purposes, as to which the committee has no authoritative information."

MUST SERVE TEN YEARS

PTE. ARTHUR HILL WAS CONVICTED OF DECLINING TO DON UNIFORM

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—Pte. Arthur Ernest Hill, 2nd Battalion Canadian Garrison Regiment, who was, on the 11th of September, 1918, tried and convicted by general court-martial on a charge of refusing to don the uniform and was sentenced to penal servitude for the term of ten years, the finding and sentence having been duly confirmd by his Excellency the Governor in Council, the sentence was duly promulgated.

On authority from Ottawa harvest leave for men under the M.S.A. has been extended to December 1st.

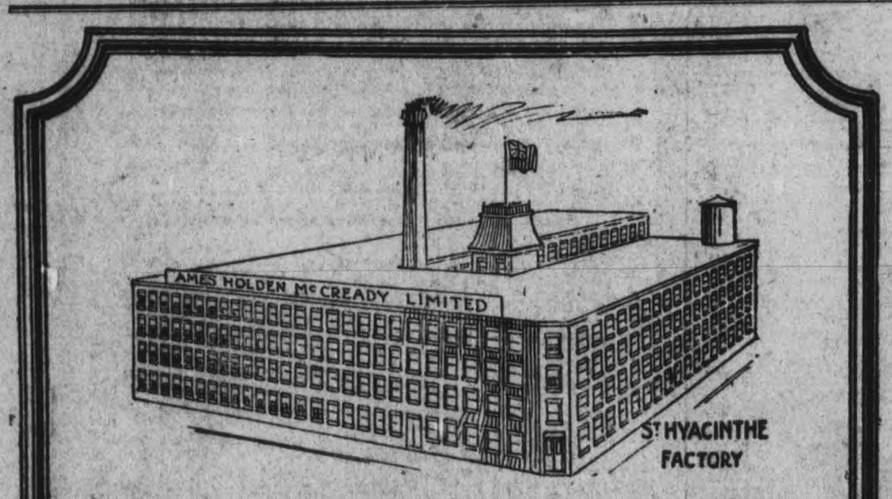
COULD NOT SLEEP.

Miss Gertrude Pratt, Wolseley St., Barrie, Ont., writes: "I was very much run down and could not sleep either day or night, and my arms and legs ached so that life was very miserable. After using six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I feel well and strong again."

CHINESE TEAR DOWN "TIN WILLIE" STATUE

PEKIN, Nov. 14.—The news of the signing of the armistice was enthusiastically received in Pekin. Allied troops paraded throughout the Legation quarter.

The statue of the former German Emperor at Tien Tsin, known locally as "Tin Willie," was pulled down. Three holidays have been proclaimed in Pekin.



The Ames Holden McCready factory at St. Hyacinthe, Que., entirely devoted to the production of work shoes. Capacity 4,000 pairs per day.

Shoes for Canada's Workers

FOR many years this company has studied the shoe needs of workmen in all lines of industry. The conditions under which work shoes are worn differ widely, and no single type of shoe will suit all of them.

Ames Holden McCready shoes for farmers, lumbermen, miners, mechanics, etc., are the result of special effort to produce exactly the type of shoe which will give the longest possible service together with the greatest comfort to each class. We are able to do this because of our large output, and the fact that A. H. M. shoes are sold in all sections of Canada—not merely locally.

It is worth remembering that there is an A. H. M. shoe for every purpose, for men, women and children. Incidentally, A. H. M. shoes bear the Union Label, which is a guarantee of the best factory conditions and the highest standards of workmanship.

A.H.M. War-Time Selections for Men, Women and Children offer special Service Value. Ask your dealer for them.

Reconstruction is the Order of Day for Canadian Manufacturers

The Signing of the Armistice Has Been the Signal for a Lot of Neglected Business Coming to the Front.

UNFINISHED CONTRACTS

Every precaution has been taken in United States against allowing the bottom to fall out of business by reason of the cancellation of contracts, says Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News. It is only following the logical course of events that these should go by the boards in a short time following the cessation of hostilities, but it is of the utmost importance that the operation should be completed with the least possible derangement of the industrial fabric of the nation. Any movement that is taken in the United States in this direction will certainly have a reflex influence on this country. The government will accept and pay for all materials finished at the time of cancellation, and will also buy all material in process at prices including a pro rata of profit. The term "material in process" will be interpreted liberally to include material secured for the purpose of filling the contract, even though no actual work has been done on it. This plan has been submitted to the leading holders of U.S. war contracts and they approve of it. It seems only reasonable that the same arrangement will be made with Canadian contractors who have unfinished contracts for the U.S. government.

Neglected Business.

The signing of the armistice has been the signal for a lot of neglected business to come prominently to the front. Railroad shops orders for machine tools are reported in generous quantities at U. S. points. This class of business has largely been denied access to the markets for some time past, and now that the war pressure is removed, there is likely to be considerable activity and renewed buying.

Reconstruction.

Industrial Canada faces its period of reconstruction right now. It has been anticipated in many cases, and firms have ambitious programmes that should work out to good advantage if the proper support is forthcoming. Other firms were war favourites and nothing else, and they will simply drop out. Although there may have been little in the mechanical training a person received in a shell shop that would fit that person for machine work after, there is another side to the matter. Those who have worked for some years in shell shops have become accustomed to working to very fine dimensions. They have learned to do things within a ten thousandth of an inch of being absolutely correct, and this training is not going to be lost. The shell shop workers will carry a lot of it into other lines, and in that will come the benefit of providing Canada with a better labour market than she ever had before.

Lloyd George and Wilson of the Same Persuasion

Both Stand for Just Peace Without Revenge or Greed—Both Champion a League of Nations.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Lloyd George and President Wilson stand squarely together on the main problem of peace: "Justice without revenge or greed."

And at the same time the two nations are working out separately, but in many respects with the same ideas at the fore, the problems of reconstruction.

As revealed by Premier Lloyd George's latest utterances and as known from President Wilson's speeches, the League of Nations idea will be put forth vigorously in the peace conference. Lloyd George stands with the President on his fourteen peace principles. And particular stress is being laid both by the British Premier and the American President that the great peace must avoid "base, sordid, squalid ideas of vengeance and avarice."

Both Lloyd George and the President are now busying themselves with reconstruction matters. Lloyd George has declared for big housing schemes, for the creation of the minimum wage, for the reduction of hours and for increased production from the land.

President Wilson has not yet declared himself on the programme of the future But he has under consideration the creation of a reconstruction commission which should be a group of experts acting as a clearing house for the financial and labor construction problems.

CURBING BOLSHEVISM

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! See if tongue is coated, breath hot or stomach sour.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish, or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When the little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

WORK FOR MUNITIONS WORKERS ON RAILWAYS

Cabinet Ministers Confer With Railway Heads Regarding Closing of Industries.

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—With the closing down of munition plants and war industries many men will be thrown out of employment, and the Government, working in conjunction with the railways, plans to utilize this labour as much as possible, in anticipating equipment requirements of roads. Cabinet members yesterday conferred with the heads of the three big railroads, and, following the securing of more complete information, a further conference is to be held and a policy formed looking to the employment of munitions workers in railway work.

Ruth Explains That Brian Has Not Yet Bought Clothes for Her

CHAPTER XL

Brian and Mollie danced well together. Ruth admitted it when Mrs. Curtis called it to her attention. She also admitted—to herself—that they were enjoying themselves extremely.

She tried to be sensible and not feel hurt and a trifle jealous. Mollie King was an old friend of Brian's, and she must not make him feel that she was narrow about such things. But when their laugh frequently rang out, and Brian insisted upon their having the second dance, one that had been a particular favorite of Mollie's before Ruth knew him, she couldn't help herself.

Ruth danced once with Brian. She danced well, and usually loved to dance with Brian. But he had been so taken up with Mollie that he spent the time retailing some of her bright sayings; which naturally annoyed Ruth, in the frame of mind she was in.

It was midnight when Ruth proposed they go home. For some time Claude Beckly had again monopolized her. And among other things he had told her of what a "gay dog" Brian had been before he was married, and how "the village" had missed him.

"You should have taken an apartment down town then you would become acquainted with all his old friends," he told her.

Ruth did not tell him she had no desire to know them if they were like him, yet she wanted to. Instead she then proposed leaving.

Mrs. Curtis accompanied her and Mollie King to the guest room while they donned their wraps.

"What a lovely gown, Mrs. Hackett," she said, "may I ask who is your dressmaker?"

"Lorraine made this. In fact she made nearly all my trousseau. I have needed no one since."

Ruth could not help but notice the look on Mrs. Curtis' face when she mentioned the fact that "Lorraine" had made her gown. Mollie King also glanced at her in a peculiar manner.

"She is horribly expensive, isn't she?" Mrs. Curtis asked. "I have never dared inquire her prices. I knew well enough I couldn't afford her, although Mr. Curtis is doing remarkably well."

"I don't know if she is expensive," Ruth answered. She had not failed to understand that in some way Mrs. Curtis was hitting her when she had spoken of Mr. Curtis as doing "remarkably well." "I know very little about New York dressmakers. Aunt always had Lorraine make her clothes, and after I grew up she had her make mine. I never knew what they cost."

"I'll bet that one you have on cost a lot. It is exquisite."

"Oh, I happen to know what this one cost. Aunt had it sent down on approval. Lorraine sometimes did that when she got in something she though we would like."

"Would you think me dreadful if I asked you how much it was? I would like her to make me something if she isn't to expensive."

"Oh, not at all! Aunt paid $200.00 for this."

Ruth heard a little gasp from Mollie, and Mrs. Curtis frankly said:

"That's beyond me. I thought I shouldn't be able to afford her prices."

Ruth felt horribly embarrassed. She had no idea that Mrs. Curtis and perhaps Mollie King thought she was too extravagant with Brian's money. They had known him a long time, and were fond of him. They both knew she worked, was in a shop, but of course they knew she could not buy herself expensive clothes yet. She mustn't let them be sorry for Brian because of her.

"You see, I haven't had a new gown since I have been married," she explained rather diffidently, yet with a disarming smile. "Aunt Louisa is very generous and she bought me such an elaborate trousseau that I expect it will last me the rest of my life. Brian—Mr. Hackett has no idea yet what it costs to dress a wife. And won't have for some time to come. We go out so little that I was thinking only to-night that my evening dresses would be out of style before I had had any wear out of them."

Ruth had flushed while making this long explanation. It was foreign to her, her bringing up, to discuss the cost of her clothes, that she had rambled on, saying more than was necessary. She realized this and it added to her embarrassment.

"You are an interior decorator, aren't you?" Mollie broke in to her relief. "How interesting it must be."

"Yes. I enjoy it very much."

"Isn't it wonderful that Brian doesn't object?" Mrs. Curtis asked, turning to Mollie.

"Quite wonderful," Mollie replied, but a peculiar look had crossed her face at the question. A look that puzzled Ruth. What could it mean? Had Brian made a confident of Mollie King when he dined with her? It didn't seem possible and—yet.

On the way home Ruth said to Brian:

"Did you say anything to Miss King about my being at the shop—that you objected to it?"

"Perhaps—you don't suppose I want them to think I can't support you, do you?"

"WHAT WILL THEY SAY?"

What will they say in England, now victory has been won,
And German might vs. world's right,
is vanquished for the Hun?
They'll say we fought for England;
they'll say we fought and bled,
For England, glorious England, "think of our glorious dead."

What will they say in England, in years and years to come,
When their children's children read:
"Our heroes dead and gone?"
'Tis then they'll think of Canada, 'tis then they'll speak with pride
How Canada fought for England, and fell fighting by their side.

What will they say in England, what will they say—'tis true,
Canadians fought for England's cause,
because they're Royal blue,
We fought for England's honour, we fought for Belgian's stake, Against German might vs. world's right, and for humanity's sake.

Yours truly,
Mayor of "Ourtown."

Doughboy Laments, Having Told His Girl He Would Capture 20.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Many American soldiers when treated in evacuation hospitals refuse to admit being badly hurt, even when their wounds are most serious and painful, say Red Cross workers who serve chocolates and cigarettes to them.

"Look at my partner over there." He stopped three pills; I only got two. Serve him first," said one Missouri boy to a Red Cross worker passing out hot drinks.

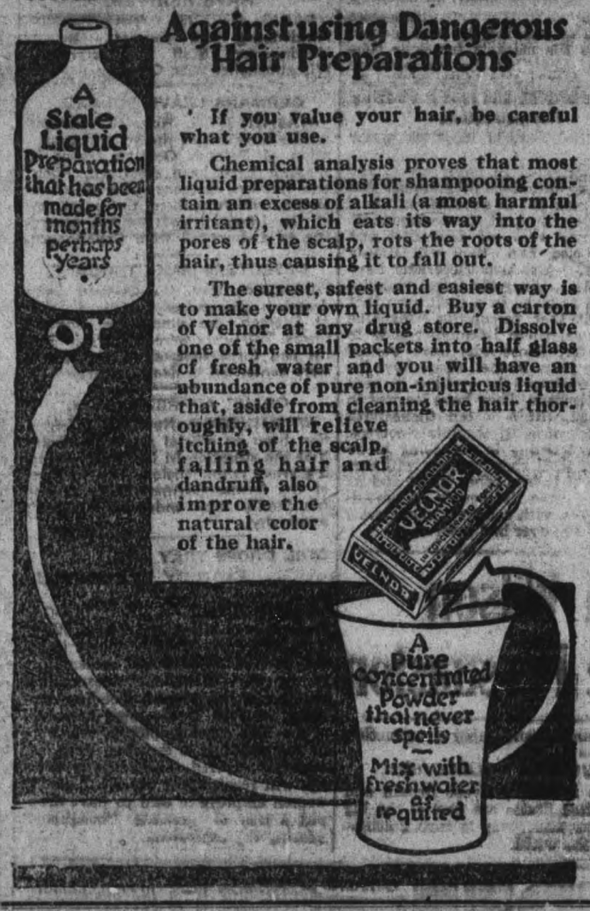
"Nothing the matter with me. I'm lucky; my buddy was killed," another man told a worker as she put the rubber tube into his mouth so that he could sip chocolate while lying on a stretcher in a hospital train.

Another boy said that all he wanted was a little talk with an American girl.

A man with four wounds complained bitterly at being shot after he had captured a machine gun nest single-handed and taken eight prisoners. "Only eight!" he repeated over and over again. "and I promised my girl back in Wisconsin that I would get at least twenty before they got me."

The Public is Warned

Against using Dangerous Hair Preparations



If you value your hair, be careful what you use.

Chemical analysis proves that most liquid preparations for shampooing contain an excess of alkali (a most harmful irritant), which eats its way into the pores of the scalp, rots the roots of the hair, thus causing it to fall out.

The surest, safest and easiest way is to make your own liquid. Buy a carton of Velnor at any drug store. Dissolve one of the small packets into half glass of fresh water and you will have an abundance of pure non-injurious liquid that, aside from cleaning the hair thoroughly, will relieve itching of the scalp, falling hair and dandruff, also improve the natural color of the hair.

Housing Committee Will Make Report

Prize Essays Will Be Selected in Fortnight—Municipalities Take Advantage of Government Suggestion.

Prof. C. B. Sissons, secretary of the Provincial Housing Commission, gaves the assurance that a report will be submitted, as all along planned, by January 1.

Although thirty-six essays on the housing problem, for which prizes were offered, were submitted by September 1, the judges, who are reviewing the essays gratis, have not made their decisions. Rev. Peter Bryce, the chairman, promises a decision in two weeks.

"We are doing the work very thoroughly," said the chairman. "Each judge reads the essays separately, then the three meet together to compare notes. We have been delayed by the extraordinary circumstances of the present time."

Municipalities Active.

Some municipalities, according to Sir William Hearst, are already going ahead on the housing scheme suggested by the Government. Sarnia, Sault Ste. Marie and Brampton have already started on the scheme, and other places are expected to follow shortly.

"At the present time the Housing Commission is still investigating and getting reports, and Mr. Ellis, of the Ontario Railway Board, is studying the situation, and looking into the necessary legislation, which will be passed next session," said Sir William. "Those municipalities which are going ahead are temporarily financing themselves till this legislation is passed."

TERRE HAUTE HEROES.

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Many a Yank soldier, charging into no-man's land at the zero hour, may thank some boy back in Terre Haute, Ind., for the steel helmet he is wearing.

The Department of Labour has announced that 150 Herre Haute High School boys spent their summer vacation in a big manufacturing plant, making helmets. They are all members of the United States Boys' Working Reserve.

EVADERS TO SUFFER

GOVERNMENT WILL NOT LET THEM OFF—MAY BE DISFRANCHISED.

OTTAWA, Nov. 13.—Men who defaulted under the Military Service Act are to have their position considered by the Government. While no further calls are being made for draftees, representations have been made it, is understood, that men who failed to respond should be punished by being disfranchised for a period of years after the conclusion of peace.

Under the Military Service Act, a man who without reasonable excuse fails to report, is liable to five years' imprisonment. In addition, a man convicted of an office under the M.S.A. is disfranchised by the War Times Election Act, but the latter provision applies only in the case of conviction. A large number of prosecutions have been taken against defaulters, but there are still, it is stated, some thousands who have not yet been prosecuted. It is the position of these which is to be taken up.

FINALLY ANNOUNCE LOSS OF THE AUDACIOUS.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The Admiralty last night made its first official announcement of the loss of the battleship Audacious, which sank after striking a mine off the North Irish coast on October 27, 1914.

The loss of the battleship officially was kept a secret at the urgent request of the Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Fleet.

Ex-German Officer Raging Over Defeat, Slays Loan Worker

WINNIPEG, Nov. 15.—Tip Blaine, of Drumheller, Alta., a Victory Loan worker, was shot and killed here by Albert Arnold, an ex-lieutenant in the German army. Blaine, with some other men, went to Arnold's farmhouse, and Blaine attempted to enter. When he put his foot inside, Arnold shot, and yelled "Do not come in; I am an expert shot."

The bullet hit Blaine near the heart. Arnold fired twice more, and Blaine dropped dead. The rest of his companions scattered.

Arnold was captured at Dela, Alta., and is now in custody of the police there.

After the shooting of Blaine, Arnold compelled one of the Victory Loan party to enter the house with his hands above his head. He examined Blaine's body, and said: "I guess I killed him; I am an expert rifle shot." He then ordered Blaine's companion to leave the premises, and said: "I'll be leaving in a few minutes." There were seven automobiles in the Blaine party. Arnold is reported to have been sullen over the peace celebration.

The HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

HEADS OF HOUSEHOLDS.

It is the mothers who are the heads of the households. The culinary department of your household is in your dominion. You decide all questions of diet. All the sanitary regulations of your house are under your supervision. To regulate the food, and the apparel, and the habits and decide the thousand questions of home life is a tax upon your brain and nerve and general health absolutely appalling if there is no divine alleviation.

It does not help you much to be told that Elizabeth Fry did wonderful things mid the criminals of Newgate. It does not help you much to be told that Florence Nightingale was very kind to the wounded in Crimea. It would be better for us to tell you that the divine friend of Mary and Martha is your friend, and that he sees all the annoyances and disappointments and abrasions and exasperations of an ordinary housekeeper from morn till night and from the first day of the year to the last day of the year and at your call he is ready with help and re-enforcement.

A GREAT CURSE.

One of the greatest curses of this intellectual age is the great lack of a proper education of our girls in the practical affairs of every-day life. They all want to be "school marms," governesses or the wives of rich men. Housework, which should form the basic principle of our economic life, is shunned by them as something degrading. A young woman will stand behind a dry goods counter fourteen hours a day for a mere pittance—not enough to clothe her—lose her health, become anaemic and unfitted for the performance of her natural duties, rather than accept a position as a domestic where she would have a comfortable home, good health and become properly fitted for the duties of a wife and mother.

The spiritual advance made by man is seen chiefly in this, that so much of the money he earns goes to the ministry of refinement, education, embellishment, to the wife and children he loves. But the woman sees no money for her toil. Her sufficient, her ample reward is in a husband, content, happy, growing in grace; in children, bounding to gracious maturity.

There is just as much reason that a man should work within the house as there is that a woman should work outside the house. He is just as well qualified to work indoors as she is to work outdoors. It is just as much his duty to do the one as it is her duty to do the other. But it seldom or never occurs to his wife to ask him to do it, or to think that he ought to do it.

BOYS, DON'T.

Don't forget that you are to be men and husbands.

Don't smoke in the presence of ladies. It is never respectful.

Don't measure your respect to a person by the clothes he wears.

Don't try to make your fortune by easier means than hard work.

Don't speak carelessly of a lady's character. It is her only anchor.

Don't forget that the best and greatest man that ever walked the earth was a boy.

Don't haunt the lady of your choice at a ball, party or picnic. She has certain civilities to pay elsewhere.

Don't fix your stare on the fair ones that pass along the streets. To stare at anyone is not manly at all.

Don't neglect your business. Take pains to do your work well. Good workmen are always in demand.

Don't sneer at the opinions of others. You may learn wisdom from those far less pretentious than yourself.

Don't swear. It is not necessary and does no good. It is neither wise, manly nor polite, nor agreeable to others.

Don't grow up to be a soured old bachelor, when there are so many true and lovely girls that will make such excellent wives.

Don't flirt with a young lady to whom you are a perfect stranger. It looks most ridiculous; and you may get thrashed for it some day.

Don't unnecessarily make enemies. be said in behalf of the home. This is the only county paper that gives The good will of a dog is better than his ill will. But don't cripple your independence and your individuality to please friends.

The articles of this department have been the very cream and essence of thought, the very best things as tersely and beautifully expressed as can be coined out of the English language and coming to you every week, if saved up for a year, you would have a batch of the choicest gems of literature and we believe, the very best and purest things that can you something especially for the home every week, and has now followed it up for years. It is perfectly right and legitimate that you should commend a good thing.

The lady who laughs heartily is a doctor without a diploma. Her face does more good in a sick room than a bushel of powders or a gallon of bitter draughts. People are always glad to see her. Their hands instinctively go half way out to meet her grasp, while they turn involuntarily from the dampy touch of the dyspeptic, who speaks in the groaning key. She laughs you out of your faults, while you never dream of being offended with her and you never know what a pleasant world you live in until she points out the sunny streaks on her pathway.

Praise your wife, man, for pity's sake give her a little encouragement; it won't hurt her. She doesn't expect it; it will make her eyes open wider than they have for the last ten years; but it will do her good for all that and you too. There are many women to-day thirsting for a word of praise and encouragement.

Brain Power

IN the brain is consumed one-fifth of all the blood in the human system. This goes to feed the nerve cells and to create the all-essential nerve force—for whether you think or speak or move your hand, nerve force is consumed in that act.

When any unusual demand is made on the brain, whether by excessive mental effort or as the result of mental worry and anxiety, still more blood and more nervous energy are used in the brain and other organs of the body are robbed of the nervous energy necessary for their proper working.

This is why the thinker—the man who works with his brain, and who does not in these trying days—is most subject to nervous indigestion, nervous headache, sleeplessness and weak functioning of the vital organs such as the heart, stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

The human system is a bundle of nerves, and, whether we realize it or not, our health depends to a very great extent on the condition of the nerves.

There is always a big demand on the nervous system, and when this is increased hy shock, or sorrow or any great mental worry or anxiety there is danger of a breakdown.

At this trying time, when so many are suffering from nervous troubles of one kind or another, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is proving a blessing of untold value.

This food cure is not like a stimulant, because it cures in Nature's way by restoring the depleted nerve cells, increasing the nervous energy and building up the system generally.

When you feel tired out in mind and body, have brain fag and failing memory, and feel that you are losing your energy and vigor, it is time to turn to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a means of renewing mental and bodily vigor.

If your experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is like that of the great majority of people who use it you will soon feel the benefits in increased capacity—both mental and physical. You will feel that you have the reserve force necessary to withstand the strain of life's work and to ward off disease. It is only by building up nerve force that you can hope to counteract the debilitating influence of mental worry and anxiety.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so universally used that you can obtain it from any dealer at 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, or from Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. The portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author, are on every box of the genuine.

PAN-AMERICAN BODY PLANNED BY LABOUR

First Step Taken Towards Industrial Solidarty in Western World.

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 15.—The pan-American Labour Conference was organized here yesterday, the first definite step toward the establishment of industrial solidarity throughout the western hemisphere.

Preliminary meetings held yesterday pointed out to the delegates who represent the United States, Mexico, and some of the Central and South American countries, the vital part the army of labour is to play in the re-establishment of peaceful prosperity following the closing of the war.

Secretary of Labour, William B. Wilson, who greeted the visitors in the name of the President of the United States and urged the importance of labour organizations, left last night for Washington. Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labour, Frank Morrison, Secretary of the Executive Council of that organization, are taking leading parts to-day in the work of the conference.

Committees will be named and work outlined preparatory to a pan-American Congress which will meet in the near future at a date and place not yet decided. Before that time an effort will have been made to unionize the million or more Mexican labourers in the United States and leaders in the other countries will be urged to develop a plan for reciprocal recognition in all the nations of the Americans. This would enable a workman of any craft who held a card in a union in Mexico or Honduras, or wherever he might live, to be admitted on an equal basis to a union in the United States should be come to this country.

The interest the Government of the United States is taking in the movement is believed to be on the grounds that by the creation of an industrial organization of all the Americans, the general spirit of fraternity and betterment will be spread faster than any other way.

BOLSHEVISM IN EUROPE.

Most Serious Question of the Hour, Say London Papers.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The most serious question of the hour, in the opinion of some newspapers here, is how far Europe is infected with Bolshevism.

Some German newspapers and some in neutral countries continue to warn the Allies not to push Germany too far to the wall, lest she be driven into anarchy. Some English newspapers consider this as German propaganda to gain leniency.

The general British view appears to be summarized in the question whether the cost of rehabilitation of Europe should be borne by the victims of devastation or by its authors, and in the decalration that the German armies should be deprived of all arms in the interest of Germany herself, thus making internal fighting less possible when the armies are repatriated.

Newspapers in Sweden, Spain, Holland, and even Norway, express apprehension over the spread of the red flag movement. The troubles in Switzerland also cause uneasiness.

"The man who doesn't know when he is whipped has my admiration." "Mine, too," replied Broncho Bob, "unless he's one of the kind that thinks they're still fightin' when they're only hollerin'."—Washington Star.

HIBITS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The War Industries Board has lifted the ban on trade exhibits. Automobile, furniture, electrical and similar shows have been prohibited or cancelled since the United States went to war.

WHEN WILL THE WAR BE OVER?

CAN you answer this question—When will the war be over? Every boy and girl wants to know. You can, if you are able to read this puzzle. The answer is contained within the 49 squares above. What is this answer? Solve it, and valuable prizes await you.

HOW TO SOLVE IT

The above squares hold the answer. It is in one sentence of nine words, containing forty letters. Each letter is represented by a number, and that number is the position of the letters in the alphabet. For instance, A is represented by the figure 1, as it is first in the alphabet, and so on. Now, to help you get started, we will tell you that the first letter in the puzzle is "W," because W is the 23rd letter in the alphabet. Get to work and figure out the words in the sentence, and try to find the answer to the great question, "When will the war be over?" It is not easy, but it is worth while trying for.

THE PRIZES

PRIZE	VALUE
1st—Five Horse Power Auto	$150.00
2nd—Dandy Folding Camera	25.00
3rd—Magnificent Gold Watch and Chain, or Girl's Wrist Watch	15.00
4th—Lovely 26-inch Doll, handsomely dressed, and beautiful English Doll Carriage	10.00
5th—Electric Projectoscope. Better than a magic lantern. Will show any picture or postcard photo on screen	7.50
6th—Full-size Football	5.00
7th to 10th—Self-Filler Fountain Pens, each $2.50	10.00
Also 10 Extra Prizes for Boys and Girls, each $1.25	12.50
Total Value of Prizes	$235.00

Copy your answer upon a plain white sheet of paper as neatly as you can, because neatness, spelling, hand writing, and punctuation counts if more than one answer is correct. Put your name and address in the top right hand corner of the paper. If you have to write a letter, or show anything else, put it upon a separate sheet of paper. We will write or wire as soon as your answer is received, and tell you if your solution is correct, and also send you a complete illustrated list of the grand prizes that you can win.

What Others Have Done, You Can Do

Here are the names of only a few of the boys and girls to whom we have recently awarded big prizes—

TOGETHER WITH MANY MERCHANDISE PRIZES

Herewith will be found the picture of an Aviator who has just dropped a bomb on a pile of Shells. At first glance the Aeroplane and the Explosion appear to be all there is to the picture, but by careful study the faces of several soldiers will be found. There are 7 of them in all. Can you find them? It is notmany task but by patience and endurance can be accomplished.

You may win a cash prize by doing so. Many have done this as will be shown by the names and addresses which we will send you. If you find the faces mark each one with an X, cut out the picture and send it to us, together with a slip of paper on which you have written the words "I have found all the faces and marked them." Write these nine words plainly and neatly, as in case of ties, both writing and neatness are considered factors in this contest.

This may take up a little of your time but as TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS in cash and many merchandise prizes are given away, it is worth your time to take a little trouble over this matter. Remember all you have to do is to mark the faces, cut out the picture and write on a separate piece of paper the words, "I have found all the faces and marked them."

WE DO NOT ASK YOU TO SPEND ONE CENT OF YOUR MONEY IN ORDER TO ENTER THIS CONTEST

Send your answer at once, we will reply by Return Mail telling you whether your answer is correct or not, and we will send you a complete Prize List, together with the names and addresses of persons who have recently received over Four Thousand Five Hundred Dollars in Cash Prizes from us, and full particulars of a simple condition that must be fulfilled. (This condition does not involve the spending of any of your money.)

Winners of cash prizes in our late competitions will not be allowed to enter this Contest.

This Competition will be judged by two well known business men of undoubted integrity, who have no connection with this Company, whose decisions must be accepted as final.

Upon receipt of your reply we will send a complete list of the names and addresses of persons who have won $4,500.00 in Cash Prizes in recent contests held by the publishers of this advertisement. Although these persons are entirely unknown to us, they are our references. An enquiry from any one of them will bring the information that our contests are carried out with the utmost fairness and integrity. Your opportunity to win a good round sum is equally as good as that of anyone else, as all previous winners of cash prizes are debarred from entering this contest.

DEER REPORTED FAIRLY PLENTIFUL.

Deer seem to be fairly plentiful this season, but the supply is surely diminishing. Many hunters think that the time will come when deer, like partridge, will have to be protected for several years on end. Though the Government allowed the additional deer this fall to help out the food situation, many hunters are deploring it as a very unnecessary concession. As a result deer will never again be as plentiful in Ontario woods, and the day is thus brought nearer when sport which is within the reach of any hunter, and which affords a cheap and healthful holiday for thousands of men from all parts of the province, will soon be accessible only by a long and expensive journey.

LOS ANGELES PRICES.

Cost of Living Evidently High, But There Are Others.

In a letter from Mrs. M. A. Downham received by the Examiner today she quotes some of the prices of commodities in Los Angeles:

Butter is selling at from 70c to 75c per pound.
Fresh eggs at 86c per dozen.
Bacon, 70c.
Milk, 20c per quart.
Cream, 60c.
Oranges, $1.25 per dozen.

The high cost of living is apparently as bad in one part of the country as another.

It is harmless.

WOUNDED AIRMAN ACTS AS BALANCE ON PLANE

(By United Press.)

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(By Mail.)—A royal air force report relates that a British two seater, on patrol, sighted a number of Fokker biplanes which were immediately engaged. Dashing into the German formation, the British pilot succeeded in sending one Fokker spinning to earth. The Germans had by this time recovered from their surprise, and made a concerted attack upon the daring British plane, pouring in a perfect hail of bullets. Though the British pilot manoeuvred very swiftly to throw the enemy gunners off their mark, one unlucky burst severed the left aileron wires of his machine, so that it fell in a sheer side-slip for 2,000 feet.

The observer, though wounded, clearly and cooly realized the danger, climbed out on to the bottom plane, and by manipulation of his own weight, restored the balance of the machine. By remaining out on the plane during the whole flight this wounded observer enabled his pilot to bring back and safely land the machine behind the British lines.

BANDMASTER SOUSA IS TAKEN HOME ILL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The New York World prints the following:

Lieut. John Philip Sousa, who has been a bandmaster in the navy since early in the war, has been brought to New York from Toronto in a serious condition. Broadway heard on Wednesday.

He has been ill for about a month. He was seized in Chicago with ear trouble, and was laid up at the Blackstone Hotel. Then he went on to Toronto to conduct his band of 250 sailors, but had to cancel the engagement, because of a recurrence of the illness.

Friends of Lieut. Sousa said he had been taken to his home at Port Washington, L.I.

KEEP CANADA ON RATIONS.

Food Board Calls Upon People of the Dominion to Continue Self-Denial.

OTTAWA, Nov. 15.—The chairman of the Canada Food Board has issued this statement:

"It is growing plainer that food was the final factor which brought about the submission in turn of Bulgaria, Turkey, Austro-Hungary and Germany.

"All the Allies must remain on rations until the spring. In face of these conditions Canada must nobly keep up her programme of food saving by every possible means, and even prepare for a still greater harvest next year."

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to flush Kidneys if Bladder bothers you—Drink lots of water.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatism twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

CIVIL SECTION M.P. FORTHWITH DISBANDED.

Their Services Are No Longer Required, as M.S.A. is Suspended.

OTTAWA, Nov. 15.—The Government, having decided to suspend the operation of the Military Service Act orders have been issued by the Department of Militia and Defence to disband forthwith the civil section of the Military Police.

These men were employed to apprehend defaulters and deserters, and perform special duties in connection with the Military Service Act, and in the present circumstances, following upon the armistice, their services are no longer required.

Soldiers' Families Will be Returned to Canada First

No Demobilization Till Terms of Armistice Are All Carried Out —Wounded Also to be Sent Home Now.

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—There is still no word from overseas as to when demobilization of Canadian troops can commence. This depends entirely upon the high command. It is the belief here that General Foch will not wait to start disbanding the allied army until peace is actually signed. As long as there is any possibility of Germany making trouble the army would have to be kept intact. Certainly there will be no demobilization till the terms of the armistice are fulfilled. The armistice lasts thirty days. The terms are so stringent and the military power of Germany is placed so completely in the hands of the Allies that partial demobilization might then be possible.

Dependents Moved First.

While no soldiers can be moved, then, for a month, and probably for several months, it is planned to move the dependents of soldiers in England and the wounded immediately. This is being taken up with the authorities overseas. It is hoped to have these moved before the work of demobilizing the soldiers starts. It is estimated that there are about thirty-five thousand women and children, dependents of soldiers, in England, and most of these will want to return to Canada.

In the hospitals overseas are from thirty to forty thousand Canadian soldiers, in every state of convalescence. Owing to the submarine campaign and the attacks on hospital ships the number of patients moved in recent months has been comparatively small. It is planned to move these patients, or as many as can be transported, as soon as possible and as rapidly as there is accommodation ready for them in Canada. The Hospitals Commission is rushing its preparations.

Occupation of Germany.

There will be an army of occupation in Germany, and Canada may be asked to furnish part of the army. It is the idea of the authorities here that volunteers should be asked for, and only those who desire to remain behind should form part of this army.

The Siberian expedition will not be cancelled. Part of it has already left and the remainder will leave shortly. It is not going with the expectation of any fighting, but entirely for police purposes, and the Allies feel that an army is necessary in Siberia for some time, until orderly government is restored. The economic and trade side of the expedition will be pushed more vigorously than ever now that the war is over.

JAZZ MUSIC IS ETHIOPIAN.

Various descriptions of jazz music have from time to time appeared but none have hit the mark exactly, says a connoisseur of this art. The common impression is that it consists of a lot of peculiar and noisy sounds without ryhme or reason. This is not the case, however. It consists chiefly of syncopation, peculiarly accentuated; variations by some of the instruments; improvisions by others, mingled with odd sound effects. Though all this the melody of the selections rendered must be distinguishable at all times—tin-can noises beating the life out of the drums, blasting by the brass instruments is entirely unnecessary. Contrasts between pianissimo and fortissimo passages should be shown just as much in jazz music as in the classics.

Another wrong impression is that jazz orchestras must consist of a certain instrumentation. This also is not the case. The violin, cello, cornet, piano, or in fact any legitimate instrument, can be used. As jazz music is originally Ethiopian the banjo and the saxophone are used merely to lend negro character to it.

The number of musicians that can jazz properly is said to be small, because it really requires good musicians, who must also be endowed with the swing or the knack of performing it. Although many of the cafe and theatre orchestras are composed of good musicians those who can jazz are scarce. On the other hand, many of the self-styled jazz orchestras are misrepresentations, and cannot play the semi-classics or classics adequately. Some cannot perform it properly and to offset this resort to noise and discord in imitation thereof. The percentage of musicians who can do justice to the classics and also play jazz is consequently even smaller.

Why Not Insure The Payment of Your Premium?

Suppose you are thirty-five years old, and carrying $10,000 of Life Insurance costing you, say $300.00 per year, would you not like, (in case of serious accident or illness destroying your earning power) to have the payment of this premium paid for you as long as you live?

Then Read The Following:

The Sun Life of Canada will give you a further insurance of $5,000.00 if you are still insurable, and if you become totally and permanently disabled from any cause, the Company will not only relieve you of all future premiums on THIS policy during such disability, but they will guarantee to hand you a $500.00 cheque every year, which you see will pay the premiums on your $10,000.00 and in addition will give you a handsome CASH XMAS BOX each year and, nevertheless, will pay the face of your policy at maturity or death.

Many people hesitate to take out Life Insurance, lest some catastrophy should force them to give it up. Well, that bugbear is removed by the Sun Life of Canada.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Winter-Killing of the Hedge

By JANE OSBORNE

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Forty years from now the old residents of Rosevale will still be alluding, no doubt, to "the year the hedges winter-killed." Perhaps by that time there will be a little uncertainty in the minds of some as to just which Good Friday it was that the United States "got into the war," and just how long that war lasted. They will have forgotten that old Peter Conkling—Rosevale's millionaire—didn't subscribe a cent to the Liberty loan and that Judge Robert Pritchard subscribed ten thousand, and that somebody's neighbor probably poisoned somebody's cat and that the doctor's widow had set her cap most openly for said Peter Conklin. All these things will have been forgotten forty years from now, but not the winter-killing of the hedge. That is the sort of landmark in the flight of time that we somehow always remember even when we forget affairs of larger or more personal interest. "It was the coldest winter on record," some octogenarians will say, "and I remember how the hedge twelve feet high that had been growing ten or a dozen years between Judge Pritchard's place and the old Marden place was winter-killed, roots and branches."

That this particular luxurious growth of privet had been entirely blighted as the effect of the unwonted cold weather last winter neither Judge Pritchard nor Hester Marden realized till weeks after the usual time for its buds to be bursting under the warmth of April sunshine. And it was after other Rosevallans, whose less luxurious hedges had also been blighted, had come to the realization that the only thing to do to save what life might remain in the roots of their hedges was to amputate all the dead branches above, that Hester on her side of the thick network of dead twigs and branches and Judge Robert Pritchard, hidden on his side, realized one warm spring evening that the old hedge would have to go. The hedge had been planted on the Marden side of the dividing line, so it was obviously up to Hester to have it cut down, although its branches had long since spread many feet over into the Pritchard domain. Hester hesitated several days after she had purchased the last pair of hedge-clips in the Rosevale hardware store before giving her order to the gardener-by-the-day to begin the amputation. It seemed like desecration to her; she could not make it seem other than unloyal and traitorous to the memory of poor old Aunt Bethiah. Still Aunt Bethiah would not have wanted to let the hedge remain as it was. Hester was sure of it. She planned an overnight trip to the large nearby city for the days when the cutting down operation was to take place and, after having cast a contrite look at the old painting of Aunt Bethiah that still hung over the marble mantelpiece in the old "front parlor," made up her mind to give the order.

There would have to be a first time in that unhedged garden, Hester assured herself. Even Aunt Bethiah could not object to her thirty-year-old niece going into her own garden under the circumstances. So as soon as she had eaten her solitary dinner on the day she returned from the city she left the table and descended into the old garden. The sun was still warm and golden and the wood thrushes somewhere in the Pritchard shrubbery were just beginning their long evening song. Hester tried not to see the change till she was actually in the garden. Then a strange sense of freedom and emancipation came over her. Already the plants and growing things in her garden had profited by the increase of air and sunshine that the passing of the hedge had allowed. The columbines and tulips were out earlier than usual and it seemed to Hester as if their colors were deeper and gayer than in the old days when they were hedged in by the twelve-foot privet.

And it was as if a new world had been opened and discovered to her when she first permitted her eyes to wander beyond the line where the privet had once been placed, over there in the fairy land of light green leaves and foliage where the wood thrushes sang. She had not seen that realm for ten years, not since the day the high board fence was taken down, and in consequence of that she was hurried away by Aunt Bethiah to be gone until the newly planted privet should have taken its place. Could it be that all these years that fairyland of leaves and blossoms had been there just beyond the privet? Hester was wondering.

And then came the voice of Judge Pritchard, who must have been in his garden behind one of his lilac bushes all the time that she was inspecting her own transformed domain.

Neither Hester nor Robert said anything very profound or clever or worth remembering that evening when they spoke for the first time in ten years. Each had known from the time they knew that the hedge had to go that their speaking would be the inevitable result. Perhaps that is why Hester had felt so especially guilty when she stood before old Aunt Bethiah's picture a few minutes before. The spell cast by Aunt Bethiah was entirely broken when Hester permitted herself to be urged across that old barrier on the excuse of looking at some especially luxurious rose-colored columbines that Judge Pritchard insisted had been vagrants from her garden and had shown themselves a season or so before.

"I knew they were yours," he told her, "and that is why I cherished them so. I had the gardener nurse them like orchids." Hester was kneeling over to touch the silky blossoms with her fingers. "I wonder how they dared go through the hedge?" was all she could think of saying, and then her eyes and those of Robert Pritchard met and both knew that the barrier that had gone down with the hedge could never be replaced.

After they had seated themselves on the rustic bench under Judge Pritchard's lilacs, on the excuse of hearing the thrushes' song, Hester volunteered the suggestion that it really seemed only a day since the last time she had sat on the same bench under the lilacs. And then she wondered whether she had said anything that was too disloyal to the memory of Bethiah Marden, the stern old aunt who had brought her up and left her all her property.

Robert Pritchard answered this by taking Hester's hand in his exactly as he had that last time, ten years before, and that, too, seemed quite natural, though Hester blushed quite as if she had been twenty instead of thirty.

"You didn't go away because you wanted to?" he asked.

Hester shook her head.

"Tell me just what happened and then I'll tell you something you perhaps never knew."

Hester had rehearsed the details of just what happened on that memorable occasion so often to herself that the recounting was not difficult. "Well, you see, Aunt Bethiah had ideas of her own about how girls should spend their time and so long as I read poetry and novels and did embroidery in the garden she was satisfied. But when I improved my time talking to you instead, she was distressed. So long as that high board fence was here she was satisfied. I was quite safe in the garden. Then the Neighborhood association decided to have all fences down, and though Aunt Bethiah fought it, the association had its way. She planted the hedge and took me off for four years in France—she said she had intended to take me, anyway, and perhaps she had. I would have liked going better if it had not seemed like punishment for talking to you those days when the fence was down before we started. It was just about this time of the year, wasn't it?

"And then by the time we came back the hedge was high enough for a protection and you had forgotten all about your neighbor, and Aunt Bethiah was sure she had done her duty. I think the poor old dear died happier because the hedge was twelve feet high and five feet thick. She used to smile so contentedly when people told her it was the finest hedge in the state. I really don't know why she should have objected so much to our talking."

"Perhaps I was very much to blame," Robert Pritchard explained. "I was twenty-five then, and went about things differently than I would now. You see I made the Neighborhood association vote to have the fences taken down. It was my first attempt at civic improvement, and no one but Aunt Bethiah suspected my motive. She called at my office and told me her opinion of me and I got as hot-headed as she was and told her that I wanted to marry you and intended to do it. I'd spent the evening here by the lilacs with you then and I knew my heart. I didn't believe the good lady when she told me that you had told her I annoyed you and had asked to be taken away, so I can't hold it up against her. I've wanted, though, to hear you say that it wasn't so."

"And I really think Aunt Bethiah liked you all along—do you believe she is so very cross because we are sitting here again under the lilac bush?"

Judge Pritchard would have liked to say just then that he was entirely indifferent as to whether Aunt Bethiah approved or not—but so completely was he concerned with the realization that he had within his reach the love of the woman of his dreams that he had no thoughts for the other woman who had separated them ten years before.

Why We Hear Heart Throbs.

The cause of the sound of normal heart beats has not been definitely ascertained. There are normally two sounds—the first, which is called systolic, is dull and somewhat prolonged; it is followed quickly by the second, called diastolic, which is shorter and sharper. A pause follows the second sound. It is supposed that the vibration and closure of the valves between the auricles and ventricles is one of the causes of the first sound; the contraction of the ventricles, or the striking of the heart against the walls of the chest, may be the cause. The second sound is known to be caused by the vibration produced by the closure of the semilunar valves.

A Japanese Stove.

The Japanese have invented a little stove that you can carry round in your pocket. It is in the form of a small brazier, shaped rather like a cigar case, and the fuel is a sausage like roll that will burn for three hours without emitting smoke or fumes. One of these little contrivances carried inside the bosom of a kimono prevents a journey in a railway train from being too chilly. Delicate pupils keep one in their clothes while at school in winter.

War Surpluses.

The greatest auction sale in the world is now being prepared. The vendors are the British Government, the articles of sale varying from blankets to typewriters, from sandbags to motor cars.

The preliminary catalogue of surplus stores which will be available for disposal as soon as peace is declared is now available. Do you wish to buy a railway, a motor-omnibus, an airplane, a marquee, a tank, or merely some everyday article such as a bicycle or a lawn-mower? You will find it in the catalogue. How and when the goods will be disposed of is not yet decided, but the catalogues are being prepared in greater detail and will shortly be available.—Tit-Bits.

The Dignified Brigadier.

London railway stations have afforded some amusing sights, during these last few years, but none quite so remarkable as that seen on the August holiday. The sight appeared, at any rate, to be much enjoyed by some war-worn subalterns who had a "We would not have missed it for anything" look about them. "It" was a brigadier-general in scarlet tabs, red-banded, gold-peaked cap, trundling his own luggage on a hand truck from the arrival platform to the station yard, in the evident hope, poor man, of finding a taxi!

Wrong Guess.

Bill—And so you proposed to her?

Jill—Yes.

"Was her answer in two or three letters?"

"Three."

"Good! Then it was 'yes?'"

"You're wrong. It was 'nix.'"—Yonkers Statesman.

More Impractical Advice.

"I should advise you to gamble rather than write," said the man of conspicuous opinions.

"Yes," replied Mr. Penwiggle, "but a gambler has to have money to start with."—Washington Star.

Women! Here Is A Dandy Thing

Few drops stop corns hurting then they lift right out with fingers

Your high heels have put corns on your toes and calluses on the bottom of your feet, but why care now?

This tiny bottle holds an almost magic fluid. A genius in Cincinnati discovered this ether compound and named it freezone. Small bottles of freezone can be had at any drug store for a few cents. Apply a few drops on your tender, aching corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so shriveled and loose that you can lift it off with the fingers.

Just think! You get rid of a hard corn, soft corn or a corn between the toes, as well as hardened calluses, without suffering one particle. Millions of women keep a tiny bottle on the dresser and never let corns ache twice.

to-night—on the stroke of twelve

This is the LAST DAY you can buy VICTORY BONDS, 1918.

TO-NIGHT—on the Stroke of Twelve—your last chance will be gone;

YOUR LAST CHANCE TO HELP CANADA wind up the war as she fought it; to help Canada bring her soldiers' sons home to wives, mothers and children;

To help Canada in her big PEACE PROBLEMS—problems of demobilization and re-establishment of our soldiers in civil life;

Problems of caring for sick, maimed and blinded soldiers, — problems of continuing to FIND AND FINANCE MARKETS for our farm crops,

Problems of developing markets and supplying material for rebuilding devastated Belgium and France,

Problems of maintaining Canada's Prosperity.

For all these Problems CANADA must have HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS OF DOLLARS, which must be borrowed from her people.

This is probably your very last chance to buy at par CANADIAN GOVERNMENT BONDS bearing Five and One-half per cent. interest, free from Federal taxation. Money is almost sure to become cheaper in a short time, and your Bonds will increase in value correspondingly.

And DON'T FORGET—YOUR MONEY IN VICTORY BONDS is not tied up—it is almost as easy to sell a VICTORY BOND as it is to change a hundred dollar bill. You can get YOUR MONEY OUT ANY TIME, and very likely with a profit.

How to Fire the Furnace

Keep the Fuel Bed Thick So That Fire Will Not Burn Through.

In view of the fact that we now have the furnaces in general use, as a beginning of another winter, it will be useful, perhaps, to repeat some excellent advice on saving fuel in heating a house, issued by the United States Bureau of Mines. It is as follows:

Keep the fuel bed thick, so that it will not burn through in spots, and admit a large excess of air. If there is a bright bed of coals over the center grate, as there should be before a heavy charge is fired, some of the burning coal should be pushed to one side or end of fire grate—the part nearest the opening where the gases leave the fire pot—and the bed of live coals made thicker there. Then fire the fresh charge so as to make the bed approximately of uniform thickness, and yet have visible a bright spot of live coal to ignite the combustible gases coming off the freshly fired fuel.

If the fire is low, take care not to put it out by throwing on too much push some of the burning coal aside each firing to become ignted before fresh coal is thrown on. Use small sizes of coal if they are available.

When preparng the fire to last over night, or for a similar length of time, push some of the burnng coal aside and fire the fresh charge so as to leave a bright spot visible to ignite the distilled gases. The drafts should then be allowed to stand open for a short period, possibly half an hour before they are closed for the night, so that a part of the volatile matter or gases in the coal can be driven off before the air supply is greatly reduced.

CATTLE MARKET

Cattle markets this week have been in a more or less demoralized condition. On Monday there was no market owing to the Peace celebrations. The day off, coupled with an extra rush of cattle to market on the succeeding days, due to an apparent fear which had seized many shippers and farmers that the cessation of hostilities on the war fronts would result in a collapse in market prices, brought about a badly congested market for a day or two, and incidentally helped to produce the very conditions which the shippers themselves feared. For, as a matter of fact, prices immediately began to weaken for the bulk of the cattle shipped in, consisting as it did largely of rough cows, canners, and light poor quality stuff hastily scraped together off the farms, and including a large number of light eastern stockers. Only for the small percentage of good quality butcher cattle, with weight, was there a good market at prices generally steady to firm at the previous week's levels. For the rest probably 75 to 80 per cent. of the total offering, the market broke anywhere from one to two dollars, particularly on the common cows.

Although the Food Board and other authorities generally do not anticipate any very material decline in food prices as a result of the "peace" situation, still the overloading of the live stock markets with a lot of poor quality and unfinished cattle is bound to have an effect on prices, temporarily, at all events. There will be a steady demand for good finished cattle and for good quality feeders, at firm prices. But prices for medium and common qualities will be difficult to maintain in the face of heavy shipments.

Choice veal calves have held firm. Common grassers dull and easier.

Sheep and lambs declined rather sharply under heavy receipts in the middle of the week, but picked up again at the close.

Hogs held a firmer tendency all week, closing 25c. to 50c. higher at the close.

Cattle Receipts.

Union Stock Yards—Total receipts this week, 710 cars, with 11,470 cattle, 526 calves, 11,937 hogs, and 6,567 sheep and lambs.

City Cattle Market—63 cars, with 879 cattle, 757 sheep and lambs, 1,159 hogs, and 52 calves.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Cupboard Knife Case.

One of the best and most convenient receptacles for table cutlery is a canton flannel knife case tacked to the inside of a cupboard door—to be so constructed that there will be a separate compartment for each knife or fork. The flannel is sure to absorb any moisture left on a knife by carelessness or by accident, and the whole affair is ornamental. White canton flannel bound with scarlet dress braid is prettiest.

For Creaky Shoes.

There is one certain and simple remedy for this annoyance. It is to drive little wooden pegs into the soles. The pegs prevent the friction of the shoe soles. Any cobbler will do it for you very cheaply and it restores your peace of mind quite wonderfully.

Soap Economy.

Avoid new soap. If possible, it is the better plan to buy soap by the box and keep it in a dry place. New soap is so soft it disappears as if by magic. Take care of all small pieces of soap. Laundry soap can be made into soap jelly by boiling the pieces in water. Use for soaking the clothes and for the wash boiler and washing machine. It is a good plan to save all the clean soap suds. They can be heated and used for cleaning purposes with no extra soap. Scraps of toilet soap may be melted with a little water, some fine oatmeal added, and the melted mixture put into cups to harden.

I will explain a simple home treatment which speedily and effectually dispels green-sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches and lassitude in young women, and restores them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember it costs you nothing to give my method of home treatment a complete ten days trial, and if you wish to continue, it costs only a few cents a week to do so, and it does not interfere with one's daily work. Is health worth asking for? Write for the free treatment suited to your needs, and I will send it in plain wrapper by return mail. Cut out this offer, mark the places that tell your feelings, and return to me. Write and ask for the free treatment to-day, as you may not see this offer again. Address

Enemy's Army Was on the Brink of Disaster When the Armistice Was Signed

"Our Army Is at Your Mercy," Said the German Armistice Delegates to Marshal Foch.

FAMINE THREATENED

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, in his message to the German Army, said that the threat of famine caused the acceptance of the armistice, says Marcel Hutin of the "Echo De Paris." Although food difficulties played a part of the defeat of Germany underlying the cause of the German collapse was the fact that the enemy's army was on the brink of disaster, said Hutin. The first words the German plenipotentiaries said to Marshal Foch were in substance: "Germany's army is at your mercy, Marshal. Our reserves of men and munitions are completely exhausted, making it impossible for us to continue the war."

Met Yesterday.

In accordance with Marshal Foch's instructions, conveyed through Major Sisteron to the German great headquarters, German military and technical representatives met Belgian officers at Bruges, the British at Mons, and the French and Americans at Nancy yesterday afternoon, says Marcel Hutin of the "Echo De Paris." The purpose of the meetings was to arrange the details of the withdrawal of the Germans across the Rhine and to discuss the questions relative to railroads, rivers, canals and telegraph and telephone service. The Germans gave information concerning different systems of communication and destruction affected or planned by the Germans. The British and Belgians dealt with the territory limited by the Dutch, Belgian and Dutch German frontiers, the Rhine and line of Coblenz. The French and Americans discussed the region south of Charleroi and Bont to Southern Alsace.

DIED OF WOUNDS

PTE. ERNEST MEIN.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mein, 538 Harvey street, that their only son, Pte. Ernest Mein, who died on October 9th, at Weston Fanelle Hospital, Northampton, England, of wounds received on August 26th, was buried on October 11th, with full military honours, in Towcester Road Cemetery, England.

Pte. Mein enlisted in Toronto, in Feb., 1916, with the 198th "Canadain Buffs," but in going to France was transferred to the 2nd C.M.R., with which he was serving, when wounded. Prior to enlisting in the army he was employed as a druggist with W. R. Hoar, Roncesvalle Ave., Toronto. Besides his parents he is survived by one sister, Mrs. W. H. Lang, of Toronto.

Honour Flag Presented to City Last Evening

City Went Over the Top and Reached Victory Loan Objective.

The Governor-General's flag, presented to cities going over the top in the Victory Loan objective was presented last night to Mayor Duncan and raised this morning over the City Hall.

The presentation was made in Mr. W. H. Bradburn's office by Mr. Bradburn, as a late hour was reached before the city's triumph was confirmed. The presentation was informal, and only Mayor Duncan, Mr. V. Eastwood, Mr. W. B. Cumming, Mr. W. H. Bradburn and Mr. Layfield were present.

Mayor Duncan's Reply.

It is with very great pleasure that I accept this honour flag on behalf of the city, said the Mayor. I felt no doubt that Peterborough would do its part in this second Victory Loan. From the time the war broke out, when Germany began its vicious attack upon the civilization and democracy of the world, and the first call to arms was made, Peterborough has been in the forefront in every effort. In the enlistment of soldiers, in contributions to the Patriotic Fund, in assistance to the Red Cross, Belgian Relief and other funds, this city has, to say the least, not been behind, and I knew that in this effort there would be no holding back. What was needed was to have the requirements of the country brought before the people, and that has been most efficiently done. The local committee is to be heartily congratulated, for it is very largely due to the excellent work of Mr. Cummings, the organizer, and of Mr. Bradburn, the chairman, Mr. Eastwood, the vice-chairman, and the other members of the committee and their efficient assistants that this splendid result has been achieved. I congratulate you, gentlemen, and I congratulate the people of Peterborough on the success of the loan in this city and district.

At the C. G. E.

The Canadian General Electric Company have had over eleven hundred applications to date and they are still coming in. The men in the plant have subscribed over one hundred thousand dollars to the Victory Loan.

Request For Intervention

Another Wail From Hunland Addressed to United States Government.

Special to Examiner:

BERLIN, Via London, Nov. 16. — Foreign Secretary Solf has sent the following wireless message to Secretary Lansing: "Fulfilment of Clause 19 of the Anglo-Turkish armistice that German civilians shall leave Turkey immediately will cause severe hardship." It appears unreasonable, that after the conclusion of an universal armistice, German blind and orphan hospitals should be compelled to close, causing new suffering for the Christian populations.

"The German Government requests the President to intervene in favour of German civilians remaining in Turkey."

ELECTRIC HEATING BY RADIATORS

As a clean, healthful, efficient and convenient method of supplementing heating requirements, there is none to compare with electric current.

A few instances where it is allowable legitimately to make use of electric current for heating purposes are as follows: 1. To bring up shortages in other methods of heating to the necessary requirements. 2. In isolated places where the installation of piping would be costly and inconvenient. 3. For sick rooms. 4. Temporary heating. 5. For fall and spring when ordinary heating systems can be operated only at comparatively great cost.

The radiator used is of the usual form of house radiator, into which a small amount of water is placed to surround an electric heating element. The height of this water is observed in a gauge glass which shows clearly and accurately the level in the radiator. It is provided with a brass tube guard to prevent its being broken.

The heating element is connected to a flexible cord which is attached to the wiring system by means of a suitable plug receptacle furnished by the manufacturers. On current being turned on, steam is generated which heats the radiator.

The F. R. J. MacPherson Co. Limited, 176-177 Simcoe street, have the local agency for these Radiators; also for the Economy Air Burner, which can be installed in furnaces, for the saving of coal. See advertisement in this issue. 1d

DEMOBLIZING U. S. ARMY

A Number of Divisions Will be Home by Christmas—Can Return 300,000 a Month.

HOMEWARD BOUND

(United Press.)
(By Carl D. Groat.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. — Early demobilization of the "dizzy brigades"—development battalions— in home cantonments, and the quick return of sick and wounded from overseas, are the sole immediate home-coming plans of the War Department. However, schemes are rapidly shaping today whereby the west-bound movement of troops can be undertaken soon. The trip of Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board, to Europe, deals mainly with the problem of the return of the United States' soldiers to this country. New York reports quoting him as saying 300,000 men can be returned monthly, were qualified by the statement that this can be done if the War Department desires so rapid a movement. That the Department has not yet decided on so pronounced a flow seem likely. However, General Staff indications are that New England, Rainbow and perhaps Sunset divisions will be back by Christmas, with perhaps a few more. There is a disposition to return the men according to length of service, but more particularly on the basis of industrial adaptability. Hence, certain service of supply men, mechanics, electricians and the like are apt to be culled out first for return home.

Under Way.

Special to the Examiner:

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Herbert Hoover, Food Administrator, and Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the Shipping Board, sail for Europe today on the White Star liner Olympic. Hoover is going abroad to take charge of the huge task of feeding the hungry millions in the war devastated countries. Hurley's mission is to arrange for the homeward voyages of America's troops overseas. Hurley declared he believed the Yanks can be transported home at the rate of 300,000 a month in American vessels. He announced that the homeward movement has already started, and that in a few days the soldiers will commence disembarking in New York. The first arrivals will be those who were disabled and removed from the firing line before the armistice was signed, he said.

GERMANY OWES $68,000,000,000 TO FRANCE

Special to The Examiner:

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Le Matin declares that Germany owes France $68,000,000,000. The bill is rendered as follows: Cost of the war, $28,000,000,000, reparations, $20,000,000,000, pensions, $8,000,000,000, return of the 1871 indemnity, $1,000,000,000,000. Total $68,000,000,000.

WHY GERMANY'S COLONIES MUST BE RETAINED.—This map, adapted from one issued by the Admiralty, shows the trade areas in which German submarines could operate if Germany had naval bases in the Cameroons, German East Africa, and German New Guinea. The outlines represent a radius of 4,000 miles; the cross-shaded areas are doubly dangerous because they would be exposed to U-boat piracy from two bases.—London Daily Mail.

Two Hundred Parcels a Day Sent Out of Peterboro For the Soldiers Overseas

Local Post Office Has Been Doing a Land Office Business During the Past Few Weeks—Parcels Are Sent to All Parts of the World—Some Difficulties Encountered by the Postal Clerks.

"A box from home! Gee what do they want to tie the thing up in ropes and cotton for? Will I ever get at the cigarettes, cake and candy I know are in there? Come on fellows dig in, it's the last Christmas we'll be here and we'd best make the best of it."

Sixteen hundred different boys "over there" will probably say the same thing in the course of a few weeks and when they speak of 'home' many of them will have in mind Peterboro.

TO EVERY PART OF THE WORLD

From the Peterboro Post Office during the past two weeks two hundred parcels went daily while on a big day four hundred were sent through making the total of at least sixteen hundred with probably several more late arrivals. To every part of the world where British and Canadians are stationed boxes passed through Postmaster Edgar's hands. The majority of the boxes go to France. To the boys there the people at home generally go the limit in sending the all alloted seven pounds. To England the next heaviest mail is sent, while Siberia falls into third place. Russia, South Africa and a few odd ones for Palestine also started their long journeys from the local post office.

PARCELS FOR SOLDIERS

Pending the conclusion of peace negotiations, no definite statement is possible with regard to the demobilization of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, but it is not likely that many of the boys "over there" will be home for Christmas. Hence most of them should receive their Christmas presents. Those sending parcels may, by writing the request on the wrapper, have them returned in case of non-delivery, or they may put on the package the address of several soldiers, so that in case the one for whom the gifts were intended in the first place is on the way home, the sender will have the satisfaction of knowing that another friend has received them. If neither of these courses is followed, the military authorities will distribute the contents of the packages to the soldiers in whatever manner they deem just.

REVENUE RAISED

During the past four weeks a revenue of about $3,000 was raised by the postage on the parcels from the city. The stamp sale inclusive of the ordinary letter and parcel postage amounted to $7,022 and the ordinary month net $4,000.

FORGET ADDRESS

Strangely addressed at times it takes the clerks a long time and a lot of ingenuity to make out just what country the parcels are headed for. In a few cases the entire address is forgotten and the Postmaster is generally traced to his home by the anxious sender who just remembered what she forgot. Such addressed parcels are always laid aside awaiting their sender to turn up and claim them and few were ever known to be unclaimed. Very few are ever posted too badly done up to forward.

ANOTHER DIFFICULTY

Another difficulty Post Master Edgar has to contend with is the absolute negligence of the ordinary sender who posts parcels to Russia. Parcels for Russia cost $1.16 for the allotted 7 pounds while those for Siberia go for 89 cents. Almost invariably the Russian parcels are sent at Siberian rates. These go on and the Postmaster is notified upon which he collects the balance due in Peterboro.

SOME DIFFICULTIES

Some of the difficulties which confront the staff at the post office are almost unbelievable to the ordinary human being. One woman upon presenting her parcel to be weighed was reminded of the Customs declaration form which she had neglected to affix. "Never mind that," she said, "I don't need to be telling the world what's inside, that's my business. I never put one on last year and I don't intend to this. That's just how the parcels get stolen. Curious people find what's here and are tempted while if they don't bother about it." I took they don' tbother abou t it." It took a lot of convincing to get her to conform with the government's idea of what is necessary.

STRANGE REQUESTS

Believing evidently that the post office staff is there to do any odd job any casual stranger may want done, the staff is asked to do strange things String and note paper are common requests but the most frequent is by young ladies to have their stamps licked. "I simply can't do it with my veil on," is the usual excuse.

HELD IN LONDON

In a few cases it is impossible to deliver parcels to the soldier to whom they are sent. These are held in London, England and the sender wired to know how they would like them disposed of. The usual answer is to give them to someone else.

THANKSGIVING AT ALL SAINTS'.

To-morrow will be a day of thanksgiving at All Saints' Church. Both services will be filled with the spirit of joy that fills all hearts at this time. Come and give expression to it in thanksgiving to Almighty God. We cannot adequately nor fittingly do so by shouting nor by beating tin pans. Let us prove ourselves worthy of the boon of peace by meeting in God's house as a Christian people, and there acknowledging to Him our debt of gratitude.

To-morrow will be a day of testing for our faith. Can we stand the test? Come in the morning when the Sun is shining and helping to make glad the occasion. Come in the evening and thank God again. Make up your mind to go the second mile. Let those who are bereaved come. Let those who are looking forward to the boys' home-coming come.

Let all come and help to make the day one long to be remembered among us.

PRELIMINARY DISCUSSIONS

Arrangements Being Made to Carry Out the Naval Provisions of the Armstice.

HELD CONFERENCE

Special to The Examiner:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 16. — Germany cannot carry out the naval provisions of the armistice ,the "Deutsch Tages Zeitung" declares. "It is impossible to deliver the naval material demanded in the armistice, because the naval authorities no longer control the seamen," says the newspaper. "The submarine crews refuse to go to England, fearing violence."

"The chairman of the Naval Workmen's and Soldiers' Council has requested the sailors to fulfill the armistice conditions to avoid Allied occupation of Heligoland."

A Conference.

Getting Ready For Peace

Workmen Are Busy at Versailles Arranging the Palace for the Peace Conference.

FAVOURITE PLACE

(United Press.)
(By William Philip Simms.)

PARIS, Nov. 16.— The final trimmings of the war are being put on faster than anybody had hoped. While the Germans apparently are making every effort to expedite their evacuation, workmen are busy at Versailles arranging the palace for the peace conference. The hall of mirrors, where the principal sessions are scheduled to be held is being decorated. It is proposed to lodge the delegates in the grand trianon, which was built for Madame De Maintenon, the morganatic wife of Louis XIV. Versailles is a favourite place for the signing of peace treaties. Great Britain and the American colonies ratified their peace there September 3, 1783. On the same day Great Britain, France and Spain signed a treaty restoring certain colonial possessions to the French.

Reconstruction.

Preliminaries of the treaty ending the Franco-Prussian war were accepted there Feb. 26, 1871. Public interest of the announcement by the newspapers that President Wilson is coming over is shown in the almost daily rumours that he will arrive in a few days. Numerous jubilees have been planned, similar to the impromptu one following the signing of the armistice. The first of these will be held Sunday, in honour of the return of the "lost provinces." Others will follow the re-occupation of Metz and Strassburg. The munition factories are buzzing to provide work for the out-of-a-job multitude, but the quick transformation of them for the manufacture of peace products is planned. The ministry of armaments, which is setting the pace in this regard, probably will become the ministry of reconstruction

THE GOLLOP HOTEL

Opening of Another First-Class Modern Appointed Hotel in Peterboro.

What was formerly known as the Grand Hotel, situated on George Street, nearly opposite the Grand Opera House, has recently been entirely remodelled and changed, and a fine new hotel opened right in the heart of the city. The lease was secured by Mr. R. P. Gollop, well-known as former proprietor of the Snowden House, and under whose management the present newly appointed premises will be under. Mr. Gollop has a good previous record for hotel-keeping; and being an experienced business man as well, has made his hotels a success and himself a genial and hospital host.

The Gollop Hotel is situated in a most desirable location on the principal thoroughfare of the city. The remodelling of the premises and the new fittings and furnishings are in good taste. A seating capacity for fifty is allowed in the dining-room, where, under Mrs. Gollop's careful and skilful attention, the table of the Gollop House will fully sustain her former excellent reputation.

AMERICAN PRISONERS

Hundreds of Yanks Released by the Germans Are Pouring Into Allied Lines.

ENEMY EVACUATED

Special to the Examiner:

(By Webb Miller—United Press).

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, Nov. 16.—Hundreds of American prisoners, released by the Germans, are pouring across our lines. Many walked twenty-four hours in freezing weather, with little food. They said the Germans evacuated and left them to their own resources. The arrivals include troops from Texas, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, California and Washington. None of the men had overcoats, and they wore a motley collection of clothing. Some who wore German uniforms had been working at sawmills and on farms.

Hit by Machine Gun Bullet

How Peterborough Soldier Met His Death.

The following particulars have been received by Mrs. Lillie Griffin, 420 London street, concerning the death of her son, Pte. Milton Griffin.

Old Bailey,
London, E.C.

Mrs. Lillie Griffin,
420 London street,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Madam,—In reply to your letter of the 28th instant concerning the late Private Griffin, according to information received this soldier went forward with his company in the attack on the morning of August 27, 1918, in the vicinity of Bois-du-Vert. During the attack he was instantly killed by an enemy machine gun bullet.

A burial report in respect of this soldier has not yet been received.

THE OATH.

I will not drink from a German cup,
Or eat from a German plate.
I will not deal with a German man
All foul with German hate.

I'll use no drug with a German name,
That's grown on German land.
I'll eat no food and drink no beer
If made by a German hand.

I will not use a German tool,
Razor, or knife, or saw.
I will not trade with a German shop
That lives by the German law.

I will not sail on a German ship,
Where German songs are sung.
I will not breathe where God's clean air
Is soiled by a German tongue.

I'll not forget those awful deeds
To girls and little boys.
No more I'll hang on Christmas trees
Those blood-stained German toys.

I will not take a German's word
He'll break it if he can.
There is no love in a German heart
Or faith in a German man.

This is my oath, when war is done,
I'll swear to keep it true.
And, since I know you feel the same,
I'll pass it on to you.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16TH, 1918.

OVER THE TOP.

Peterborough has made good once more. The latest figures of the Victory Loan Campaign prove that both the city and the county have advanced well beyond their objective and have shown that they are not going to fail Canada when their help is needed. Some of the townships may not obtain their honour flags, but the city itself and most of the other groups in the county started out on the last day of the drive this morning with the proud satisfaction that they had not only reached their own objectives, but had gone so far beyond them that the district honour flag had been secured won. To-day's receipts may win a number of crowns to be added to the flags, but at all events the Peterborough district has not failed in the great task and has met the appeal with the same spirit as other calls have been received.

The success of the campaign locally is most gratifying to civic pride, while the magnificent record rolled up in the Dominion which promises to far surpass five hundred million dollars should be a matter of thanksgiving and satisfaction. There has been the danger throughout the campaign that seeing the end of the war in sight, the people of Canada might fail to realize the vital necessity of a successful completion of the Loan campaign. In addition the influenza epidemic was a great handicap during the first two weeks of the campaign in the East and during the whole of the drive in the four Western provinces.

Under such circumstances the wonderful response of the Canadian people to the Victory Loan appeal is a striking testimony t othe fact that Canada need have no fears for the future. O country with a population of less than eight million people, with three hundred thousand of its wage-earners fighting overseas, that can subscribe over five hundred million dollars at the end of more than four years of war can look forward with confidence to the problems that will crowd in upon it during the reconstruction period.

The members of the local committee from Organizer W. B. Cummings and Chairman W. H. Bradburn, down to the individual canvassers, are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts.

SHOULD BE RELEASED

There is a strong feeling in Canada that the troops from Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Canada should be the first to be sent home from the war zone when the demobilization of the allied armies commences, and it is hoped that Sir Robert Borden will strongly urge the claims of Canadian soldiers to consideration in this respect. The troops from the Dominions have been unable to get leave home beause of the distance that separates them from their own lands while British and French troops have had a number of opportunities to visit their loved ones. Among the Canadians are soldiers who have not seen home for over four years while thousands of others have been away nearly as long. While there is any need of the presence of Canadians overseas, and there is still a chance of further fighting, no Canadian would be anxious to leave until the job is finished, but if the troops are only required for ertTed e needed .Rtte koa hrdlu hrdl police or garrison duty, the sentiment in Canada is that the overseas troops could be spared from this work and allowed to go home.

Many people are of the opinion that a considerable amount of the garrison duty might well be taken over by the United States armies. The troops from the neighboring republic have come out of the war very luckily, their total casualties being considerably less than half of Canadian losses. It is estimated that the Canadian casualties all told will amount to 220,000, while those of the American army are approximately placed at 100,000. More than half of the American army in France have not had an opportunity of facing the enemy, and as thousands of them have only recently reached France, it is pointed out that these troops should not look upon it as a hardship to have to remain for some time on garrison duty. It would be manifestly unfair to keep Canadian troops, who have been fighting for two, three or four years, on duty overseas, when there are thousands of soldiers available who have not had to undergo the dangers and hardships of actual campaigning.

YOUR LAST CHANCE

If you have not yet invested in Victory Bonds, you have one more chance.

The Campaign finishes to-night.

The Victory Loan Headquarters at 174 Hunter street will be open till a late hour.

The gateway to one of the finest investments ever offered to the Canadian public is still open to you.

But you have got to act at once.

Monday will be too late.

To-night is absolutely your last chance to invest your savings in Canada's prosperity.

Better get busy.

You will never regret your investment, even if you have to borrow the money to buy the Bond.

Ask anyone who did, this is the last Loan Campaign.

They'll all tell you it was the wisest action of their lives.

They never missed the money they put into the Loan and now they have a nest egg stored away for the future.

After to-night you may wait a long time for a chance to invest your earning at 5 1-2 per cent.

And the security is the best in the world. The whole Dominion of Canada stand behind you.

You must realize by this time that the money is needed.

Canada's share of the reconsruction work in Europe must be financed.

The orders from France and Belgium will keep the Dominion at the flood-tide of prosperity—if the financial help is available.

The devastated European countries can only buy in Canada if they are given credits.

The Victory Loan will help these to be advanced as Great Britain's purchases here have been arranged.

If only for that one reason the Victory Loan should be over-subscribed.

But there are many other reasons.

The Loan will bring the boys home.

It will feed, clothe and pay them until they can be brought back .

It will look after the needs of their dependents at home.

You have a great opportunity to help in these important things.

To-night is your last chance.

Invest to the limit.

A GLARING INJUSTICE

The report that no more defaulters under the Military Service Act are to be arrested or punished seems almost incredible and there is to be a general protest throughout the Dominion, at allowing the men who fled from the country or hid themselves in the woods to escape military service to go scot free now. The Great War Veterans Assoiation can be counted on to register a strenuous complaint at such a courseof action. The men who deliberately hid themselves when they were wanted by their country are skulkers of the worst type. They are much more eligible than the men, who, through religious scruples, refused to don the khaki, but who were manly enough to stand their trial and take their punishment without a whimper. Many of these conscientious objectors, the majority of whom were sincere in their stand, are serving ten and fifteen years sentences in the penitentiary because they belived that they could not conscientiously enter upon military service. It will be a strange travesty of justice if the defaulters are now allowed to come out of their hiding places and enjoy their freedom unmolested, while other men who were not cowards, but were misled by their convictions as to the righteousness of military life, have to spend years among criminals in Canada's penitentiaries. Surely it is not the intention of the Government to allow cowards and slackers of the most ignoble type to go unpunished and filling the positions that will be needed by our returning soldiers, while conscientious objectors are kept in durance vile.

The young men who were called into service by the Military Service Act of 1917 and who played the game by reporting for service when they were ordered to, are now with the Canadian Army overseas, while they have showed themselves valiant soldiers. They have had a noble share in the glorious exploits of the Canadian corps during the last few months and the casualty lists tell all too well that many of them have made the supreme sacrifice

It is disgraceful to think that their fellow-citizens to whom the same call came and who proved themselves shameless poltroons by going into retirement, are now to be permitted to come back to their every day life without the slightest punishment

The people of Canada have a right to demand of the Government that, at least the names of all defaulters and deserters under the Military Service Aat, should be prominently published in order that the country may be able to identify those who utterly failed when the Empire called them.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Peterboro has delivered the goods.

Both ity and county have gone over the top in the Victory Loan drive.

The record yesterday was over two million dollars. The objective was $1,850,000

And to-day's receipts will swell the total.

The success of the campaign should not interfere with your investing if you have not arleday done so.

It is your last chance to-night to get in on a good thing.

Let Peterboro help up the good work until the last shot is fired.

The Canadians in France fought until the last shot was firedlu ionvest til the last minute. It s the least we at home can do to work for the Vicory Loan until the campaign is ended.

Poor Holland seems to be having more of its share of trouble on account of the war. The arrival of he German Crown Prince is the latest affliction for the Dutch people.

German women plead for mercy because they are in danger of starving. But have you any recollections of these same women protesting against the murder of women and children by the German submarine pirates.

BROCK STREET SKATING RINK
FOR SALE BY TENDER

Tenders will be received up to Thursday the fifth day of December, A.D., 1918 at Four P.M. addressed to R. M. Glover, Esquire, 419 George street, Peterborough, Ont., and marked "Tender for Brock street Rink" for the purchase of all and singular that certain parcel or tract ofland and premises situate lying and being in the City of Peterborough in the County of Peterborough and being composed of part of Lot Number Three west of George street and south of Brock street, more particularly described as follows: Commencing at a point in the southern limit of Brock street ten feet westerly from the north-east angle of the said lot number Three, thence southerly parallel with the eastern limit of said lot one hundred and ninety-two feet more or less to the southern limit of said lot, thence westerly along the southern limit of said lot to the western limit of said lot, thence northerly along the western limit of the said lot to the southern limit of Brock street, thence easterly along the southern limit of Brock street one hundred and four feet more or less to the place of beginning, together with all the rights of the executors of the James Robert Stratton estate in and to the easterly ten feet of said lot number Three, which said rights are more particularly set forth and described in registered instrument No. 16139 for the City of Peterborough.

Upon this property is erected a large brick building 100 ft. x 190 ft. with shingle roof supported by steel girders. The building is originally used as a skating rink, and has a hard wood floor.

Invest in Victory Bonds.

Buy a Victory Bond
Before You Retire To-Night

In buying a Victory Bond you exchange with the Government one kind of money for another kind of money.

The kind of money the Government is asking you to exchange for another kind of money is better, because — every $50.00 Victory Bond that the Government asks you to buy has attached to it coupons which are cut off every six months, and each coupon is the same as money.

You can spend it with your butcher, your baker, or your landlord will take it for rent.

Every six months, when you cut a coupon from a $50.00 Bond, the value of the bond is still $50.00.

Everyone knows that there can be no better way of saving money than to buy a Victory Loan Bond, the safest and best interest-bearing investment in the world. It is guaranteed by the Canadian Government with all its resources and wealth, and besides it will help to keep the home wheels turning.

(Each has the same Government guarantee back of it.)

PETERBORO SIXTY YEARS AGO

In the early days of this section a large number of sawmills were in existence. The following are the names of a number:

Norwood Mills, P. M. Grover, proprietor. In the village of Norwood. 1 saw, cuts 4,000 feet per day.

Grover's Mills, P. M. Grover, proprietor. About a mile from Norwood. 1 saw, cuts about 4,000 feet per day.

Westwood Mill, Ewing and Roxborough, proprietors. Village of Westwood. 1 saw, cuts 4,000 feet per day.

Ewing's Mills, R. D. Ewing, proprietor. Lot — in the second concession of Asphodel. Patent circular saw and 1 upright saw, cuts 15,000 feet per day.

Hastings Mill, Messrs. Fowlds, proprietor. Village of Hastings. 1 "yankee gang," 1 muley and 1 circular saw. Cuts 14,000 feet per day.

Pyne's saw mill. Lot 19, concession 3, Dummer. 1 saw, 2,000 feet a day.

Richie's saw mill. Lot 3, 3rd concession, Dummer. One saw, 2,000 feet a day.

Choate's saw mill, T. G. Choate, proprietor, Warsaw. 1 saw, 3,000 a day.

Buck's saw mill, lot 8, 9th concession, Dummer. One saw, 2,000 feet a day.

Carveth's mill, S. Carveth, proprietor, lot 13, 2nd concession, Dummer, 1 saw, cuts 2,000 feet per day.

Ferrier's saw mill, Ferrier, proprietor, Douro. Has not been working for some time.

Sawer's saw mill, A. Sawers, proprieor, Douro. Has also been idle for some time.

Shaw's mill, village of Lakefield, Douro. This mill is not quite complete. It will be about the same capacity as Snyder's mill.

Nassau Mills, Charles Perry, Proprietor. This which is the largest and the most complete mill in the Counties, and one of the finest in Province, is situated about three miles from Peterboro, in the Township of Smith. A challenge to cut against any other mill in the province remains unanswered. It has 2 "Yankee gangs," a "slabber," "stock gang," and an "English gate," containing in all 130 saws, besides circulars for butting, cutting laths, etc. It has also a very ingenious machine for grinding slabs. This mill has cut 90,000 feet of lumber in 12 hours.

Perry's Mill, E. Perry & Co., proprietor. Situated about two miles from Peterboro, in the Township of Douro. Contains three gangs and one span, in all 100 saws, besides circulars for edging, butting, cutting laths, etc. Averages when cutting about 60,000 feet in 24 hours.

Snyder's Mill, William Snyder, proprietor. About two miles from Peterboro, in the township of Smith This mill is similar to the preceding one and of about equal capacity.

Blythe saw mill, James Bird, proprietor. About a mile from Peterboro in the Township of Smith. Contains one "Yankee gang," and one "English gate," in all 36 saws, besides lathing machines, and circulars for butting, edging, etc. Capable of cutting 20,000 feet per day.

Dickson's Mill, S. Dickson, proprietor. Situated in Peterboro East. Is similarly fitted up and of the same capacity as Bird's mill.

Ludgate's Mill, J. Ludgate, proprietor. This mill is also situated in Peterboro East and is of the same capacity as the two former.

Dickson's Steam Mill, S. Dickson, proprietor. Situated on the Little Lake, Peterboro East. Contains one slabber, one gang, and one muley, besides lathing machines and circular saws for butting, edging, etc. Can cut 50,000 feet a day. It is driven by steam power.

Austin's Mill, J. H. Austin, proprietor; situated near the Otonabee bridge, Peterboro East, contains one circular and one English gate. Can cut 15,000 feet per day.

Boswell's mill, G. G. Boswell, proprietor, Douro. Contains one gang, and one muley, in all 31 upright saws, besides circulars for edging, butting and lathing. Can cut 25,000 feet per day.

Allandale Mills, Thomas Short, proprietor, situated in the village of Allandale. Contains a muley and circular saw, a shingle cutting machine, cutting from 40 to 50 a minute; a stave cutting machine, turning out 40 a minute; a circular saw for cutting lath, and a planing and a grooving machine. In the upper part of the building is a very convenient machine shop. The mill can cut 20,000 feet a day, and is driven by steam and water power.

Kelly's Mill. S. S. Kelly, proprietor, Bridgenorth. This mill is driven by steam power and cuts about 300,000 feet during the summer months.

Scott's Mills, Walter Scott, proprietor. Situated about a mile beyond the village of Bridgenorth. This mill is also driven by steam power, and turns out about 500,000 feet during the summer months.

The following flour and grist mills among others were doing business at this period:

West wood mill, Messrs. Ewing and Roxborough, Proprietors, village of Westwood. Two run of stones—for gristing only.

Hastings Mill, Messrs, Fowlds, proprietors, village of Hastings. Three run of stones—250 bushels of wheat daily.

Norwood Mill, P. M. Grover, proprietor; occupied by L. P. Lewis. Two run stones—200 bushels of wheat daily.

Burnham's, mill, M. Burnham, proprietor, Keene. Three run of stones —250 bushels of wheat daily.

Allandale flour mill, Thomas Short, proprietor. This mill, an excellent stone structure, is fitted up with all the modern appliances for manufacturing merchantable flour. It has four run of stones and two bolts for country use. The building is also fitted up with an oatmeal mill, with kiln, etc., for preparing the oats. It is driven by water power, but a 40 horse power engine has been placed in the building in case of failure of water. Besides the country work, from 6,000 to 8,000 barrels of flour are exported from the Allandale mills.

Blythe Mills, Herst and Denne, proprietors, situated on the Otonabee River, about a mile from the town of Peterboro. Three run of stones—600 barrels of flour a week.

Otonabee Mill, R. D. Rogers, proprietor, situated in Peterboro East. A subtsantial stone building, four run of stones, manufactures 100 barrels of flour a day.

Hall's Mill, M. Martin, proprietor, situated on the Otonabee, within the Peterboro limits. Three run of stone —manufacturing 80 barrels a day.

Peplow's Mill, E. Peplow, lessee, James Wallis, proprietor. Three run of stones—manufacturing 75 barrels a day.

Canon Davidson's Message to Peterboro Soldiers Overseas

The following are extracts from Canon Davidson's Christmas letter to members of St. John's at the Front. The letter was placed in the Christmas parcels:

The Rectory, Peterborough, Ont., October, 1918.

My Dear Comrade:

On behalf of myself and the Congregation of St. John's Church, I offer to you and to other members and friends overseas a few words of warm Christmas greeting. . . . Perhaps you men abroad do not realize how much you are centres of thought and interest and affection. Everyone thinks of, talks of, and works for the soldier. We are on the circumference while you privileged men are at the centre of life and interest. We all know something of the exposure and other hardships of your lot. But looking back over by own experiences I do not think one appreciated at the time how largely many ordinary responsibilities of life are lifted from the shoulders of the soldier. Such things as rents, clothes, house-fuel, the price of food, present no great worries to you as they do to us. I only mention this so that you may take some enjoyment from the thought and realize that we have a share with you and feel the closer in sympathy to you in bearing some of the heavy burdens of this grievous war.

But if life is a hard thing for us all to live to-day wherever we are we all can "buck up" and live it and get solid satisfaction and happiness out of it too, and you men with your fine courage and good cheer are a constant inspiration to use at the home base. You have held out well and have been enabled to do wonderful things, filling our hearts with pride in both you and our beloved country to which you have been privileged to bring such honour.

Nowhere have you been remembered more constantly than in the churches of your home-land. Here in old St. John's, intercessions have been offered every day since the war began and you have been spoken of and prayed for at every Sunday Service. Moreover the "Peoples' Chimes" in our tower play Patriotic airs and hymns every noon-day, reminding people of the absent soldiers. St. John's ladies are now putting up the Christmas parcels carrying the loving wishes of us all. We shall all feel close together at Christmas-tide. God bless and keep you all and bring us together again as soon as may be. Your sincere Friend and well-wisher,

J. C. Davidson.

A NECESSITY IN THE HOUSE.

Most of the common ills of life arise from a torpid, sluggish condition of the Liver, Kidneys or Bowels, and because they act on each of these organs in a direct and specific way Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills overcome serious and painful diseases over which ordinary medicines have no control.

Some men's savings would fill many volumes and their doings wouldn't fill a postal card.

Good Service vs. Poor Service

GOOD telephone service depends not only upon the co-operation of the telephone user, but upon the absolute perfection in every detail of every bit of telephone apparatus and equipment used in the transmission of speech.

Constant expenditure for upkeep is essential to good service. Every bit of wire and every piece of apparatus must be watched, tested and kept in good condition. Large reserve stocks of expensive equipment must be maintained at various points to meet promptly such emergencies as storms, fires and floods.

The public cannot be well served by a utility whose income is insufficient to provide properly for the maintenance of its plant and for the replacement of obsolete or worn-out equipment.

The small advance in rates which subscribers will be asked to bear means that we will be able to maintain our system, meet emergencies promptly, and guard against any deterioration of equipment and service.

Reminiscences of the "Tower"

By MRS. C. ATWOOD, Lakefield.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I was much interested in reading some verses that appeared in your paper some little time ago, entitled "The Tower." It brought to my recollection the many happy hours that I and my brothers and sisters spent there in our childhood, as we lived there in 1846-7, and though very young I have a perfect recollection of it and its surroundings at that time. The description given of it by the writer of the verses is in the main correct, but there are some mistakes. The tower was not built of stone, but of wood, rough-cast, of a bluish grey colour. The main building was Petagon, with a square in front, that consisted of the hall and the staircases, not spiral, leading up from the basement kitchen, as well as those leading to all the upper stories. There was a large kitchen fitted with all conveniences, a dumb-waiter to take the dishes up to the dining room, a fireplace and a large casement window, which, like all the windows in the tower, was grated with heavy iron bars. At one end, a heavy oaken door led into a long underground passage, which sloped down to the foot of the hill, and there was just near the end an 80 foot wall with windlass and bucket on the left side of the passage, near the upper end; there were rooms for wood, roots, ice and dairy—it was dimly lighted by a large ground glass bullseye, and closed at the bottom by a heavily barred and studded door. The upper rooms were octagon. The drawing room, fitted with red cedar, with octagon table of the same, each flat, contained one octagon room till the third story, when it was divided in half. The 4th consisted of a smaller octagon, with seats all round. My mother used to use as a school room. Above this was the observatory. The grounds and garden were at that time very beautiful and there was no cleared land south of the tower, just lovely wooded hills of prairies. A short sketch of the circumstances that led the founder of "Wolf Tower" to come to Canada may not be amiss. Mr. Bridge was a personal and dear friend of my father and mother (Mrs. C. P. Traill) to whom he told of the sad bereavement that caused him to come to Canada. He had a living in Jamaica, his family consisted of his wife and three daughters and a baby boy. One lovely day his three daughters and a gentleman to whom the eldest was engaged, went out for a sail in his yacht. He was prevented at the last moment from accompanying them. A squall came up and the unhappy father saw the yacht capsize, and all on board were drowned, and all that was left of his lovely family was a baby boy of six months old. His wife at this time was absent on a visit in England and for some reason never would rejoin him, though he said they had parted on the best of terms. He was broken hearted, as one can fully realize. He threw up his living in despair and came out to Canada, induced as many others were by reading my mother's book, "The Backwoods of Canada." He built Wolf Tower and lived there with his little boy and his nurse as housekeeper for some years. When he returned to the old country for the education of his son, then grown a fine handsome boy, who afterwards became a captain in the Royal Navy. I well remember seeing him, the first time he visited us in Ashburnham, when he drove up in a rough wood sleigh, dressed in a blanket coat and sash and a real old "cocked" hat on his head, something like a Wideawake. The tower was then unoccupied for some time, till we lived there, pending its sale. It was bought by a Mr. Baker, of Grafton, and then to Mr. Philpots, a son of the Bishop of Exeter, and I think it was from him that Mr. F—— bought it.

Mr. F—— was not by any means what might be called a habitual drunkard. As a general thing he was both sober and industrious, attending to his farm, and at times working on it, superintending his farm help and living a quiet, domestic life with his charming wife and lovely children. He was a most affectionate husband and father, a constant attendant of the church at Gore's Landing, and was at one time church warden of it. It is true that occasionally he took more liquor than was good for him, but his lapses were few and far between, and his general conduct was irreproachable. And I think the writer of the verses must have been quite misinformed as to the fire by which the tower was burnt down, being caused by his drinking, and that "his life was barely saved," is quite a mistake, and it was never said at the time of the occurrence. All this I know, as he was a personal friend of our family. The reason of his removing was chiefly for the sake of his elder children, as there was little society nearer than Port Hope or Gore's Landing, also being so far from church. At that time, 1869-70, soon after the Civil War in America, many of the old Southern families were ruined, and their estates sold at a great sacrifice. Mr. F—— bought one of these beautiful old places in South Carolina, and removed there with his wife and eight children, accompanied by his sister-in-law, who had always resided with them since their marriage. Letters came from them, speaking in raptures of the place, and for a short time all was "coleur de rose," but sad to say, malignant diphtheria broke out, and in the course of a few days, of eight lovely children only three were left to the broken hearted parents. His sister-in-law and a servant boy also were victims of this terrible disease. Bad drainage was supposed to be the cause of the disease, so disastrous in its effects.

DEVELOPING THE GIRLS AT THE "Y."

It is the aim of the Y.W.C.A. Physical Department to provide for all girls' exercise and recreation that tends toward ideals of mental and spiritual development as well as the maintenance of health and development of physical vigor. Unconsciously, almost the "Gym" girl develops. Soon appears increased buoyancy to the footstep. The improved circulation sends a glow to the cheek and an added sparkle to the eye. The widened well-held chest means more oxygen, better blood, and less dangerous appearing shoulder blades. The erect head and well poised body means greater respect for oneself, and a broader outlook on life. In fact the entire being is changed through physical training.

Street Railway Extensions Should Be Commenced Now

When the Council gave its approval to the Hydro-Electric Commission's proposal to increase street railway fares provisionally to the extensions the city had repeatedly urged, it was supposed that the Commission contemplated immediate action. There was a ring of finality in the renewed negotiations, and the Council was led to believe that the financial consideration was the sole remaining obstacle to the work the Commission had planned. And that obstacle was removed by the Council's resolution to increase the fares from six to five tickets for twenty-five cents except during the customary specified hours.

Several months have passed but they have brought no signs of the early undertaking of the work on the Monaghan road from Charlotte street to Patterson sreet. Long ago the ties were piled in readiness for use, and even the poles were erected. Although labour has been well employed, it shouldn't have been difficult to secure the men required for the construction of this short stretch of railway. It is unlikely that the passing of the munitions of industry will throw any large number of men out of employment, but if the Commission was hampered by a labour problem it should be lessened somewhat in the near future.

Whether the conditions are more favourable or not, the Commission should give to Peterborough the relief for which it has built up the city's hopes not later than two months ago. The deficiencies of the street railway service have been pointed out time and again, and the public expects the proposed improvements before the winter sets in.

Incidentally it might be pointed out that the new cars that have been promised are needed immediately. The old rolling stock should be overhauled, and if the labour supply becomes more plentiful there are surely several vacancies at the car barns that have been too long unfilled. The main fact that should be stated now is that the public's patience is nearly spent. If there are any valid reasons why the work cannot be proceeded with, the people should at least be given the confidence of the Commission.

Appendicitis Operations Not Always Necessary

Internal Bathing Relieves the Cause.

Your physician will tell you that Appendicitis is an inflamed condition of the little sack called the Appendix at the lower right hand corner of the Colon or large intestine. By cleansing this Colon with purified warm water by the "J. B. L. Cascade" this sack is cleansed and the inflammation subsides. Hundreds of operations have been avoided by using the warm water cure for Appendicitis. Mr. Jas. McLaughlin, 91 Evanston street, Winnipeg, writes:—

"I have spent over fifty dollars with doctors trying to cure Appendicitis. Finally the doctor said I must go to the hospital at once for an operation. Your advertisement interested me. I bought a 'J. B. L. Cascade,' which relieved me at once, and am now completely cured. Never felt better in my life; all pain and soreness gone, and I eat and sleep like a boy. I am grateful to Dr. Tyrrell for this wonderful health-giving invention."

Ninety-five per cent. of all human ills are caused by accumulated waste in the Colon. Internal Bathing with the "J. B. L. Cascade" keeps this large intestine as free from all waste and as clean as nature demands it should be for perfect health. Ask Warne Drug Co., Peterborough, for booklet called "Why Man of To-day is Only 50 Per Cent. Efficient." It is free. They will also be leased to show and explain the "J. B. L. Cascade" to you.

Special Services in St. John's Church

National Thanksgiving Will be Theme of the Service.

The National Thanksgiving will be the theme of the services in St. John's next Sunday. The morning service will be celebrations of Holy Communion at 8.30 and 11 a.m.. At the latter service the "Te Deum" will be solemnly sung. The evening service will be a Thanksgiving and memorial service. The Great War Veterans Association will be present in response to an invitation from the rector and their band will assist in the musical service for which Bandmaster Hughes and Mr. R. J. Devey have made arrangements. After the "Requiem" has been sung, the "Last Post" will be sounded. The "Hallelujah" chorus will be sung with orchestral accompaniment. Well known hymns will be sung so that the service may be taken part in by all the congregation. A hearty invitation is extended to our citizens to be present.

GUARD THE CHILDREN FROM AUTUMN COLDS

The Fall weather is the most severe season of the year for colds—one day is warm, the next is wet and cold and unless the mother is on her guard the little ones are seized with colds that may hang on all winter. Baby's Own Tablets are mother's best friend in preventing or banishing colds. They act as a gentle laxative, keeping the bowels and stomach free and sweet. An occasional dose will prevent cold or if it does come on suddenly the prompt use of the tablets will quickly cure it. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

Efficiency of Vaccine in Present Influenza Epidemic

The present Influenza Epidemic has demonstrated the wonderful efficiency of Vaccine both as a prophylatic and in the treatmen of recently contracted cases as well as those cases which seem to last longer than they should.

The Nicholson Laboratories who were the first in Canada to prepare Spanish Influenza Vaccine deserves great credit for enterprise and skill in this direction. More than 200,000 doses of this Vaccine have been administered in Toronto as well as many Municipalities throughout Ontario, to places as far west as Saskatchewan and British Columbia. Large quantities of Vaccine have been shipped during October.

Upon enquiry from the different Toronto Physicians using The Nicholson Influenza Vaccine, it has been learned that not a single case has proved at all serious when the Vaccine has been administered, and wherever large numbers have been inoculated in various factories, hospitals and Homes it has been very rare to learn of the disease having been contracted at all.

SERVICE OF THANKSGIVING GEORGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH

SOUVENIR PROGRAMMES WILL BE DISTRIBUTED

A service of thanksgiving to Almighty God for the victory of the allies and the cessation of hostilities will be held on George Street Methodist church on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The Women's Patriotic League have undertaken to decorate the Church and the number and arrangement of the flags will produce an admirable effect. Special and appropriate music will be rendered by Mrs. J. H. Renwick, Miss Doris Rathbone, and the choir. It has been thought that the people would like something as a memento of the end of the war and therefore a souvenir program has been provided and will be distributed to the congregation. This will contain the order of service, and also the Honor Roll of the Church. The sermon will be delivered by the pastor Rev. Amos J. Thomas. A hearty welcome will be extended to all who will attend this service of praise.

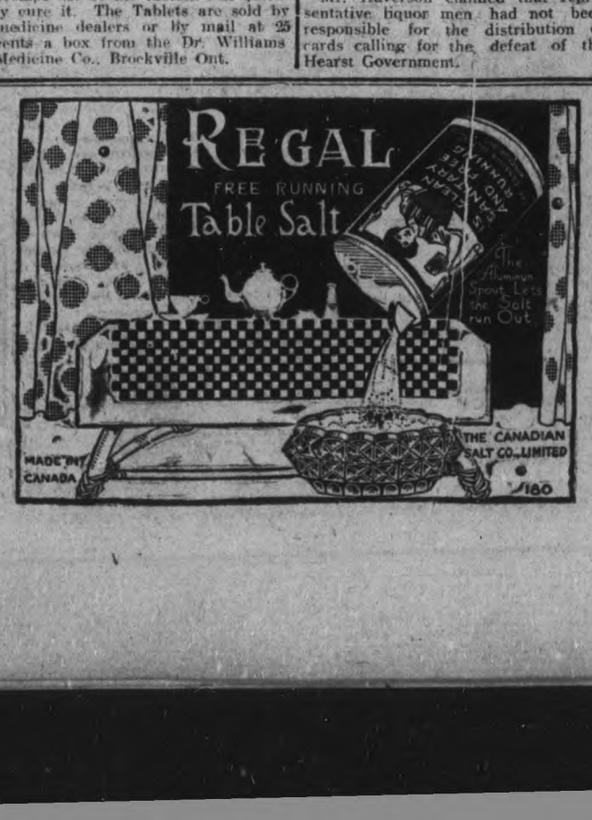
The quarterly Love Feast will be held at 10 a.m. and the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered at 11 a.m. At the Sunday School session in the afternoon an offering will be taken for the purchase of victory bonds to be donated to the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church.

MAKES A DISCLAIMER.

Jas. P. Haverson, Counsel For Hotelmen, Says They Were Not Men Who Issued Cards.

TORONTO, Nov. 15.—That the postponment of the referendum on the Ontario Temperance Act from next June until the last Ontario soldiers come back will be to their advantage is claimed by local liquor men. "I certainly think that it will be to our advantage," stated Mr. James P. Haverson. "I think that the men who return will look at the thing from a larger viewpoint."

Mr. Haverson claimed that representative liquor men had not been responsible for the distribution of cards calling for the defeat of the Hearst Government.



Substitutes Authorized

A Number of Others Have Been Added to List.

Rolled oats, oatmeal, buckwheat and cornmeal flour have been added to the list of substitutes that may be used in Canada, and the other substitutes permitted are rye, oats, barley and corn flour.

The Canada Food Board understands that some dealers are asking unreasonable prices for these products, and gives warning that unless this practice is discontinued, steps will be taken to punish offenders.

TEXTILE INDUSTRY WILL NOT SUFFER BY PEACE ADVENT

Although the munitions industry is on its last legs, the textile factories report the probability of night shifts in the near future to meet the increased business arising out of the changed conditions. This is the general report in the trade and there are intimations that fresh activities will be felt in Peterborough as production passes from a war to peace basis.

Mr. J. W. Worth, of the Bonner-Worth Company, remarked yesterday that while it was early to attempt a survey of the future through the period of transition, the present outlook was encouraging.

"Our instructions indicate that the war contracts will extend into March," Mr. Worth said. "The soldiers have to be clothed until they come home and are discharged. Hence there is no likelihood of the cancellation of textile contracts with the suddenness of the end of shell manufacturing. Beyond that, our factory has orders for at least a year, so there is no fear of idleness. If we will not require overtime, our employees are assured of full time work."

Keep the Bowels Regular And You Won't Be Sick

If the bowels do not move regularly, they will, sooner or later, become constipated, and constipation is productive of more ill-health than almost any other trouble.

The sole cause of constipation is an inactive liver, and unless the liver is kept active, you may be sure that headaches, piles, heartburn, biliousness, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, and many other troubles will follow the wrong action of this, one of the most important organs of the body.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the bowels so that you will have a free and easy motion every day, and one pill a night for thirty days will cure the worst cases of constipation.

They do this by acting directly on the liver and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood, thus causing many stomach and bowel troubles.

Mrs. Jos. Labrec, Louise Apts., Calgary, Alta., writes: — "I have been troubled with constipation for the last two years. I have tried numerous treatments, but have never been relieved by anything until I used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which are helping me wonderfully."

We do not claim that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are a "cure-all," but we do claim that there is nothing better for a sluggish liver.

What Is the Best Method of Pasteurizing Milk?

For family use it is advisable to obtain Milk already Pasteurized by a trustworthy Dairy. It is Cheaper, Safer, and Better to heat the milk by wholesale in a large plant, with competent supervision, than to depend upon each household heating its daily supply. If water needs purification it is filtered at a central station, and not left for each individual kitchen.

The Peterboro Milk Products Limited

Makes Cleanliness a vital part of the sanitary handling of their City Milk delivery.

Clarifying machines are used to eliminate the last traces of visible sediment from the milk. Pasteurizers destroy any bacteria that may be present in the milk, and then to cool thoroughly to a temperature of about 45 degrees Fahrenheit to prevent further growth. The best milk to buy is Pasteurized Milk.

Bottles are washed, brushed, rinsed and sterilized by machinery, thus guaranteeing that the consumer shall receive pure products, as far as possible.

MISS ZARA CLINTON AS "PRINC E CHARMING," IN "CINDERELLA," AT THE GRAND, WEDNES DAY, NOV. 20TH. Matinee and Night

F. Stuart-Whyte's third annual Canadian presentation of standard English pantomine is "Cinderella," which comes to the Grand for matinee and night, Wednesday, November 20th.

With his two former pantomine productions, "Aladdin" nad "Robinson Crusoe," Mr. Whyte has established a following in this city that will insure crowded houses here every time he offers a season of pantomine.

"Cinderella is admittedly the most beautiful nad at the same time most elaborate and costly to produce of all the English pantomines, and it was not until he had created a demand for this form of theatrical entertainment in Canada that Mr. Whyte felt justified in assuming the necessary financial expense incurred by such an elaborate production. The past two years have, however, amply evidenced the fact that Canadians and Americans do appreciate English pantomine when it is properly presented. With this knowledge in mind, Mr. Whyte has gone the limit and prepared a production of "Cinderella," the lavish beauty of which has never before been attempted outside of the Drury Lane Theatre in London, Eng.

Miss Zara Clinton, who was Robinson Crusoe last season, will be the Prince Charming, while Miss Sue Parker, a little comedian, with a big Broadway reputation, will be the "Cinderella." The supporting cast is large and well chosen, and the chorus are easy to look at.

A PETERBORO HOCKEY PLAYER HEARD FROM

Interesting Letter From Driver "Skid" Janes

Letter from Driver A. R. Janes, to Miss Bessie Janes. Driver Janes is a former Peterborough hockey player. His home is in Cavan:

France, Oct. 15, 1918.

Dear "Bobbie,"—Your long-looked-for letter has at last arrived and was surely pleased to hear you are all well and enjoying the lift's best. Naturally I'm always anxious to hear from you all, and I do try to drop a few lines once in a while to let you know how I am. When I get no news I always fear something has happened, so you can realize what a relief it is to get a few lines.

The war news looks good now and possibly it won't be very long until nobody need write. Glorious to think of, isn't it? That is what our hopes are all centred on now.

It will surely be one grand day when it is all over and we get back home again. As the song goes, "I'm living in dreams of home, never again I'll roam, when I get back there again." I heard Beatrice Lilly sing that in old London last year, and gee, I thought how great it was. I hum it over most every day, and each day it seems nicer.

You know we occasionally have a little "sing-song" out here. We get in our little dug-out, three or four of us, and sing all the good old tunes we ever knew. Each and every one has a pleasant and soothing memory of some sort. We couldn't forget the dear folks at home, no, not for a minute. Our thoughts are with you, and we are always hoping you are well.

War is very cruel indeed, but our hearts can't be hardened or changed. Lait means too much for that to happen. Our greatest thoughts are for the welfare of the ones most dear to us at home. A soldier learns and is taught not to be selfish in thought. If you are selfish you can't be a real man out here. That is what makes the Canucks the greatest fighting force in the world to-day. Our successes are entirely due to our home folks and home thoughts — unselfishness. This illustrates what a few lines from home means to us.

Was glad to head old Ling is still going strong. Yesterday was Thanksgiving Day, but our "fowl" supper was very scarce and the pumpkin pies very poor.

Now, I hope you are all real well and enjoying the best of everything.

With just heaps of good wishes to all old friends, and heaps of love to you all,

Yours sincerely,
BERT.

Sample Box Brings Great Results

Chronic Sufferers Find Relief

Chronic sufferers from Backache, Gravel, Stone in the Bladder or any other form of Kidney trouble are generally willing to try any remedy once. The excruciating pain caused by Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Inflammation of the Bladder or some other form of Kidney trouble, is so great, that persons afflicted are often driven to spending large sums of money in an endeavor to find relief at any cost.

This is proven by the testimony of hundreds of people who have written us letters stating "that having failed to find relief after years of trying, they turned to Gin Pills as a last resort—and a sample box of these pills soon convinced them that Gin Pills was the remedy they needed."

That is all we ask you to do. Try a box of Gin Pills at our expense, and if they fail to bring you the relief they have brought to hundreds of others with similar Kidney derangements, it costs you nothing.

Mrs. Dechene writes:

"I received your sample box of Gin Pills, and they have done me a lot of good. I can congratulate myself on having them, and I will never be without them in my home."

This testimony from a woman who was skeptical about buying Gin Pills should convince you that a sample box is well worth writing for. Do it today. Address:

Belgiams Enter Brussels To-Day

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Belgian advance guards were in Brussels this morning, German troops, in accordance to the armistice terms, began moving out of the Belgian capital Friday and are now nine miles away, according to the correspondent of the "Midi" on the Belgian front.

NERVOUS AILMENTS

Few people realize that nervous ailments often arise from digestive troubles. The stomach fails, for some reason, to digest food properly. Then the system languishes and the nerves become exhausted in striving to continue their work. Impure blood also causes nerve troubles, but frequently it is in the stomach where the mischief starts. As the nourishment is carried to the nerves by the blood, it will be seen what an important connection exists between the stomach, the nerves and the blood, and how such troubles as nervous headaches, nervous dyspepsia and insomnia may begin.

In such cases relief is easily obtained by means of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills replenish the blood with the food elements on which the nerves thrive; at the same time they exercise a tonic influence on the digestive organs, enabling the system to derive nourishment from the food taken. By this perfectly natural process nervous ills are steadily dispelled by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If you are suffering from nerves, or require a blood-making tonic, give these pills a fair trial and see how speedily the best of health will be yours.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

Bolshevism is a Menace Here

Government Agents Have Discovered Activities of Anarchistic Foreigners.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.— Discovery by secret service men that an extensive, well-organized Bolshevik propaganda is being carried on in Canada, mostly among foreigners, and that, during the past year it has made startling progress, has led to consideration here of the establishment of effective Dominion machinery to enforce Federal laws and preserve public safety.

During the past six months, Government agents have discovered that certain anarchistic foreigners, masquerading as the Social Democratic party, and camouflaging their real purpose with a politico-economic platform, have been printing and circulating literature of the most seditious, criminal and revolutionary character. A great deal of this literature has been intercepted in the mails, and as a consequence, Bolshevik printing presses in Toronto and Montreal have been seized. Despite this vigilance, however, as many as eighteen branch es of the Social Democratic party have been formed during the past year, mostly among Russians, Finns and Ukrainians. In Winnipeg it was discovered that certain Russians and Finns had formed a regular Soviet committee.

To deal with this menace the authorities believe it threatens the very basis of Canada's social and political existence—it has been suggested that the present Dominion police be greatly enlarged, that the Dominion be partitioned into nine districts, each district in charge of a commissioner of police, who would have under him three inspectors and an adequate number of men to enforce Federal regulations looking to the preservation of law and order.

The Ontario Grocery Market

Coffee is one of the first items which seems to have responded to the signing of the armistice, says Canadian Grocer for this week. Whether it is an indication of how other markets may be affected is uncertain. Santos coffee has advanced by leaps and bounds in New York since Thursday last, and by Tuesday of this week has recorded an increase equivalent to 5c per pound over former quotations, attaining the highest point since 1878. The market is of course uncertain, but the feeling prevails that high prices will rule.

Rejected Stocks.

Locally a general revision in prices is noticeable, but this is not a direct reflection of above conditions. However, that figures here will go up is certain unless a marked decline follows this sensational advance. A direct shipment of coffee and cocoa from South America to Canada has been made, containing 20,000 bags of the former and 30,000 bags of the latter. This, it is estimated, will no more than replenish depleted stocks, and outlook beyond January - February, 1919, contains no little element of uncertainty.

Date Market.

A definite ruling on dates has been given by the United States Food Administration, which states that these are included in the list of other dried fruits on which there is an absolute embargo on their shipment to Canada.

Heavy Requirements.

The signing of the armistice does not mean that food stuffs generally will be any more plentiful. In fact, the heavy requirements of starving Europe may well mean a tax on all available supplies, and that shipping will be largely diverted to the carrying of food stuffs seems more than likely. The trade as a whole discount the idea of sharp or immediate declines.

Supplies Scarce.

numerous but indicate clearly that we are not by any means out of the woods with regard to supplies. It is still hard to procure all that is required, and under active demand nuts are steadily firming. Raisins are high and will be higher.

While a decline in the price of winter wheat flour was made, war standard is steady and unchanged. Cereals are active and corn flour, among the substitutes, is easier.

Tea Market.

Reports indicate a marked scarcity of quality teas on the spot. On the commonest grades, supplies are still plentiful. Sharp advances are looked for, with the probability of trading with Europe imminent. Movement of teas from America are anticipated owing to shorter routing, and it seems well within the realm of possibility that Java teas will go to Holland to the exclusion of other markets for some little time to come.

Ontario Potatoes.

Ontario potatoes are turning out better than expected, as far as quantity is concerned, but quality is said to be poor for storing. It is intimated that enquiries are being received re situation, and there seems some chance of export business.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared, and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth); then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about four-fifths of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Hun Propaganda Sent Home by a Peterboro Soldier

"Your Fate Rests In Your Hands," Says This Interesting Document.

Gunner Jack Vincent, of this city, sends home the appended interesting sample of enemy propaganda, which he picked up on the battlefield. It was printed in pamphlet form, and dropped over the Allied lines by enemy airmen in an attempt to convince the French, English and American soldiers that they are fighting a losing battle and might as well let their rulers know that they wanted peace. subsequent events do not substantiate the claims set forth in the pamphlet, which follows:

PEACE IN SIGHT AT LAST.

Austria-Hungary has again issued an appeal to all belligerent nations to enter into negotiations of peace.

Austria-Hungary's Allies too have on several occasions declared their readiness for peace, and their point of view remains still unchanged. What are the French, English and American governments going to say to this? Up to the present the offers of the Central Powers have been rejected by them. Why? Didn't the soldiers at the front want peace? Who then was against it?

What torrents of blood have since flown? Is that going to continue? Or do you want to have this awful bloodshed stopped at last? It's about time one should think. Let your rulers know that you too want peace.

Once the negotiations are started, they are sure to lead to an end. Then you won't need to charge any more the Hindenburg line, where the Germans, stronger than before, and ready for fresh fighting, are awaiting your attacks.

Your fate rests in your hands. Do you want to return home for the winter, or are fresh streams of your blood to flow in the desperate struggle for the strong German positions?

PETERBORO EXHIBITION DIRECTORS ARE GOING OVER THE TOP AGAIN

Work Has Commenced on the New Cattle and Horse Sheds—Improvements to the Grounds

War is over across the pond, but it's just starting at the Fair grounds, the 1919 campaign is on in earnest, and there will be no let up until the gates close next fall, on the largest and best show ever pulled off in Eastern Ontario. The directors and officers are working overtime, arranging and scheming for the coming year, and if they are properly supported in their efforts, they surely "will go over the top." All it needs is hard work on their part and a moral and financial support of the people to make it a great big success.

New Stables.

The architects have already submitted plans for the erection of horse barns for the "show" horses, which will be started very soon. They are also at work on plans for stables and stalls for the "steppers," in other words the racing animals. Work is being pushed on the quarter-mile track for the show horses; this will also be used for the judging of the live stock, and the exhibition ring for the parade of the prize winners. Another new improvement now underway is the erection of a stand for vaudeville performances, speech making, etc.

Peterborough citizens are going to wake up soon and realize what the present officers are doing, and are now planning for your amusement next fall, so don't forget that this Association wants each and everyone to become an enthusiastic booster for 1919.

URGE CONFIDENCE IN THE LEADERS

German Leader Warns Against Civil War.

Special to The Examiner:

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 16.— Captain Von Beerfelde, speaking at a meeting of the Berlin Workmen's and Soldiers' Council, urged confidence in the leaders and united action. "The women and soldiers must have dictatorial power if we are to avert misery in Germany," he concluded. Col. Inross warned against civil war.

YANK AIRMAN BINDS HIS WOUNDS AND FIGHTS ON

(By United Press.)

PARIS, Nov. 14,—Lieut. James M. Newell, of St. Helena, Cal., was shot through the leg while engaged in a "dog-fight" in the air, in which 30 German planes attacked 8 French and American machines. To stop the rapid flow of blood, Lieut. Newell tore straps from his helmet and made a tourniquet for his leg, while the fight went on.

Continuing the fight, Newell shot down one German plane in flames.

The German squadron included the famous tango escadrille, formerly Richthofen's flying circus.

Three of the Germans singled out the American plane in which Newell was observer, for attack. When Newell was hit, his pilot, Lieut. Clarence E. Nelson, maneuvered to keep out of the Germans 'way while the injured man applied his tourniquet.

When Newell had driven down one of his adversaries and the French had downed two others, the Germans fled.

GENERAL ELECTION CAMPAIGN WAS OPENED TO-DAY

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A general election campaign opened to-day with a coalition mass meeting in London. Premier Lloyd George, Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Geo. N. Barnes, a member of the War Cabinet, were the principal speakers.

STRIKE IN SWITZERLAND.

25,000 Troops Have Been Mobilized to Suppress Disorder.

GENEVA, Nov. 13. — A general strike was begun in Switzerland last midnight by order of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council at Olten. The Federal authorities have ordered the mobilization of a division of 25,000 troops, mostly French-Swiss, to restore order. The troops, however, have been unable to reach their destinations because railroad service was interrupted.

Indignation against the Germans, who started the Bolshevik movement in Switzerland, is increasing.

Had Hacking Cough Couldn't Sleep Nights.

Hacking coughs are very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest, and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in an irritated and inflamed condition.

Don't neglect the hacking cough. You can get rid of it with a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup; the most prompt, pleasant and perfect cough remedy known.

Miss Catherine M. McLean, Craik, Sask., writes:—"Last winter I caught a heavy cold and was laid up for some time. I had such a hacking cough I couldn't sleep at night. I didn't think I would get over it. One day a friend dropped in to see me and was surprised to see how bad my cough was. She advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The next day I sent for a bottle, and I soon got relief, and by the time I had taken two bottles, my cough was all gone, and now I am able to do my work again. I don't think there is anything to equal it."

There are plenty of "pine" preparations on the market trying to live on the reputation of "Dr. Wood's." The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, price 25c. and 50c. a bottle. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ALLIED TROOPS MAY OCCUPY PETROGAD

Effective Friendly Action in Russia and Overthrow of Bolsheviki Now Imminent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—There is reason to believe that the Allied Powers and America are discussing plans for greater assistance to Russia, and that these contemplate the early occupation by joint Allied and friendly Russian forces of Petrograd and the principal ports on the Russian Baltic coast. The Allies would also send representatives to the German territories boarding Russia to oversee the immediate and complete fulfilment of the armistice conditions respecting Russia.

In a comparatively short time the Bolsheviki will be completely surrounded, and there is a prospect of their laying down their arms before a decisive campaign against them is undertaken. They will be faced by Allied and hostile Russian troops on every front, and with a prostrate Germany, which had been their principal support. It is expected that the new international situation will have tremendous moral effect upon the Russian masses, which had been led to believe by the Bolshevist leaders that the Allies had been defeated by Germany.

In view of the changed conditions, it is thought that the Bolsheviki may not be able to maintain their capital at Moscow a month longer, as the Allies are now in a position, being relieved of their major task in the West, to turn their attention more largely to Russia, which has claim upon their consideration before the enemy countries in whose behalf measures of economic assistance are already being devised.

It is believed that President Wilson, at no distant date, would address a statement and appeal to the Russian people in which the American and Allied plans with regard to Russia would be made known.

Only Compassionate Leave Will Count

Any Other Course Governing Return of Soldiers Would Be Unjust.

OTTAWA, Nov. 14. — After nine stenographers specially detailed for the work had endeavoured unsuccessfully to cope with the flood of letters received requesting the immediate Headquarters during the past few days requesting that, in view of the armistice, sons, brothers and other relatives may be immediately discharged from the army and returned to Canada, the Department of Militia and Defence finds it necessary to state: First, that owing to the large number of these communica- return of soldiers from the front, the Militia Department issued the following statement:

"In view of the very large number of letters received at Militia tions and the tremendous labour involved in dealing with them replies will not be sent to any received during the last few days, unless the cases appear to come within the policy affecting leave of absence on compassionate grounds, in which event they will be dealt with in the usual way; second, that it is impossible to accede to, or even consider, such applications unless they are based upon circumstances involving hardship, which bring them clearly within the policy governing compassionate leave. Any other course of action would involve the return to Canada of soldiers by preference or selection for private reasons, which could not in any way be justified."

The Hardware and Metal Markets

Sharp Advance in Turpentine—A Number of Price Changes.

A sharp advance in turpentine is recorded this week, amounting to 12c per gallon. This may be termed one of the first lines to reflect conditions which have followed signing of armistice and is in line with the situation as outlined in Hardware and Metal during the past few weeks.

Heavy Demands.

There is no indication that the peak has yet been reached. Government reports from the United States show production for the past season is no more than required for United States needs. It is further pointed out that next year's production will not be any larger than for the past season. With the heavy demands to be met from overseas, it is not hard to determine how prices will go. It is also true that users face a situation which may develop into one of decided seriousness, due to shortage which may arise.

Linseed Oil Up.

Linseed oil is another line which has undergone revision upward. Advances of four to five cents have been registered, and indications point to even higher levels as well within the realm of possibility. Prices on seed have been made. This may be a speculative flurry, but feeling is general that from now until close of navigation seed will continue high.

Leather Supplies.

Another line of horse nails is included in the list to go to higher levels, prices to-day being up just 1c per pound over former figures. Lace leather has gone higher, prices to-day being up about 25c per pound over previous quotations. The steady decline in available supplies of all leathers is a factor extending to this class of goods and resulting in increased prices.

Other Advances.

Other lines included in the list to follow the upward trend this week are school crayons, carpenters' chalk, post drills, blowers, forges, mouse and rat traps, charcoal, and wheelbarrows. An advance of about 5 per cent. is reported also in stocks and dies, screw plates, pipe taps, hand taps, reamers, etc., immediately effective. Vises, hand soap, mauls and gimlet bits have also gone to higher levels.

The trade as a whole looks forward to a period of marked prosperity for Canada. No reason for depression is expressed over the approach of peace, rather is the feeling in evidence that having faced four years of war, in which many dark days were strewn, prosperity should now come and every effort to keep conditions bright exerted. No immediate recession in values is looked for. Stocks are low and replacement is impossible for some time to come with the majority of lines. This will probably mean a steadily maintained basis of quotations.—"Hardware and Metal."

NEED NOT PURCHASE WHEAT SUBSTITUTES

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.— Following the action of the Allied food controllers, the Canada Food Board has repealed from to-day all orders and rulings requiring the sale, purchase, use or consumption of substitutes for wheat flour, whether in the trade or in private homes. The main factor enabling this to be done is the immediate release of Allied shipping to make the voyage from Europe to Argentina, India, Australia, where there are accumulated stocks of wheat. Wheat substitutes only are affected by the new order. The same regulations as hitherto will remain for milling extraction of standard flour.

EARLY HISTORY OF COBOURG AND NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY

It is a common expression that 'the course of true love never runs smoothly and however that may be, the generations of sturdy men and women who came here to first people this district had ways and means of their own of surmounting great difficulties that seemingly blocked their way. Further the determination and simplusness early bred in the race is no doubt bearing fruit on the Flanders battlefields to-day, where the Canadians are easily the most eager and determined troops to "carry on."

SICK MAN WALKS NINE MILES TO BE MARRIED.

It is a well-known Presbyterian Divine who tells the story, whose name, were it divulged, would be a household name in many homes. My parent's wedding, he used to remark in an appreciative way, had a touch of romance about it. My mother and father were betrothed in the Old Land, and expected to be married shortly. Her parents, however, wearied by the demands of Highland landlords decided to emigrate to America. My father had been very ill of fever and was at the time slowly recovering. It was accordingly arranged that he should follow his prospective bride and her people to this country and that the wedding should take place in Canada. It was a great disappointment to my father, so much so, in fact, that the day before that set for sailing he roused himself and set out alone on foot for the place of embarkation nine miles distant. He accomplished the journey and went through the marriage ceremony, but he suffered a severe relapse and his life was only saved by the tender nursing of his young bride during the ten weeks of ocean voyage.

WALKED TWO MILES TO BORROW FIRE.

It was the summer time when they arrived in this new country, the young husband worn with sickness and suffering, but both possessed of strong wills, heroic faith and indomitable perseverance. They set to work together to build a log shanty and hew out for themselves a home in the dense forest. The nearest neighbor was two miles distant, and I have heard my mother tell, how, when the fire went out, she had to go that far to get a "brand" to rekindle the fire in their huge fireplace, which occupied one side of the room. Their log cabin was only 12 by 18 feet, and nine or ten feet high. The roof was constructed of basswood logs, hollowed out, and laid along side of each other with the hollow up. Then other logs similarly hollowed were laid on these with the hollow side down, so as to overlap those underneath. It was claimed for these roofs that they were waterproof, but they were by no means proof against the fiercely driven snow, and the inmates would waken sometimes in the morning to find the bed covered with the beautiful flakes. It was claimed, however, for these early residents that they seldom had colds or coughs, but developed instead healthy muscles and stout lungs.

CLIMBED PEGS TO THE LOFT

The ladder that led to the loft above the pioneer log houses of this country has long been regarded as quit a novelty by later generations, but even that is modern compared with the means of ascending to the upper storey of this primitive dwelling. The younger members of the family climbed to the loft above, which was their sleeping quarters by means of pegs driven into the wall. The clevices between logs in the wall were filled with moss obtained from the trees and were daubed with soft clay. There was one window of four panes of glass, six by eight inches each.

FRIGHTENED OFF WOLVES WITH BURNING BRAND.

This was the home of a fair young bride of twenty-three years. Her nearest neighbor was two miles away and the first winter she was of necessity much of the time alone. Her husband, in order to obtain flour, went fifteen miles to a neighbor's, threshed the wheat with a fail and carried the flour home on his back. In after years she would tell the story to wondering grandchildren, listening eager eyed, Pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church of being alone one night when the wolves came howling around her home. Courageously she seized a burning brand from the fire and chased them away. A bear, however, at the same time succeeded in carrying of their one pig. In one corner of the rom was the spinning wheel at which she worked industriously spinning yarn, sometimes until late at night. Then during the winter months, the loom was set up, and her husband, after a busy day felling trees in the woods, or threshing grain with a flail, would work at his loom. In the home, a family of eleven children, six sons and three daughters, grew to manhood and womanhood and five of the sons entered the Christian Ministry.

NO LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE IS NECESSARY IN THOSE DAYS

Discussing the past, an old resident says considerable has been said of the strictness of family discipline, but as compared with the insubordination of these days it was a good thing. In our home we children were obliged to get wood in on Saturday for Sunday's use and even the water. Our shoes, too, must be cleaned ready for Sunday, when we dressed in our best to attend whatever service there might be. If we had stricter family discipline these days regarding the Sabbath, there would not be much need for the Lord's Day Alliance.

INDIAN CHIEF METES OUT JUSTICE

In the early days when Port Hope, or what is now Port Hope, was an Indian Village known as Ganaraska, the good chief, Walrekischce, who was head of the tribe inhabiting the territory from the Humber River to the Bay of Quinte, had his headquarters there for at least part of the season. A settler by the name of Benjamin Wilson made his home near Oshawa in 1764. Soon after he had set up his log cabin it was looted by the Indians. Wilson accordingly set out in his skiff for Ganaraska to lay the matter before the Indian Chief. The Chief received him courteously, and afterwards returned with him to the looted cabin. He then sent orders to those who had robbed the house to return the stolen goods accompanied by presents of furs. Thus was summary justice meted out by an Indian Chief.

Judge Licked Prisoner

But there is also evidence that occasionally in other courts of justice the man who defied the law got what was coming to him in an altogether unexpected way. To illustrate this it is necessary to glean from the records of some of the earliest courts in the district what has been handed down from generation to generation. It is said that a burly transgressor was brought fore Squire Frederick Green of Pickering upon one occasion, charged with assault. He treated the court with high disdain accompanied by the most abusive language. Squire Green accordingly asked his colleague if there was not some way of putting a stop to this. The latter replied that he might call out the "posse comitatus," whereupon Squire Green quickly laid aside his magisterial dignity.

"The posse comitatus" (blank blank)" said he, "This Court is adjourned for five minutes while I settle with the scoundrel."

The court in due time proceeded while a well trimmed and thoroughly submissive prisoner faced the judge.

EARLY MUNICIPAL RECORDS

Some of the early lawmakers of the townships, have left some amusing records. One such in 1812 for Pickering Township according to some old data of an Ontario County citizen, says—

"Our town officers were put in by the quarter sessions for the year 1813 by reason of the war that was declared against us by the States in the year 1812."

Later there was the following:

"By some reason our town meeting was omitted in the year A. D. 1814 and our town officers put in to the same manner."

But perhaps the shortest and most flexible by-law ever passed by a council was: "Voted that our fences is to be naborly and lawful."

PREMIER'S ABSENCE MAY EXTEND OVER SIX MONTHS PERIOD

Peace Conference Negotiations are Likely to Occupy Several Months.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16. — The announcement that the British elections will be held on December 14th, and that the Peace Conference will not be held until the contest is over, is of more than ordinary interest to Ottawa. The Peace Conference negotiations will undoubtedly take several months, and following the signing of the treaty there will likely be another conference to which neutral nations will be admitted to form a league of nations.

This will mean that Sir Robert Borden will be detained in England until the spring. It would not be surprising if he were absent six months. However, it will not affect the calling of Parliament, which will be summoned early in January. Sir Thomas White, acting Premier, would be in charge of the Government forces. Unless a ministerial crisis was forced through the disaffection of some of the Government following, Sir Robert would remain until the conferences are all completed.

In the meantime, before the Peace Conference opens in Paris, there will be a series of important meetings of the Imperial War Cabinet. All of the Premiers of the overseas Dominions have been urgently asked to attend. These meetings will decide the principles of peace to be insisted upon by the Empire. Many problems of Imperial interest will be up for settlement.

BURN MORE AIR
SAVE COAL
BY INSTALLING IN YOUR FURNACE
Economy Air Burner

THE ECONOMY AIR BURNER is a patented device which can be placed in the fire-box of any Hot Air, Hot Water, Marine or Upright Boiler and is attached to a pipe on the outside of the furnace into which the air is drawn and becomes heated in the centre ring to a high degree before coming into contact with the unconsumed gases.

Why not reduce your coal bills by scientifically feeding the fire with this Air, taken in, PRE-HEATED and sprayed over the surface, and thus assist in completing combustion and consuming all your gases that would otherwise escape out of your chimney.

Just read one out of many.

TESTIMONIAL

138 Avenue Road, Toronto, July 30, 1918.

The Economy Sales Company, Ltd., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—I have pleasure in heartily endorsing the Economy Air Burner because of the actual results I derived from it. We heated an eight-roomed house with five tons of coal per winter and the house was very comfortable even in the severest weather. Before the Burner was put in it required nine tons to heat the house. We also had trouble with escaping coal gas, but after installing the Burner we never detected the odor of gas at all.

Yours truly, R. L. SHRINER.

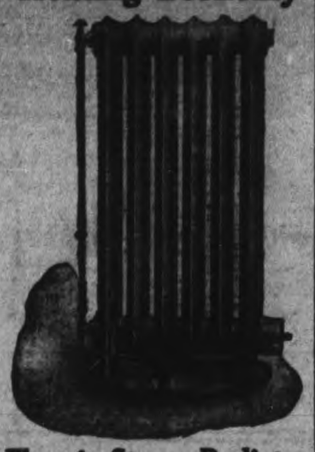
Heating Economy



Electric Steam Radiator

CLEAN, ECONOMICAL AND GUARANTEED.

These radiators will heat a small room quickly, and can be set up wherever healthful heat is required. By using the Rapid Radiator you have no trouble with soot, ashes, odors, etc.

In spring and fall when not cold enough to light the furnace yet cold enough to require some heat, these radiators are indispensable. They can also be used to advantage in supplementing present heating systems, sick rooms, for temporary heating, garages, etc.

No. 15 Radiator using 660 watts (approximate cost 8c per 10 hours) is the finest heater of its size on the market.

No. 20 Radiator using 880 watts, will heat a room 8 x 10 x 9 with one window and two sides exposed from zero to 70 degrees temperature.

Order early as the demand is great and cost of supplies is steadily increasing.

TRAVERS GETS BAIL ORDER

W. R. Travers, committed for trial on a serious charge, has been granted a bail order by Mr. Justice Britton at Osgoode Hall. Apart from his own bond there must be a surety for $5,000.

The Grand Jury brought in a true bill against William R. Travers, the former general manager of the Farmers' Bank, who was charged with a serious crime in the Police Court on Wednesday.

The Employment Problem Will Be Discussed

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—When the Dominion and Provincial Ministers meet here next week to discuss the general Governmental policy for handling employment, the main idea will be to systemize employment.

Every Province will be represented by responsible Cabinet members, who will have the assistance of expert advice from employment agents and others who have a knowledge of the situation.

It is proposed to have two Federal clearing houses for labour, one in Winnipeg and the other in Ottawa. Each Province will also maintain an agency. It is hoped, by means of next week's conference, to materially control the situation, which, it is expected, must result from the placing of so many men on the labour market within the next few years.

$3,500,000,000 LOAN CALLED FOR IN BRITAIN

Bonar Law Says Future Prosperity Depends on Harmony of Capital and Labour.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A new loan of £700,000,000 was called for in the House of Commons by Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Mr. Bonar Law, in moving the new vote of credit, said he believed there would be a reduction in expenditure owing to the change in the military situation, but that the Treasury officials had advised him against reducing the amount of money desired. It might be necessary for the Allies to make efforts to bring food supplies to Europe, in which case a greater expenditure would be incurred, the Chancellor said. He added that the general financial situation at the end of the fiscal year would be appreciably less than his Budget figures.

The future prosperity and well being of the country, he continued, depended on the extent to which capital and labour could work harmoniously together. It was vital that the close international unity which the war had produced should prevail while the ravages of war were being repaired.

AFLOAT FOR 62 HOURS WITHOUT FOOD, WATER

Scantily-Clad Survivors of the Steamship Yenrut Arrive at Miami, Fla.

MIAMI, Cal., Nov. 16.—After being afloat in a lifeboat sixty-two hours scantily clad, without food or water, Capt. Fesser and twelve other survivors of the steamship Yenrut today are resting here following arrival last night. The Yenrut a 600-ton ship, of Philadelphia, went down Sunday off the Bahamas. The vessel was en route from Turk's Island, Bahamas, to Philadelphia, with a cargo of salt, when the cargo shifted, overbalancing the ship.

The steward and four other members of the crew are missing and believed to have been drowned.

After the sinking the thirteen men rowed 160 miles to Waiting Island, where natives cared for them until they were able to continue to Miami.

The men, with one or two exceptions, are Philadelphians.

Polish Falcons Appear in the Great Review

Polish Falcons are Volunteers Serving on Same Basis as Other Members of Foreign Legion.

By Frank J. Taylor
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICAN TROOPS IN FRANCE, Oct. 20.—(By Mail)—Polish falcons, more than half of whom are from America, have won the admiration of armies in Europe by their consistent service. Recently the French honored these Poles, in an impressive ceremony in Lorraine, when the entire division swore allegiance to the allies.

The Polish falcons are volunteers, serving on the same basis as the other members of France's foreign legion. All the Poles from America could have joined the American army, but chose to serve in the Polish legion at 5 cents a day, and to fight as Poles for an independent Poland. The division is commanded by an Austrian general.

After their training in the rear areas of France, the Poles had their first taste of front line service in the hills of Alsace. Just before the last German offensive of the spring, they were brought to the Champagne sector, where they fought side by side with the American Rainbow division.

The Yankee troops were delighted to find most of these lively and optimistic fighters in blue uniforms and square topped caps spoke good American slang, and the Poles were open in their enthusiasm at being with doughboys. Since then the Polish division has been in continuous service in several sectors.

The Lorraine ceremony was a fitting climax to a hard summer's fighting. It began with a breakfast on Place Stanislas, Nancy, at which President Poincaire of France, numerous French notables, and a number of French officers were present.

The door of the breakfast room opened upon a spot on the Place in front of the huge bronze statue of Stanislas, last king of Poland and duke of Lorraine, renowned for his benefices and cherished in memory by Poles and Lorrainers alike. One hand points north, and under this the group of Poles and Frenchmen stopped.

They say it was not part of the program, and that both the Frenchmen and the Poles fighting against a common tyrant had to stop—impulse dictated it—and the President of France make a short talk to those who grouped around, civilians having joined the party.

The prefect of Nancy spoke and the general of the Polish division, and they shook hands all around. Then some noticed some American officers bystanders, who had slipped into the crowd, and by common impulse and enthusiasm the Yankees were pulled into the ceremony, which consisted of wildly shaking hands with everyone.

Being short on French words to express themselves, and this part of the ceremony was in French, the Americans followed a happy hunch to shout, "Vive la Pologne." The words were magic and it was a mighty "Vive lo Pologne" that rang out from that beautiful Stanislas square in Nancy.

The official ceremony was on a hillside east and south of Nancy. Here 3 natty regiments of infantry, with clean blue uniforms, shining bayonets and spotless equipment were drawn up at attention on 3 sides of an altar built out in the open. On the fourth side were the machine gun companies and a group of mounted soldiers.

In the center around the altar were some Polish priests, and a group of officials and officers who conducted the ceremony. Overhead a group of French aviators swooped and dived, grazing less than 10 feet from the heads of soldiers.

As the United Press car pulled away from the ceremony, a Polish private shouted, "Hullo, Americans, guess this world series about over—home run for us. Hooray!"

GOT RID OF BRONCHITIS.

"I am pleased to say that Dr. Chase's Mr. W. H. Walker, Calmar, Alta., writes Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has done much good to myself, wife and children. My eldest girl, seven years old, had bronchitis and the doctor who attended her did not seem to do much good. We got Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for her and she soon got well. We always keep this medicine in the house now ready for use and find that it soon cures coughs and colds."

TO HONOUR WILSON IN HEART OF ROME

By Henry Wood
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROME, Oct. 17.—(By Mail.)— The Central Committee of Genoa of the Anti-German Leagues has taken the initiative in a widely and rapidly spreading movement for erection on the historic Capitoline Hill, in the centre of Rome, of a monument to President Wilson.

On Capitoline Hill more of humanity's history has been written and there more of Humanity's history is now recorded than on any other spot in the world, not even the Aeropolis of Athens excepted.

That the backers of the present movement to assign to President Wilson an eternal place among the sacred memories and relics of this altar of civilization are fully conscious of the grandeur of the honour they wish to bestow is indicated in the following letter of Bruno Larizza, deputy to the Italian parliament, in response to the invitation to become a member of the committee charged with the erection of the memorial. The letter reads: "I applaud with all my heart the idea of a monument in Campidoglio (on Capitoline Hill) to Woodrow Wilson.

"There is no other place in the world more worthy of the Grand Apostle of Humanity at the opening of a new era in the world's history than here in the heart of Rome, the immortal proclaimer of civilization and justice.

"From the heights of the sacred hill that look down on the remains of the Roman Forum, where through the centuries every strong man has thrilled at the echoes of the voice of Tullius, Cato, Caesar, and Cola di Rienzo, the figure of the American Messiah will grow large and live in future history along with those great spiritual guardians of the Eternal City, with Caius Marius and Vitcory Emanuel II.

"For men like Woodrow Wilson, like Abraham Lincoln, like Giuseppe Mazzini and Giuseppe Garibaldi do not belong to one country, but have for their fatherland the world. And it is the gratitude of the consciousness of all humanity that Woodrow Wilson merits for the solemn consecration of the rights of man and for the perennial Marius and Victor Emanuel II.

THE WIFE

BY JANE PHELPS

Mr. Mandel Sees the New Apartment Before Brian.

CHAPTER XLI.

Ruth was greatly disturbed because of Brian's admission that he had discussed her with Mollie King, although she said no more about it.

"He was awfully afraid she would think he couldn't take care of me, I wonder why?" she soliloquised, after he had gone to sleep, she was wakeful. There had been things said that she wanted to think about. It was all so different, in the little southern town where she had been raised. There, people never talked personalities at a dinner party. Neither had she ever known anyone who compared at all with Claude Beckly, to be received by nice people. Yet she liked Mr. and Mrs. Curtis; they surely wouldn't have invited him had he been as objectionable as he seemed to her.

"I must be awfully old-fashioned in my ideas," she muttered. "I shall have to make myself over a little, I guess. But I—wish—Brian wouldn't discuss me with Mollie King—or anyone.

Again the thought that perhaps Brian would care more for her if she were contented to stay at home, do the work and live as they would have to live on what he earned, crossed her mind. But, as before, she immediately dismissed it. She would not surrender her occupation. Instead, she would enlist Brian's co-operation, and make him see that they could be, that they would be, far more comfortable in her way than in his.

Ruth had yet to learn that home-building is an absorbing task. That to most men it is THE absorbing task and one they think should contents and satisfy a woman. Brian was one of this sort. He remembered in his own home where poverty, stark and unlovely, had always been a guest, his two sisters dressed in calico, and remained at home and helped cook, clean and do all the menial tasks that those who lack money have to do. Yet he never gave a thought to the fact that had his sisters, even one of them, had independence, initiative enough to fly the home nest and go to work, life might have been not only easier for them all, but far pleasanter.

Ruth had no intention of having her work a bone of contention between herself and Brian. Far from it. It had been, it was her idea to make that work a bond between them; to have it help her make Brian's home a happy one, to help her give him good, nourishing food, properly cooked to relieve him in as far as she could, and he would let her, of the annoyance of housekeeping.

She was both exasperated and depressed by her knowledge that Brian had discussed her with Mollie King. She could not forget it. She succeeded in suppressing her desire to find fault with him because of it, and compelled herself to appear interested whenever he spoke of Mollie—which he often did.

Once when he had talked of Mollie for some time, Ruth recalled that somewhere she had read that if "a person was falling in love, they unconsciously talked of the person with whom they were enamoured."

Could it be that Brian was beginning to care for Mollie King? She dismissed the idea with a shrug of her shoulders. But, someway, Brian seemed different. She could not find him in accord with her so that she felt like encouraging and praising him as she did when they were first married. Brian, too, felt there was some change in Ruth—a change he could not understand, so laid it to her work. Had they quarreled it would have perhaps been better. Quarrels sometimes clear the air. But things never went as far as that. Occasionally Brian would sulk, and Ruth grow ominously quiet. There it would stop until one or the other would forget and be natural once more.

Ruth had rented the apartment near the office. She had attended to everything herself. Brian had acted sulky, uninterested. But when they were settled, even before (it took Ruth many weeks to make the place as attractive as it finally became) he would frequently remark that "he guessed it really was better for a lawyer to live in a decent place." He mentioned it to Curtis and Curtis had agreed with him.

Mr. Mandel had gone over to the apartment, one day, before they moved in. Ruth had met him near there and asked him if he would like to see it. He had been very gracious about it, although she realized it must seem mean and small to him. It was not then furnished, but the walls had been decorated acording to Ruth's directions, the lighting was in order, and the dainty figured curtains hung.

"You will have a very attractive home," he had assured her kindly, "doesn't Mr. Hackett think so?"

"He hasn't seen it yet," Ruth confessed, flushing, "he has been busy," she added, hating to have Mr. Mandel think Brian had not cared to visit the home in which she was so interested. Of course she could not explain that Brian was sulking because she had found fault with him, a few days before, when she had dragged the unwilling confession from him that he had again borrowed of Clark, and had made no explanation of why it was necessary.

HUSBAND SAVES WIFE

From Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"For many months I was not able to do my work owing to a weakness which caused backache and headaches. A friend called my attention to one of your newspaper advertisements and immediately my husband bought three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me. After taking two bottles I felt fine and my troubles caused by that weakness are a thing of the past. All women who suffer as I did should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JAS. ROHRBERG, 620 Knapp St., N. S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Women who suffer from any form of weakness, as indicated by displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness or "the blues," should accept Mrs. Rohrberg's suggestion and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a thorough trial.

For over forty years it has been correcting such ailments. If you have mysterious complications write for advice to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

FOR BABY'S TENDER SKIN.

A child's skin is tender as well as beautiful and eczema may be caused by chafing of clothing, the use of poor soap, exposure to cold or sudden change of temperature. Probably no treatment for eczema has ever proven so successful as Dr. Chase's Ointment, and this applies particularly to baby eczema. This ointment is delightfully soothing, stops the itching and consequently prevents scratching. Gradually the sores are healed up, and the skin is left soft and velvety.

ITALIAN TOWN HAS BIG CLEAN-UP DAY

Authorities Are Putting Up a Big Fight Against Epidemic.

(By United Press.)

Avellino, Italy, Oct. 18.—All over Italy men and women of the American Red Cross are aiding the Italian authorities in their fight against the present epidemic of Spanish influenza. The "fever" came to Avellino, as it came to hundreds of other towns and cities in southern Italy—over night, as it were, laying entire families low. Father, mother, babies and grandmother, down they all came with it, and where resistance was slight and proper care unobtainable, the results were often serious. A high, short fever, aches and pains, and then recovery—or, where the danger lay, an attack of pneumonia. That is how "Spanish Fever" is currently described by those who know, and many, through experience, know in Italy to-day.

But the germ of Spanish Fever is only a germ, after all, like other germs, and as such, far from immortal. Soap and water early make it sicken, and whitewash, as a finishing touch, deals its death-blow. Mrs. Gian Centanini, wife of the A. R. C. representative in the Avellino district, back from Naples, whose home is in St. Louis, Mo., is quite aware of this fundamental antipathy of germs and cleanliness, and at the first appearance of the fever in Avellino, proceeded to organize the "banditti," or hoodlums of Avellino into street cleaning and white-washing squads. Mrs Centanini formerly sang in the Metropolitan Opera Co., New York, and her husband was secretary of the Metropolitan Opera House Co. for four years. Mrs. Centanini's stage name was Jane Noria.

Never has the quaint old town of Avellino seen such "goings on" in her dark, cobbled streets, as when the big housecleaning started. The first squad, composed of the younger boys, their rags floating before and behind them, set to work with brooms fashioned by themselves, a bundle of twigs tied to a stout handle. Others were detailed to carry off the rubbish, soon heaped in piles by the wielders of the brooms, in wheeless wheelbarrows, also made by the boys themselves—boxes with shaft-like handles of two boy-power. Then came the squad of women in uniform and led by A. R. C. workers. These disinfected homes and burned up old mattresses and germ-laden refuse. Last of all came a squad of older boys with whitewash. Surely, Tom Sawyer's backyard fence could not have excelled in whiteness and finish the work of these boys—boys, a good many of them, who had never worked before in their lives. They went at it with a pride and vigor that soon accomplished wonders. They fairly swept down one narrow winding street and up another, leaving a glistening coat of white behind them—across the road and up three feet of the walls of the dwellings adjoining.

The boys were rewarded with noonday meals at the soup kitchen of the Red Cross in Avellino, and a soldo or two besides. But it is the knowledge that the epidemic is already decreasing in the swept and whitewashed district that pleases and encourages them most. After the soup is eaten, all sitting crosslegged in the hallway of the A. R. C. headquarters, they grasp their brooms, their pails of whitewash and their brushes, and set off to continue their "mission of life." Grimy, ragged acolytes of cleanliness, they bear their shining standard through the streets of a town that has known them as "regular little bandits" or "hopeless good-for-nothings."

THE DEVIL RESIGNS.

"The Devil sat by a lake of fire on a pile of sulphur kegs;
His head was bowed upon his breast and his tail was between his legs.
A look of shame was on his face and the sparks dripped from his eyes,
For, he had sent his resignation to that throne up in the skies!
"I'm down and out," the Devil said and he said it with a sob.
"For there are others that outclass me, and I want to quit my job.
Why, hell isn't in it with the land that lies along the Rhine.
I'm a has-been and a piker and therefore I resign.
Those ammunition slingers with their bloody shot and shell
Know more about damnation than all the imps of hell.
So give my job to Kaiser Wilhelm, and his army of the Rhine,
Von Tirpitz, Von Hindenburg or some other child of mine,
Now I hate to leave the old home, the place I love so well,
But I feel that I'm not up to date in the art of running hell."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Settling Beatrice

By S. B. HACKLEY

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Responsibility for Beatrice's settlement is rendering me absolutely distraught, Doris. Living in a little place like this with so few social equals is enough to drive one wild."

Mrs. Eileen Campbell, wife of the lime manufacturer at Bardstown, rolled her china-blue eyes deprecatively. "If it weren't that Frank is making money 'hand over fist,' as he calls it, here, I simply could not endure it."

Mrs. Carter, wife of the road-building contractor nodded appreciatively.

"That's what I tell 'Gene. How long are you going to stay in New York with the Macons, Eileen?"

"Oh, two weeks, probably. Now that Bee leaves tomorrow with Alethea McCue for the house-party, I feel safe about her. Alethea has been begging me to let her stay on with them through the summer. Sammy—" she lowered her voice, "Sammy is going to be there!"

"How very opportune!" commented Mrs. Carter.

Beatrice, an involuntary listener, with her piquant face, her characterful mouth and blue eyes, both dolorous and indignant, hastily left the library.

Her father, a serious-looking man with red hair, met her in the hall. "Oh, daddy, let me stay home with you while mother is away," she whispered. "I want to so!"

"Your mother would have a fit if you missed that McCue blow-out, sweetheart. We can't go against her in this, I guess. It's late—you'd better run away to your bed. But wait, Kitten, here's a check I promised Pryor. Address it to him, and drop it in the box, will you?"

After an interminable time, it seemed to Beatrice, she heard her parents go to their sleeping rooms, but sleep would not come to her. She arose finally and drew on her dressing gown.

"I wish I could tell daddy!" she thought as she went to her writing desk. "I'll write to Louie—he can't help me, but I've got to tell somebody now!"

"Bardstown, N. C., August 2, 1916.

"Dear, Dear Louie.—I promised you I'd tell you the minute I found the prince, but I couldn't, though it's been four months. I was too happy, for a little while, and since—oh, Louie—I've got to tell somebody my troubles, or I'll burst!

"I guess I've told you in this tiny old place, there's a '400,' only here it's a '50,' mostly the Macon family scions. The Macon father was an old scoundrel (I'm quoting daddy), but he owned the big resort hotel here and nearly everything else. Mrs. Atlee Jeffers and Mrs. Felix Landrith, two of the daughters, live here. Mrs. Landrith married an old, old man, something like a Maharajah for wealth (he must have been a beast, judging by her unhappy face), and she's got a regular castle overlooking the town.

"Well, mother considers them, and her very special Mrs. Doris Carter, and a few others, her social equals. I wouldn't say it to anybody but you, Louie, but you know it already; mother and her friends just live for dancing and entertaining, and clothes—nothing else! Daddy told her yesterday their chief occupation as he sees it is the 'ornamentation of the chariots that carry them through this little arc in the circle of being!'

"But because the Macon scions are sort of patrons of Arland, the little —— church here, and attend services once in a blue moon, mother does, too, and I've been attending the Arland Sunday school, and other services right along, without a protest from her. Early this spring, Mr. Lowrie, the old pastor, died and the board that pays the minister's small salary, sent Glenn Pryor. He isn't exclusive, and just 'churchy,' like Mr. Lowrie. He wants to help everybody and everything, and he makes friends with all the poor and neglected. He's started a branch of the Good Citizens' league, and now you can't find a rusty tin can or a homeless cat in the town. He doesn't trouble himself so much about the '50,' except that he calls on them and is pleasant to them.

"And he's started a Young Folks' circle for Wednesday evenings that does things like singing to sick folks, and the jail folks, and the county inmmars' folks. I knew he was the 'prince' the first time I heard him speak. Of course, he didn't know right off I was the 'princess,' but he came to know. (Louie, I'm like daddy—I love people, just because they're people), and he liked my way, I know, for he—he'd got so his eyes were glad when they turned to me! And I was happy.

"Then the first of July the season opened at the hotel, and they begun those Wednesday and Saturday night dances. The first Wednesday night we were to go after the circle met to sing for old Mrs. Filbert (she'd been on her death-bed for a month), and I'd promised her I'd sing an old, old ballad she loved. None of the other girls knew it. But mother wouldn't listen to me, and made me go to that hateful dance. We didn't leave until one o'clock, and just as we came out of the gate where they've got a big electric light that lights up everything (I was walking in front with that horrid, rich Sammy McCue, Mrs. McCue's brother-in-law), we met Mr. Pryor.

"His eyes looked positively reproachful when they met mine. He lifted his hat, sober and unsmiling, and passed, and I felt my heart break under the weight of his misunderstanding. I heard it break, Louie. And next morning I found out Mrs. Filbert had died at midnight. I couldn't make any explanation to him without appearing to censure mother, so I didn't make any.

"So, July, a wretched month, has passed. Mother's swept me into the hotel social life until I haven't had a minute (not even Sunday) for my friends. (I ought to have stood up to mother, but I hate a row; I am a coward, Louie, and because I am, I am miserable.)

"Tomorrow I'm to leave for Georgia and the McCue's party, to make further conquest of that Sammy toad. The prince is just gently courteous to me, as he is to everybody else, when we chance to meet now. He hears of my going to all those hateful dances and giving all my time to social frivolities, and he thinks I'm a breaker of promises, and shallow, and fickle, and untrustworthy! I'll never be able to redeem myself in his eyes. I believe I could, if I had a chance, away from mother, but I won't get it, and he'll marry somebody else! Oh, Louie!

"This is a wailing letter, but I feel better since I've told you my tribulations!

"Your cousin and friend in weal and woe (mostly woe at present),

"Beatrice Caswell."

Two days after, Mr. Caswell received a telegram from New York:

"Quarantined. Can't leave under six weeks. Beatrice to stay on with the McCues. Eileen."

On Wednesday evening a tan pongee traveling dress pounced down upon him.

"Oh, daddy—I've come home! I've come home!"

"But the house-party! Mother wanted you to stay, Bee!"

"Oh daddy—I never wanted to go! I started home the minute I knew mother had to stay in New York, and you're going to let me stay home with you!"

Her father laughed. "I won't send you back, Kitten."

When the Arland church bell rang, at eight o'clock, Beatrice jumped up. "It's the circle night, daddy; let's go!"

Two weeks later, Beatrice went alone for her favorite walk up Gray's mountain. At the summit she came upon the young minister sprawled on a mossy spot, some typewritten sheets spread out before him. He started guiltily at sight of her, and with unnecessary haste, folded the papers.

"Our next Sunday's sermon!" she bantered. "May I see how it looks on paper?"

He flushed and thrust the folded sheets in his pocket, then fished out of another pocket a strip of paper which he held out to her.

"I'm afraid your father has a bad opinion of me, but his generous check, mailed to me more than two weeks ago, reached me only this noon."

"Two weeks ago," murmured Beatrice, puzzled. Then the red blood dyed her cheeks. "Was—was it forwarded from Oregon?" she stammered.

"It was."

"I—oh, I must have mixed the envelopes!" she stammered, "Then you—that awful letter—"

He came and stood by her. "I remailed the letter that was sent me by mistake," he said.

"But you read it!" her hands went over her burning face.

"Yes," he confessed. "I didn't realize what it meant until I'd begun it, then—it was beautiful reading! I wanted to go down to Georgia on the first train—I wanted to keep the—princess' letter—but I didn't dare do that, either. So I copied the letter, and I've been carrying the copy here close to my heart ever since. Sometimes I've kissed it!"

She raised her drooping head. "Then, you—oh, Glenn!"

It wasn't the letter that lay close to his heart that he was kissing then.

A month later Mrs. Carter, just returned from a six weeks' visit, calling on Mrs. Felix Landrith, met Beatrice Caswell and Glenn Pryor just leaving.

"Did you notice that child's face?" Mrs. Landrith remarked, as the pair passed out of hearing. "Love has made her beautiful."

"Love!" gasped Mrs. Carter. "You don't mean to say she's in love with him? Why, Mrs. McCue's brother-in-law was crazy about her when I left! Glenn Pryor, with those altruistic notions of his, probably never will have a penny!" She set her lips. "Why, it's suicidal! I'll write to Eileen today!"

"Doris Carter," the older woman laid a hand on her shoulder, "don't you do anything of the kind. It may seem to you suicidal to marry for love, without money, but it's worse than suicide to reverse it. I did that, and I know. Don't you write to Eileen Caswell. But even if you were to, it's too late for her to make the child unhappy. His Scotch uncle wants him to come over to France right away, to help him in his army work, and the board has reluctantly consented. Naturally, he wants to take his wife with him. I am going up to Frank Caswell's now to persuade him to let them be married tomorrow."

Ideal for Baby

MOTHER instinct tells you that baby must have only milk that is pure, rich and safe.

Then use Carnation Milk. You are sure of its quality; for it comes sealed safe against contamination.

Babies thrive on it. It is "whole" milk—not separated. Contains all the cream, all the "food values" of rich, wholesome milk. Uniformly richer in butter-fat than the Dominion authorities demand.

You can have it handy on the pantry shelf ready to use—as you need it. Because it is sterilized, it keeps fresh for months. Even when the can is opened, Carnation Milk will keep fresh and sweet for several days.

In using Carnation Milk for baby follow your physician's advice. He will tell you in what proportion you must dilute it to suit your baby.

Carnation Milk is evaporated to the consistency of cream. Water—and water only—is taken away from it. Nothing is added. No artificial sweetening and no preservatives. So you can use it for everything—in every way you use ordinary milk.

This is the safe, convenient, economical way to buy milk. Order three trial cans (tall size) with your groceries—your grocer is the Carnation Milkman.

Looted the Dead.

A railway accident at Landsberg, Prussia, in which thirty persons were killed, produced some characteristic takens of German kultur. The Vossiche Zeitung says that great crowds attempted to rob the dead and injured, and that the soldiers and gendarmes who were obliged to intervene arrested several railway officials in the act of appropriating valuables.—London Times.

A Courteous Hen.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hooker Wilson of north of Rushville have a most remarkable hen. Every morning she scratches at the door for admission. Entering, she sits in a large chair in the living room, lays an egg and walks majestically back to the chicken yard after she has been fed for her courteous service.—Indianapolis News.

PRICES NOT GOING DOWN.

Big Demand For Canned Goods, Says Dealer, and No Reduction in Sight.

There is a great demand for Canadian canned goods at present chiefly including corn, peas and tomatos. The canneries have been unable to supply the enormous demand, and in the case of canned corn, have only managed to fill 35 per cent. of their orders. Peas, which are usually so plentiful, have failed to come up to expectations, and less than 70 per cent. of the orders received, have been filled. "There will be no drop in prices for some time, and there is a slight possibility of a rise," said the manager of the Eby Blain Co., wholesale grocers, of Toronto. "During the past year, more orders for Canadian goods for exportation to the States and Great Britain, have been received than ever before in the history of Canadian industry. Peaches and American canned fruits also appear to remain stationary."

DRAFT COST IS LOW.

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—America today is getting soldiers at the lowest cost per man in the history of the country.

According to recent testimony of Gen. Crowder before the House Appropriations Committee, it costs Uncle Sam just $9.75 to induct a draftee and put him aboard a train headed for camp.

Contrasted to this figure, Crowder gave the committee the cost of obtaining a volunteer during the last 3 years.

In 1914 this was $24.48 per man, in 1915 it dropped to $19.14, jumping to $28.95 in 1917.

Wonderful For The Blood

Cures Sallow Skin, Headache, Lang our and Tiredness

You don't need to be told how you feel,—blue, sort of sickish, poor appetite, vague pains, tired in the morning. This condition is common at this season.

Fortunately there is prompt relief in Dr. Hamilton's Pills which immediately relieve the system of all poisons and disease-producing matter.

Thousands have been so utterly depressed, so worn out as to be despondent, but Dr. Hamilton's Pills always cured them. "I can speak feelingly on the power of Dr. Hamilton's Pills," writes C. T. Fearman, of Kingston. "Last spring my blood was thin and weak, I was terribly run down, had awful headaches and a knawing, empty feeling about my stomach, I couldn't sleep or work until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills,—they did me a world of good." WE'LL SICK OUR FISH ON THESE GERMANS

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—American fish have been drafted to help win the war.

The fish aren't going to be used in pursuit of the fleeing Hun. Instead, they are to wage war against mosquitos which, if left unmolested, are likely to kill more American soldiers than German bullets.

Mosquitos are the greatest little germ carriers known. Modern science has found that many diseases are directly traceable to them.

An agent of the bureau of fisheries who has been conducting experiments near Camp Hancock, Ga., has discovered that fish are useful in preventing breeding of the pests. Civilians will benefit as much as the soldiers by the discovery although the experiments have been conducted primarily to benefit men in the service.

United States Learned From Europe's Failure

A New World Aspect is Revealed—America's Different Plan.

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—America's success in the world war has been made possible as much by workmen at home as by soldiers in France.

America was confronted by a tremendous task when the conflict with Germany became inevitable. The supplies the allies had required in the years since 1914 had necessitated considerable readjustment of labour and commerce in the United States, but with actual participation in the conflict much greater changes had to be made. The work of American labourers in producing food, munitions, and clothing enough for their own countrymen and the allies as well is one of the greatest performances of the war, or indeed in history of all time. It has been made possible largely by careful organization of the nation's man-power, in order that every ounce of strength could be employed to best advantage.

The United States employment service last June was entrusted with the great task of mobilizing and distributing labour. Something of the kind was absolutely necessary, for without unified arrangements for obtaining the help needed for war production industrial life in America would have been chaotic.

The experience of European countries had illustrated how essential is perfect organization and co-ordination of labour power toward successful prosecution of a war which places practically whole nations in arms. In the wars of the past, industrial life at home went on without any considerable interruption; the armies in the field were ordinarily not so large that they could not live on the country if they were forced to do so.

New World Aspect.

With the summoning of millions of men to the colours by all the belligerent nations, however, the world war of 1914 quickly took on quite a different aspect. The withdrawal of all these men from industry proved a tremendous shock to the economic life of every nation.

Germany probably was best prepared for the great change, for the possibility of summoning most of the man-power of the nation into warfare had been considered more thoroughly than elsewhere.

France and England, it soon became apparent, had made serious mistakes. In France, large numbers of skilled munition workers were called into the army, and they suffered tremendous losses when the Germans overran Belgium and northern France. Munitions output was slowed up, and only by the most heroic exertions were the French finally able to turn back the enemy at the Marne. Eventually, the skilled mechanics were called back into the factories, where they could be of much better service than even in the first-line trenches.

England had similar experiences. In the patriotic zeal of thousands to enlist, for the voluntary system was retained in England for about 3 years, little attention was paid to the retention on essential jobs of men whose places hardly could be filled. The consequence was that railway workers, miners and machinists went into the army by thousands and that England's productive capacity was crippled seriously. Only this year England was forced to withdraw 10,000 miners from the arm in France, in order that they might maintain the fuel supply of the British Isles.

America's Different Plan.

America was able to profit by these mistakes of the allies, and from the start organized a war programme on the basis of highest efficiency. The collapse of Russia, shortly after America entered the war, afforded still another object lesson.

Russia's collapse, it appears very definitely established, was due less to a weakening of the morale at the front than to trouble at home. Breakdown of the nation's industrial life was reflected quickly in morale of the troops, however. The whole war has illustrated the fact that it is the home army that breaks first, if a quick military victory is not obtainable. Russia collapsed because the Russian people could do nothing more to carry on the war. Italy was in grave danger of disaster because of industrial difficulties. Bulgaria and Turkey quit the war while both countries had large armies in the field, simply because the home front broke. The same condition existed in Austria-Hungary.

HIS CASH SAID THANKS

(By United Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 16.—(By Mail.)—"Money talks"—in expressing appreciation as well as in other monetary conversation. The story is told here to-day of a young American army officer's fiscal parise of the work of the Y. M. C. A.

Just before the straightening out of the St. Mihiel salient this young officer went to the Y.M.C.A. secretary attached to his unit and said that he was going to have a birthday soon.

"I want to give the 'Y' a present," he said. "I like the work it's doing and I like you most of the Y.M.C.A. men I have met. How much does a place like this cost?"

"With its equipment about $5,000," replied the secretary, referring to his small portable hut.

"That's not enough," said the officer. He was silent a minute. "At So-and-so I saw a big double hut. How much did that cost?"

"Something like $15,000," replied the secretary.

"That's more like it!" exclaimed the officer.

Before the first phase of the drive had ended, a certified check for $15,000 had been deposited with the Y.M.C.A.,—the substantial tribute of an officer in the field that the Y.M.C.A. in France was well worth while.

New York, October.—

In the face of the most critical international conditions, the fashion world is carrying on as usual. News comes from Paris that amidst the bombardment of shells, the modistes and couturiers continue their work and are yielding a tremendous output to the eager watchful throngs.

What a wonderful spirit this is! And who else could swallow all the sorrows and trials and discomforts of war and still remain smiling on the surface? No other than France. Much indeed does civilization owe to this country of countries, conditions that would make one give up and despair, but these people merely smile and prosecute their plans, as near normal as possible.

Owing to this fact many women will possess a fur coat this winter, for they reason that a cloth one is almost as expensive, and fur always looks so much more elegant. Indeed, the acme of smartness and exclusiveness and charm. Nutria is in big demand because of its excellent wearing qualities. Mole, of course, is beautiful, but that is left for those who may consider the appearance in preference to the durability.

"I HAVE NEVER SEEN ANYTHING LIKE IT"

Carrick Gains Sixteen Pounds in Less Than 30 Days by Taking Tanlac.

William Carrick, for many years a resident of Tacoma, Washington, is now a citizen of Hunter, Missouri. While en route to his future home in Hunter, recently Mr. Carrick called at the Owl Drug Store in Kansas City purchased two bottles of Tanlac and made a statement regarding his experience with the medicine that will be of interest to all suffering people.

"I have never seen anything," said Mr. Carrick, "sell like Tanlac is selling out on the Pacific coast, around where I live. A friend of mine actually went seventy-five miles one day to get a bottle and knowing what I do about it now, I believe I would do the same thing, rather than be without it. When I first started taking it I had little idea it would do me any good, but when I tell you I have gained sixteen pounds in less than thirty days and am able to work for the first time in months, you can understand why I talk like I do about it.

"Something like a year ago my appetite went back on me and my stomach got in such a bad fix that nothing I would eat seemed to do me any good. My food would sour soon after meals and keep me belching up sour gas for hours. I suffered terrible pain about my stomach all the time and at times I would turn so deathly sick that I could hardly retain a thing I had eaten. I dropped off twenty-seven pounds in weight and hardly had strength to raise my hands, and was so nervous for almost six weeks that I hardly slept at all. I finally got down flat of my back in bed—couldn't take a bit of nourishment except a little milk— and for five weeks I thought sure I would never pull through.

"I was stopping with my nephew in Tacoma at this time, and as he had seen Tanlac recommended so highly he went down and got a bottle for me. Well, sir, by the time I finished my first bottle I was on my feet and feeling like a different man. My appetite picked up right away and I soon got so I couldn't get enough to eat, and ever since I finished my second bottle I have been feeling strong and fine as you please. The sourness, gas and pain has left my stomach entirely and nothing is barred from my diet. It was about the close of spring when Tanlac straightened me up and I worked every day this summer, at my trade as carpenter, and have felt fine all the time. I don't believe I ever enjoyed better health than I do now. I have personally recommended Tanlac to hundreds of people and as I was passing through here to-day, I stopped in to get two bottles to carry down to Hunter with me because I don't want to be without it."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. H. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Principle & Son.

RED CROSS GOODS FILL GREAT DEPOT

(By United Press.)

London, Nov. 2. (By Mail.)—Coleman street, down by the Bank of England is in the heart of the historic old "City of London." The Armourer's Hall is there with its treasures which recall the wars of the barons and its gorgeous gold and silver plate. Nearby is the old church of St. Stephen's, spared from the great fire.

Coleman street's newest activity is the great storehouse of the American Red Cross.

The warehouse is more impressive than any display of chased cuirass or forgotten crafts. It is fully as inspiring as the old church. The warehouse has the advantage of size, too, and every floor is filled with things for the American soldier.

Here in one huge pile is 600 bales of blankets. It seems that one could blanket all the Allies from this one pile. Another pile contains nothing but hospital linen of all kinds, while other divisions of the 50,000 feet of floor space are devoted to such things as woolens, flannel cloth for convalescent suits, pyramids pajamas, shelves upon shelves of surgical supplies, systematically classified. The whole unconquerable spirit of the Stars and Stripes, floating from Maine to California, penetrates this vast storehouse in old London.

The great stores here come form every corner of the United States, from individual chapters of the complex organization known as the American Red Cross.

One of the most interesting parts of the warehouse is the section devoted to "bonded" stores. This big room is practically a department of the English excise. A customs officer is there on duty, to vise all incoming or outgoing consignments of things that would be dutiable to ordinary importers, such as tobacco, sugar and chloroform Under his care there are more than 5,000,000 cigarettes, waiting delivery to hospitals and canteens, together with great quantities of chewing tobacco and pipe tobacco. Here, too, are scores of barrels of sugar and great sacks of coffee by the dozen. All these things come in free of duty for the American soldier.

In the labyrinth of these storerooms one begins to realize the stupendous scope of this war and of the American effort which is being put into it. Every item of goods in this vast warehouse has come across the sea in defiance of the threat of the Geman U-boats.

The Towns Evacuated by the German Armies Have Been Very Badly Mauled

The First Few Days March the Americans Reclaimed Nearly 500 Square Miles of French Territory—Belgians Enter Brussels.

GERMANS ARE LEAVING

(By Webb Miller—United Press).

WITH THE AMERICANS ADVANCING TOWARD THE RHINE, Nov. 18.—(By Courier to Verdun and Barleduc).—The Third Army resumed its advance into German territory at dawn to-day. When the march began the left wing of the Americans rested on the Franco-Belgian frontier, while the right wing was near the German border in the Metz region.

The American troops had camped during the night on an average of nearly ten miles within the former German positions, along the general line of Ecouviez, Sorbent, Gourraincourt and Mars La Tour, a front of about fifty miles.

In their first day's march the Americans reclaimed nearly five hundred square miles of French territory. Most of the towns, which had been badly shot up, were deserted by the Germans only a few hours before the Americans reached them.

Entered Brussels.

Special to the Examiner:

PARIS, Nov. 18.—Detachments of Belgian troops have entered Brussels at the request of the Spanish Minister, for the purpose of keeping order, according to information received here to-day.

The triumphal entry of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth is now scheduled for next Saturday.

Hun Departs.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Nov. 18.—The last German troops left Brussels yesterday, according to a despatch from a correspondent on the Belgian front. Extraordinary scenes were witnessed around the north station, from which most of the enemy soldiers departed. Wishing to have money to take home with them, they sold everything they owned or had stolen. Some laid out objects on the sidewalk and cried their wares in loud voices. Among articles offered for sale were blankets, clothing and shoes, as well as wool and copper goods taken from the inhabitants of the city.

PTE. JAMES FRENCH.

Pte. James French, a 247th Battalion boy, has been wounded, and is in hospital. On October 6th a machine gun bullet penetrated his chest. His parents reside in this city, at 104 Lansdowne avenue

France, October 6.

Dear Mother and Father: Just a few lines hoping you are well. I cannot say that I am the same at present as you will have heard by this time that I am wounded. I received a machine gun bullet in the back, which penetrated my chest. When it hit me I thought someone had struck me with a hammer, my knees doubled up and would not move. When the numbness left me I got under cover. They tried to put some more bullets into me before I got out of sight. When I got my wounds dressed I started to walk to the dressing station, which was only 3-4 of a mile away, but the longest I ever want to walk again.

From your loving son, Jim.

Police Authorities Make an Appeal

Politeness and Consideration Will Rule in Berlin in Future.

Canadian Press:

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 18. — Berlin police authorities have adopted a resolution declaring that it is their intention to do everything possible to support public order and "to let politeness and consideration rule in their relations with their fellow citizens." The resolutions ask the citizens of Berlin to forget their old grievances against policemen and help them. The Berlin Bourse opened Friday.

MUST PAY AND APOLOGIZE.

KITCHENER, Nov. 8.—Philip Koerber, blacksmith, of Bridgeport, pleaded guilty in the police court to a charge of making seditious utterances on November 7 and 8, respecting the British throne and the allies. Koerber maintained that the allies had not won the war, as the Germans couldn't be defeated, and that the war had been started by Great Britain in the first place. Magistrate Weir ordered the accused to pay the costs, amounting to $20.50, and to subscribe his name to an apology, in which he admitted that he was in error as to his statements and regretted making them.

THE WEATHER

This Fall has remained open longer than usual, and up to the present time there have been few signs of the approaching winter. Last year the ground was white with snow on the first of November. While a couple of weeks of more moderate conditions then prevailed, the final freeze-up occurred on the 20th. Snowplows were out on the 21st, and sleighing continued from that date until spring. The first zero occurred on the 27th. This was succeeded by milder weather until December 6th, and severe weather prevailed from that date until the 19th. The 11th, 12th, 15th and 16th were very sharp, on the 16th 25 degrees below zero being registered. During Christmas week the weather was much milder, but on the 26th a cold snap set in and continued without any abatement until the 7th of January, the lowest during the period being 27 below on Dec. 29th and 30th. More data regarding the remainder of the winter will be supplied later.—W.P.

Royal Herbert Hosp.
England.

October, 17, 1917.

Dear Mother and Father,—Just a few lines following the field service card which I sent you a few days ago telling you that I had been wounded and had been admitted to the base. I am back in England again and it will of course, be a matter of a few months now before I have to return to France. As the people in Canada already have the news and in fact the people at home get the news of what is going on over in France before we fellows who are there, therefore, I can't tell you of things over here. The casualties are very heavy as you know. I hope this finds you all well and don't worry about my being disabled as I will come out alright, just as good as I ever was and there are good prospects ahead over here of the war not lasting very long which we all hope is true. It may be you know that I will not have to go into the firing line again. We hope so. In case I do I hope to come out as lucky as I have so far with God's help and your prayers.

ULTIMATUM OF SENTRY

"The First One Who Moves Will be Shot," Said Sergeant Pinckest.

KAISER WAS ANGRY

(United Press.)

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 18.—"The first one who moves will be shot."

This was the ultimatum of a Dutch sentry when the former Kaiser and his party threatened to enter Holland without observing any of the International formalities. Sergeant Pinckert, the Hollander who issued the ultimatum on Nov. 11th, was interviewed by the United Press to-day.

"I was on duty when I saw the Imperial cars approaching as though they were going to cross the frontier," said Pinckert.

"I shouted stop." Immediately the whole procession halted. Some of the first came forward and asked to allowed to pass. "You may pass without arms," I answered.

"I recognized a man coming from the second carriage as the Kaiser." He said, "You must allow us to pass without further fuss. The government knows who we are." "Very good," I said, "but I don't know who you are. I must do my duty and disarm you all."

"German officers are not going to allow the meale to be disarmed by a common sergeant," the Kaiser said, angrily.

"Very good," I replied. "You are going to remain right here until the Commandant at Maastricht has been notified. The first one who moves will be shot."

"One of my men telephoned the Commandant, who arrived in twenty minutes. In the meantime the men waited, rifles in hand, while the Germans walked nervously to and fro. The Commandant came up. The Kaiser told him of my opposition, saying, "That is a good soldier; he might have been a German."

Gave Up Arms.

"The whole company then gave up their arms. I knew it was the Kaiser, but if he had moved I would have shot my last bullet into him."

The former Crown Prince had a similar adventure. Sentries searched his motor cars and seized a number of rifles and a quantity of ammunition. The Crown Prince did not want to give up a handsome sporting rifle which had been presented to him by a lady in India. He finally surrendered it, saying: "I'll have to back water for the first time in my life."

Frederick William, in conversation with the Dutch authorities, did not mention his father. The Dutch government have taken steps to prevent them meeting on Dutch territory.

Banquet for Marshal Foch

Hammer Blows of British Were Decisive Factor.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

PARIS, Nov. 18.—Marshal Foch, in the course of a speech he delivered at a luncheon given in his honour yesterday by Field Marshal Haig, at British Army Headquarters, said that the hammer blows of the British were a decisive factor in the final crushing defeat of the enemy. Marshal Foch afterwards received British army commanders whom he warmly congratulated upon the tenacity of their troops.

MISSION CIRCLE OF TRINITY CHURCH

SUGAR GOOD FOR STAMINA.

Experiments made in the German army some time ago showed that soldiers provided with a special ration of sugar withstood the hardships of forced marches better than those who had only the usual allowance of sweets.

A Reception For President Wilson

The French People Call Him "The Man of Victory" and Are Looking Forward to His Visit to France to Attend the Peace Conference.

PARIS CELEBRATES

Special to Examiner.

PARIS, November 18. — A reception unparalleled by any known in history awaits President Wilson in Europe. The French people call him the man of victory, the man of peace, and the man who won liberty for mankind. He has become more than a personage to the French people—he is a symbol of the world-wide party of "live and let live."

It is not expected that he will remain longer than the first sitting of the peace conference, which is expected to begin the middle of December, and last for some time. (No official word of any kind has come so far to indicate that President Wilson is going abroad, but the belief that he plans to make the trip appears to be firmly fixed in Europe.)

PEACE CONFERENCE.

The actual peace conference, it is predicted here, will be shorter than generally thought possible. At the preliminary sessions, the allies will agree on just terms to Germany, at the regular meetings, and it will only remain for the Germans to accept these and discuss details.

The allied armies of occupation are moving methodically on toward the Rhine. French troops led by Gen. Mangin, are expected to enter Metz to-morrow. Americans will participate in the entry into that fortress city. Strassburg will be reached by the end of the week.

ORDER FOR FLAGS.

An order for six hundred thousand allied flags has been received by one firm in Paris from Strassburg.

It is probable the Belgian government and the diplomatic corps acceded to Belgium, will not enter Brussels before Saturday. The troops, however, are already in the city.

Paris is still celebrating the return of Alsace-Loraine with enthusiastic demonstrations day and night.

Brotherhood of Trinity Church

Class Has Been Re-organized—A Greater Sphere of Activity.

The Holy Trinity Church Brotherhood which has recently been reorganized and have broadened out its sphere of usefulness, spent a day in its sphere of usefulness, spent a very profitable hour and a quarter on Sunday in the church.

After the Bible study, presided over by the Pastor the Rev. F. E. Malott, Dr. Morrison gave a very interesting address touching on past, present and future conditions as resulting from war and laid emphasis on the fact that the churches as a whole must rise to the occasion and widen their scope of usefulness to meet the conditions that will confront them as time goes on.

The Doctor well merited the best thanks of everyone present which were accorded him for his inspiring and forceful address.

Similar meetings of the Brotherhood are looked forward to with pleasure as it is the object of the Committee in charge to arrange for a speaker every Sunday and subjects of paramount importance suited to the time and place will be discussed.

All men are cordially invited.

Every Sunday afternoon from 3 to 4:15 o'clock in the church.

Ex-Kaiser May Return to Germany

Is Concerned Over Disturbance His Presence Has Caused in Holland.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Potsdam Soldiers' and Workmen's committee learns that William Hohenzollern intends to return to Germany because of the disturbances in Holland, according to a Copenhagen despatch. The Lokal "Anzeiger" of Berlin states that he is likely to be permitted to return. Prince Eitel Frederick, son of the former Emperor, has appealed to his comrades of the Potsdam garrison to place themselves at the disposal of the new Government in Germany.

FRANK JENNE says:

You'll really know what comfort is the day you slip on one of these cosy semi-ready tailored overcoats. Whether you prefer a body-fitting overcoat of the shorter length or a longer loose overcoat, or a smart belted model—your most exacting demands will be amply met, if to-morrow you "Come to me."

Bringing Home Canada's Army

Demobilization Plans Will be Carried Out as Soon as Possible.

DRASTIC REDUCTION

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—General demobilization of military forces in Canada will be commenced at once, according to orders given to all military districts by headquarters here. First will be the drastic reduction of all military establishments in Canada, bringing these down to actual requirements for demobilization, care of soldiers in hospitals and aid of civil power. Subject to these reservations demobilization will be carried out as speedily as possible in the order as follows:

1—Returned soldiers who can be spared and are desirous of discharge.

2—Married men who can be spared and are desirous of discharge.

3—Men whose occupations are such as to make them urgently needed in civil life for economic reasons.

4—All others whose services are not required.

Orders have already gone out that former railway employees desirous of discharge must be released immediately.

Y.M.C.A. Membership Campaign Commenced

Interesting Address by Major Fred Smith.

On Friday evening last the fall membership campaign of the Y.M.C.A. was launched.

Over 60 workers were present and great enthusiasm was a feature of the meeting. The President, Mr. G. A. Gillespie, was in the chair and spoke a few words of encouragement after which Mr. Joseph Wearing spoke on the place of prayer in the war, last week being the annual Week of Prayer. Major Fred. J. Smith spoke of the big work the Association is doing in England and in France, telling of the work from the time of arrival in England in the training camps and in the actual fighting lines and on the ships as the men return. He emphasized the need of keeping the home Association in efficient shape for the time when the men will return in large numbers. The big Athletic meet held for Canadian soldiers on the 1st of July was described when 75,000 took part in the preliminaries and the championships in all kinds of sports were run off under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. $100,000 worth of Athletic materials were served out by the Association on this occasion, 15,000 baseballs, 10,000 running shoes and as many athletic suits were part of the equipment served out. Major Smith also spoke of the coming membership campaign in Toronto when the organization will go out after 5,000 members, when every worker is expected to bring in three members a day for four days. The local objective is three members per worker for the campaign. At the present time a number of the boys have already reached this objective and are out for more prospects.

The campaign workers are divided into two sides, Reds and Blues. The Reds are being directed by Mr. H. B. Cowan, and the Blues by Mr. Hughson Johnstone. At present the Reds are in the lead. Every worker is reminded of the fact that in Peterborough the custom in campaigns is to go well beyond the objective set, the Victory Loan campaign being a splendid example of this. If each worker will determine to reach his quota of three there will be no doubt about the result.

Important Papers Have Been Seized By Government

Americans Had a Real Gun For the Enemy

New Weapon Was to Have Had a Shooting Range of 100 Miles.

(By Carl D. Grost.)
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Had the war continued the United States would have had a long range gun shooting much further than the Teuton one which shelled Paris. The gun the United States proposed to make would have had a range of probably one hundred miles, but whether it will be developed now that the struggle is over, is uncertain.

The gun is understood to have been planned along lines similar to the German machine. It was to be a gun within a gun; in other words a sub-calibre gun.

Peterboro Hunters Return Home

The Fitzgerald Party Had a Good Hunt—Secured 12 Deer and Trapped a Couple of Beavers—Word From Other Clubs.

With the government allotment of 2 deer apiece, the six members of the Fitzgerald party returned on Saturday evening from Bottle Lake. Mr. J. E. A. Fitzgerald said he had never experienced a better hunt, everything going off like clock work.

The party consisted of Messrs. Harry McIntosh, Woodstock, J. J. Turner, R. P. Best, Geo. Hall, Percy Fitzgerald and J. E. A. Fitzgerald. J. Freeman, of Hall's Bridge, accompanied the party as cook, and J. Blewitt of Lakefield as guide.

Added to the 12 deer shot by the party, Mr. J. E. A. Fitzgerald trapped 2 beavers and 1 mink. Word of peace was brought up by Mr. J. J. Turner and celebrated by a volley of shots.

Eagle Lake Club.

The Eagle Lake Hunt Club, which returned late last week, secured 13 deer. This party consisted of C. Gunsolus, captain, and R. Sheehy, A. Head, H. Evans, Wm. White, Wally Evans, Wm. Henry, J. J. Howden, Arthur Johnston, C. Westlake, E. Moore, W. James, C. Coones, J. Gibbs and Gus Sawers.

Ketchecum Hunt Club.

The Ketchecum Hunt Club returned on Saturday night with only a fraction of their customary booty from Ketchecum Lake. In 1916, 13 deer were shot by the party; in 1917, fourteen deer and one bear, while this year only five were brought in. While no beavers were trapped, the hunters saw evidences of many.

The Party.

The personnel of the party was Mr. Robert Stuart, Dr. Gentles and Mr. Andrews, of Chicago; Messrs. W. H. Denham, Geo. Morrow, J. D. Collins, W. H. Hill, Harry Thompson, Dr. A. W. MacPherson, Wm. Ackerman, M. Comstock, E. F. Mason and H. Winch.

HUN FLEET HANDED OVER

Vessels Left Home Ports To-day—New Dreadnoughts Included in the List.

TEN BATTLESHIPS

Canadian Press:

LONDON, Nov. 18.— Ten German battleships, six battle cruisers and six light cruisers, with a large fleet of submarines left German ports at daybreak to-day, to be met by the British, United States and French warships, and conveyed to an unknown destination to be surrendered to the Allied forces.

All the submarines are to be surrendered and of the surface warships ten battleships, six battle cruisers, eight light cruisers and 50 destroyers of the most modern type are to be given up. The ten battleships which have been selected are:

Kronprinz Wilhelm and Bayern, both new dreadnoughts completed since 1916.

Markgraff, Konig and Grosser Kurfuerst, of the Konig dreadnought class completed in 1914 and 1915.

Kaiser, Kaiserin, Prince Regent, Luitpold, Konig Albert and Friedrich der Grosse, all dreadnoughts of the Kaiser class completed in 1912-13.

Only Five Battle Cruisers Left.

Five battle cruisers, the Derflinger, Hindenburg, Seydlitz, Moltke and Von der Tann, are apparently all that Germany has available so far as the so-called dreadnought battle cruisers are concerned. The armistice terms stipulate for the surrender of six.

Eight of the most recent light cruisers are the Brummer, Bremen, Karlsruhe, Pillau, Frankfurt, Nuernberg, Koelna and Dresden.

LAND SETTLEMENT SCHEME WILL COME UP TO-MORROW

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—Comprehensive scheme of land settlement will be laid before the interprovincial conference which meets here to-morrow to arrange problems of soldier settlement after the war.

Hon. J. A. Calder, Minister of Colonization and Immigration, will submit this scheme to provincial premiers and cabinet ministers when they meet here. It is proposed that the Dominion and Provincial governments co-operate in the scheme. The problems of soldier settlement and land settlement will be the principal theme.

FEEDING THE ENEMY.

The German people are the victims of their own atrocious conduct and of their four years utter disregard for the truth. Only a short time ago their leaders were telling the world that their food supplies were ample enough to cover any emergency; now they whine that the country is threatened with starvation. So often have they been caught in deliberate lying in the past that half the world hesitates to believe that their cry for help now is genuine, while the other half, while prepared to accept the truth of the statement that the German people are in danger of starving to death, have become so embittered by the terrible suffering Germany has caused that they are reluctant to offer any assistance.

There is another angle to the situation, however, and if the Allies are not inclined for humanitarian reasons to make it possible for Germany to feed her people, they may have to do so in their own interests. A Germany torn apart by the anarchy that will result from starvation conditions would be as bad as the Kaiser-Junker Germany the forces of democracy have been fighting.

Mr. Herbert M. Hoover, United States Food Administrator, who has sailed for Europe to discuss food conditions, has pointed out the danger of the situation in the following terms:

"There is a great problem in the situation of the enemy people—about 90,000,000.

"This problem is not one of going to their relief. It is a problem of relaxing the watertight blockade, which continues through the armistice, sufficiently so that they may secure for themselves the bare necessities that will give stable government. Unless anarchy can be put down and stability of government can be obtained in these enemy states, there will be nobody to make peace with and nobody to pay the bill to France and Belgium for the fearful destruction that has been done. I would certainly approach this problem with mixed feelings, having been long a witness to the robbery of food from women and children and the destruction of millions of tons of food at sea, and to the misery under which the millions amongst the big and little allies have suffered under the German yoke. Justice requires that government be established able to make amends for the wrongs done, and it cannot be accomplished through spread of anarchy. Famine is the mother of anarchy."

POSITIONS FOR SOLDIERS.

Canada will soon have on her hands the great task of absorbing back into civilian life the hundreds of thousands of her citizens who have engaged on the great adventure in Europe, and who, having satisfactorily completed their share of the task of bringing Germany to her knees, will be returning to the homeland to go on with their ordinary role as peaceful Canadian citizens. It will be a great day for Canada, when her soldiers come home, and it will be a great day for the soldiers themselves, but we must see now that there will have to be something more to it than merely welcoming them home with bands and flags, a few dollars worth of fireworks, and a speech from the Mayor and other citizens, whose voices are usually heard on such occasions. Bands and fireworks and oratory are all right in their place, but they make a very poor substitute for food, and after the "shouting and the tumult die" there must be employment found for the gallant men who have dared so much and done so much for Canada.

In this task the people of Canada have the right to look to Dominion, Provincial and Municipal authorities to set the example for private firms. Every public position which can be filled by a returned soldier should be given to one of Canada's fighting men. That is but simple justice and must be insisted upon.

Unfortunately, however, public bodies have not lived up to this principle. There have been municipal appointments made in which no effort has been made to secure a returned soldier for the position, and just now Peterborough War Veterans are being given an opportunity of observing for themselves how the patronage system of the Ontario Government works out.

The position of bailiff in Peterborough has to be filled and naturally it might be expected that if there was a returned soldier capable of taking over the duties of this Provincial Government berth, the government would set a good example for other public bodies and private firms by appointing a war veteran. According to the Examiner's information, however, a returned soldier has not been given a chance at this position, for the simple reason that a civilian has already been recommended for the situation by the custodian of Ontario government patronage in this riding.

There does not seem any condoning circumstances for this kind of business. Positions of this kind, when they are a gift of governments, should always be filled by returned soldiers. How can private firms be expected to give preference to the men who have fought overseas, if Dominion, Provincial and municipal appointments are being filled by those who have contributed nothing to the successful termination of the war? In all such appointments it should be insisted upon that all vacancies be properly advertised and that where the necessary qualifications exist, the man who fought for Canada overseas should have the preference.

AN IMPORTANT ELECTION.

In the problems that will have to be handled in Canada following the end of the war, no organized body should have a bigger part to play than the Great War Veterans' Association. Because of this fact, the election of officers to-night by the Peterborough branch of the G.W.V.A. gains an added importance and interest. The Great War Veterans' organization represents in Canada the Canadian army which has won so many laurels for itself and for the Dominion in the gigantic conflict now almost at a close. If the affairs of this body of returned soldiers are conducted on business-like and progressive lines, the G.W.V.A. can be made a mighty power for good in Canada. The next twelve months will be fraught with tremendous responsibilities for the Association. Public gratitude is a thing that cannot always be counted upon, and when the war clouds have rolled away and the sun of peace is shining brightly, public memory is liable to be uncertain, and the debts that are owed to the men who by their prowess and tenacity have made peace possible are very likely to be forgotten. It will be the duty of the Great War Veterans to see that the "laddies who fought and won" are not forgotten; it will be their duty also to prod a lethargic Government into action, so that those who by reason of wounds or illness have been incapacitated from earning a full livelihood may be looked after. If industrial upheaval and uncertainty succeeds the fighting on the battlefield, the Great War Veterans will have to exert every effort to see that employment is found for those men who have come through the ordeal in fit condition to take up the duties of civilian life. Already the Association has been called upon to relieve temporary cases of distress—in the days to come these calls for help are likely to be more frequent and more insistent.

The great danger that lies before such an Association is of developing into a body which substitutes useless complaints for constructive criticism and constant "grousing" to borrow a term from army life, for vigorous and helpful action. Strong, aggressive leadership is required, leadership that will help the Veterans from wasting their time on the little things that do not count, and neglecting the big problems, the successful solution of which mean so much for themselves and for Canada.

Without wishing to attempt in way to guide the action of the local Association, the Examiner believes that in selecting their officers to-night, the members of the Peterborough branch should do so in the full knowledge of the important nature of the work that all branch associations and the Dominion body of the Veterans will be called upon to undertake during the coming twelve months. It will be the great testing period of the Association, and much depends upon the calibre of the men who are selected to preside over the destinies of the organization.

CARELESS MOTORISTS.

The sentence of two years in jail imposed by Mr. Justice Riddell on a Toronto chauffeur whose automobile, going at the rate of fourteen miles an hour, ran into a woman who had just alighted from a street car, and killed her, should be a warning to the far too many motorists who drive their cars without any apparent regard for the safety of pedestrians. There are many of these drivers in Peterborough who seem to regard by-laws only as something to be broken and to look upon that portion of the public who have to travel about on foot as people who have no rights upon the public streets. The regulation regards passing a street car discharging passengers at a corner is openly regarded by many motorists, except at the down town corners where the police have a habit of catching the offenders. It is not possible to have a policeman on every corner and when they are not under the eyes of the law, these motorists take a chance at violating the regulations. The speed laws are broken in the same way and it was only through a miracle that there was not a serious accident during the celebration of last week when, with the streets crowded and vehicular traffic at its heaviest, a number of foolish drivers persisted in tearing around at a speed that would not have been safe under normal conditions, and was most dangerous in view of the crowded thoroughfares.

Such motorists would do well to reflect upon the sentence given in this Toronto case, and also to allow the words used by Mr. Justice Riddell to sink in. This is the most important part of what he said:

"There is no possible excuse for such conduct; too many persons believe that if they keep within 15 miles an hour they may run their motor cars as they please; that is not the law; every person in charge of a motor car must see to it that he runs it at a speed which is not unduly dangerous to the public. Everyone in our system of law is his neighbour's keeper, and he must bear in mind the failings of humanity. He must have his car in such control as that inadvertence, which he has the right to expect, shall not result in the death or injury of his neighbour. Cain's jibe, "Am I my brother's keeper?" is outworn; every person in charge of a dangerous article—be it gun or poison or automobile—is his brother's keeper.

"The notorious fact that not once in fifty times is an offender against our speed laws brought to court and fined, makes it obvious that your practice was regularly to run your automobile as you did. Men like you are a danger to the community; however, capable, diligent, and otherwise respectable they may be. A warning must be given to others in like cases, teaching that negligently running down a person on the streets of Toronto is not merely bad luck—it is a crime, and will be punished as such."

A SUITABLE MEMORIAL.

In every municipality in Canada there will be undoubtedly erected monuments to the memory of the soldiers who have fallen in the battle for freedom. Some cities already have commenced to plan this most important work, and it is fitting indeed that it should be undertaken without delay. In Peterborough so far nothing has been done, and the following letter, received by the Examiner, it is hoped may lead to the beginning of a movement to as soon as possible honour the memory of the many Peterborough men who have met death overseas:

Peterborough, Nov. 16th, '18.

The Editor,
"Examiner,"
Peterborough.

Dear Sir,—Is it not opportune that the City Council, with the co-operation of the Board of Trade, the Canadian Club and other public organizations should seriously consider erecting in one of our city parks a substantial and artistic monument, sacred to the memory of the Peterborough heroes who paid the supreme sacrifice in the defence of our country. It seems to the writer this is one of the least duties we owe their memory, and the cost of same should be paid out of the general taxation of the city, which, of course, is paid by the property owners, whose property these heroes went forth to defend.

The writer thinks the above matter should be given prompt attention.

Yours truly,
E. G. Patterson.

THE LAST TO GIVE THEIR LIVES.

(London Advertizer.)

One cannot hush the printed word and soften the voice of the newspaper that seeks to carry consolation to those in our community who are sore and heavy of heart. The desire of all is to lay the hands of the comforter upon those bereaved in the war, and especially upon those yet to be bereaved. For, while the last official shot of the war has been fired on the western front, thousands of Canadians died in the last savage death struggles of the German tiger as they rushed into his lair and gave their young breasts to his claws in order that the beast might never again stalk through the world. They fell upon the field of valour in the dying days of the war. Their names have not yet appeared in the casualty lists, and the stupid, if unintentional cruelty inflicted by the militia department when it announced that out of 50,0000 Canadian casualties only 15,000 had been reported has added to the suspense and placed an aching uncertainty in the bosoms of tens of thousands of Canadian men and women. These men died far into the captured country. They carried on the cause of Canada to the strong points of the invader; the first to smash the Hindenburg line, the first in Cambrai and Valenciennes, and they won a historic name, perhaps reckoned in sentimental value above all their other deeds, when they swept into storied Mons, the nameplace of the "contemptibles" and, men of the north from a new land, wrote an epic of restoration that thrills the world. The men of the old motherland died lying in shallow trenches, "potting" the massed Huns with "eight rounds rapid," then dying with a cheer on their lips. From the far west beyond the Atlantic came a newborn race to take up the torch of the original Tommies. The Canadians have reclaimed the graves of the first heroes of Britain.

Canada, the peace-loving, feels tenderly over the men who made the last sacrifice. Some must have died the day before the blessed peace was written. They fought on to the last moment, active in the war from tre memorable days of April, 1915, until November, 1918. Canada would not have had them slacken. Canada knew that their and their mothers and wives and fathers entered the war in the spirit expressed by Kossuth when he said:

"I am a man of peace. God knows how I love peace; but I hope I shall never be such a coward as to mistake oppression for peace."

The country feels for those who are yet to receive the fateful messages, and every celebration will be restrained because of the unknown dead who are to-day mourned, but must be added to the lists ere the Dominion contribution to liberty has been paid in full, even while the air is full of joyful sounds.

NOW PLEASE TELL US HOW TO MAKE COAL DUST

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Make your own coal and help win the war!

This is what they are doing in England, the department of commerce has announced.

It's all very simple. Sweep up the coal dust, mix with cinders, sawdust, fine chips and any of the dust that accumulates in the cellar. Add a little cement and some water.

When mixed, pack in small flowerpots, or other convenient moulds. Fuel cakes, made in this way, should be dried for a week until thoroughly hardened, the English have learned.

When made properly they will burn and give much heat.

To-night—Clerks vs. East Lawn Bowlers.

Peterboro Lost to Belleville

Score Was 15-10 in Favour of the Visitors.

Again did the Peterboro Collegiate Institute go down to defeat. On Saturday the much be-ribboned Belleville team played the P.C.I. at Riverside Park and came out on the big end of the score 15-10. The Belleville team with not half the stamina of the local team played one of their teachers and a returned soldier, at present a pupil of the Collegiate Institute in Belleville. On the part of Belleville team the game was guileless. With the teacher in front the returned soldier next and then the rest of the team it was a big push and then one goal. The lighter P.C.I. team were unable to bring the big fellows down.

For individual playing the P.C.I. team were head and shoulders above their Belleville opponents. The score was 15-10.

Military Medal for William Cumming

ENLISTED IN PETERBORO WITH WITH THE 33RD BATTERY

William Cumming, a former Peterboro boy has received the Military Medal for bravery on the field of battle. His father, Mr. John Cumming, 47 Gillespie Avenue, Toronto, has received letter from General Sir Henry Rawlinson, Commander of the Fourth British Army, congratulating him on having such a brave son.

It was at the town of Amiens in France that Cumming won the Military Medal. He enlisted here with the 33rd Battery and went overseas with that unit.

NURSES ARE RUSHED TO SIOUX OUTLOOK, WHERE INFLUENZA IS RAGING.

PORT ARTHUR, November 18. — A special train was despatched to Sioux Outlook with nurses and medical equipment to fight the influenza epidemic, which is very bad there. Dr. Brandon has died and Dr. Day is ill, leaving the town without any doctors.

Badger seems to be the most durable and good looking of the inexpensive furs.

PETERBORO'S TOTAL MAY REACH GRAND TOTAL OF $2,250,000

Honour Flags to Wm. Hamilton Company and Canadian Chicle Company Employees Presented This Afternoon.

QUAKER OATS TOOK $175,000.

Peterborough County's total subscription to the Victory Loan may reach $2,500,000. Saturday's applications came in a flood overwhelming the office staff with work which had not been cleaned up this afternoon. On Friday night the complete figures 5,142 applications. Of that sum the showed a total of $2,284,300 from city took $801,000 with 3,488 subscribers, and the county $754,000 in 1,368 applications. The Specials Committee counted $562,000, more than twice their allotment of $250,000. In this list the Quaker Oats Company is represented by $175,000.

Although the complete figures were unavailable this afternoon, the statement may be ready to-night.

Wm. Hamilton Company.

This afternoon Mr. W. H. Bradburn presented an honour flag to the Wm. Hamilton Company whose employees subscribed $16,000, an average of $130 a man. This represents 100 per cent. efficiency and is over 15 per cent of the annual pay roll. Mr. Bradburn, president of the local committee, was accompanied by Mr. W. B. Cumming, the organizer for Peterborough County. The presentation was made in front of the shops where the men had an effigy of the Kaiser hanging with a rope about his neck. After Mr. Bradburn congratulated the men they raised the flag above the effigy of Wilhelm as a sign of their shop-triumph and of their contribution to the mighty work that wrecked Hohenzollernism.

Flag for Chicle Co. Girls.

This afternoon the honour flag was presented to the Canadian Chicle Company by Mr. Cumming and Mr. Bradburn on behalf of the Victory Loan Committee. Forty-three girls out of fifty employed at the plant subscribed to the loan and the total subscription from this source amounted to $3,150. Credit is due Miss Lily Cavanagh and Miss Hazel Walsh for their activity in connection with the canvas at the plant.

Four Applications From Virginia.

Mr. H. Rush, one of the local Victory Loan workers, has received another application for Victory Bonds from Wheeling, West Virginia, where his niece has been active in securing at least four subscribers to Canada's Victory Loan. The fourth application was received this morning by Mr. Rush.

Twenty-two subscriptions made up the splendid total of $562,000 of the Specials Committee on Friday night, and the final figures will doubtless increase their big share.

The recapitulation will show conclusively that Peterborough has won new laurels by its splendid response to the Victory Loan, and that the work of Mr. Cumming, Mr. Bradburn and their staff, with the co-operation of the citizens of this county, have piled up a total that reflects new and lasting credit upon the name of Peterborough.

CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS.

Problem to be Taken Up Shortly by Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—The Government will shortly take up consideration of the question of conscientious objectors under the M.S.A., who are now serving terms of imprisonment. At the same time, consideration will be given to any possible penalty for defaulters. These are said to number some thousands. The suggestion is made that as a penalty they should be disfranchised for a period of years.

Seventeen Kings Still Remain

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Independent Socialists have issued a manifesto urging abolition of all German monarchs, according to a Berlin despatch received here today by way of Zurich. It was pointed out that the German nation is still burdened with seventeen kings, dukes and grand dukes.

The Suit Cases Were Heavy

WET GOODS FROM MONTREAL WERE CONFISCATED.

Daniel Birdgenaw caught the train for Montreal on Saturday and stepped off the C.P.R. train this morning with two very heavy suit cases containing 20 bottles of whiskey. Alf Lefave was at the station ,presumably to meet him and take care of one of the grips. This Lefave denies and says that he did not know that Birdgenaw was on the train.

The Magistrate warned Birdgenaw not to make himself a catspaw in the future.

His purse was lightened to the amount of $210.10.

Fire at Peterboro Planing Mill

Carpenter Shop Was Badly Gutted.

This afternoon at three o'clock fire completely gutted the carpenter shop of the Peterborough Planing Mill, situated on Dublin street.

The carpenter shop, which is situated on the second storey in the northeast corner of the building, was not occupied when the fire broke out. An employee of the mill saw the red flames rapidly consuming the frame work of the window and instantly rang in an alarm. Smoke soon filled the rest of the mill rendering the work of the firemen difficult in the extreme, although the fire was completely under control in ten minutes. The blaze was fed by a shelf of mouldings which hung down from the ceiling and acted as a stepping stone for the flames to the roof.

There was a stove in the carpenter shop but according to Mr. Robt. Ritchie, Government Inspector of shell boxes at the factory, the fire was out in the afternoon.

Th cause of the fire has not yet been ascertained.

MADRID, Nov. 18.—A false alarm of fire created a panic in the Castelon Theatre last night and twelve children and one soldier were trampled to death.

ZARA CLINTON

As "Prince Charming" in "Cinderella"

Direct from Fairyland to the stage of The Grand Opera House is a long jump, but it can be done. If you doubt it, be there next Wednesday and see for yourself. Matinee 2:30, night 8:15.

The personnel of the party includes Cinderella, Prince Charming, the Ugly Step-Sisters, The Baron, Blewie, The Good Fairy, The Old Witch, dozens of the most beautiful Fairies, the four black rats and the six white rats, which will be transformed into four out-riders and six white horses, in fact, all of the people and everything pertaining to the life of little Cinderella, will be there. Even the famous old castles and bits of Fairyland itself will be brought.

No, it is not witch-craft, it is more than that—it is stage-craft, brought about by the magic of that Wizard of the glittering horseshoe, F. Stuart-Whyte.

This is Mr. Whyte's third Canadian production of standard English pantomime, and it was produced at a cost of more than double the combined expense of his two previous successes, "Aladdin" and "Robinson Crusoe."

William Russell is at the Empire

Appears in "Hobbs in a Hurry" and Presents Great Picture To-night.

Henry King, motion picture director of note, has many successes to his credit, and probably you are well familiar with his productions. But the Empire Theatre believe they will be offering their patrons one of the best pictures King ever directed, when to-day and to-morrow they present William Russell in "Hobbs in a Hurry" It is a high-speed journey of laughs, thrills and suspense—with more laughs. 'I was out of breath and laughing when the picture was finished", said Mr. King.

"And I was with him," smiled "Big Bill the star. "We certainly developed some speed."

FUNERAL HELD ON THURSDAY.

The death of Mr. H. J. McLean on Wednesday, Nov. 13th, has cast a gloom over our quiet village. It followed closely in the footsteps of the joyful signing of the "armistice" on Monday. The deceased was ill but a few days and despite careful nursing and medical care, succumbed to what appeared to be an attack of the prevalent epidemic. He conducted a general store and post office for many years and had lived all his life in Mount Pleasant. The funeral obsequies were held on Thursday afternoon, burial to the Emily Presbyterian cemetery being conducted by the Rev. Mr. McInnes. His wife, three sons and one daughter are left in sorrow besides two sisters, Mrs. Wm. Greig, and Mrs. W. G. Marsh; and three brothers, Jackson, Walter and Percy. The sincere sympathy of all is extended in their sad bereavement. "Christian life consists in faith and charity."—Com.

214 AYLMER STREET

Voice of The People

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—With reference to the proposed street car line extension in the south end of the city, I would like to make a suggestion. I believe that there is a petition before the boarad at present to have a branch line run from the corner of Park and Albert streets down Park to the De Laval.

Now, if this is done, why not lift the track between R. C. Braund's corner and the boundary; and lay it up the boundary and connect with the Charlotte street car line, and have the Charlotte street line serve Byersville and the Hope works. And the C.G.E. car serve the Le Laval and all Park street south. And as the city grows both of these lines can be extended to the river. This would give the city three lines of street railway running from the centre of the city south and west, and passing through the most thickly populated districts, and past the very doors of all the factories south of Charlotte street.

It would also save the trackage between the corner of Park and Albert streets, and the boundary at Mr. Byers' store and the upkeep of the same. As at the present time we have two parallel lines between Park street and the boundary, one on Charlotte street and one on Albert.

Hoping that you will give this matter the support and publicity which I believe it deserves, I am,

Yours truly,
T. C. Y.,
190 Park Street South.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir: Will you permit me to make a few remarks at this time concerning things that affect this riding, just as they are effecting all parts of the world. In fact, the march of events is so rapid that many of us will be found unable to keep up with them, and to grasp the significance of impending changes.

First of all, let me say, that in Canada as in Great Britain, the Conservative party has disappeared. It has become merged there and here in a new or Unionist party. Whether the Conservative party will ever reappear or not it is hard to say. Certainly it will not be as before if it does. The Liberal party has remained the same. It has not changed its name or lost its identity. It no doubt will change but it will not disappear as the Conservative party has done. But that is not the chief item of interest.

The sudden outburst of red revolutionism and near-revolutionism, has forced an armistice. The peace will result in a new world, and just as it is being freely stated in Britain, so will it be elsewhere. There will be a great change. Old parties and old ways of doing things will disappear in the near future. The mass of the people will have much more to say about their affairs than they have had in the past. They have been bound to old customs and habits, political and otherwise, which will change just as they have done after every great event in the past. The war is over and everywhere throughout the world the newspapers and the people generally are bending their energies to the new order to be born of the chaos ,and in many cases the absurd injustices that are bound to come to an end.

It is occurring to everybody who sees, even if he does not think about it, that the class which has existed it, that the chaos which has existed also capable of treatment at this time when the world is being made over. The people are demanding it. The war was due to the attempt of Greed to conquer the world. But there are more Bosches than in Germany. What about prices and privileges everywhere? Of what use is it to raise the defence of high wages if prices rise higher still? The weapons in this war of high prices are not the gun and gunpowder, but legislatures that sympathize with privilege laws that bind the people to the chariots of the money-power customs that make fools of the people and methods of business that defy that very religion which so many pretend to practice. It would take but very little to improve matters vastly. It is this very little, this "edge," that makes all the difference, and that is always on the side of the monopolist, who sees that legislatures let it remain so. It is this "edge" that makes the difference between justice and injustice, between the relief which mankind craves often without knowing exactly why, and the curse under which it seems to rest. Now is the time, therefore, for all people of good will to lend a hand to the great process of reconstruction. The mass of the people the world over are determined that this opportunity shall not slip away from them.

Hitherto property has been the basis of all calculations in the making of laws. Hereafter it will be human life. Hitherto people might suffer but what did it matter so long as property and the privileges which it conferred were preserved?. The sacredness of human life weighed but little against the sacredness of money. In future the just man will have some chance. Why should the horror of unemployment stare him and his family in the face? When it does, as it often does even in this land of natural riches and great possibilities, what remedy is provided? What is the need of universal and sympathetic strikes? Why are strikes so often successful? It is all because nothing sensible is done as a rule until it is compelled. Dilemmas continue to exist until force takes them by the horns and sets them right. The waste in brain-power and money-power would alone feed the world. Why is it permitted then, you say? Because waste at one end means greater profits at the other. Because if the mass of the people had their affairs all settled, and on a just basis there would be no great plums for anybody, and the privilege of the money-power would disappear.

Is it sensible that when the prices at wholesale go down that the prices by retail go up? And yet this often happens. Is it sane that people in one locality should pay much higher prices than people in another near by? The late war has shown that food, fuel and price control is possible, and doubtless the people will see that it is made effective. If there is disorder in our affairs it is not unexpected. What has proven possible in time of war is at least possible in time of peace. As people grow in intelligence they want things to improve. Human life is the loveliest thing in the world. Why is it treated so lightly? Why is it almost ignored? Because it does not "pay." Well, whether it pays to be human or not will now be settled. It will at least "pay" as well to be rich and greedy. But -the money-power is so kind and so very religious some will say. Yes, it "pays" also to be religious because religion is a necessary of life, and so these saintly capitalists deal in religion as well as in bonds. There is no good in leaving matters all to the good nature and unselfish Christian virtue of the money-power. Let the people take a hand in their own liberation. It concerns them most. In the past how often it has been said, "Oh, do not try to upset things. It will only make matters worse." And after gross wrongs have been righted the same people join in the cry, "Oh, why was it not done long ago?" Why then were they not done long ago? Just think it over. The answer is easy. Public resources have been left to the money power and the people have to pay for the very things they gave away, or allowed to be stolen from them. The folly of this fact is patent, but it is not all provided for even yet. What has been intended for the general welfare of the people often goes into the pockets of the few. The people wonder why promises of reform seldom come true. They do not seem to know that they are betrayed—often by themselves as well as by others. The grabber grabs so long as there is opportunity, and the high flown statesman gives him grace in the name of its being necessary to help business. and so the farce goes on until the people get tired of it. The employer suffers often just as do the employed. He is often the victim of those higher up. But the day will come when those higher up and their minions will have to come down, and thus will Scripture be fulfilled when it promises the coming down of the mighty from their seat and the exaltation of the humble and meek.

The time is coming rapidly when there should be and will be an improvement in the business relations of mankind. They will not be allowed to go on in any old way. The ordering and reform of the business methods of the people at large must be improved. Private individuals have developed a high degree of business method. Why not the people at large, who need it the most? If we do not heed the signs of the times we will be swept into the gutter just as other waste is and carried away in the flood that will follow.

LAKEFIELD NEWS OF INTEREST

Rev. C. Spencer Said Farewell to His Lakefield Congregation

Will Leave in About Two Weeks to Engage in Overseas Y.M.C.A. Work—Was an Active Worker in Lakefield.

AN ORGANIZER

Lakefield, Nov. 18.—Revd. Cecil Spencer, rector of St. John's Church, Lakefield, since June 1917, said farewell to his congregation yesterday. He leaves on Tuesday to take up Y. M. C. A. work and expects to be sent in about two weeks to one of the Rhine cities in France. Mr. Spencer is the third rector of St. John's Church who have enlisted for military service. In 1915 Reverend H. A. Ben Oliel left as Army Chaplain and is at present stationed in England. Revd. Alec Ketterson, who succeeded Mr. Ben Oliel went overseas as chaplain of the 80th Battalion and after a few months returned to Canada. At present no successor has been appointed but a congregational meeting has been called for Thursday, November 28th to deal with the matter.

ORGANIZED SOCIETIES

Mr. Spencer's influence amongst the young people of the village has been greatly felt, with his untiring efforts and sincere interest in the welfare of the rising generation he organized the Boy Scouts which now has a large membership. Later a junior branch of the Scouts, the Cubs, was organized with a membership of 18. The Girl Guides also Mr. Spencer's organization under the direction of Mrs. Osborne has a membership of 24. He is also responsible for the Civic Improvement League which has taken firm root in the village. At both regular services yesterday at which there were large congregations, Mr. Spencer said that in view of the national day of thanksgiving he would not preach a farewell sermon but rather speak of the great victory which we now celebrate. In the morning using as his text "But Thanks be to God Who Giveth us Victory", he recounted what Victory meant. Starting with the first call for men, then the first news of the casualties, the news of heroic deeds, the calls for more men, more money and more sacrifice, the instinctive warning when the awful calamity or defeat faced us, the awful report of the foe, how we were ready for more and more sacrifices until finally with the first hint of Victory we became proud and elated. Then came the plague of which we now know the meaning. Since that we have become a different nation, humbled and reared to take the actual news of victory not all proudly but thankfully. "The four years of war," he said "are steps carved to the throne of God": Canada before the war a nation in the making has emerged a different nation—one which has learnt to suffer. In conclusion he spoke of the men who have given their all and will never return and who we entrust to God. Using the words of St. Paul "They have fought a good fight," he concluded by saying that henceforth their names must be blazoned on high and the sons and daughters who sleep in Europe will never be forgotten.

SPECIAL SERVICE

In the afternoon a special service for the Scouts, Cubs and Guides was conducted by Mr. Spencer and attended by a very large congregation.

BRITAIN TO SUPPLY FISH.

Pressing Needs of Germany Will Be Supplied Without Entailing Shortage for Allies.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Sir Albert H. Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, announces that the first steps had been taken to relax prohibition on imports and exports.

One of Germany's requests is for fish. Great Britain will be able to supply large quantities of herrings and other pickled fish without deprivation to herself.

New Industry for Lakefield

Large Lumber Mill to be Erected by Port Arthur Interests.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 18.—The property on the Lakefield shore near the Government wharf has been bought by the Armstrong Lumber Company of Port Arthur, and operations on a large lumber mill will be commenced immediatley. The site, which was formerly the Lillicrap-Tate Lumber Mill, burnt in 1912, was latterly the property of the Leaman's Company. Recently the Armstrong Lumber Company bought large timber limits at Jack's Lake, near Eels Creek, and a camp has already been pitched.

Third Industry.

The building of the lumber mill will mean the third important new industry started in Lakefield in a few months. A glass-cutting factory, operated by Mr. W. Legott, was opened some time ago; while the new steel works in the old cement works building commenced work this month. Reference was made to this about a month ago. The residents of the village hope, and confidently expect, that the electric railway to Lakefield will be the next step in the near future.

Entertained the Lakefield Troop of Boy Scouts

Lakefield News of Interest—Another Death From Influenza.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 18. — Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ridpath entertained the local troop of Boy Scouts at their residence. The evening was spent in games, which were much enjoyed by the boys. After refreshments, Rev. C. Spencer, the scoutmaster, was presented with a safety razor by the scouts. Mr. Spencer has been untiring in his devotion to work among the boys, and their gift was a token of appreciation. Mr. Spencer thanked the boys and urged them to "carry on" their work and not to forget the principles of a scout. The gathering broke up after singing the national anthem.

Death From Influenza.

On Sunday morning the death occurred of Stanley Kidd, youngest son of Mrs. D. Kidd. Mr. Kidd had been ill nearly three weeks with influenza and pneumonia. He was a member of the 93rd Battalion, enlisting early in the winter of 1916 in C Co. He went to England with his battalion and was transferred to the 52nd Battalion at the front. In the winter of 1917 he suffered from an especially bad case of trench feet and had a sharp attack of pneumonia. He was in hospital in England some months and about fourteen months ago was returned to Canada as unfit for further service. He was a popular young man and had a large number of friends who will mourn his death. He was a faithful member of the Presbyterian church and also of the A.Y.P.A. The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Christmas Parcels.

On Saturday the Soldiers' News Club sent two Christmas parcels to soldiers at the front, the result of their third annual Christmas shower held on Friday evening. Since the parcels were packed several other articles have come in that warrant sending a third parcel. Any girl who wishes to contribute and has not done so, will please bring her donation on Friday evening to the meeting.

Special Services.

On Sunday Rev. C. Spencer held the following services in St. John's church: Holy communion at 8 a.m., morning prayer at 11 a.m., service of farewell to the Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs and Girl Guides at 3 p.m., and Evensong at 7 p.m. The services were of national thanksgiving for our victory over our foes.

Owing to the serious illness of Rev D. E. Johnston, no service was held in the Methodist church on Sunday. The Methodists united with the Presbyterians in their service.

Meeting Postponed.

Owing to the death of Mr. Stanley Kidd, the A.Y.P.A. have postponed their meeting from Monday, Nov. 18th to Nov. 25th.

WILL MAKE A LIST AND DISTRIBUTE OUR WAR TROPHIES

OTTAWA.—In view of the number of requests received at Militia Headquarters for allotments of war trophies to provinces, municipalities and various public bodies, it is pointed out, trophies and war material will be dealt with in accordance with a considered plan, and that it is impossible at the present juncture to deal with any such applications or requests.

When the vast amount of war material is assembled and a proper division made, there will undoubtedly be a very large number of trophies shipped to Canada for preservation as a permanent memorial to the achievements of Canadian troops. It is hoped that a suitable building can be provided for the reception of a representative national collection.

When selections for this have been made, there will still remain a large number of trophies, the property of the Canadian people, and these will be distributed to provinces, cities and other municipalities applying for them under a sufficient guarantee for their safe-keeping. A special officer or a committee will be appointed to carry out such arrangements and the claims of all parts of the country will receive impartial consideration.

Making an Inventory.

In the meantime a complete list of all stores captured by Canadian troops is being prepared. This list will show the location of each object, its registered number and the name of the particular unit, if any, which claims its capture. Until the available quantity of material and trophies of all kinds is ascertained and a scheme of distribution completed, allotments of trophies cannot be made.

During 1916 and 1917 two shipments of trophies to Canada were made, and a third one with a collection July, 1918. These, with a collection presented by Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig and a collection presented by the French Government, form a Canadian exhibit, one section of which is now on view in the United States, and the other in Western Canada. Many Canadian trophies have been considered serviceable, and have been requisitioned for use principally by the navy for coast defence and for arming merchant vessels. Those which are still in existence after the proclamation of peace will be transferred to Canada.

POSITIONS HELD OPEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Every American soldier and sailor will find his old job awaiting him upon his discharge from service, according to a statement issued here my Stephen C. Mason, President of the National Association of Manufacturers.

DEER SEASON IS EXTENDED.

An extension of the open season for deer to November 30 is announced by the Department of Game and Fisheries. The causes given are the influenza epidemic and the Victory Loan campaign. The territory affected is that lying north and west of the French River.

HUNS RELEASE YANKS.

PARIS, Nov. 14.— More than 2,532 American prisoners in German camps were released immediately by the signing of the German armistice, according to the latest figures prepared by the American Red Cross in Switzerland. This number includes all the Americans captured to Nov. 1. It is estimated that only a few hundred more were captured after that

Letter Concerning Death of Lieutenant P. S. Brown

Peterboro Officer Lies Buried in Picturesque Cemetery Near Beddington.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Brown, 317 Dalhousie street, have received the following letter concerning the burial of their son, Lieutenant P. L. Brown:

Wallington, Surrey.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Brown,—As it was my duty to officiate at the interment of your son on October 21, I feel I would like to send you—strangers though we are to each other — a brief note of sympathy in your sorrow. I do so most tenderly.

There is little I can tell you apart from what I already know, and the C. O. assures a photograph of the grave will be sent you. The cemetery in which your dear boy is laid to rest is a little way out of the town and near the picturesque country village of Beddington. It is beautifully kept and in summer is full of flowers and rich in the song of birds. A sense of peace and a suggestion of life are in it all.

The service I used was that of our English Prayer Book except that I substituted John xiv and Revelations xxi. 1-5 for the stated lesson and added an extemporaneous prayer in which you were remembered and commended to the grace of God.

We want you to know that we honour greatly the men who have come at the Empire's call and have been faithful unto death, and that when we say farewell to them we do so with hearts that feel deeply. It was thus that we laid your son to rest, and with the confidence that in that great life in which he has entered there will be full opportunity of attaining all of which each one of us is capable. Think always of him as living.

It only remains for me to add that I have heard from many of his fellow officers, the highest tributes to his character and work.

With kind regards.

Most sincerely yours,
H. S. SEEKINGS.

Music & Drama

"GENERAL POST."

It is a long time since Peterborough has had an opportunity of seeing a more enjoyable or delightful comedy than "General Post," which visited the Grand for two performances on Saturday, and which, in addition to providing a rare treat by the brilliance of its lines and the cleverness of its plot, also introduced to city play-goers two well-known stage favourites in the persons of Mr. Thos. A. Wise and Mr. Edward H. Robins. The result was a performance of unmitigated delight.

The title "General Post," as the programme explains and the play itself reveals, is taken from the old English parlour game of the same name, in which the players assume the name of a city and all are seated except one. The latter calls out for instance "London to Edinburgh," and the players representing these cities must exchange chairs, while the player who has been standing endeavours to secure one of the vacated seats. Every now and then the standing player calls "General Post," which means that everybody must change places. In other words, "General Post" is a general shake-up.

The play deals with the revolutionary changes that the war has caused in the game of life. To quote from the comedy itself, "General Post" is with a vengeance, now that under the dominion of Mars we see peers in the ranks and tailors in command." First we are introduced to the family circle of Sir Dennys Broughton, an English baronet of the old school. The period is 1911, and Sir Dennys deriding the German peril and ridiculing the "territorials." England's volunteer army is bowled over by the news that his daughter Betty has fallen in love with one Smith, who happens to be Sir Dennys' tailor. His consternation is shared by his austere wife and his son, and Smith is made to understand the feelings of the Broughton family, and leaves the village. The second act brings us to 1915. The war has upset the world—traditions have gone by the boards. Smith, the tailor, is now Col. Smith, commanding officer of the battalion in which young Broughton is a subaltern. Sir Dennys no longer laughs at the territorials, but himself joins a volunteer reserve. Eventually the former tailor becomes a Brigadier-General, wins the Victoria Cross, and eventually the girl of his dreams, while the remainder of the Broughton family are completely transformed, the snobbishness of the ante-bellum period disappearing for ever.

The meteoric rise of Smith, which would have seemed impossible before the war, seems nothing unsual to us now, when every one has heard of the British miner, who in peace days was not considered clever enough to be made a foreman, but who, after joining the army as a private, was, during the past year, made a Brigadier. And Canadians have a similar example in the case of General Sir Arthur Currie, who left his business in Vancouver to go overseas as a Colonel, and who for the past eighteen months has commanded the whole Canadian corps at the front.

"General Post" was magnificently acted. The portrayal of the part of Sir Dennys Broughton by Mr. Wise was a veritable masterpiece, and one of the best character delineations that Peterborough audiences have seen. The role eminently suited Mr. Wise's well-known qualities as a player, and he got the most out of a part that was a rich mine of possibilities. Mr. Edward Robins interpreted the part of the warrior tailor with a full appreciation of the nature of the role, investing it with a smoothness and skill that were most effective. The two stars were assisted by a company of uniform excellence, Miss Reina Carruthers doing admirable work as Betty, while Miss Carrington North gave a capital impersonation of the haughty Lady Broughton. Mortimer H. Weldon's stage picture of the son was most life-like, and Harry P. Young and M. Tello Webb were effective in minor parts.

There was much food for thought in "General Post," as well as ample justification for laughter. It is to be hoped there will never be a tariff that will prevent such plays coming to us from the Mother Country.

Some old favourites return to the Grand on Wednesday matinee and evening, when F. Stuart Whyte's English pantomime comedy will be here in "Cinderella." This is the third annual visit of this organization who played "Robinson Crusoe" here last year and "Aladdin" two seasons ago.

Food Board Flashes

With Christmas not far distant there arises the question of candy-making, and since the use of cane sugar is out of the question substitutes must be given a trial. A delicious sweet is candied apple, made as follows:

Take one pound of apples. Peel and cut them into the desired size. Boil them with one cup of white corn syrup until the apples become transparent. Take the pieces out and drain them on a fork. Allow them to stand on wax paper for from three to four hours, and then roll in finely chopped cocoanut. Pineapples, pears and quinces may be treated in the same way.

A tunic of black satin is edged with gray-corcheted wool lace.

An evening gown of terra cotta crepe de chine is draped with bands of silver brocaded terra cotta.

PTE. L. FRANKS IS IN THE HOSPITAL

Wound Has Begun to Heal—Had Gunshot Wound in Left Arm.

Mrs. G. Franks has received the following from England concerning Pte. L. L. Franks, who is at present in hospital in England:

War Hospital, Croyden,
Surrey, England,
September 21, 1918.

Dear Madam, — Private L. L. Franks has been visited by one of our Red Cross workers, who reports that he is suffering from a gunshot wound in the left arm. His general health is excellent. He has not much pain except when he has to wear the splint. The wound has begun to heal very nicely. You may be assured that everything possible is being done for his comfort and welfare.

Should he be in need of any comforts other than those supplies by the hospital, we will gladly send them to him.

ARE REVISING BONUS.

Civil Servant's Case Coming up Once More.

OTTAWA, November 16. — The order-in-council granting a war bonus to civil servants is, it is understood, now being revised by the sub-committee of the Cabinet which has the subject in hand, and several important amendments are likely to be adopted at a nearly date. These will have the effect of classing all employees of the service eligible for bonus into two divisions—those having dependents and those without dependents—and of granting to all these a "flat" bonus of $250 and $150 respectively.

Any doubt as to which class the civil servant belongs—the $250 or the $150—is to be decided by the sub-committee of the council.

What we thought impossible once, but now perfect in style is the short skirt and long train combined.

Sashes are now seen to tie on one hip.

UNRECOGNIZED HEROS?

(By Returned Peterboro Soldier.)

To the Editor of The Examiner:

I wonder, while all the people talk about our wonderful artillery and the men in the front line, if they ever think how they get there. Do they ever think who makes the roads and lay railway tracks and help to build bridges and lay water pipes right to the front line, or within a few yards of the front line? That is what the Labour Battalions have to do. I have worked in Flanders and France, and believe me it is no cinch. It is sure one of the risky jobs of the war. The work is done right in the open, under the eyes of dozens of Fritz's obesrvation balloons, and that is why the Labour Battalions get all Fritz's heavy stuff. And yet these men carry on and take no more notice than if it was snowing. I was with a Labour Battalion around Ypres and district and met a number of Peterborough fellows who enlisted in the 63rd: T. Brien, Corp. Church, Lebarr, J. Darwin, C. Robinson and D. Miller. We used to have to work nights sometimes because it was too dangerous in the daytime. I remember once while going to work three of Fritz's planes came over and dropped three bombs and we had seventy casualties. Another time while on a job up the line I saw a shell explode near a man with a wheelbarrow and it smashed the wheelbarrow all to pieces and never hurt the man and all he said was damn you Fritz. I have helped to blast Fritz's concrete dug-outs under continuous heavy shell fire. And yet you don't hear anything of these heroes. Some of the railroad tracks and roads made by Labour Battalions are better than they ever were before the war. There are lots of other things Labour Battalions have to do and perhaps some day these heroes will be recognized.

P.S.—I saw "Old Soldier's" letter in your paper re "shooting bread into Germany," and I think the place to shoot bread into, is England. The British people have sure shown their grit by putting up with many inconveniences during the war, especially with the rations. I think it's lead, not bread, that wants shooting into Germany. It was Germany's idea to starve England when she began her unrestricted warfare and to my mind nothing should be sent to Germany and no notice or considerations given to her till she signs the final peace terms.

"Returned Soldier."

Smile and Song Bring Joy to the Sick Yanks

Soldiers Overseas Like to Hear From Home—Want to Hear the News.

(By United Press.)

Paris, Oct. 18. (By Mail.)—It was one of those days when everything had gone wrong in the convalescent wards of a certain French hospital, partly given over to wounded American soldiers.

Most of the men were getting along nicely, that was the trouble. Heroes don't work at heroics all the while; and if there is ever a time when they knock off on the job, it is while they are convalescing. Any nurse will tell you that. On this particular day, men who had distinguished themselves like martyrs while they waited for stretcher bearers, were acting like kindergartners with sore thumbs.

The curtains were too high, and the curtains were too low. The beds were too soft, and the beds were too hard. The oatmeal was raw, and the oatmeal was overdone. Only the mothers at home who had nursed the husky warriors through mumps and measles, could have thought them heroes just then.

NOTHING WAS JUST RIGHT

"Darn that pillow!" muttered one of American soldiers. It hurt him to hit it so hard, and you could tell from the expression of his face, but it would have hurt him more not to have hit something just then.

"Monsieur should look out for the collarbone," reproved the little French Red Cross nurse.

Under his breathe the American soldier said something that sounded like, "'s my collarbone!"

"I shall read to you—no?" offered the little nurse to the half-dozen nearest American soldiers.

"No!" they agreed instantly, in as nearly vicious a way as they could speak to anyone so kind as the little French nurse.

"Just look at that, would you? added one of the boys. "Disgusting. I call it! Simply disgusting!"

LOVE A LOVER? NO!

They all turned and stared with the greatest animosity at a cot nearby, where a pretty French girl was saying goodbye to her "poilu" after her afternoon visit at the hospital. It was really a charming scene; but the nurse who was gifted with imagination, understood why the American boys hated to look at it.

"The poor ones!" she said to herself. "It is because they have le mal du pays. One can do nothing for them."

As if to contradict her the door opened that moment and four women came into the ward—American women, by every sign. The little French nurse would have known it if only by the way the leader drew a long breath, before plunging into her French question, after the manner of one about to take an ocean dip on a chilly day. They wore the gray uniforms of the Y.M.C.A.

But they had another insignia which made the little French nurse, who knew of Benjamin Franklin only sketchily, look at them again. Under their arms they carried plump, crusty loaves of bread, partly concealed by thin paper wrappings.

"They told us there were American boys here," the leader said. "Could we see them?"

ANSWER IS "WHOOP!"

Could they? The boys answered the question themselves with a wild whoop. Callers from home? Someone to see them?

"Hello, boys!" smiled the Y.M.C.A. women, coming up to the cots. "See what we've brought you! White bread!" There was another whoop at that.

"We knew you'd like it," beamed the motherly woman who led the party. "We've been wanting some ourselves so much that we know just how you felt about it. So we looked all over Paris for white bread for you, and then at last we found something at the American Commissary. See, there's jam and some butter, too! Let's have a party."

WANT TO HEAR NEWS

The boys fell upon the white bread with the gusto of famished men. They ate one piece and asked for another. They finished that an begged for a third. Meanwhile they asked all sorts of eager questions. Had any of the Y.M.C.A. women ever been in Paris, Illinois? Gee, but it had it on anything in France. Was the new subway in New York really as bad as it was painted? What were they singing now back in the United States? One of the women who had come to France in Y.M.C.A. entertainment work, started a vocal class at once, and you would have said that those wounded American soldiers never had been guilty of a grouch in all their lives if you could have heard them singing:

"K k k Katie, beautiful Katie,
You're the only g g g girl that I adore."

They were still grinning happily their good nature utterly restored the last crumb of white bread had when last crumb of white bread had had to say goodbye, the little French nurse felt that her life had been made so much easier by the call that she followed the visitors to the door and said so.

IT WAS A TREAT, ALL RIGHT

"Oh, I guess they weren't so glad to see us as they were to get the white bread," modestly disclaimed one of the Y. M. C. A. women.

"Le pain!" said the nurse. "But they have that every day, both at the front and here. The hospital is furnished white bread for les Americans."

The Y.M.C.A. women looked at each other for a moment, then they laughed.

"And they have it all the time," said one of them when she could speak. "You'll never know how near we came to eating it on the way here. Why, we thought white bread would please them more than anything. We thought we wer giving them a treat."

"I do not know that word 'treat,'" said the little French nurse, pronouncing it cautiously. "But I think, Mesdames, you have brought them something more than bread."

Thanksgiving Services In The Peterboro Churches Were Of An Impressive Nature

Although the day of national thanksgiving has been officially postponed until December 1 on account of the prevalence of the influenza epidemic in the Western Provinces, the Peterborough churches held thanksgiving services yesterday in accordance with their pre-arranged programme. In spite of the unpromising weather, the churches were crowded, showing that thanks to the Almighty in this stage of the war was the desire of the people who, perhaps, were not in the habit of spending Sunday as a day of devotion and prayer. Special music was rendered by the various churches, while the sounding of "The Last Post" was a feature of most services. That greatest of all thanksgiving hymns, the Te Deum and "Rock of Ages," contributed to the solemnity of the occasion.

St. John's Church.

St. John's congregation obeyed the call to give thanks for the cessation of fighting in the great war, so the services yesterday were of "Thanksgiving" and "Memorial."

"Grant us Thy peace."

"God is our hope and strength."

"He maketh wars to cease in all the world."

"Alleluia! for the Lord God Omnipotent reigneth."

During the greater period of the war daily intercessions have been offered up in the church, and for many months past daily, at noon, the chimes have pealed forth sweet music of hymn and song, all of which prepared the way for deep thankfulness and gladness of heart. At the earlier services the altar was thronged with communicants, very many of whom have fathers, or husbands, or sons and daughters among the three hundred of the congregation who have worn or are still wearing the King's uniform. There were present some whose loved ones will not return from France and Flanders. To those bereaved ones a loving message of hope was given by Canon Davidson in his sermon, and Barnby's setting of the requiem, "Sleep thy last sleep," was softly sung after the prayer for the Church militant.

Two other features of the morning service were the singing of a solemn "Te Deum" and Kipling's "Recessional" (de Koven), the tenor solo finely sung by Mr. H. W. Morphet.

The thanksgiving evensong brought out so many, that both choir and congregation overflowed the ordinary seating accommodation. President Staunton, of the Great War Veterans' Association, marshalled a good number of the members, led by their fine band, under the direction of Bandmaster Hughes. The band played two of the hymns in the service, as well as the "Doxology" and "God Save the King." The first lesson was read by Major Medd and the second lesson by Judge Huycke. The service was glorious, led by the splendid choir, assisted by Mrs. Foster, Mr. Simmons, Mr. Seymour (violins) and Mr. Hughes (cornet). The hymns used were, "All people that on earth do dwell," "Now thank we all our God," "All hail the power of Jesus' name," and "Abide with me." A fitting conclusion to a great service was the joyous performance of the "Hallelujah Chorus" by the choir and orchestra magnificently rendered.

After the benediction the nave of the church was completely darkened, and Comrade Staunton asked all present to rise and bow their heads in silent prayer for those who had fallen. For the second time that day the choir sang "The Requiem," after which the chancel was also darkened, and the the solemn notes of the "Last Post" were sounded from the vestry by Comrade Hughes. To the hymn, "Abide with me," the choir, led by Mr. R. J. Devey, moved slowly down the centre aisle out of the church to the vestry, and the thanksgiving services of St. John's for the armistice passed into history.

As the Veterans marched out and the congregation slowly dispersed, the orchestra and organ played "See the conquering hero comes," from the oratorio, "Judas Maccabaeus."

George Street Church.

At the evening service in George Street Methodist Church souvenirs of the war were distributed to the congregation.

In the morning the quarterly love feast was held and the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered. A collection for the purchase of Victory Bonds was taken in the Sunday School. This money will be donated to the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church.

Trinity Church.

The subject in the morning at Trinity Methodist Church was "The Changeless Christ," showing that crowns and thrones may totter, but the Church of Christ remains. Communion service was also held, in which the former pastor, Rev. Dr. J. P. Wilson assisted.

St. Paul's Church.

"The Shaking of the Nations" was the morning theme of the Rev. Robert Pogue at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, while "The Home Stretch" was the evening subject.

St. Luke's Church.

Rev. W. H. White, M.A., Rector of St. Luke's Church, preached ably on "Victory—It's Blessings and Obligations." The offertory anthem was "O, Give Thanks Unto the Lord."

All Saints.

The people of All Saints' Church listened to the subject, "Peace," by the Rector, Rev. R. B. Grobb, M.A. The evening subject was very appropriate in view of the events taking place in war-devastated Europe—"How Are the Mighty Fallen and the Weapons of War Perished?"

St. Andrew's Church.

"Lessons from the Fall of Autocracy" and "A Ruler Who Failed" were the subjects dealt with by Rev. W. L. H. Rowand, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Park Street Baptist.

At Park Street Baptist Church Mr. Joseph Wearing, M.A., spoke on "The Divine Purpose" in the morning, and in the evening, "The Blessings of the Great War."

Appropriate services and music were also conducted at Murray Street Baptisu Church.

St. James' Church.

The love feast was conducted at St. James' Methodist Church with the spirit of thanksgiving permeated at both morning and evening services.

Other Churches.

Mark Street Methodist Church, St. Alban's Church, St. George's Anglican Church, Knox Presbyterian Church, Bethany Tabernacle, the Salvation Army, and other places of public worship also observed the occasion in an appropriate manner.

A New Sunday School Class Organized

Interesting Event At Murray Street Baptist Church Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon there was organized a real, live Sunday School Class in Murray Street Church who took unto themselves the name of "Beavers." It was a happy choice as every one of the members of this class possess many of the characteristics of the Beaver. After Sunday School they met and elected the following officers: President, Roy Lewis; Vice-President, Roland Doughty; Secretary, Lionel Brown, 473 Water street; Treasurer, Percy Dallin; Mentor, Hughson Johnstone.

The above members are going to meet to-night to draft by-laws, rules and objects. This class of twelve members should prove an asset to the Sunday School in many ways. They proved their worth yesterday by subscribing $6.00 toward the Victory Bond in honour to the fallen members of Murray Street Sunday School.

OTONABEE FARMERS TO DISCUSS GOOD ROADS QUESTION

A Meeting Will be Held at Keene on Thursday Night This Week—Will Feel Out the Township's Opinion.

ARRANGED BY FARMERS' CLUB

The meeting of Otonabee ratepayers at Keene on Thursday night, under the auspices of the Farmers' Clubs of the township, presents several interesting aspects. The object of the meeting is to discuss with Warden Anderson and Deputy-Reeve Eason the Good Roads policy, which will be one of the important questions for the County Council before and after the New Year. Otonabee is evidently leading the way in obtaining the opinion of its ratepayers on a problem that has been before the County Council for years. During the war the Council decided to withhold action until peace returned and until the extra taxes and patriotic grants were no longer required. The past year has found a few of the members moving around from the opposition to the Government's scheme to warm advocacy of it, but it may be safely said that the majority of the Council, while in favour of the best plan for road building and maintenance that can be devised, are not prepared to accept the Government's system in its present form. Several members who were anxious to have a definite expression from their constituents suggested that a vote be taken in January. This idea may be proposed at the coming meeting of the Council, but in the meantime Otonabee is gathering the family together for a little intimate discussion with Warden Anderson and Deputy-reeve Eason, who should thus be informed of the township's attitude toward the whole question of Peterborough County roads.

It is also worthy of note that the meeting has been arranged by the Farmers' Clubs of the townships, an organization that has spread and grown rapidly in this district during the war. Apart from its economic interests it offers the farmers a bond of unity and a means of expression that have been too long lacking. There is also the advantage of arranging their own affairs without suggestion from outside their municipality. The fact that Otonabee is assuming a leadership in the County fits well with its proportion of taxes it pays and the position that it is generally recognized to hold in the County. Its leadership may have the effect of spurring other townships into action, and eventually of fostering a progressiveness that will need and seek the cooperation of every farmer in the County.

Thanksgiving in All the Churches of This Diocese

Letter From Bishop O'Brien Was Read on Sunday—His Lordship Spoke at the Cathedral.

Special prayers of thanksgiving for victory and peace were offered at St. Peter's Cathedral on Sunday morning and in all the other churches throughout the diocese of Peterborough. Mass was followed by benediction of the Blessed Sacrament during which the solemn Te Deum Laudamus was chanted. The great events of the past ten days provided the theme of the sermons, and each parish priest read a letter from Bishop O'Brien in which His Lordship emphasized the debt of gratitude that should be paid to God that the cause of right had prevailed, and also to the men who had made victory possible. He asked the congregations to remember in their prayers the men who had fallen in battle, and spoke of the appreciation that should be shown to the returned soldiers and to those who had not yet come home. Bishop O'Brien ordered that the special prayer for peace that has been said daily in the Mass be replaced by one of thanksgiving, which he designated, to be continued until next March.

At the Cathedral, the letter was read by Rev. Father Phelan, and afterwards His Lordship spoke at length upon its main points, one of which was a request to the people to pray that God would guide the representatives of the nations in their peace conferences that the forthcoming settlement might bring a lasting peace to the world.

PREMIER BORDEN REACHES ENGLAND

Grants Interview to the "Morning Post."

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Sir Robert Borden, Prime Minister of Canada, reached London to-day to attend the peace conferences. He was met by a distinguished gathering, including Premier Lloyd George and Colonel Claude Willoughbzy, representing the King. A guard of honour of the 17th Canadian Reserve Regiment was drawn upon the platform. Sir Robert Borden drove off with Mr. Lloyd George amid enthusiastic cheers from large crowds.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Sir Robert Borden, Premier of Canada, who has arrived in London to attend the peace conference, interviewed by the Morning Post stated that since his return to the Dominion he had been in constant communication with Mr. Lloyd George, who warned him several weeks ago to be prepared to start for Europe. Sir Robert said that he was happy to know that Canadians had borne a worthy share in the great military events which had brought the war to such a glorious conclusion. Their achievements were never more splendid than in the closing months of the fighting.

The problems ahead, said Sir Robert, were perhaps even more difficult than those faced during the fighting, but Canadians would confront them with equal courage, resolution and confidence.

WILL SAVE $3,638,506 ON KINGS

German People Paid High Yearly Toll to Them.

Elimination of kings, grand dukes and other princes will save the German people an immense amount of money every year. Each of the four former kings, and virtually all of the grand dukes, dukes, and heads of principalities have been receiving large "civil lists" annually, and in addition to these "appanages" for the maintenance of their families and households. Besides, the princes have been drawing huge revenues from private estates.

The following figures, giving only the regular yearly civil lists of the four former kings and of four of the six grand dukes, illustrates the costliness of kings: King of Prussia, $4,429,820; King of Bavaria, $1,350,618; King of Saxony, $1,022,863; King of Wuerttemberg, $702,800; Grand Duke of Baden, $397,495; Grand Duke of Hesse, $316,250; Grand Duke of Saxony, $255,000 Grand Duke of Oldenburg, $163,750; total $8,638,506. The annual salary of the American President is $75,000.

The ladies of the Red Cross will meet for sewing on Tuesday afternoon.

There will be a meeting of Session on Tuesday night at eight o'clock. A full attendance is requested.

The Fraser Mission Band will hold their Thank Offering meeting on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. Mrs. Cuthbertson of Japan will give an address.

The Mid-week service will be held on Wednesday evening at eight o'clock.

On Monday, Nov. 25th, Lieut. Col. Beattie, Director of Chaplains overseas, will give a lecture in the Church on his work while in France, illustrated by lantern views. This lecture will be under the auspices of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's Red Cross.

The choir is arranging to place a large memorial tablet in the Church and are anxious to get the correct name and rank of all in connection with the congregation who went overseas. Friends are asked to write the name on a card and hand it to any member of the choir.

FOWLER'S PEBLO GLASSES

SILENT SUFFERING

"Light cares speak when mighty griefs are dumb." Ill treated eyes must suffer in silence. However, with an establishment like Dr. Fowler's Optical Parlors within easy reach, there is no need to neglect the eyes. A short examination will tell what the eyes require, and there is no charge for consultation.

CONSULTATION FREE.
